DRASTIC CUTS IN CITY RELIEF SEEM CERTAIN

Committee to Meet Tomorrow to Seek Way Out—Only $247,000 Available for April Needs.

CHAIRMAN CONNETT OUTLINES SITUATION

Either Number or Allowances Must Be Reduced—8500 to 14,000 Cases Depending on Policy.

The St. Louis Relief Committee will meet tomorrow afternoon in the board room of the First National Bank to take stock of the situation confronting it and try to evolve a formula for carrying a relief burden far in excess of its financial resources.

The committee will have before it an analysis of the anticipated case load and revenue prepared under the direction of its chairman, W. C. Connett, which shows, Connett said, that any way the problem is figured, there is not enough money to go around.

In April the committee will have the city's regular monthly appropriation of $147,000 from relief bond issue funds, and one final allotment of $100,000 which represents the last of the State's $6,000,000 relief appropriation, now exhausted. In recent months the State's contribution to relief here has been about $300,000.

8500 to 14,000 Cases.

On the other side of the picture, the committee will have under its care, depending on what policy it decides to pursue, from 8500 to 14,000 relief cases, families and unattached persons. If the case load should be cut to 8500, the average allotment to each would be $25.50 a month. If it should be left as high as 14,000, the average would be $15.50 a month. After April, when the State's final $100,000 is gone, the allotments would be about $9 a month, assuming a case load of 14,000.

The figure of 14,000 relief cases for April is reached by taking the March case load of 20,200, and assuming that during this month 4200 cases have been closed because of WPA employment. Another 2000 cases can be closed by stopping relief to families which have received it to supplement inadequate wages received from WPA jobs or private employment, and allowance is made also for the small number of cases closed each month for various reasons, such as a member of a family obtaining a job.

In addition to these cuts, the report shows, another 2000 cases might be closed in arbitrary fashion. That would leave the relief load at 12,000, consisting of 8000 families, and 4000 unattached men and women.

8500 Are Unemployable.

Among the 12,000 would be 8500 cases classified as "unemployable"—those who could not work for a living even if jobs were open to them. They represent the minimum relief burden considered in the report. If all others were dropped, it would still be necessary to feed and shelter these people.

If none but they were to be helped, allotments might range from $10 a month to a single man to $35 a month for families, with the average at 25.50 a month. If the 12,000 were to be helped, allotments would average $17.50, and would range from $8.50 to a single man to $22 for a family. And if the 14,000 cases are to be helped, allotments will range from $8 a month to a single man to $18.50 for a family, with the average at $15.50.

Against these possibilities, the report sets up ordinary budgetary requirements of an average family of four. The family ought to have at least $74 a month, the report says, but can get by on as little as $53 a month on a budget cut 30 per cent from standard.

$404,000 Would Be Needed.

If allowances were to be based on this theoretical "minimum possible" budget of $53 a month for a family of four, the report shows, it would take $404,000 each month to provide for 12,000 relief cases. That is not far wide from twice as much money as the committee will have available to it next month.

If allowances were to be based on the minimum possible case load—the 8500 unemployable cases—the cost, on this budget basis, would be $283,500. The actual amount of money the committee will have for distribution next month, after mak-

GERMANY VOTING TODAY ON RHINELAND POLICY BUT HITLER CAN'T LOSE

Provision for 'Yes' Ballots Only and Storm Troopers See That Citizens Go to Polls—Parades End Colorful Campaign.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 28.—The German nation will go to the polls tomorrow and vote "ja" (yes) in approval of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's policies of the last three years. The election nominally will be for a new Reichstag (parliament) but in effect a referendum on Hitler's recent violation of the Locarno and Versailles treaties in sending German soldiers into the demilitarized Rhineland.

Not a German "Aryan"—man or woman—above the age of 20 years, except soldiers, will dodge the polling places if Hitler's Nazi storm troops can help it. The German voter will be unable to do anything but put a cross in the ballot's single circle. For there is no provision for voting "no" on Nazi policies and no provision for any choice of Reichstag candidates. The voter's sole option is to take the Nazi party's ballot or leave it. If the voter leaves the ballot or treats it in any other manner except that of placing an "X" in the circle, his vote will be invalid.

Hitler's Intense Campaign.

Despite the certainty of unconditional approval of his cause and of his Reichstag candidates, Hitler and his lieutenants have conducted a wide and intense election campaign. Hitler has spoken repeatedly, declaring that his policies have made Germany self-sustaining and that, through these policies, Germany is regaining her position as an equal power among the nations.

When he withdrew Germany from the League of Nations in 1933 and when he proclaimed himself successor of the late President Paul von Hindenburg in 1934, qualified electors were given a chance to vote "ja" or "nein" afterward. This precedent is dispensed with in the present election; the citizens are told that they can do "constructive voting" only by reaffirming their faith in Der Feuhrer.

A further interesting feature of the election is that no one outside of a few Nazi party chieftains knows how many German citizens are entitled to vote. Judging from the last election, there should be more than 42,000,000, but since then the Jews have lost their franchise and the 500,000 men placed under arms must let their electoral privileges rest until they return to civil life. On the other hand, the voting age has been lowered from 21 to 20 years, so that the number of voters may be about the same as in 1934.

In addition, Saarlanders, jubilant over their return to Germany, will vote this time. A total of 42,558,322 valid ballots was cast in the 1934 plebiscite divided as follows: For Hitler, 38,279,514; against Hitler, 4,278,808. Invalid ballots totaled 871,056.

No Indications of Secrecy.

According to some reports, there will not even be voting booths in some of the rural districts but, in those areas, every voter will sit down at tables and mark his ballot publicly. Nowhere in the election instructions to voters is there a mention of secret ballots. In previous elections, even in this third Reich, the secrecy of the ballot always has been emphasized.

Tomorrow's balloting, therefore, will not be an "election" in the common meaning of the term, but a vast mass mobilization of Germany's citizenry to support Hitler in his dealings with foreign nations.

The only chance of detecting any opposition might lie in a count of those who stay at home during the vote. It is here, however, that Hitler's perfect party organization will demonstrate its abilities, for storm troopers are under orders to visit every house in Germany to make sure that the voters have voted. Automobiles and, if necessary, ambulances, will be furnished for infirm persons.

The Nazi party has put up a list of 1035 candidates for the Reichstag. The law provides that one member shall be elected for every 60,000 ballots cast. The last Reichstag, the largest in German history, has 669 members. During the Republican administration, the maximum was 608. Assuming that 42,000,000 persons vote tomorrow, the next Reichstag may have as many as 700 members. Hitler will select them from the list of 1035 candidates, none of whom is a woman.

Hitler has said, "I want this election for the benefit of foreigners. They must know that Germany is united."

"Lord, Make Us Free."

With church bells tolling throughout the country, Hitler, surrounded by all his Cabinet Ministers, turned to Cologne today to close the campaign with an appeal for "honor, freedom of peace," and there con-

NAVY PLANES TAKING MAIL TO ROOSEVELT ON CRUISE

Two Leave Miami With Three Pouches; to Meet President Today at Crooked Island.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., March 28.—Two Navy sea planes took three pouches of mail to President Roosevelt today. They took off from the Coast Guard station here and arrived safely at Nassau this afternoon. They will meet Roosevelt tomorrow near Crooked Island. The President is on a fishing cruise.

The mail was an accumulation of several days, resulting from bad weather which prevented flying near Washington.

Roosevelt arrived last night at Mariguana Island and will proceed on his northwesterly course for Crooked Island. It is expected he will spend most of next week at sea.

In a message late today Roosevelt reported "more fine fishing."

"Potomac and destroyers arrived Mariguana Island yesterday afternoon and had more fine fishing," the message read. "We will proceed to the westward tonight to rendezvous with mail plane tomorrow morning."

"OLD JULES'" WIDOW APPEALS

Asks Nebraska Governor for Road to Her Orchards.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 28.—Mrs. Jules Sandoz, 69 years old, widow of "Old Jules" of Nebraska's sandhills, told Gov. R. L. Cochran today she would have to abandon her husband's orchards south of Gordon unless a road is built soon.

Accompanied by 20 Gordon residents, Mrs. Sandoz explained it was impossible to get fruit to the market. Mari Sandoz, who wrote the book "Old Jules," accompanied her mother. "People from all over the country come to Gordon and ask how they can get to the Sandoz ranch," Fay C. Hill, a rancher, said. "I tell them to walk or take a horse. It's only 35 miles."

POWER RATE CUT IN TVA AREA

Tennessee Private Company Reduces Charges 11 Pct.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 28.—Residential electric rate reductions for more than 400 Tennessee communities, including Nashville and Chattanooga, were approved today by the State Railroad and Public Utilities Commission.

Reductions said to average 11 per cent will apply throughout the system of the Tennessee Electric Power Co. Many communities served by the company are in the Tennessee River Valley, in which the Tennessee Valley Authority operates.

ROBBERS NAME PAL IN ANOTHER CHICAGO KILLING

Two Accuse Third Youth Held in Murder of Doctor of Killing 63-Year-Old Tailor.

POLICE CONTINUE QUESTIONING THEM

Companion They Implicate Is in Hospital—Another Also Arrested in Shooting of Physician.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 28.—Under steady police questioning, two of the four youths held as the killers of Dr. Silber C. Peacock added another holdup killing to the gang's list of crimes tonight.

Supervising Police Captain John Horan said that in addition to admitting their parts in the killing of Dr. Peacock, a child specialist, Jan. 2, Durland Nash and Robert Goethe, 19 years old, had told him that Emil Reck, 19, also held, was one of two robbers who killed Peter Payor, 63, in his tailor shop last December.

Captain Horan said Nash also had accused Reck in the killing of Miss Ellen Anderson, 37, during a robbery of her store last Oct. 19, but his story was doubted since two of the gang were in jail at the time.

Questioning of the prisoners is being continued in an effort to connect the youths with other crimes, including the killing last fall of Kenneth Morrison, Park Department executive.

Goethe, police say, was leader of the gang.

Another Youth Held.

Michael Livingston, 17, is the fourth youth held in the Peacock murder.

Goethe, said by police to be a son of a "woman Fagin," now in prison, is accused of being the actual killer of Dr. Peacock, who resisted the robbers after being lured from his home to "treat a sick baby."

Reck, who collapsed at a police station, is under guard in a hospital. Police said he was in serious condition from stomach ulcers.

Arrest of the youths resulted from two months of investigation by Sergt. Andrew Aiken and three assistants, Sergts. Leo Anderson, Timothy Donovan and Patrick McShane, who pieced together reports of a series of holdups in which doctors, answering fake calls, were the victims, and concluded Dr. Peacock was killed by the same gang.

Expecting that other doctors would be victimized, the detectives accompanied physicians on dozens of night calls, without result. Then luck stepped in.

Arrests, Story of Killing.

Doris Robbins, 17, was reported missing. Two policemen questioned Nash, who had known her. He said he did not know where the girl was. He denied a random accusation he was a holdup man—but then he blurted out that two of his friends—Goethe and Reck — had committed robberies.

The three seemed to fit descriptions turned in by doctor-victims of robberies. Several doctors identified them. Then the three implicated Livingston.

The youths said they closed in on the doctor as he got out of his machine in answering the fake call. Nash was quoted as saying:

"Dr. Peacock started to fight. I hit him with my pistol. Livingston or Reck grabbed a knife out of the dictor's bag and cut him on the head and neck. He kicked Goethe. That made him mad and Goethe shot him. We put the body in the car and hauled it away.

"We divided the money—$5 apiece—at a tavern."

110-ROOM COUNTRY RESORT

W. K. Vanderbilt Mansion on Long Island Sold to Syndicate.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28. — Idlehour, 110-room mansion built more than 30 years ago on the south shore of Long Island by the late William K. Vanderbilt, has been bought by a syndicate planning to convert it into a resort or country club.

The $2,500,000 dwelling, with its 100-car garage and 25 rooms and four baths in the servants' quarters, has been unoccupied more than a year, after having changed hands many times in the past 15 years. There are 27 master bedrooms and 18 baths in one wing, and 12 master's rooms in the other. A glass-enclosed tennis court reputedly cost $100,000. Five miles of navigable canals are a feature of the landscaped grounds.

RELIEF AGENCIES ACCUSED OF AIDING SUGAR BEET FIRMS

Witness at Washington Says "Hunger Pressure" Has Forced Workers to Take "Starvation" Pay.

'COMPANIES SAVE $200,000 A YEAR'

This Amount Formerly Was Spent to Recruit Men for Colorado Fields, It Is Alleged.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Southern sharecroppers, beet sugar workers, laborers in the onion fields and other agricultural employes have presented to Federal officials here during the last two days a detailed picture of "starvation" wages and long hours of work which many speakers charged was equivalent to slavery.

The statements were made at a meeting of agricultural workers and Government officials arranged by the National Committee on Rural Social Planning.

The AAA has come in for bitter criticism, many representatives of the agricultural unions participating in the conference charging that, while the administration's policy may have benefited the farmer, it had worked new hardships on tenants and sharecroppers. Most of this criticism was directed at the way in which the AAA, the Resettlement Administration and various relief agencies have been administered in the field.

Officials of the various agricultural and relief agencies have for the most part contented themselves with pointing out the labor provisions contained in New Deal laws and the intention on the part of Washington administrators to extend the benefits down to agricultural labors.

About Sugar Beet Workers.

The most startling statement at today's session was made by J. T. Mahoney, in charge of the welfare work of the Knights of Columbus in the Colorado sugar beet fields. Mahoney charged that Federal relief agencies for the last five years have been in league with beet sugar growers and the big sugar companies to create "hunger pressure" which compelled workers to accept "starvation" wages.

"Relief has been a wonderful thing for the big sugar people," Mahoney said.

"Formerly the associations of sugar growers—and that's really the company—spent $200,000 a year to recruit labor in Texas, New Mexico and the Southwest generally. Relief has saved them this $200,000 a year.

"A different kind of recruiting is going on now with the aid of WPA and all these other organizations. They put hunger-pressure on these people, turning them off relief about a month before they will be wanted in the sugar beet fields so that they'll be good and hungry and will go to work without arguing too much about wages."

Governor Sent Protest.

Charity, in attempting to keep Colorado's 30,000 beet sugar workers alive, after they are turned off each season by the growers, "subsidizes" the sugar industry, Mahoney said. Two years ago, he declared, the only way a family could get relief was to have an indorsement from one of the big sugar companies. He produced a telegram sent by Gov. Johnson of Colorado to Harry L. Hopkins, Relief Administrator, protesting against the Government's relief policy in the sugar beet fields.

"The past three years have been the worst years in the sugar beet industry," Mahoney said, charging that while the AAA contract with the growers provided a nominal price to laborers of $19.50 an acre, this was reduced to $10.50 an acre by the "tricky" terms of the contract.

Mahoney's charges drew a heated reply from Dr. Joshua Bernhardt, head of AAA's sugar section. Bernhardt read the labor provisions contained in sugar contracts to refute Mahoney. He maintained that the AAA had greatly benefited labor and had virtually done away with child labor.

Previous Testimony.

At yesterday's conference representatives of the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union charged that Resettlement Administration officials were "thieves" and that representatives of Resettlement, AAA and WPA were in league with plantation owners to keep tenants and sharecroppers in Arkansas and Alabama in serfdom. 'NUMBERS RACKET' DEFENDANT SHOT TO DEATH AT BALTIMORE

Police Say Charles Gaither, Indicted With 70 Others, Was "Taken for Ride."

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, March 28.—Charles Gaither, indicted with others, including more than 30 policemen in a recent "numbers racket" investigation, was found shot to death today. Police said he had been "taken for a ride."

The body was lying on the lawn of a vacant summer house near Perry Hall, in Baltimore County, with a bullet wound in the head. His wife's car was near by. He apparently had been driven to the scene, shot and dumped to the ground.

Edward Booker, indicted with Gaither in connection with the operation of a lottery syndicate, was questioned by the police. Officers also questioned Gaithers' wife and another person in an effort to determine if Gaither was murdered for disclosures he might have made in the gambling inquiry.

Gaither did not surrender after his indictment, but posted bond of $10,000. More than 40 in addition to the policemen were indicted with him.

ECLIPSE EXPEDITION INSURED AGAINST FAILURE BY LLOYD'S

For First Time in 13 Years That Going to Far East Obtains Protection.

By the Associated Press.

SWARTMORE, Pa., March 28.—For the first time in 13 years an insurance company has agreed to issue a policy insuring a scientific expedition against failure in photographing a solar eclipse. Dr. Howard Shapley of the Harvard College observatory announces that Lloyd's of London will insure a Harvard expedition which will travel to the Far East this summer to observe the eclipse to be visible in Japan, Siberia and Russia.

"The first time such expeditions were insured was for the eclipse of 1923, which was visible across Mexico and Lower California," Dr. John A. Miller, retired director of the Sproul Observatory at Swarthmore College, said. Dr. Miller headed a Swarthmore expedition to Mexico that year.

GIRL PATIENT, 8, DIES IN CHIROPRACTOR'S OFFICE

Leona Kirk Succumbs When Undergoing Treatment; Inhalator Used in Vain.

Leona Kirk, 8-year-old daughter of Mrs. Lydia Kirk, 4676 Tennessee avenue, died last night while Alexander Gillman, a chiropractor, was giving her a treatment in his office, 3423 South Jefferson avenue.

Gillman told police that he had been treating the girl for the last three months for rheumatic fever and a leaky heart. He called police and the fire department when she collapsed and an inhalator was used on her for 45 minutes without avail.

The girl was taken to the chiropractor's office last night by her grandmother, Mrs. Lena Schworm, and her aunt, Mrs. Leona Schnaufer, who live with her mother at the Tennessee avenue address.

TRAIN HITS BUS; 8 REPORTED KILLED

Collision at Byron, Ga., Three Cars Derailed; Several Are Injured.

By the Associated Press.

BYRON, Ga., March 28.—O. B. Lineberger, operator of the Byron Telephone Exchange, said tonight that eight persons were reported killed and several others injured when a passenger train struck a bus at a crossing here.

Lineberger said city officials and doctors were at the scene of the wreck, which occurred in the business section here, aiding in the removal of the dead and injured. Five ambulances were sent here from Macon. The train was a Central of Georgia limited.

He said he was informed by the bus station here that probably 11 or 12 persons were on the bus. Byron is 25 miles southwest of Macon in middle Georgia. It is a village of about 200.

Lineberger said the passenger bus was en route from Albany to Macon and had made a stop here. The crossing is about 50 feet from where the bus stopped.

The telephone operator said the engine and three or four cars of the train were derailed but that they did not turn over. No one aboard the train was hurt, he added.

Lineberger said debris and wreckage piled up by the collision made it difficult to determine just how many were killed and injured. He said he had been informed, however, that the dead included two Negro children and three white women.

The injured were taken to the hospital at Macon. Lineberger said he understood the bus driver lost his life in the crash.

DE VALERA OPERATED ON FOR CATARACT IN ZURICH

Success or Failure of Effort to Save Sight Will Not Be Known Until Tuesday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ZURICH, Switzerland, March 28.—President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State underwent operations for the removal of cataracts from both eyes here Thursday.

It is stated that not until Tuesday will it definitely be known whether the operation was a success. If the operation was a failure, it is added, De Valera will be blind. Improvement in his condition was noted this evening and specialists were hopeful. De Valera has been kept in a darkened room with his eyes bandaged since the operation.

A London eye specialist told De Valera that if he was to escape blindness he would have to submit to an operation by Dr. Alfred Vogt, Swiss specialist. It was not until today that it was learned Dr. Vogt had performed the operation. De Valera suffered from a hardened type of cataract which began 18 months ago.

NEW SUSPECT SAID TO ADMIT LINDBERGH KIDNAPING

Gov. Hoffman Reported to Have Called Board of Pardons in Hauptmann Case on Basis of Admission of Crime by Another

STATEMENT BY UNNAMED MAN

Hearing Tomorrow on Request for Clemency Previously Denied—Electrocution of Defendant Set for 8 P. M. Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., March 28.—A purported "confession" of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping by a former Trenton man was disclosed tonight to have been used by Gov. Harold G. Hoffman as a basis for calling the Court of Pardons to meet Monday on Bruno Richard Hauptmann's second plea for clemency.

The Governor was reported to have mailed to all members of the Court of Pardons copies of a statement made by the man to Ellis H. Parker, chief of Burlington County detectives, who has insisted that Hauptmann is innocent of the murder of the Lindbergh child.

Hauptmann is scheduled to be put to death in the electric chair for the crime at 8 p. m. Tuesday.

There was a tendency on the part of those opposed to Gov. Hoffman's activities in Hauptmann's behalf to discount the value of the "confession," which had been rumored in Trenton for several days.

Prosecutors Meet.

Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, chief prosecutor of Hauptmann, has been furnished a copy of the statement which is said to be unsigned and not in affidavit form but to consist of questions by Parker and answers by the man.

Wilentz, Anthony M. Hauck Jr., Hunterdon County prosecutor, and Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the State police, and Capt. John J. Lamb of the State police, met at the hotel to consider a course of action by the prosecution officials to meet this new attack on the case against Hauptmann.

The man mentioned in the statement was once under observation in a mental hospital, and served a term for perjury.

Gist of Alleged Confession.

The author of the statement was said to be in custody of Gus Lockwood, State Motor Vehicle Inspector, and an active investigator for the Governor, near Mount Holly, where Parker lives.

He was quoted in the statement as having said he constructed the kidnaper's ladder, but found it was too short and used a rear stairway to enter the Lindbergh nursery at Hopewell.

Continuing, the statement said he took the child from the crib, leaving the ransom note, and returned to Trenton in an automobile.

He was quoted as saying he kept the child at his house for three days, but the baby fell out of bed, fracturing the skull. He added that he took the body to the Hopewell-Mount Rose road, where the Lindbergh baby's body was found, and that no attempt was made to collect ransom.

Parker was quoted tonight by the Trenton Times-Advertiser as saying "I won't confirm or deny anything." He previously had denied any knowledge of the statement or of a new arrest in the case.

It was reported that the man went to Parker and submitted to questioning voluntarily.

Appeal Once Denied.

Five of the eight members of the court already have passed twice on the Hauptmann case—once as members of the Court of Errors and Appeals, which is the highest tribunal in the State, and once as members of the Court of Pardons. Two members of the Court of Pardons did not hear the case in the Court of Errors and Appeals.

A high judicial officer who would not permit use of his name, declared: "There is no limitation on the power of the Court of Pardons and they could grant a reprieve if they saw fit. There could be no appeal as the court is absolutely supreme."

The court has never granted a reprieve.

Gov. Hoffman said he had no

PERSONAL ISSUES ONLY OBSTACLE IN LOBBY BILL'S WAY

Passage in House of Equivocal Smith Measure Gives Senate Chance to Put Teeth in It.

APPLIES MAINLY TO SMALLER FRY

Black, Norris and Couzens Expected to Make Most of Opportunity to Check Legislative Agents.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 28. — If personal animosities can be overcome, a law curbing the lobbyists finally will be enacted at this session by a reluctant Congress. The effectiveness of the measure, if it is approved, will depend on Senator Black (Dem.) of Alabama, chairman of the Senate special lobby investigating committee, and members of the House Rules Committee, who tried their hands at investigating last session.

The action of the House yesterday in passing the equivocal Smith lobby registration bill without a record vote illustrated the timidity of representatives to deal realistically with the lobbying problem. The Senate in late years has approved the Caraway and the Black anti-lobbying bills, and each time the House has refused to consider them. But passage of the Smith bill yesterday gave the Senate an opportunity to insist on effective legislation, and Senators Norris, Black and Couzens can be counted on to make the most of it.

Applies to Smaller Fry.

The House bill, sponsored by Representative Howard W. Smith (Dem.) of Virginia, a member of the Rules Committee, was offered as a substitute for the drastic Black bill passed by the Senate last session. It calls for the registration of paid lobbyists, but exempts representatives of such important agencies as the nationally organized units of farmers, veterans, labor and apparently industry. The bill does not affect lobbyists who appear before Governmental agencies other than Congress and it is doubtful whether some of the most prominent political lawyer-lobbyists will be required to supply the information required from the smaller fry.

Although an elaborate system of registration is outlined in the bill, only those persons and organizations whose "principal purpose" is to influence legislation, and whose funds are collected and used "principally" to that end are required to comply.

The Black bill covers these points, without exemptions, and calls for registration of all those who ply their trade before executive departments in efforts to influence the terms of Government contracts.

The debate on the floor yesterday indicated the reluctance of the House to pass lobby legislation. Chairman John J. O'Connor of the powerful House Rules Committee, brother of Basil O'Connor, who has been frequently mentioned in lobby investigation, ridiculed the influence of lobbyists and inferentially tried to ridicule the need for lobby legislation. Basil O'Connor is a former law partner of President Roosevelt.

"As Influencial as Janitors."

"Lobbyists are just a nuisance to members of Congress," O'Connor told the House. "They never do what they say they do, but they seem to be able to collect money back home for their supposed usefulness. In my opinion janitors have as much influence on legislation as lobbyists."

Chairman O'Connor, however, did not say that a janitor would have difficulty in getting an appointment with a Congressman and would be unable to entertain his legislator friends in his home or make campaign contributions.

A few of the Republican Representatives, taking a cue from O'Connor, also tried to ridicule the mild Smith bill. Representative Charles L. Gifford (Rep.), of Massachusetts facetiously declared that the clerk of the House should furnish identification badges for registered lobbyists. Gifford said the proposed measure would "terrorize" persons legitimately interested in legislation and predicted that it would stigmatize a lot of worthy men, while allowing the "Frankfurter boys" to lobby all they please.

This was an attack on New Deal officials who have been associated with Prof. Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard law school.

Falls to Amend Bill.

Representative Francis D. Culkin (Rep.), New York, sought in vain to amend the bill to include registration of Government officials trying to influence legislation.

"My amendment," he told the House, "would insure that bureaucrats vested with temporary authority and the disposition of millions of dollars could not use the power and the patronage of their offices to influence legislation and to make over the pattern of our Government."

His amendment was rejected, 33 to 60.

While the House was debating the Smith bill, the Senate authorized an additional appropriation of $12,500 to the Black lobby investigating committee. Opposition to the appropriation was voiced by Senator Frederick Steiwer (Rep.), Oregon, who used the occasion to criticise the committee's subpenas of private telegrams.

There is no doubt that the actions of the Black committee in this regard have cost him support in the Senate, but not enough to change sentiment for a lobby registration law. The test will come when he seeks to put teeth into the Smith bill, and even if he succeeds in the Senate, he will have to overcome considerable opposition in the House to drastic legislation.

BANK OF FRANCE RAISES RATE TO PROTECT GOLD

Rediscount Figure Jumped From 3 1-2 to 5 Pct. at Special Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 28.—With the French franc and other gold currencies under international financial fire, the Bank of France acted today to protect its gold supply. The bank regents, in extraordinary session, raised the discount rate to 5 per cent from 3½ per cent, the first increase since last Nov. 25.

Uneasiness over the German situation and fear that the French Government might decide on inflation of the franc were regarded as contributory causes to the increase.

Investors and speculators were disposing of their francs in great quantities in the world's foreign exchange markets. They were selling their francs and buying United States dollars and British pounds.

(United States dollars, apparently, were the preferred medium of reinvestment, for the dollar quotation gained ⅜-cent to the pound in the London foreign exchange market, while both pounds and dollars advanced in relation to the franc. Despite the manipulations of the official exchange control fund on the London market, the franc fell off from 75.03 to 75.04 to the pound.

The action of the bank regents was unusual, inasmuch as any change in the bank rate ordinarily is announced on Thursdays and the regents rarely assemble on Saturdays.

They decided to increase not only the discount rate but to make a similar increase in the rates for 30-day loans and to increase the rate for loans on stocks from 5 to 6 per cent.

The prices on rentes, Government securities, slipped slightly throughout the short day's trading, but it was thought the bank action would bolster up the market over the week-end.

In the local foreign exchange market, the value of the franc in relation to the dollar fell 2½ centimes, closing officially at 15.1825 francs (6.58 cents to the franc).

Despite the strong gold withdrawals, the gold coverage on French bank notes was reported at 80 per cent.

New Suspect Said to Admit Lindbergh Kidnaping

intention of granting a second reprieve. He was silent, however, as to what he might do in event of a confession or some other extraordinary late development.

Warden's Statement.

Col. Mark O. Kimberling, prison warden, modifying an earlier statement, said today:

"If the Governor grants a reprieve, I will seek legal advice from the Attorney-General (David T. Wilentz). If the Attorney-General tells me I must follow out the Court's order to execute Hauptmann, regardless of the reprieve, I propose to put off the execution until later in the week. In the interval, I would decide whether to await a court action to determine whether I should enforce the death warrant or wait until a court decision is rendered on the subject."

Attorney-General Wilentz did not make public his position on another reprieve. He said the Governor had indicated he would ask him his opinion, and that he would "withhold it until that time."

The Department of Justice at Washington sent word today that it regarded the case as closed so far as Federal participation was concerned. Secretary of the Interior Ickes, however, advised Gov. Hoffman that the services of Arch Loney, department wood tester, would be available to him, if wanted, though in a "strictly personal capacity." Loney expressed doubt that the wood in "rail 16" of the kidnaper's ladder came from the attic of Hauptmann's Bronx home.

Gov. Hoffman's Statement.

Gov. Hoffman, in an interview with the Associated Press, reaffirmed his belief that Hauptmann was not fairly tried, that some evidence against him was open to serious doubt, and that the murder of the Lindbergh baby was the crime of more than one person.

The execution of Hauptmann, the Governor said, would not end the investigation he has been prosecuting independently for several months. Even as the Governor talked, Robert W. Hicks, a Washington criminologist, waited outside to report on the results of an inquiry he made in Cuba from where he returned today by plane.

Hicks reported to the Governor on three phases of his investigation, and at the end the Governor said: "It is very interesting, and will be further investigated."

Investigator's Report.

The three phases on which Hicks reported were:

1. A four-page affidavit by Samuel W. Garelick, the man Dr. John F. Condon (Jafsie) is said to have seen in Miami in December, 1932. Condon questioned Garelick, who is from Bayonne, N. Y., and who now is serving a life sentence for extortion in Cuba. This evidence is intended to show that on the eve of the trial, Dr. Condon was not satisfied of his identification of Hauptmann.

2. A nine-page statement by Harry Sidmor in which the operation of a Midwest extortionist gang is dealt with in connection with the Lindbergh case.

3. A statement by Dr. Alfonso Gonzales in which Gonzales states that in October, 1932, he was shown a letter by a middle-aged unidentified German offering to exchange Lindbergh ransom money. The signature on the letter, Gonzales told Hicks, was that of Isidor Fisch, the man Hauptmann says owned the ransom money.

Attorney-General Wilentz, prosecutor of Hauptmann and by law the legal adviser to the Governor, issued a statement saying that Hauptmann "is as guilty today as he was the day he was convicted." The Attorney-General took issue with the Governor's charges that the Flemington trial was "unfair."

Hauptmann Still Hopeful.

Despite all indications to the contrary, including the Governor's own statement, the prisoner himself refused to abandon hope. His wife, Anna, did not visit the prison today, and no visitors are permitted in the death house on Sunday. Mrs. Hauptmann's last chance to see her 36-year-old husband—unless his execution is stayed—will come Monday.

Charles Zied, 37 years old, Philadelphia gangster, in the death house with Hauptmann, sentenced to death for the murder of William T. Feitz Jr., a Camden detective, Sept. 2, 1934, is to be executed on the same night with the man convicted of the Lindbergh baby murder.

SEEKS APPROVAL OF SALE OF MILWAUKEE JOURNAL

Petition Proposes Employe Purchase of Majority of Stock of Late L. W. Nieman.

MILWAUKEE, March 28.—Approval of sale of the 55 per cent interest of the late L. W. Nieman in the Milwaukee Journal for $3,850,000 under a plan giving control to Harry J. Grant, the publisher, and providing for employe acquisition of a majority of the stock is asked for in a petition filed in the County Court today.

Under the petition the 1,100 shares of stock in the Journal owned by Nieman would be sold by trustees of his estate to the Journal Co., Grant and Miss Faye McBeath, Nieman's niece.

Nieman, who died last fall, directed in his will that equal shares of the stock, the proceeds of the sale, go to his widow and Miss McBeath. After making bequests totaling more than $200,000, Mrs. Nieman, who died last month, left the balance of her estate to Harvard University to be used "to promote and elevate the standards of journalism in the United States." Three of Mrs. Nieman's cousins are contesting her will.

KAMLOOPS, B. C., March 28.—Slight earthquake shocks, at 1:15 and 4 a. m., awoke many Kamloops residents today. The shocks lasted a couple of seconds and rattled pictures and dishes. A distinct but brief shock was felt at Vernon, B. C., about 1:20 a. m. No damage was reported.

OUTER MONGOLIA SENDS PROTEST TO MANCHUKUO

In Note Demands Ending of Border Raids—Makes Defensive Treaty With Russia.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, March 28.—A demand for immediate action to put an end to frontier raids was made in a note from the Government of Outer Mongolia to the Manchoukuoan administration made public here tonight.

The Mongolian note was sent Friday, after resumption of border fighting, which the Mongolians declared resulted from an attempt by Japanese and Manchoukuoan troops to occupy a Mongolian frontier post in the Norin Lake district.

Mongolia expressed surprise, in the note, that raiding had been resumed at a moment when the two governments were negotiating for settlement of boundary differences through a mixed investigating commission.

The purpose of the raids, Outer Mongolia asserted, "cannot be considered as other than to disrupt negotiations and increase tension caused by the endless violations of Mongolian territory by Japanese and Manchoukuoan forces."

The official Russian press intimated that the Japanese were instigating the critical situation along the border of Manchoukuo, set up as an independent State by Japan, and the Russian-advised republic of Outer Mongolia.

These intimations accompanied the announcement that Outer Mongolia had agreed to a mutual assistance pact with Soviet Russia, which provides for Russian aid to repel any invasion of Mongolia by foreign forces.

Soviet press reports said five Japanese cavalrymen had crossed the dead line of the border between Manchoukuo and Russia near Borzinsky, and that only two of them had escaped alive. A Soviet border patrol caught them.

Official Soviet sources said there was no ground for a discussion between Manchoukuo and the Soviet Government regarding the location of frontier lines.

Izvestia published an official statement which said: "The Japanese Government understands the necessity for an exact fulfillment of the provisions of the Peiping and Mukden treaties, obliging both sides to respect existing borders. The Soviet Union, for its part, is fulfilling these obligations and its forces not once have violated the Manchoukuoan frontier. The border conflicts have been exclusively the result of raids by Japanese and Manchoukuoans."

Lloyd George Warns Britain Against Military Alliance With France, Urges Fair Play

Asks if Nation Wants to Become Entangled in New War Because Germany Dares to Defend Own Soil.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
Prime Minister of Great Britain During the World War.
(World Coypright, 1936.)

LONDON, March 28.—What is the net result of the Rhineland debate in the House of Commons?

British Foreign Secretary Eden's clever speech was reassuring on minor points of apprehension, but he never budged on the most dangerous point in the white paper (the British document revealing the four-power proposals to Germany) viz: the conclusion of a military convention with France.

That means only one thing. If there is war between France and Germany over the occupation of the Rhineland, we are in it.

We shall send our young men to die, this time on German soil, to punish these arrogant and aggressive Teutons for daring to make preparations for the defense of their own soil against a foreign invader.

France can spend $500,000,000 on the erection of huge fortifications within a few miles of the German border.

We can vote for plans which involve the expenditure of an extra $1,500,000,000 to protect our island against any menace.

But If Germany Acts.

But, if the Germans propose to throw up even a pill box to guard their famous cities at their greatest industrial area against an invader whose troops are now massing under cover within a few hours' march of the gates of these towns, then "measures must be concerted," and that "forthwith," between the general army staffs of Britain and France to punish such an act of perfidy against international law.

The French are now fully aware that we are pledged to stand by them in their new interpretation of the sanctions of Versailles and Locarno.

Assurances given by Eden of British comradeship in military action will give a more confident turn to French diplomacy. The French would hardly like to bomb German towns with merely the aid of squadrons of Communist airplanes from Russia.

It is a different matter when they have the naval and air fleets of the British Empire at their disposal and when they have to be accompanied on their march across the Rhine by divisions of British infantry.

Union Jack Preferred.

Bourgeois France is uneasy about planting the tricolor side by side with the red flag. They would prefer the union jack. These military arrangements with us reassure them on this point of respectability. That is why the white paper has brought war nearer.

The minds of the general staffs of all countries, from Moscow to London, will now concentrate on the idea of joint military operations against Germany.

Our army and air force will be organized by them henceforth not for the defense of our shores and empire, but with the contingency of a continental war consistently before their eyes.

Before the 1914 expedition, an arrangement for support of France against Germany became the dominant factor in our army organization.

How Army Was Prepared.

It even entered into our conception of the function of the new territorial army created by Lord Haldane. That was to protect our shores while the regular army was away fighting on the continent of Europe, and its creator had also in his mind the using of half-trained territorial units for reinforcing the army at the front.

Haldane was one of the two Ministers who were mainly responsible for the French-British military convention. Sir Edward Grey was the other. Herbert Asquith merely concurred.

Haldane worked hard and skillfully at perfecting the regular army and territorials for the part they were to play on continental battlefields in certain contingencies.

He worked just as subtly and consistently for the policy of military co-operation with France that converted that contingency into a reality.

The white paper takes us back in one sudden leap to that old policy of military understanding which proved so fatal to millions of the youth of Europe.

New and Dangerous Element.

The decision to establish contact once more between the general staffs of France, Britain and Belgium for preparation of technical plans for joint operation on and across the Rhine has introduced a new and dangerous element into the explosive ingredients that make for war in Europe, and war at no distant date.

Professionals do not care to waste time, thought and energy on plans that are destined to accumulate dust in pigeon holes. They always pine for an opportunity to see them in action.

All powerful interests that hope to gain prestige or profit by a full trial of these military schemes will work incessantly for achievement of that aim.

They will influence not only the services, but industry, the press and society. One knows too well the sinister power wielded by these interests in France.

We are providing a new opening and incentive for their activities in Britain. These military arrangements have transformed the situation and very much for the worse.

How Britain Is Involved.

It is of no use pretending that we are not involved by this new arrangement in the complications created by the French-Soviet pact.

We were not bound by the French-Russian military alliance in 1914. We were no party to it and the Ministers always comforted themselves, as well as others, by the conviction that we never get mixed up with any quarrels in the Near East.

Nevertheless, our own military convention with France brought us into a war which was primarily due to a quarrel between Austria and Serbia.

Russia was bound to come to the aid of Serbia. Germany was by military convention bound to come to the rescue of Austria. If she were attacked by Russia, France was bound by treaty to come to the assistance of Russia.

We have a military arrangement with France, if she were attacked. We only promised the help of 100,000 men.

It wasn't even a promise; it was only a military plan worked out "by contact between the general staffs of Britain and France."

That contact landed the empire ultimately in 3,000,000 casualties and a debt of 8,000,000,000 sterling (about $40,000,000,000).

It shattered our export trade for 22 years. It has not yet recovered.

Beware of military entanglements!

In name they are "technical." In effect, they are tragic.

Change in Position.

It is folly to ignore the change in the military position in Europe created by the French-Soviet pact and the danger of being dragged through it into a war over an Eastern dispute.

How will it work?

Russia and Germany now hate each other with a passion which Litvinov (Russian Foreign Commisar) faithfully expressed in manner and speech during his recent visit to London.

This antagonism is partly racial and partly doctrinal. Naviism and Communism are deadly foes, wrestling for the soul of Central and Eastern Europe.

When great nations start scowling and snarling at each other, Satan has an easy task in throwing in an incident which sets them at each other's throats.

France is bound by her treaty with Russia to join in the fray. She will throw her armies and air fleets on the Rhineland.

Germany, therefore, cannot leave so important a part of her country to be entirely unprotected. Hence the urgent necessity, created by the French-Soviet pact, for erecting defenses in the threatened territory.

That is a breach of treaty. That brings us in.

Unfortunately, instead of judging on merits, we have entered into a military convention to "come to the assistance" of a potential invader.

Will British opinion, imbued with the spirit of fair play, ratify such a proposal?

ITALIANS OCCUPYING TWO CARAVAN CENTERS

Meet No Resistance at Socota and Debrarech; Latter in Lake Tana Area.

By the Associated Press.

ASMARA, Eritrea, March 28.—Italian troops occupied two highly important caravan centers in Northwestern Ethiopia today as they pushed southward without meeting Ethiopian resistance.

The Italians entered Socota, about 45 miles west of Lake Ashangi, and Debrarech, only 50 miles from Gondar, which is north of Lake Tana, the headquarters of the Blue Nile.

Socota is one of the most important trading points in the region. It has 3000 inhabitants and is in a cup-like valley between the masses of the Semien and the Lasta mountains.

The city is a junction of caravan routes from the rich northern provinces to the heart of Ethiopia. Most of the traffic of Western Gojjam province and the Lake Tana section to Addis Ababa passes through Socota. There is exceptionally heavy traffic in grain and cattle.

PANEL ALMOST EXHAUSTED IN FLOGGING TRIAL

Tampa Judge Refuses to Indicate Course on Change of Venue — Six Tentatively Chosen.

CASE GOES OVER TILL TOMORROW

Court Questions Veniremen After Rebuking Lawyers for Nature of Their Queries.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TAMPA, Fla., March 28.—Despite attempts of the Court to expedite the selection of a jury of six for the first of Florida's flogging trials, a short session ended this afternoon with the jury not yet completed.

Since questioning of prospective jurors began last Thursday, the prosecution has used eight of its 15 challenges and the defense six.

About 90 veniremen have been interrogated and at least 30 of them disqualified by Judge Robert T. Dewell because they held fixed opinions. Besides six tentatively qualified jurors now in the box, including one who was placed there by the Judge and has not been questioned by counsel, only one more venireman remains to be questioned. Two veniremen who have been ill may be able to report when court reconvenes Monday morning. Judge Dewell may summon as many additional veniremen as he desires. He announced at the close of today's session that he would not indicate what action he would take until the present venire was exhausted.

Change of Venue Motion.

The Court has under consideration a motion for a change of venue entered at the outset of the trial last Tuesday by Pat Whitaker, chief of defense counsel. Judge Dewell declined to grant the motion at the time it was made, announcing opportunity would be given to select a jury in Hillsborough County.

Defense counsel alleged that such prejudice existed in this area that it would not be feasible to conduct a fair trial. The attendance in the courtroom today fell off to fewer than 23 persons in comparison to the 110 who have taken every chair on each of the previous days.

Personal jibes were exchanged by counsel for the first time today, finally drawing a rebuke from the Judge who pointed out they were engaged in trying "an important lawsuit." On one occasion State's Attorney Farrior asked a venireman: "Do you know my father?" Only to have Whitaker quickly ask: "Do you know my grandfather?"

Judge Questions Veniremen.

Judge Dewell finally took over the questioning, expediting matters by inquiring as to the existence of a fixed opinion without preliminary questions.

Whitaker asked several prospective jurors if they were "members of the Congregational church," alluding apparently to the Rev. Walter Metcalfe, a Congregational minister, who has been active in urging the conviction of those responsible for the floggings of last Nov. 30. It was on that night that Joseph A. Shoemaker, advocate of "Modern Democracy"; Eugene F. Poulnot and S. J. Rogers, were seized by police without warrants at a private home, questioned at headquarters "as to Communistic activities" then turned over to masked men who drove them to the country, flogged, tarred and feathered them. Shoemaker died of his injuries.

The defendants are three former policemen, C. A. Brown, John P. Bridges and C. W. Carlisle. They are on trial on indictments charging them with kidnaping Poulnot. Eight others are under indictment in connection with the floggings, including former Chief of Police Tittsworth. He has conferred with the defendants during the questioning of the veniremen.

Political Ramifications.

Although the crime is ascribed generally to the influence of the the Ku Klux Klan, which dominates the city administration here, thus far that order has not been mentioned in the courtroom. The State has made no attempt to ask veniremen whether they are connected with any secret organization. But the defense has questioned them on such topics as "Americanism," "Communism" and whether they are affiliated with Shoemaker's "Modern Democracy" or Poulnot's "unemployed" organization.

Many political ramifications have crept into the case, but for the first time in Florida the Ku Klux Klan, or certainly the spirit upon which it thrives, is on trial.

Defense tactics have included assailing Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, as "a nationally known Communist" and obtaining assurance from prospective jurors that they believe in "the flag and the Constitution" and would not be in sympathy with any attempt "to everthrow the Government by force."

Communists Renew Attack on Ku Klux Klan in Florida.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 28.—The "Communist Party, Section 2, District 25" today renewed its attack on the Ku Klux Klan in Florida, inviting Jacksonville citizens to join those of Tampa in stamping out the organization which circulars signed by the Communists blamed for mob violence in Tampa.

The circulars, declaring the klan responsible for the tarring, feathering and flogging of three men in Tampa, said it was behind efforts to have the flogging case moved from Hillsborough County (Tampa) "where people will allow no whitewash."

The klan closed a statewide meeting here today after holding a parade of hooded and robed members last night.

NO MORE COLONELS OR ADMIRALS, ETC. OF OLD KENTUCKY

Attorney-General Rules Honorary Titles Terminate With Term of Governor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 28.—Attorney-General B. M. Vincent ripped the titles of colonel, admiral, commodore, captain and others from about 17,000 persons all over the world today, and ruled he found no justification for such Kentucky honors and titles. Whether the Attorney-General is right remains to be seen. Gov. A. B. Chandler is off on a fishing trip.

Vincent stated in his opinion that there was nothing in the Constitution that gave the Governor the right to appoint honorary members to his staff. He quoted a Court of Appeals opinion which held that a special Judge appointed by a Governor loses his appointment on the death of such Governor or on expiration of that Governor's term. So, reasoned Vincent, if all the Kentucky Colonels had been rightfully appointed, there would not be any now, as all appointed prior to Gov. Chandler's term of office would have their titles vacated.

Vincent's ruling says nothing about the new Governor appointing new Colonels.

360 STOVE WORKERS TO LEND PLANT 10 PCT. OF THEIR PAY

All But Ten Employes Agree to Idea to Reopen Baker-Nagle Co. at Belleville.

Three hundred and sixty of the 370 employes of the Baker-Nagle Co., stove manufacturers of Belleville, have voted to forego 10 per cent of their weekly wages in order that the company may raise $20,000 to pay its creditors and reopen the plant. The company will withhold 10 per cent of employes' salaries and will give each employe certificates covering the loan.

The loan certificates will bear interest at an undetermined rate. Alfred B. Herman, vice-president and general manager of the Baker-Nagle Co., said the 10 employes who did not vote have not been approached yet. He said the firm owed $30,000 and expected to raise the remaining $10,000 by selling preferred stock.

The firm, one of the oldest in Belleville, has not operated at full capacity since Jan. 1 and has been closed in all departments for two weeks. Herman said there were enough orders on hand to reopen the plant.

NEW DOUBLE STAR DISCOVERED

Revolutions Fastest Yet Known, Dutch Astronomer Says.

By the Associated Press.

DELAWARE, O., March 28.—A young Dutch astronomer, Prof. Gerard Kuiper, announced tonight the discovery of a double star having the fastest speed of revolution yet known. The speed of revolution is the period during which the two stars revolve about each other..

Prof. Kuiper is visiting Perkins Observatory of Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio State Universities. He says the binary—or double star—is in the constellation of Ophiuchus and that its period of revolution is 20 months. The most rapid binary previously known has a period of revolution of about five years. The newly discovered binary is 20 light years from the earth and is a ninth magnitude star and is therefore not visible to the naked eye.

GIRLS' HOLLYWOOD TRIP CUT SHORT BY POLICE

Four Talk to Stranger, Who Turns Out to Be Railroad Special Agent.

Four runaway girls, Hollywood-bound along the highways, talked with a stranger at an East St. Louis filling station yesterday, and one of them offered him an apple. The stranger informed them that he was a railroad special agent, and turned them over to police for return to their homes in East Liverpool, O.

The girls said they were Ruth Anderson, 14 years old, grade school student; Lois Oliver, 16, high school sophomore; Helen Trelevan, 15, high school freshman, and Tillie Kirchner, 17-year-old housemaid.

They told a Post-Dispatch reporter they left East Liverpool last Wednesday night. Their first ride, with a friendly truck driver, took them only to Empire, O., about 30 miles from East Liverpool, where they slept in a boxcar. Luck favored them for a while, after that, and they got to Indianapolis, Friday, and reached East St. Louis yesterday, riding in trucks.

Questioned as to their reasons for leaving home, the girls explained that they had "tired of life" in East Liverpool, a town of 23,300 population, and, besides, the town was partly flooded in the recent rise of the Ohio River. They had suggested to their parents that they move to a larger city, without success, they said. The runaways said they had hoped to reach Hollywood "for a trial in the movies," but were now satisfied to give up the plan and return to East Liverpool. They expect to collaborate on a literary effort dealing with their runaway experiences, they added.

The girls were munching apples yesterday morning when they met the special agent at a Tenth street filling station. Later they explained that apples had been their fare on the trip. Following questioning at East St. Louis police headquarters, they were taken to the St. Clair County Detention Home at Belleville in a scout car. They expressed disappointment that the ride was not taken in a regular police patrol and two of the group asked to be handcuffed, explaining, "We want the whole works."

HUSBAND FINDS WIFE DEAD FROM GAS AT EAST ST. LOUIS

Body of Mrs. Augusta Barker in Chair in Kitchen; Oven Burner of Stove Turned On.

The body of Mrs. Augusta Barker, 39 years old, was found on a chair in the kitchen of her home, 1803A Baugh avenue, East St. Louis, by her husband, George, a pipefitter, on his return home from work yesterday. Barker, who had to force an entrance, found the house full of gas and the stove oven in the kitchen turned on, but unlighted.

Barker said his wife had been cheerful when he left for work and that he knew of no reason why she should end her life. No note was found. Their son, Hocer, was married last Thursday, it was learned.

WANTED: NUDIST STENOGRAPHER

Florida "Gymnosophists" Get Applicant Through Federal Re-Employment Service.

TAMPA, Fla., March 28.—The American Gymnosophical Society, nudist group which has an establishment near here, is seeking a stenographer, a woman between 22 and 30 years old, willing to join the cult and prepared to spend six months each year in Florida and the other six in New Jersey.

Only two have applied. One was Miss Florence Fritz, wrter and business woman of Fort Myers, who said she was interested in nudism and would like the job because it would enable her to write "feature material" from first-hand information. The other prospect was obtained through the manager of the Federal Re-employment Service here.

POLICE ORDERED TO TAKE AIR RIFLES FROM BOYS

Chief Directs That Children Found With Dangerous Weapons Be Escorted Home.

Firearms and air rifles in the hands of boys hereafter are to be forbidden on the streets of St. Louis, Chief of Police John J. McCarthy announced yesterday in a communication to commanding officers of police districts. The order followed the accidental killing of 9-year-old Raymond J. Peterman Jr., by Oliver Stoops, 7, in the schoolyard of St. Barbara's Catholic school last Tuesday.

The accident, Chief McCarthy's order said, "Calls to mind a great number of preventable accidents which can be traced to firearms, air rifles, etc., in irresponsible hands. I wish therefore, that you would review this situation from time to time with your commands and exhort them never to pass up without immediate investigation a boy with a gun or air rifle or other dangerous weapon.

"Whenever and wherever a boy-gun combination is encountered it shall be the duty of the police officer, irrespective of his rank, to stop the boy, take charge of the gun and see that the youngster is escorted home. Arriving there, the officer is to explain courteously but firmly the facts in the case to the parents of the boy, concluding with instructions that under no circumstances are they to permit the boy to carry or play with dangerous weapons, and that the firing of them within the city limits is a misdemeanor and will result in a trip to Juvenile Court."

NORMAL CHILDREN KEPT IN HOSPITAL FOR DEFECTIVES

Arkansas Superintendent Says They Are Children of Patients; Segregation Sought.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 28.—Approximately 20 normal children are quartered with mental defectives at the State Hospital for Nervous Diseases it was disclosed today in a report given Attorney-General Bailey by Mrs. Clio Harper, State Supervisor for the Juvenile Courts. Both announced they would seek segregation of the normal children from the mental patients.

Dr. A. C. Kolb, superintendent of the hospital, confirmed Mrs. Harper's report. He said the normal children had been born to prospective mothers who were committed to the hospital, had grown up in the institution and had never been out of it.

MAN IN ROAD HIT BY AUTO

William McCabe Stumbled Against Car, Driver Says.

William McCabe, 53-year-old laborer, 9601 South Broadway, was seriously injured last night when he was struck by an automobile while walking in the roadway in the 9100 block of South Broadway, St. Louis County. He suffered a skull injury and cuts of the right arm and was taken to St. Louis County Hospital.

The driver of the car, who said he was William Ginn, 202 West Florence avenue, Luxemburg, told deputy constables that he was driving north on Broadway when McCabe, who was walking south on the east side of the road, stumbled against the side of his car.

WASHINGTON U. STUDENT HURT

Suffers Skull Injury When Carrying Iron Into City Auditorium.

Harry C. Richards of Jerseyville, Ill., a student at Washington University, suffered a skull injury yesterday afternoon when a large piece of sheet iron he was carrying into the Convention Hall of Municipal Auditorium slipped from his hands and struck him on the head. After treatment at City Hospital he was taken to his home in Jerseyville.

Richards, a member of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at the university, was assisting other students in moving an anti-aircraft gun to the floor of the hall in preparation for a military drill held there last night.

WOMAN WHO LEAPED OFF BRIDGE IDENTIFIED

Miss Mildred Brett, 30, Unable to Get Job—Body Is Recovered.

The body of a woman who leaped into the Meramec River Thursday from the Highway 66 bridge at Sylvan Beach was recovered yesterday and identified as that of Miss Mildred Brett, 30-year-old unemployed stenographer.

For 10 years Miss Brett had roomed a tthe home of Mrs. Chris Hoffmeister, 4331 Hartford street. She had been unemployed since December and acquaintances attributed her suicide to despondency over her inability to obtain a job.

Calling a taxicab to Kingshighway and Chippewa street Thursday morning, Miss Brett directed the chauffeur to drive her to Sylvan Beach. There she dismissed him and walked to the center of the bridge. A truck driver saw her leap into the water and notified county authorities.

A sister, Mrs. Katherine Haywood, resides in Chicago. A brother and another sister, a nun, also were said to live there.

COURT REMOVES SURETY ON DR. MUENCH'S BOND

Allows Five Days for Filing of New One in Appeal from $245 Judgment.

Addison R. Fuchs, a salesman, 1220 Hamilton avenue, was ordered by Circuit Judge Harry F. Russell yesterday to withdraw as surety on the $500 appeal bond of Dr. Ludwig O. Muench from a $245 judgment obtained against Dr. Muench by William H. Pfeifer, a Webster Groves process server, in Justice of the Peace Bledsoe's court Feb. 21.

J. M. Todd, attorney for Pfeifer, had filed a motion to remove Fuchs, contending his equity in property at 2619-23 Glasgow avenue was wiped out by a second mortgage, interest and taxes he did not list in qualifying on the bond. Fuchs testified he did not list those encumbrances because he understood the second mortgage was going to be taken off and the taxes had been paid.

Judge Russell gave counsel for Dr. Muench five days to file a new bond. The judgment was obtained by Pfeifer against Dr. Muench and his wife, Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, both of 4736 Westminster place, as a fee for obtaining witnesses for Mrs. Muench in her application for a change of venue from St. Louis County on the charge of kidnaping Dr. I. D. Kelley for ransom. Mrs. Muench did not appeal.

Many Roses In City Parks Killed By Severe Winter

Other Shrubs, Plants and Trees, Except European Sycamores, Escaped Serious Damage, Says Forester.

Extremely low temperatures last winter killed many rosebushes in public parks, froze others down to the ground and damaged some of the less hardy shrubs, City Forester Ludwig Baumann said yesterday. Sudden thawing and freezing also damaged European sycamores causing the wood to split.

Nearly all types of climbing roses were frozen down to the ground, if they had been left unprotected last fall, while those that were covered around the roots with a mulch, froze down to the mulch line. New sprouts, however, have appeared from the protected wood, or from the roots, and the damage is not permanent, unless the plant was entirely killed.

There was a greater percentage of loss in the hybrid teas and hybrid perpetual rosebushes, which almost without exception froze down to the ground, unless they had been mulched or heaped over with earth around the base early in the winter, Baumann said. Less hardy varieties were killed by the frost, but those which have live roots or green wood are sprouting and will recover. Most rose plants freeze back even in a winter of normal temperature.

Shrub Roses Escape.

The hardier varieties of shrub roses, like the rugosas and hugonis, showed no damage, and already have leaf buds growing from the base to the tips of the canes.

On early flowering shrubs, most of the damage was to flower buds, Baumann said. The forsythia, or Golden Bell, which came into bloom this week, has only a sparse number of flowers, compared to last spring's bloom, which loaded the branches. Flower buds on the double-flowering peach and plum and spirea thunbergi seem to have been somewhat damaged, but the Japanese quince, which follows the forsythia into bloom is covered with flower buds.

Among the hardy shrubs which withstood the unusually low temperatures, and are widely planted in this section of the country, were: Viburnums, American red bud, tamarix, althea, bridal wreath spirea, regal privet, lilacs, French and common variety; willows, flowering almond, cornus, weigelia, euonymous, hawthorne and barberry.

The common privet, planted widely for a trimmed hedge, was frozen down to the ground, but it usually suffers some winter damage. The vitex or chaste bush, the butterfly bush, and myrtle, which are native to sections with milder winters, likewise were killed to the ground, but will grow out again.

Kerria Frozen Back.

The double-flowering yellow kerria was frozen back to within a foot of the ground, while the jetbead, Chinese red bud and a few other shrubs, show some tip damage, not serious.

Of the flowering trees, Baumann said, the collection of Japanese flowering peach trees in Forest Park were not injured. Some Chinese magnolias in the park showed damage to flower buds, but the sweetbay magnolia, native to the Southern states, did not appear to be damaged in any way.

Chinese arborvitaes alone of the evergreen conifers, Baumann said, suffered bad frost damage, some being killed and others frozen back. They are native to a warmer climate. Pines, spruces, hemlocks and firs were not affected.

Of the broadleaf evergreens, or those which are classed as such in warmer regions, the holly showed some defoliation, the mahonia almost total defoliation, the abelia shrub was frozen to the ground, and laurels and pyracanthas, the Firethorn, were killed or frozen back if they had been left unprotected.

Bulbous plants showed no damage in spite of the unusual depth to which the ground was frozen. Tulips, hyacinths, snowballs, crocus, scillas and others have come up as usual and the earlier types already are in bloom.

Perennial plants, native or those which have proved hardy in this section of the country, also were not affected.

$20,588 FOR GOOD WILL FUND

Final Reports Not Made by Several Teams in $25,000 Campaign.

A total of $20,588 was pledged to the expansion fund of Goodwill Industries in a campaign which ended Friday night. Several teams did not make final reports and asked for additional time to finish their work. A goal of $25,000 had been set.

The last reports were made at a dinner for campaign workers at the headquarters of the organization, 1730 North Thirteenth street. Teams which exceeded their quotas were led by Mrs. W. G. Wichman, Mrs. John A. Flury, Mrs. C. Howard Stewart, Mrs. Julius Bergs, Mrs. Alvin Spring, and George A. Peters.

MAN WITH TWO WIVES SAYS HE WAS DRUNK

A. A. Cervantes, Insurance Salesman, Didn't Intend to Wed Again.

Augustine A. Cervantes, 52-year-old insurance agent, 4475 Lindell boulevard, admitted to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday that he was married a second time at St. Charles 10 days ago, although never divorced from his first wife. He explained, however, that he was intoxicated at the time and did not know what he was doing and that he will attempt to obtain an annulment as soon as possible.

He has been married 30 years to Mrs. Victoria I. Cervantes, 3723 Junita street, a supervisor for the Missouri Commission for the Blind, although they separated six years ago. They have six sons and daughters. The woman, a tall blonde, to whom he was married by Justice of the Peace White in a ceremony at 1:45 a. m., gave her name as Margaret Chambers Brule.

Full of remorse, Cervantes said: "I want to explain this, get back to work. I'm not sorry for myself, but for my six children.

"It was a case of a couple of good fellows out for a few drinks. It started two days before the wedding at an insurance dinner at the M. A. A. My friend met me the afternoon before the wedding, and we wound up at a saloon on Delmar at 8 o'clock. We just happened into Margie Brule there. I had known her, but hadn't seen her for six months. She was a divorcee and was assistant manager of a clothes shop on Delmar.

"I know I didn't intend to get married, because I had spent the last dime of the $20 I had started off with that afternoon. I know we drove to St. Charles, and I have a faint remembrance of falling as I got into the automobile out there. Then I passed out.

"I woke up the next morning in my room at 4475 Lindell boulevard. I began to ask what happened, and some of my friends came in and told me I had been married the night before. Then Margie Brule called me and wanted to know what I was going to do about it. I told her she got me into it, but she said I had told her the night before I was no longer married. I haven't seen her since."

Mrs. Victoria Cervantes told a Post-Dispatch reporter Thursday that because of the children, she would not seek an inquiry by the constituted authorities. She said she had never sought divorce from Cervantes because of her religion, and had refused to consent to one.

SUIT FOR RECEIVER TO MANAGE PROPERTY OF MARRIED PAIR

Wife of A. D. Bordmann Also Suing for Divorce; Joint Property Valued at $50,000.

Suit for a receiver to manage property alleged to be owned jointly by Achille D. Bordmann, 5052 Grace avenue, former meat dealer, and his wife, Mrs. Marie Bordmann, 6914A Waldemar avenue, who is suing for divorce, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Bordmann.

In her divorce suit Mrs. Bordmann also had asked that she be vested with sole title to realty at 5630 Holly Hills boulevard and 6533 Hoffmann, claiming the property was her individual estate.

However, Bordmann countered with the claim that he and his wife acquired the property mentioned in her suit as well as realty at 6625 Dewey avenue as a result of their joint efforts and savings, for which reason it is owned in common by them; further, they also acquired jointly deeds of trust and real estate bonds, which he said should likewise be placed under receivership pending adjustment of the litigation. Louis Hudson, his attorney, estimated the value of the property in controversy to be $50,000.

The receivership petition was set for trial April 9. The Bordmanns were married in 1921 and separated 11 days ago.

FUNERAL OF FRANK S. COOPER, VICTIM OF FLEEING DRIVER

Services to Be Held at 2 P. M. Tuesday Noon, 3300 State Street, East St. Louis.

Funeral services for Frank S. Cooper, 63 years old, 1426 Kansas avenue, East St. Louis, who died Friday night of a fractured skull suffered five hours earlier when struck by an automobile, will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday from Burke's Funeral Home, 3300 State street, to Mount Hope Cemetery.

Cooper, a stationary engineer at the Central Brewery, was run down at Sixteenth street and Missouri avenue by a blue sedan, the driver of which did not stop.

A son, Charles, 2214 Illinois avenue, and a married daughter, with whom Cooper resided, survive.

BAR SUES COLLECTION FIRM

East St. Louis Agency Alleged to Be Practicing Law Illegally.

The Junior Bar Association of East St. Louis filed suit in City Court Friday to enjoin the Metropolitan Collection Service, East St. Louis, from engaging in the alleged practice of law.

It was alleged that the proprietors of the firm, Lloyd Adams and Leland Boismenue, were practicing law, although neither is a licensed attorney in Illinois, by instituting and settling suits in the conduct of their collection business. Another collection company owned by a St. Louis lawyer recently was closed at the request of the bar group.

DRASTIC CUTS IN CITY RELIEF SEEM CERTAIN

ing an allowance of 12 per cent for administrative expense, is $217,360.

Average grants to families of four during March, the report states, were $28. It was estimated that the average family had other income, from odd jobs or part time employment, of $12, making a total of $40, or $13 less than the theoretical "minimum possible" budget.

That discrepancy between actual income and the theoretical "minimum possible" budget will be worse in April, because families with a known source of income, even if insufficient for their needs, will be dropped. Assuming a case load of 12,000 and average grants of $21 to a family of four, the report estimates earnings of the average family at $5 a month, or a total income of $26, less than half of the "minimum possible" budget.

The report classifies the 8500 "unemployable" cases as including 800 widows with children, 2000 aged men and women, 700 deserted women with children, 4500 cases in which the head of the household is ill or physically handicapped, and 500 set down as "miscellaneous."

300 March to City Hall; Mayor Sees Group; Pastor Speaks.

About 300 of those on the relief rolls marched to the City Hall yesterday in a demonstration protesting against inadequate relief. Mayor Dickmann received a committee from the American Workers' Union, which sponsored the demonstration, and promised to refer their demands to other officials of the city, State and Federal governments.

The committee, headed by Joe Morris, leader of the Washington County tiff miners' strike last summer, demanded special sessions of the Board of Aldermen and State Legislature to appropriate money for relief, resumption of Federal grants for direct relief, an increase of 10 per cent in WPA wages, and other steps to improve the condition of the unemployed.

While the committee was in the Mayor's office, the marchers gathered at Thirteenth and Chestnut streets to hear talk by other leaders of the American Workers' Union and the Rev. Dr. George Gibson, pastor of First Congregational Church in Webster Groves.

Pastor Urges Persistence.

Dr. Gibson encouraged them to persist in their effort. Nothing had ever been done for the great masses of people that the people did not win for themselves, he said. Recent events, he added, had given ample evidence that that some of the so-called "public servants" were in fact servants of special interests.

"I hold no ill will toward Gov. Park," Dr. Gibson said, "but I think he demonstrated in his message of yesterday that he is a helpless puppet of forces bigger than he is. And he will be the servant of that power until another, and more powerful power presents itself in the hall of State and makes itself felt."

The message to which Dr. Gibson referred was the Governor's letter to W. C. Connett, chairman of the St. Louis Relief Committee, which has asked him to call a special session of the Legislature to appropriate additional funds. In the letter the Governor challenged the accuracy of a report of the Governmental Research Institute that $4,000,000 could be appropriated without increasing taxes.

March to City Hall.

In the march which preceded the gathering in front of the City Hall, about half of those participating were Negroes. There were men and women, old people and children. The parade started at Jefferson avenue and Market street at 11 a. m., proceeding north on Jefferson to Locust, east to Twentieth street, north to Washington avenue, east to Twelfth boulevard and south to the City Hall.

Many of the marchers carried banners expressing their demands. Several carried American flags. At the head of the column three men bore a large picture by Joe Jones, St. Louis artist, depicting a gaunt mother holding an infant. The inscription was "This is what $2 a month will do."

As the parade went by members of the American Workers' Union solicited contributions from spectators, seeking a fund sufficient to send a delegation to Jefferson City next Saturday and Sunday to participate in a "right to live" conference called by unemployed groups, and to a later meeting in Washington. Others hawked copies of The Daily Worker and other radical literature.

UNIVERSITY HEAD URGES NEW TYPE OF EDUCATION

Dr. Raymond Walters of Cincinnati U. Says Social Science Experts Are Needed.

WOULD ADJUST ECONOMIC 'EVILS'

Speaks at Dinner Meeting Concluding Ninth Annual Midwest Educators' Conference.

Education, which has produced new facilities and conveniences through modern science, has failed to provide for "certain evils" which had arisen from these innovations, Dr. Raymond Walters, president of Cincinnati University, said last evening at a dinner meeting at Washington University, which concluded the ninth annual meeting of the Midwest Education Conference.

"Modern science and its practical applications have come through the university and university-trained men. It is not too much to say that, to the university we fundamentally owe our present-day facilities for transportation and communication and conveniences of every-day life.

"However, certain evils have arisen with these goods. Noise and bustle result with some of these devices, so that our lives are made less calm and less orderly, and in some instances the inventions have thrown workers out of employment, for a time, at any rate."

Economic Maladjustments.

Asserting that the problem involved economic and financial maladjustments, he illustrated the shortcomings of education in this connection by relating an incident from the history of Cincinnati. In 1833, he said, Cincinnati was paralyzed by a financial depression, and the same year was menaced by a widespread epidemic of cholera.

"That is a historical incident," he continued, "but it is likewise a symbol. Thanks to modern science we no longer have cholera; and typhoid fever, which was common there when people drank the unfiltered Ohio River water, has practically vanished. Science has conquered most of our communicable diseases, but our business knowledge has not similarly conquered financial disorders and economic depressions."

He declared the logical solution to such a problem was to apply to the economic and financial systems, to the city, state and national governments, the spirit of science which produced the "miracles" of engineering, sanitation and in medicine.

New Type of Expert Needed.

In future, he asserted, the universities must train experts in the social sciences of economics, finance, and political economy, upon which a sane and stable social order can be developed, just as they have trained experts in biology and chemistry.

Another mission of education, he continued, is to preserve human liberty. In certain nations of Europe, he said, there now exists economic pressure on religious and racial groups and the suppression of free thought and expression.

"It would be idle to say that we in America, who are offspring of European stocks and civilization, are immune from such forces. It seems to me that as a preparation to resist these forces we should practice not emotional condemnation but rather critical comparison of Fascism and Communism with the liberalism of democracy, which insists on free discussion and tolerance of others. Such a comparison will meet these issues in a sane and enduring way."

Employment of Leisure.

Education would play an important part also in providing a means of enjoying greater leisure time, he said. With an industrial civilization giving more hours to the worker for his own use, the higher educational institutions can teach the students to devote their spare time in an intellectual, reflective and aesthetic manner.

This would not mean something abstract and dull, Dr. Walters explained, but will provide for the enjoyment of literature, philosophy, science, art and music as a hobby to be pursued after the day's work is completed. By making human existence orderly, beautiful and creative, he said, education could correct the abuses of a machine age.

Dr. Walters declared that while critics of higher education often questioned whether funds raised by taxation for the support of universities were wisely spent, he thought that education offered a profitable investment for the individual student and for society. More than ever, he said, the scientific method of the American university was essential to solve the multitude of economic and industrial problems.

He expressed the opinion that a diploma did not necessarily assure the student of financial success when he left the college. "We all realize," he said, "that the financial rewards for college attendance have been over-advertised and we see the fallacy of claiming too much for collegiate training. I should say that the shallowness of the earlier emphasis on the financial rewards of going to college was revealed during the depression."

However, he declared, most students profited personally by education. The liberal culture of the college assisted them to use their leisure time wisely and in normal times business and industry tended to give a preference to holders of college degrees, he said.

told of being beaten and threatened with lynching.

Gardner Jackson, chairman of the Committee on Rural Social Planning, presided and frequently found it difficult to preserve order. In a statement given out today the committee said that "widespread mob violence" was threatened in Arkansas by opponents of the Tenant Farmers' Union.

"Reports from reliable sources," said the statement, "both union and nonunion, indicate that bands of outlaws are being formed to wipe out the union. Continual threats to stage another 'Elaine massacre (several Negroes were killed at Elaine, Ark.) are being made by the planters. This time they plan the murder of white as well as black union men."

The union, which claims more than 40,000 members in Arkansas and Alabama, has engendered particularly bitter opposition throughout the South because it enrolls Negroes and whites in the same organization.

John L. Lewis Survey.

Accompanying the committee's statement was the report of a survey of conditions in Arkansas ordered by John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers and militant leader of the new movement for industrial unions as opposed to craft unions. At Lewis' request, W. J. Sneed, an official of the International Union, made a study of the Arkansas situation.

"In no other section of America is labor more outrageously mistreated and oppressed than in certain areas of the Southern states," a statement by the United Mine Workers said, "where those who are known as sharecropper and tenant farmers suffer at the hands of their employers—the landlords and owners.

"Conditions under which these helpless and hopeless people work and live have been a disgrace for many years. Now and then some one breaks through the ring of despair and brings forth the appalling facts, but little has been done to effect any improvement.

"And when, in 1934, these oppressed people organized a union, known as the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union, as a means of effecting their own economic salvation, the landlords inaugurated a ruthless campaign of evictions and violence to workers and their families similar to that with which coal miners were forced to contend years ago in some mining fields of the country."

Sneed's report takes up in detail the conditions under which Arkansas sharecroppers and tenants live. It discusses also the plight of evicted workers who, according to the report, have been refused Government relief.

Delegates have attended the present conference from California, Colorado, Idaho, Nebraska, Montana, Ohio, Florida, New Jersey, New York, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Alabama. Jackson originally announced that the conference would be closed, due to a desire of AAA officials and others to discuss the plight of farm laborers behind closed doors. In response to numerous requests the meetings were thrown open to the public. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace opened the conference with a talk in which he held out little immediate hope for the betterment of conditions under which tenant and sharecroppers work but pointed to the Bankhead farm tenant bill, now pending before Congress, as a way out.

J. Bennett Gordon Dies.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—J. Bennett Gordon, head of the research bureau of the Republican National Committee, died here today of influenza. His body was sent to Richmond, Ind., tonight for burial. He had served with seven chairmen of the national committee, beginning with Will Hays in 1918. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jessie B. Gordon.

BILL FAVORS 'WORTHY' ALIENS

Senate Group Approves Measure to Deport Criminals.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The Senate Immigration Committee today approved a bill to permit deportation of criminal aliens, estimated at about 20,000, and authorize an inter-departmental committee to exempt "worthy aliens" who have entered the country illegally, estimated at 2800.

Advocates of the bill say those in the "worthy class" face deportation unless the legislation is enacted speedily and that the exemption is meant primarily to prevent separation of families. The bill provides for waiving deportation of aliens of good moral character if they have lived in the United States for a period of not less than 10 years—or at least one year if they have close family connections.

WANTS CITY BUDGET HELD TO 1935-6 TOTAL

Director to Present Estimates Tuesday—Departments Seek $3,000,000 Increase.

Budget Director Arthur C. Meyers is preparing to submit to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment Tuesday a city budget for the coming fiscal year, aggregating not more than the total expenditures of the closing year.

Expenditures for the present year, which closes April 14, will be about $19,395,055, and the estimates for the coming year submitted by heads of various city deparmtents amount to $22,536,056. To avoid increasing the budget over that of the current year will require cutting more than $3,000,000 from the estimates submitted by heads of departments.

Meyers said a prospective loss in property tax revenue from a reduction of approximately $21,000,000 in real estate assessments was expected to be made up by increases in revenue from liquor excises and the gasoline tax.

The Board of Estimate will call in the heads of departments to discuss the budget as submitted by the director before putting it in form to submit to the Board of Aldermen at its first session of the next fiscal year April 21.

An increase of about $969,000 has been asked for by the Department of Streets and Sewers, of which $250,000 is for traffic signals and other safety devices. The Department of Public Welfare is asking for an increase of about $600,000, mostly for hospitals and health service. Included is an item of $53,000 for health service in parochial schools comparable to that in public schools.

Executed Man's Widow Sentenced.

By the Associated Press.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 28.—Mrs. George Hall pleaded guilty of smuggling weapons into Folsom prison today, 24 hours after the husband she tried to free was hanged for murder. Mrs. Hall was accused of attempting to deliver the weapons to her husband during a farewell embrace. District Attorney Otis D. Babcock recommended dismissal of a charge of attempting to liberate a felon. She was sentenced to serve one to five years. Hall was hanged for killing a traffic officer at Yreka.

$1200 HOUSE FOR SMALL TOWN FAMILY WORKED OUT BY FHA

Officials Figure Person Earning as Low as $800 a Year Could Own His Home.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Federal Housing Administration officials said today they had devised plans for a "small town" house costing approximately $1200. The FHA also is working on plans for homes in the $2000 to $3000 price range. The studies are an effort to make homes available to low income groups.

Officials said the $1200 house would consist of bedroom, bathroom and combination living room-dining room-kitchen. Details are being withheld pending receipt of actual cost estimates from builders, but housing experts said these were expected to be around $1200.

Such a home would be most suitable for small towns, they said, where a lot might be purchased at a comparatively low price. They figured that a person earning as low as $800 a year might purchase the house through long-term amortized financing. With $250 for a down payment, they said it might be bought at monthly payments of less than $15, including insurance, taxes, loan servicing costs and other expenses.

NEW RULES FOR AIR PILOTS

Passengers Barred From Cockpit, Following Arkansas Crash.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—As a result of the crash of an airplane in January near Goodwin, Ark., in which 17 persons were killed the Department of Commerce today issued rules requiring pilots to remain at their posts except when other duties require them to leave, and that no passengers, or unauthorized persons, be admitted to the pilot's compartment.

The cause of the Arkansas accident was never discovered but it has been suggested that interference with the pilot was a possible explanation.

MINNESOTANS VOTE FOR THIRD PARTY MOVE

Farmer - Labor Convention Adopts Tentative Proposal for Organization.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 28.—The Farmer-Labor party State convention adopted a resolution today looking toward formation of a national third party for the 1936 campaign., 368½ to 250½.

The ballot was taken after several prominent State leaders argued against the resolution, but Gov. Floyd B. Olson, who yesterday opened the door for such action in his keynote speech, expressed the opinion it could do no harm.

One opponent of the resolution, Knud Wefald, Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner, urged that action be postponed another four years and expressed "the hope in 1940, if God gives Floyd B. Olson health and strength, he will be a candidate for President." Wefald's motion was ruled out of order.

Gov. Olson said he regarded the resolution as not committing the liberals to the plan of putting a third national ticket in the field this year nor authorizing the formation of such a ticket unless a second convention ratified any action a suggested exploratory conference might take.

The resolution said, in part: "Resolved, That a special committee be elected with representation from each congressional district to call conference of and to co-operate with other progressive labor, farmer and political organizations and leaders in calling a national conference to explore the possibilities of a national Farmer-Labor ticket in 1936 and in promoting state Farmer-Labor parties, a concerted campaign to elect Farmer-Labor Congressmen in the 1936 campaign, and in building a national Farmer-Labor party."

Another resolution adopted said: "We condemn, the Fascist labor-baiting tactics of William Randolph Hearst and the newspapers he controls. We extend our wholehearted sympathy to the strikers of the Wisconsin News and agree to contribute to the full extent of our ability to a fund for the strikers." A collection for the strikers was taken up on the floor.

Other planks propose a constitutional amendment limiting terms of Federal judges and justices to 10 years instead of life, as now, empowering Congress to enact a legal NRA, social security program, regulate agricultural and industrial production, and "provide Government ownership of banking and monopolistic industries, all of which could not be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States."

'WOCO PEP,' FLORIDA WORLD CHAMPION JUMPING FROG, DIES

Female Beat "Budweiser," California Pride, in Great Hop in 1924.

WAUCHULA, Fla., March 28.—A world's champion frog jumper died here today. Woco Pep, a female who put the bullfrogs to shame in July, 1924, hopped 13 feet and seven inches in the South's first frog frolic, a mark that has never been officially equaled.

The champion croaker jumped three full inches farther than the record distance at that time, bettering the mark set by "Budweiser," the pride of California, in 1932, at Angles Camp.

Since 1934 there have been several attempts to break Woco Pep's record but the Florida champion's mark has stood.

Woco Pep left behind a pen fairly quivering with little frogs, and Jack Cliett, who owned her hopes some of Woco Pep's offspring will leap to even greater fame.

SOME OPPOSITION BY DEMOCRATS TO NEW TAX LEVIES

'Two or Three of Us Keeping Fingers Crossed,' Says One; House Hearing Opens Tomorrow.

WARNING TO PARE APPROPRIATIONS

Roosevelt Writes Glass and Buchanan to Hold to Budget or Face Request For More Revenue.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Some dissatisfaction in Democratic quarters with the Administration's revenue program was expressed today, in advance of the opening of hearings Monday by the House Ways and Means Committee on the new tax proposal.

Coincidentally, it was revealed that President Roosevelt had advised Congressional leaders by letter to hold appropriations closer to budget figures or face a request for even more taxes. The warning was directed especially to the Senate, which to date has added $159,000,000 to appropriation bills passed by the House.

The letter went to Senator Glass (Dem.), Virginia, and Representative Buchanan (Dem.), Texas, chairmen, respectively, of the Senate and House appropriations committees, and copies were said to have been transmitted to Chairman Harrison (Dem.), Mississippi, of the Senate Finance Committee, and Doughton (Dem.), North Carolina, of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Dissatisfied Democrats.

Representative Lamneck (Dem.), Ohio, planned the first open Democratic attack on the tax proposals on the House floor Monday immediately after the committee, of which he is a member, starts hearings. He asserted the taxes would destroy initiative and penalize frugality.

Lamneck told reporters that, under the corporation tax proposal, the "rates are made to deceive," that they would "sock" corporations that are trying to "save their necks and build up impaired capital," and destroy the sound business principle of building up reserves which would enable a corporation to do its own banking.

His office telephone rang. After talking a few moments, he said: "That was a big corporation in Pittsburgh that earned $11,000,000 last year. They paid out $3,233,000 in dividends, put $6,000,000 into new plant equipment, and tucked the rest into surplus. Under the present system, they would pay $1,915,000 in taxes and under the new $4,732,000."

Lamneck added that he had talked with an officer of a big railroad company and was convinced the proposed tax program would mean the laying off of many railroad workers. "This road," he said, "has a policy of putting $1 in dividends and $1 to match it in improvements. Their taxes would be increased 100 per cent, and, if they continue their present policy of putting money in dividends, they will have nothing left for improvements, and, if they use the money for improvements, there will be no dividends."

Another Democratic committeeman, Representative Thompson of Illinois, said that although the tax program had been "improved vastly over original suggestions, two or three of us are keeping our fingers crossed."

Plan Expected to Go Through.

Some Republican members have been hitting at the tax plan for some time, but a majority of Democratic members and even some Republicans have asserted, however, that the plan for a new corporation tax based on amount of net income held in reserves and for a "windfall" levy on processors who avoided payment of the old AAA processing taxes would go through the committee and probably the House virtually unchanged.

These two taxes are estimated to yield $591,000,000 and $100,000,000, respectively. The committee is figuring that $83,000,000 more might be produced from temporary retention of the capital stock and excess profits taxes and $25,000,000 through taxation of dividends paid by corporations to foreign stockholders.

(President Roosevelt has suggested that $620,000,000 be raised from a tax on corporation dividends and undistributed profits and $517,000,000 over perhaps three years from the windfall tax and new excise taxes on the processing of farm commodities. The committee, however, has scuttled a processing tax, many members regarding it as a touchy subject in an election year.)

Guy T. Helvering, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, has been called as the first witness at the tax hearings. About 40 applications for permission to testify have been received. Prominent among those applying are the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the National Association of Manufacturers.

Appropriation Bills.

In addition to the tax hearings, the House plans to pass an appropriation bill for the State Commerce, Justice and Labor Departments next week. It also is scheduled to act Monday on a Senate-approved bill to increase the capital of the Commodity Credit Corporation from $3,000,000 to $97,000,000.

In seven appropriation bills passed thus far by the House, it has adhered closely to budget estimates. The Senate, however, has added $159,000,000 to the War, Interior and Agricultural Departments supply measures. An opportunity to trim the increases will come later in conference between the two houses.

SPEEDERS VIEW EXHIBITS ON SAFETY, ESCAPE FINES

Three Men Taken to St. Louis-on-Parade Exhibition, With Judge as Guide.

Three speeders, appearing yesterday in Police Court, elected to accept the invitation of Judge George Vest to view the traffic exhibits at the St. Louis-on-Parade exhibition, in the Municipal Auditorium, to escape fines of $5 and costs each.

The defendants were: Albert Wessel, 1409 Howard street, arrested March 19 on a charge of driving at a rate of 45 miles an hour on Natural Bridge avenue; Fred Litschel, 1524 South Third street, arrested March 14 on a charge of traveling 40 miles an hour on Delmar boulevard; Charles A. Eschmann, 4380 Penrose street, booked March 20 for traveling 42 miles an hour on Natural Bridge avenue.

Judge Vest accompanied the drivers to the auditorium and served as guide in the tour of exhibits sponsored by safety organizations. After viewing the exhibits, which include photographs of the results of traffic accidents, the drivers promised Judge Vest they would reduce speed in the future.

TRIPLETS TO FLOOD REFUGEE

Mother Ill From Exposure; Premature Babies Doing Well.

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., March 28.—Mrs. Iona Hughes, 21-year-old wife of a steel worker—ill from exposure suffered when flood water covered the first floor of her home in Leechburg Wednesday—gave birth prematurely to triplets last night in a New Kensington hospital, to which she had been removed after seeking refuge on the second floor of the house.

The babies, weighing two pounds and six ounces, one pound and 13 ounces and two pounds and two ounces, were placed in incubators. The attending physician said they had "an excellent chance of surviving."

GERMANY VOTING "JA" TODAY ON HITLER RHINELAND POLICY

fessed he had "hurt millions to create a new national unity," and closed his appeal with a fervent "God help us."

Every German, no matter whether he was at home, on the street or in a public place, was called on to interrupt whatever he was doing and sing, "Lord, Make Us Free," just as Hitler mounted the rostrum to deliver his final campaign speech.

The tolling bells of the famous Cologne Cathedral, with which those of all local churches chimed, heralded the beginning of the national singing of the hymn, "Dankgebet," and the opening of churches for special prayers. The hymn was translated from the Dutch in 1877 by Josef Weyl, a Jewish poet.

As with yesterday's speech at Essen, in the heart of Germany's steel producing region, a nation-wide network of loudspeakers was arranged to make Hitler's Cologne address reach the most remote corners of the country.

Operas and theaters were closed. Nazis rallied at meeting halls and public places. Torchlight processions tonight signaled the close of the campaign.

In the Rhineland, pillars were erected and flagpoles were virtually covered under tens of thousands of swastika flags.

The two great Zeppelins, the old Graf and the new Von Hindenburg, flew over the country, showering small flags on the cities. Over Berlin handbills were dumped from the Von Hindenburg. They urged the populace to support Hitler. The two ships then visited the Rhineland.

Nazi party district leaders and Government officials concluded their tours of the country with declarations: "The last German must be won to make the election returns 100 per cent."

Confers With Von Ribbentrop.

Before leaving Essen for his final address in Cologne, Hitler conferred with Joachim von Ribbentrop, his ambassador-at-large, who returned yesterday from the London negotiations concerning the Rhineland crisis.

Von Ribbentrop gave Hitler the latest information concerning the succession of London events which saw the League of Nations Council condemn Germany's treaty violation and the other Locarno Powers advance proposals for a settlement.

HITLER CLOSES HIS CAMPAIGN WITH PRAYER

COLOGNE, Germany, March 28.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler ended his national election campaign tonight with a confession and a prayer. In a speech heard directly and by radio by millions of persons who will give their unqualified approval of his policies at the polls tomorrow, Der Fuehrer said:

"I know I have hurt millions of persons but I had to do it in order to create a new national unity."

With his voice at an evangelistic pitch, he closed his speech with the fervently spoken words:

"May God Almighty bless us so we may continue our fight for freedom, honor and peace. So be it and God help us."

Earlier he recapitulated his peace desires for the nation, saying he was extending his hand to all peoples and that more security than that could not be obtained anywhere.

"No one in this world," he said, "has talked more or worked harder for peace than I, because I have seen more of war than many of my international opponents. I was a plain soldier during the last war and saw its horrors and terrors."

Newspaper's Telegrams Returned.

WICHITA, Kan., March 28.—Louis Levand, publisher of the Wichita Beacon, said today that all the newspapers' telegrams subpenaed by the Senate Lobby Committee at Washington had been returned. Levand said the telegraph companies had advised him the lobby committee released the telegrams without reading them.

WILFRED JONES FILES PLEA AGAINST OUSTER

Asks Probate Judge to Set Aside Order Removing Him as Administrator.

A motion that Probate Judge Glendy B. Arnold set aside his order of last Monday ousting Attorney Wilfred Jones as executor of the $17,727 estate of Mrs. Rosa M. Meyer was filed in Probate Court yesterday by Jones, the baby broker in the Muench hoax.

Jones, who was characterized in the removal order as "an unfit and improper person" to administer the affairs of the estate, contended that the ouster was illegal in that it was made on the Court's motion that no petition had been filed specifically asking his removal.

Judge Arnold, finding that the executor had been "guilty of wrongful waste and malfeasance," ordered him to return to the estate a total of $3328.50. This figure included fees of $727.30 already taken by Jones, which the Court declared forfeit. The order for return of the money also was made binding on the Maryland Casualty Co., which had signed Jones' official bond. In his place, William H. Meyer, 4130 Shreve avenue, husband of Rosa M. Meyer, was named administrator.

Jones was represented in the motion filed yesterday by Shepard R. Evans, to whom he has paid $700 in fees as attorney for the executor of the Meyer estate. In the order of removal Judge Arnold instructed Jones to return all but $250 of the lawyer's fee to the estate.

In a hearing prior to the entry of the ouster order, Judge Arnold said he intended to call the attention of the grand jury to evidence before him indicating that the signature of Jones had been removed from two checks purportedly covering payments from the executor to Meyer as an heir. Meyer had repudiated indorsements on the checks purporting to be his, saying he had not signed them.

After the ouster order Judge Arnold sent a letter to Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller which, it was understood, called the attention of the prosecutor to the actions of the executor of the Meyer estate. The Probate Judge declined to discuss the content of the communication. Circuit Attorney Miller said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he was considering the matter.

TOUHY WITNESSES SENTENCED

Two, Who Testified Against Gangster, Get Three Years.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 28.—Leon Epmeier and William Barry, who pleaded guilty before they testified against Tommy Touhy, gangster, in his trial for mail robbery, were sentenced in Federal District Court today to serve three years. Touhy was sentenced to serve 23 years last week for participation in the $78,000 railroad station postal robbery Jan. 3, 1935.

Epmeier must finish a three and one-half year term at McNeil Island Prison, Wash., for a Sacramento (Cal.) mail robbery before starting his new term. Barry will be returned to Sacramento for arraignment on an indictment charging participation in the Sacramento robbery.

AMBASSADOR REOPENS AS SECOND-RUN HOUSE

Action to Avoid Forfeiture of Its Lease and That of Missouri Theater.

The Ambassador Theater, Seventh and Locust streets, which closed Thursday night, was reopened last night as a second-run house, to show pictures which have been shown at the Fox, Grand boulevard house under the same management.

Harry C. Arthur Jr., president of the operating company, said the reopening was decided on to avoid forfeiture of the Ambassador and Missouri Theater leases. He said he proposed, to the directors of the landlord companies of the Ambassador and Missouri, that he continue to pay the full weekly rent, $2350, and keep the Ambassador closed until the pending suit of the Federal Government against Warner Bros., Paramount and R-K-O should be settled.

Late Friday afternoon, he said, he was notified that the directors had refused his proposal, and that a default would be declared, not only on the Ambassador, but on the Missouri Theater, unless the Ambassador were kept open. Default on the two leases would have enabled the owners to collect $105,000 deposited as a forfeit for failure to keep the downtown house open.

The suit of the Government against the three producing firms, based on their withholding of films from Fanchon & Marco, operating the Ambassador Theater, was dropped in Federal Court here Jan. 29, after a prolonged hearing and was reinstituted in New York Feb. 25. Arthur said last night that in the interest of 6000 or more holders of bonds in the theaters, the management would endeavor to keep possession of the houses until the decision of the case.

U. S. Flyer Fined in France.

STRASBOURG, France, March 28.—Henry J. White, European aviation manager for the Socony Vacuum Co., was fined 50 francs (about $3.50) and costs today in police court on a charge of flying over French fortifications. His plane, which had been held by officials, was returned to him and he took off for London after paying the fine.

Townsend Flies to Capital; Aid Named in Inquiry

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

TOWNSEND'S PROFITS AMAZE ONE OF DIRECTORS OF PLAN

Founder Assured of $100 a Week for Life, the Rev. A. J. Wright Says.

CLEVELAND, O., March 28.—The Rev. Alfred J. Wright, one of seven national directors of the Townsend old age revolving pension movement, told 40 workers late today that the disclosure of the profits of the co-founders was a surprise to their followers.

Dr. F. E. Townsend and Robert E. Clements were co-founders of the movement, from which Clements resigned this week.

He said the Townsend Weekly was owned by Clements and Townsend and valued at $500,000, and that Dr. Townsend had been assured an income of $100 a week for the rest of his life through the paper.

The national membership of the Townsend movement "had been exaggerated," the Rev. Mr. Wright said, adding that Dr. Townsend "didn't mean to lie—he just didn't know. We had this coming to us. We talked so loudly and so prematurely that we scared some Congressmen half to death. They are going to do everything they can to discredit us."

CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S SOCIETY TO SPONSOR EASTER SEAL SALE

St. Louisans Will Be Solicited, Largely Through Mails, to Buy Stickers Next Week.

The St. Louis Society for Crippled Children will participate in the third annual sale of Easter seals for the benefit of its work, under auspices of the International Society for Crippled Children. St. Louisans will be solicited, largely through the mails, to buy sheets of 100 stickers at $1 a sheet, or one cent each.

Next week, which will be the week preceding Easter, will be the period of the campaign. The border of the design of the seals, which may be affixed to letters, is of Easter lilies. The central picture shows a crippled child outside a door which is slightly ajar, with the motto, "Open Wide the Door for Crippled Children." The colors are orange and purple.

Headquarters for the sale will be at 3534 Washington boulevard. The St. Louis Society for Crippled Children is supported entirely by membership fees and voluntary subscriptions, but is a member of the Community Council and indorsed by the Charities Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Nearly all States are expected to join in the national effort to raise funds by sale of the seals. In Missouri the sponsor is the Missouri Society for Crippled Children. When the international organization started the annual movement in 1934 only eight States took part.

IMPEACHED JUDGE TO FILE REPLY IN SENATE TOMORROW

Halsted L. Ritter's Trial Set for April 6; 90 Witnesses Subpenaed.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., March 28.—Federal Judge Halsted L. Ritter left Miami for Washington today to defend himself before the United States Senate against House impeachment charges of "high crimes and misdemeanors" during his seven years on the bench.

The Senate, through Sergeant-at-Arms Chesley W. Jurney, has subpanaed 90 witnesses to appear for the prosecution and defense. Among them are Florida's Chief Justice, Fred H. Davis; two United States District Judges, Alexander Akerman and A. V. Long; two Florida Circuit Judges, Paul D. Barns and C. E. Chillingsworth; State Attorney-General Cary D. Landis and Assistant United States District Attorney Lloyd C. Hooks. The five judges were called by the prosecution.

A. L. Rankin of West Palm Beach, Judge Ritter's former law partner, from whom the impeachment articles charged the jurist received $4000 after allowing him a fee of $75,000 in the receivership of the Whitehall Hotel, Palm Beach, also was subpenaed.

Judge Ritter's answer to the House charges will be read in the Senate Monday. His trial will open April 6.

DR. ROGER PERKINS DIES AT 62

Pathologist and Bacteriologist Succumbs at Providence, R. I.

By the Associated Press.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 28.—Dr. Roger Perkins, 62 years old, pathologist and bacteriologist and Professor Emeritus of Western Reserve University, died today after a long illness.

He had made his home at South Kingstown, R. I., since moving in 1930 from Cleveland, O., where he had served on the faculty of Western Reserve Medical School since 1901. He had served as city bacteriologist in 1906, 1907, 1913 and 1914, and from 1914 until 1923 he was chief of the Bureau of Labor, Division of Health. He was named a trustee of the Brush Foundation in Cleveland in 1931. During the World War Dr. Perkins served as a member of the American Red Cross commission to Rumania, as Medical Associate to the Scientific Attache in the American Embassy in Paris and, in 1919, as Director of the Sanitation Division of the American Red Cross Commission to the Balkan States.

Built to give you years of good service at low cost

THE ASSURANCE we offer you is not in words only—it is built into the very substance of the Ford V-8 itself. The Ford name is your certificate of quality and the car is its proof. It will serve you faithfully, economically and well for many thousands of miles.

Ford policy builds soundly and substantially, in the interest of the public. There are no experiments. Improvements are made on the firm foundation of experience. Everything new must prove its genuine value and lasting benefit before it is put into production.

A consistent plan controls all Ford manufacturing. There is no confusion in design or contradiction in practice. Certain proved principles are carried out in the Ford, the Lincoln, and the Lincoln-Zephyr. These three cars differ in price and purpose, but they are alike in important fundamentals. All have a full torque-tube drive . . . safe, sure mechanical brakes actuated by solid-steel brake rods . . . double-acting shock absorbers . . . steel wheels . . . and Safety Glass throughout at no additional cost. All have the V-type engine.

By concentrating on this one type of engine, the Ford Motor Company has brought it to a new peak of efficiency. And created new, higher standards of motor car value.

"V-type" is the distinguishing mark of the world's finest power plants—on land, on water and in the air.

Precision Manufacture

Ford, Lincoln and Lincoln-Zephyr motor cars are made to unusually close precision limits and all to the same standards of mechanical accuracy. Inspection and production gages are checked constantly by Johansson Gage Blocks, recognized as the world's standard of measurement.

VERA STRETZ TO TAKE STAND AGAIN MONDAY

Murder Defendant to Continue Story of Relations With Employer She Killed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28. — Vera Stretz, 32-year-old secretary on trial for the killing of her employer, Dr. Fritz Gebhardt, wealthy German importer, will return to the witness stand Monday to continue her testimony and undergo cross-examination by State's attorneys. The trial was in recess today.

Her attorney, Samuel Leibowitz, declined to disclose what other witnesses he would summon to support his client's implied contention that she killed Gebhardt in his apartment Nov. 12 to ward off a "brutal assault."

Miss Stretz has before her at least another day of direct testimony but after Monday she will be subject to cross-examination by the prosecution.

Leibowitz has developed one angle that appeared significant to courtroom listeners: That the pistol with which Gebhardt was killed had been taken by him from Miss Stretz sometime before.

In her testimony yesterday, Miss Stretz chokingly told some of the story of her clandestine relationship with Gebhardt, a married man.

Leibowitz has intimated that more of the love letters that passed between the two would be read into the record Monday.

Between fits of sobbing, the witness told of meeting Gebhardt on a tropical cruise. He plied her with attentions and gifts when she returned to New York, she said, and persuaded her to become his secretary at $10 a week. She surrendered to his advances in a country inn on a trip in the spring of 1935, she testified, because she loved him "very, very dearly."

She admitted she had killed Gebhardt, but so far her testimony has gone only far enough to indicate a self-defense plea. The prosecution in its evidence offered no motive for the killing.

REPORTS LEADERS FAVOR MRS. BROWN FOR COMMITTEE

Joseph Lennon Says in Kansas City Majority of Party Groups Support Candidacy.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, March 28.—Joseph A. Lennon, St. Louis attorney, said here today a substantial majority of members of St. Louis Democratic groups favored Mrs. Nat Brown for Democratic National Committeewoman from Missouri.

Lennon, who was in Kansas City in behalf of Mrs. Brown's candidacy, declared the majority of members of the St. Louis city and county Democratic committees and the Board of Aldermen were supporting Mrs. Brown, whose home is in St. Louis.

Mrs. Lawrence McDaniel, wife of the former Circuit Attorney of St. Louis, also is a candidate for the post of committeewoman now held by Mrs. Charles B. Faris, St. Louis, who has announced she would not be a candidate again.

Group Would Restrain Collections for Horner Campaign.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 28.—The Civil Service Employes' Protective Association filed an injunction suit in Circuit Court today to restrain five State officials from collecting assessments from two groups of civil service employes to help finance Gov. Horner's campaign.

The association, claiming 2700 of the State's 5000 civil service employes as members, asked that the officials be restrained from collecting assessments in the Department of Agriculture and the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane. The officials made defendants were A. L. Bowen, director, Department of Public Welfare; Dr. Edward F. Dombroski, managing officer, Chicago State Hospital at Dunning; Walter W. McLaughlin, director State Department of Agriculture; Axel C. Ahlman, acting chief grain inspector, Chicago, and John Burke, supervisor of grain samplers.

19th Worker on Bridge Loses Life.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—Paul Shelton, 26 years old, fell 150 feet to his death from an approach span of the San Francisco Bay Bridge today. Bridge officials said Shelton, who came from Russellville, Ky., was operating a moving air rotor and apparently lost his balance. His widow survives. He was the nineteenth employe on the bridge to lose his life.

WOULD RAISE LEVEES OF EAST ST. LOUIS

Army Engineer Chief Reports to Senate Great Flood Would Cause Catastrophe.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Major-General Edward M. Markham, chief of Army Engineers, urged today the expenditure of $1,580,000 to raise the East St. Louis (Ill.) Mississippi River levees to prevent a possible "catastrophe of national importance."

In a report filed with the Senate Commerce Committee, Markham said: "Under existing conditions the city would be subject to inundation from a great flood, which would be a catastrophe of national importance as East St. Louis is the gateway for all railroads (from the East) leading to St. Louis."

In addition to its importance as a railroad center, Markham said, the area for which the improved flood protection is proposed is highly developed industrially and provides employment to some 80,000 persons living within the district. The population of the area is about 140,000 and the assessed value of the property within the boundaries of the East St. Louis levee and drainage district $92,000,000.

The maximum flood of record occurred in 1844, the report stated. Since then, it continued, the construction of bridges and waterfront development have "constricted the natural flood channel to a dangerous degree."

"A flood of equal magnitude," the report said, "would now inundate this entire area and the providing of ample protective works appears to be a virtual necessity."

Almost all the cost of the project would be for construction since virtually all the work would be on existing levees. About 31 miles of levees would be raised and enlarged.

The project is expected to be included in a bill to be reported to the Senate next week.

MAN KILLS WIFE, SON, SELF

Shootings at Greenville, S. C., After Woman Leaves Home.

GREENVILLE, S. C., March 28.—Dewey T. Blackwell, 30-year-old textile worker, his wife and their 6-year-old son were found shot to death late today in the home of Mrs. L. E. Sanders, sister of Mrs. Blackwell.

After an investigation, police said Blackwell had killed his wife and son and committed suicide. Mrs. Blackwell, they said, had left him after a quarrel and gone to stay with Mrs. Sanders.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF POISONING SECOND DAUGHTER IN TEXAS

Investigators Unable to Find Motive; One Trial Set for April 13.

By the Associated Press.

GREENVILLE, Tex., March 28.—A second charge of murder, accusing Mrs. Velma Patterson of poisoning her 12-year-old daughter, Dorothy, was filed today. Last week Mrs. Patterson was charged with poisoning another daughter, Billie Fae, 11, who died in January. The second child died last month. Poison was found in the viscera of both.

Intestinal influenza was given as the cause at the time the girls died, but Hunt County investigators exhumed the two bodies for chemical examination.

The girls were Mrs. Patterson's children by her first husband, Dester McCasland, whom she divorced while he was in prison for a liquor law violation. Her second husband, Bill Patterson, died at their Commerce (Tex.) home last September.

Mrs. Patterson's trial on the first murder charge is set for April 13. Authorities said they have been unable to determine a motive for poisoning the children. Mrs. Patterson, 34, denies she poisoned them. She is held without bond.

5,000 See Novel Contest 'The Lady and Her Dog'

Miss Marcella Daly, in German Costume, Winner—All-Breed Bench Show to Close Tonight.

"The Lady and Her Dog," novelty competition at the twenty-fourth annual all-breed show of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club at the Arena last night, was won by Miss Marcella Daly, 6278 Marmaduke avenue, in native German costume and leading her dachshund, Otto Schmalzgeschicht.

The feature, never before presented here, was witnessed by 5000 spectators, on whose applause awards were based. Second place was won by Miss Mary Lou Bollinger, 446 East Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves, with a Scottish terrier, Lady Kilbourne o' Sy-Paw, and third by Miss Virginia Kurrus, 5527 Emerson avenue, as a Chinese princess, leading her Chow Chow, Shon Ping's Wau Kee Boy.

Judging of 12 breeds was completed yesterday and last night, with St. Louis exhibitors faring little better than they had in the Friday competition when out-of-town exhibitors won 15 out of 23 firsts.

St. Louisans showing prize-winning dogs yesterday included Samuel C. Davis Jr., whose Quack of Audlon was judged best male golden retriever and best of the breed in the show; Mrs. Lloyd O'Dell, who exhibited Penny, winner of the female class of the Chihuahua breed, and Miss Lulu A. Hoover. Miss Hoover's toy Manchester Terriers, King Edward and Princess Pat, were rated best in their respective classes, with King Edward selected as best of breed.

In last night's judging, Captivating Some Boy, Boston terrier exhibited by Harry Charles Holtz, 2250 Nebraska avenue, was declared the best male. Tunney's Roxanne, owned by Fred W. Goebel, Chicago, was the best female and the best of the breed.

Other divisions judged yesterday and last night and the winners:

Sealyham terriers: Best of breed and best male, Hollybourne Simon, owned by Brushwood Kenneis, Westport, Conn.; best female, Marguil Mischief, exhibited by Mrs. Guilford H. Priesmeyer, 2111 Princeton place, Richmond Heights.

Irish setters: Best of breed, Champion Ruxton's Mollie O'Day, owned by Jack A. Spear, Tipton, Ia.; best male, Tim Buck Too, shown by William B. and Helen M. Borden, Columbus, O.; best female, Dell's Lady Luck, owned by H. H. Dell, Marion, Ill.

Smooth fox terriers; best of breed, Spot, exhibited by Geraldine Alexander of University City; wire fox terriers, winner of female class and best of breed, North Hills Claudette, owned by Mrs. W. D. Wilkerson of Ferguson, male winner, Stocksmoor Superior, owned by James T. Boyle of Chicago.

English setters, best of breed and best female, Carrie On, owned by Dr. L. H. Prewitt, Ottumwa, Ia.; best male, Wonderful of Wapello, exhibited by Dr. A. B. Copeman, also of Ottumwa. Gordon setters, winning female and best of breed, Mitzi of La Barque, owned by Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Garner of Eureka, Mo.

Doberman pinschers: best of breed, Jockel v. Burgund, Owen A. West of Lake Forrest, Ill.; best male, Fels v. Lindenhof, owned by Raymond Peacock of Chicago; best female, Ochsner's Nola, shown by Dr. Doughlas Coupland of Ottowa, Ontario.

Collies, best of breed, Champion Anahassitt Blue Sox, owned by Miss Katherine H. Edwards of Donerail, Ky.; best male, Pleasant Flashing Arc, owned by Alan L. Mitchell of Chicago; best female, Lanao Lady MacBeth, owned by Lance G. Smith of Desplaines, Ill.

English Springer Spaniels: Best of breed, champion Dinah's Gunner, owned by Dwane Dowd of Kansas City, Mo., best male, Tommy of Blackhawk, shown by A. B. Kuhl of Davenport, Ia., best female Romadon Chocolate, shown by Dr. H. Earl Barlow, Detroit, Mich.

The show will close tonight with selection of the best dog in each of six groups and the best dog in the show. Final judging will begin at 8 p. m. Other classes were to be judged last night and today.

American Stabbed in Cuba Dies.

MATAHAMBRE, Cuba, March 28.—George J. Schnell, American Copper Mine superintendent who was stabbed by a mine workman March 14, died today. The workman had been discharged. Schnell was a former resident of Colorado Springs, Colo. The body will be sent there for burial.

OHIO AT FLOOD STAGE, PITTSBURGH TO CAIRO

Falling Above Cincinnati, Rising Below—More Lowland Under Water.

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., March 28.—The Ohio River, receding from above flood stage levels in the upper valley, rose below Cincinnati tonight and inundated additional thousands of acres of lowland in Kentucky and Indiana.

In Western Kentucky, the Kentucky River and other lower valley tributaries were out of their banks and reports from Louisville said additional rains might cause a major flood. The Ohio was at or above flood stage from Pittsburgh to Cairo, Ill., 981 miles.

Meteorologist W. C. Devereaux said only light and scattered showers were in prospect.

The river reached a crest of 60.6 here, eight above flood stage. It was stationary tonight at slightly more than 60 feet.

At Chattanooga, Tenn., the Tennessee River, still rising steadily, spread over low-lying sections, washed out the foundations of more than 125 deserted homes and filled basements of industrial plants. Sixty-five families were moved to higher ground, and two factories were forced to close, throwing 600 men out of work.

The Tennessee was five above flood stage at Chattanooga.

In Southern Illinois, near the confluence of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, many lowland dwellers moved to high ground for safety. At Golconda Front street was under water and more than a dozen families left their homes.

"I DON'T REMEMBER," WOMAN SAYS IN POISON MURDER TRIAL

Attorneys for Floyd Horton at Bedford, Ia., Fail to Get Admissions From Mrs. Johnston.

By the Associated Press.

BEDFORD, Ia., March 28.—Attorneys for Floyd Horton, on trial for the poison death of his wife, Elta, failed today to get an admission from his confessed paramour, Mrs. Anna Johnston, that she killed Mrs. Horton. Although Mrs. Johnston pleaded guilty to a murder charge in connection with Mrs. Horton's death, she replied, "I don't remember," or gave flat denials when Horton's counsel cross-examined her.

Attorneys gave little attention to Horton's love affair with Mrs. Johnston, but hammered at her testimony that she bought poison, used some of it to kill rats and left the rest in her home where Horton obtained it.

The State charges Horton took poison from Mrs. Johnston's home and substituted it for medicine in capsules Mrs. Johnston prepared for her admirer's wife to treat a cold.

Illinois Prohibition Nominees.

By the Associated Press.

DECATUR, Ill., March 28.—Harmon W. Reed, retired Chicago businessman, was unanimously chosen candidate for Governor at the state convention of the Illinois Prohibition party today. Mrs. Adah Mae Hagler of Albion was nominated for the United States Senate. The party hopes to get on the ballot in the November election by obtaining 25,000 signatures to petitions.

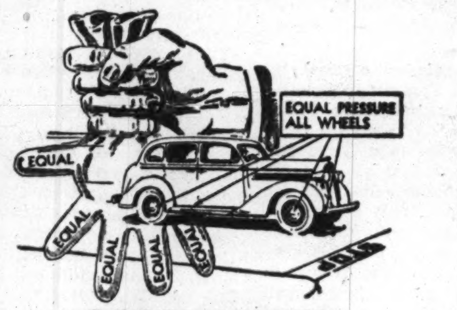
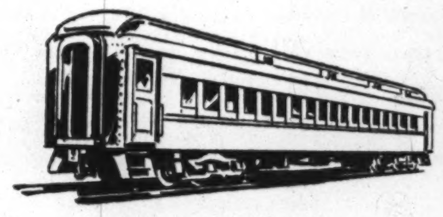
MISSOURI FURNITURE AUCTION
2009-19 Delmar Blvd.
CE. 3872 GA. 6228

IT'S THE ONLY ONE OF "ALL THREE"
WITH ALL THESE ECONOMY FEATURES



HYDRAULIC BRAKES
The safest brakes made...self-equalizing...always equalized...sure, quick, even-acting.

DOUBLE-ACTION BRAKES
Plymouth's 100% Hydraulic brakes do not depend upon jerky, "wrapping" action of the wheels (as in left-hand picture)...but exert equal braking pressure through each brake shoe of each wheel (see right, above). Smooth, sure stops!



SAFETY-STEEL BODY
Plymouth's body is Safety-Steel like a modern railroad coach. And the beautiful body is bolted horizontally and vertically to car frame...in a unit of tremendous strength. It's the safest construction...and also the quietest.

PATENTED FLOATING POWER

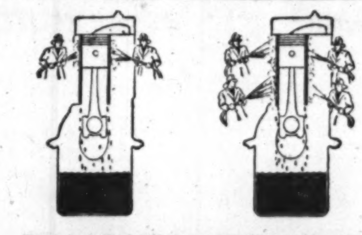
FOUR MAIN BEARINGS
Instead of having the usual three main crankshaft bearings, Plymouth has four. Thus, every Plymouth piston stroke has the support of two big bearings...for smoother operation, longer life. (Like driving a nail in a board solidly supported, or in a board that's not supported.)



FULL-LENGTH WATER JACKET
Plymouth's engine cylinders have full-length water jackets...water all around each cylinder...instead of the usual half-length jackets. Obviously this means better cooling...and it is one important reason for Plymouth's sensational performance, economy and long life.

DIRECTIONAL WATER CIRCULATION
In the picture above, the girls farthest from the fan aren't getting much benefit of the cooling breeze...illustrating the old-type engine cooling system. Now compare the picture at the right...which illustrates how Plymouth's directional circulation forces cool water at high velocity to all exhaust valve assemblies (which are among the hottest spots in an engine). This improved circulation, combined with full-length water jackets, lowers temperature of crankcase oil as much as 50 degrees—which tremendously improves lubricating efficiency, and also cuts down oil consumption. Naturally, Plymouth owners report phenomenally low oil consumption...and their records also show 18 to 24 miles per gallon of gasoline! And calibrated ignition...another great engineering achievement...is largely responsible for this amazing gas mileage. Plymouth's great six-cylinder engine gets full power from every drop of fuel.

Plymouth is Priced with the Lowest...but it's packed with EXTRA-VALUE FEATURES!

Don't take our Word for it...Compare Value...
Drive "All Three" Low-priced Cars...then Decide!

USE THAT LIST of features when you compare "All Three"! You'll find Plymouth is priced within $10 to $15 of the Other Two (actual list prices, four-door sedans, F.O.B. main factory)...and for that small difference Plymouth gives you all this extra value...extra economy...extra safety.

But that's only part of the story. Get out on the road and drive "All Three." Find out for yourself how much more room Plymouth has. How easily it handles, with no road shock in steering. See how smoothly it takes rough roads—the back seat as comfortable as the front! Watch your gas—and see why Plymouth owners report 18 to 24 miles per gallon!

See how swiftly, smoothly and straight ahead you stop with Plymouth's 100% Hydraulic brakes!—and remember that Plymouth is the only one of "All Three" that gives you 100% Hydraulic brakes and Safety-Steel body...it's the world's safest car in the low-price field today!

Be fair to yourself...don't buy blindfolded! Look at "All Three." Then decide!

Don't buy any car until you drive this beautiful, new Plymouth and compare it...on features and price...with the others! Telephone or call on any Chrysler, Dodge or De Soto dealer.

"IT'S MORE VALUE FOR about the same money," says ship's Chief Engineer Beattie. "And Plymouth's more advanced. Simpler engineering and many long-life features make it the most economical of 'All Three.' Greater economy and safety sold me a big, new Plymouth."

Fred Allen Enlists Stars for Wednesday.

FRED ALLEN says that on his Town Hall Tonight program on KSD Wednesday evening he will present a number of noted entertainers, including Phil Baker, Col Stoopnagle, Irene Rich and Fred and Tom Waring, in some real foolery. Listeners, he says, will hear them as if they were suddenly deprived of their special talents and forced to appear as amateurs.

Edwin C. Hill's Human Side of the News comment will be carried by KSD hereafter at 6:15 p. m. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, beginning this week. Howard Petrie, wno recently won the second annual BBDO award for good announcing, will be Hill's announcer.

Albert Spalding, the violinist: Ned Sparks and Binnie Barnes, the screen actors, will appear with Bing Crosby and Bob Burns Thursday night on KSD.

Lionel Barrymore will read Lowell's poem, "The Relief of Lucknow," and Tumminia, the young San Francisco soprano, will sing for the third time, on Sigmund Romberg's KSD program tomorrow night.

A special version of Victor Herbert's "Eileen" will occupy the second half of the Show Boat period Thursday night, with Lanny Ross, Winifred Cecil and Walter Cassell singing the leading roles.

Phillips Lord's guest on the Leo Reisman period Tuesday night will be Capt. Charles Patrick Kelly, who narrowly escaped death as a spy at the hands of men in his own regiment on the Italian front during the World War.

Mabel Taliaferro, the Broadway actress; Earl Oxford, the juvenile stage and musical comedy star, and Pat Reddington, tenor, are billed for Ted Hammerstein's Music Hall on KSD tomorrow evening.

Tonight, the Album of Familiar Music, featuring Frank Munn, the tenor; Lucy Monroe, the soprano, and Gus Haenschen's orchestra, will conclude its fifth year on the air.

Marion Talley On KSD Friday.

MARION TALLEY, who rose to membership in the Metropolitan Opera while still in her 'teens and now is working on a movie, will begin her concerts on KSD at 9:30 next Friday night. She will sing familiar operatic arias and concert and light opera songs. It was 10 years ago when she rose meteorically to Metropolitan Opera stardom and concert fame. Her retirement, three years later, to purchase a Kansas farm and settle down to domestic tranquility was as unusual. Two years ago, Miss Talley returned to public life to resume her concert career. The now slender, 107-pound singer, was recently called to Hollywood to be starred in a musical movie written for her by Victor Searchinger. Miss Talley's weekly radio program will be broadcast from NBC's Hollywood studios. She will be accompanied by a concert orchestra directed by Josef Koestner.

Brian Aherne, Dorothy Thompson, Frank Fay and Eddie Green, the Negro comedian, will be on Rudy Vallee's program on KSD Thursday night. Aherne will play the lead in the first performance of "The Londonderry Air," a one-act play by Rachel Field. Miss Thompson, who is the wife of Sinclair Lewis and prominent as a writer and lecturer in her own right, will be interviewed by Vallee on the European outlook.

A concert of native music will be sung by the Trinidad Singers at 6:45 p. m. Friday on KSD. They won the Trinidad Island song carnival, a two-week festival.

Morton Downey, the tenor, will be back on the CBS net at 9:30 p. m. Wednesday after a week's absence from the air.

• • •

Gene Arnold and the Ranch Boys trio are scheduled on KSD at 11 a. m. Monday through Friday.

HERE AND THERE ON THE AIR-----BY J.L.S.

Smith Ballew Replaces Al Jolson on KSD Saturday.

SMITH BALLEW will take over KSD's Chateau program as master of ceremonies next Saturday night, replacing Al Jolson, who has begun his vacation from radio. Victor Young will continue to lead the orchestra. Ballew organized his first orchestra in his home town, Sherman, Tex. He worked his way through the University of Texas with music, and finally landed in Chicago, playing with Ben Pollock's orchestra and then with Ted Fio-Rito's band. Going to New York, he joined George Olsen's orchestra. His singing voice was "discovered" by NBC program executives, and he sang with Young's orchestra, then organized his own band.

Zimbalist Plays, Noted Actors Appear On Same Program.

EFREM ZIMBALIST, the violinist; the London Singers, a group from England, and Ina Claire, Brian Aherne, Osgood Perkins, Charles Coburn and other actors of note in the screen scene from Sheridan's "School for Scandal," are billed for the hour-long program at 1 o'clock this afternoon on KWK.

Cliff Edwards, the ukulele playing comedian, will be Eddie Cantor's guest this evening.

Bette Davis will play the lead in a Radio Theater performance of "Bought and Paid For" tomorrow night. Featured with her will be Louis Calhern, who was starred in "A Woman Disputed" and "Brief Moment."

William Powell, Myrna Loy, Frank Morgan and Luise Rainer will be the players in the Hollywood Hotel period Friday night.

The Renfrew of the Mounted serial will go on a four-day schedule this week at 5:45 Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays, on the CBS net and KMOX.

Gertrude Niesen And Bert Lahr Billed on Saturday.

GERTRUDE NIESEN, the radio singer who became a favorite with St. Louis Municipal Opera audiences last season; Bert Lahr, the comedian; the King's Men quartet and Freddie Rich's orchestra will be featured in a single broadcast at 1 p. m. next Saturday on the CBS net and KMOX. It will be Miss Niesen's first 1936 broadcast, as she has given most of her time to her starring roles in the Ziegfeld Follies.

Jack Hylton has received his permit to stay in this country, so all is set for shifting his Continental Revue to the WJZ net and KWK at 8 p. m. next Sunday. Menuhin Plays Tonight for Last Time in 2 Years

Violinist to Go Into Retirement After Radio Concert at 9 O'Clock — Philadelphia Orchestra at 7:15 Saturday.

YEHUDI MENUHIN, the violinist, is scheduled for tonight's Erno Rapee symphony concert for his last public appearance before going into retirement for two years. According to a statement by his parents, the 19-year-old violinist will retire with his family to their ranch in the Santa Cruz Mountains near San Francisco, then, after two years, will come out of seclusion to resume his concert career.

Lucrezia Bori's farewell appearance on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House, in a special gala performance, will be broadcast at 9:30 tonight on the WJZ network. She will sing in a scene from an opera with which her name has been pre-eminently identified. Massenet's "Manon Lescaut," Richard Crooks and Leon Rothier will sing with her, and Louis Hasselman will conduct. The broadcast also will cover a presentation to Mme. Bori and short talks by prominent supporters of opera. Mme. Bori's real name is Lucrezia Borgia. She was born in Valencia, Spain, in 1889, made her operatic debut in Rome at the age of 18 years, sang with the Metropolitan Opera Company when it gave opera in Paris in 1910, and made her debut at the "Met" in 1912 in "Manon Lescaut."

Toscanini will conduct the New York Philharmonic concert this afternoon, instead of Hans Lange, it is announced. The soloist will be Nathan Milstein, the violinist, who will play the Mendelssohn E-Minor concerto.

Part of the regular concert by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra will be broadcast from Philadelphia over the WJZ network from 7:15 to 8 o'clock next Saturday night. This broadcast presumably will replace the one scheduled for the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Leopold Stokowski, who will take the orchestra on a country-wide tour, including a concert May 9 in the Auditorium in St. Louis, will speak briefly at the beginning of the broadcast. Then he will make way for Charles O'Connell, his assistant conductor, who will lead the orchestra.

Walter Damrosch will conduct two special radio concerts this week, the first at 9 p. m. tomorrow on the WJZ net from Madison Square Garden, New York, where he will be the guest at a meeting of music educators when more than 4000 school children will demonstrate their musical attainments. The second will be a post-season Music Appreciation Hour on KSD at the usual hour, from 10 to 11 o'clock next Friday morning. This concert will bring the premiere of Dr. Damrosch's recently completed "Abraham Lincoln Song," a setting of Walt Whitman's poem, "Captain, My Captain."

At 11:30 a. m. Saturday and at the same time on three successive Saturdays, Samuel Thewman will give music appreciation programs on the WEAF network based on great composers. Thewman, born in Vienna in 1872, knew intimately Bruckner, Mahler, Fuchs, Goldmark, Brahms and other famous musicians. He was especially closely associated with Brahms, of whose life and music he will speak next Saturday, with illustrative music.

The week's schedule of radio concerts follows:

Today—9:35 a. m. on KMOX, Alexander Semmler's Beethoven recital; 11:30 a. m. on KWK, Radio City concert, premiere of Tschaikowsky's Trio in A minor arranged for the first time for symphony orchestra; 2 p. m. on KMOX, New York Philharmonic orchestra and Nathan Milstein, violinist; Toscanini, conductor; Mendelssohn Concerto in E-Minor, overture to Schumann's "Manfred," Sibelius' "En Saga" and Ravel's "Daphnis and Chloe."

2:45 p. m. on KWK, Henri Deering, pianist; 3:30 p. m. on WEAF net, Brahms' "Requiem," sung by the choir of St. Thomas Church, New York; 6:30 p. m. on KSD, Fireside Recital; Sigurd Nillsen, basso, and Willie Morris, soprano; 7:30 p. m. on CBS net, Harvard Glee Club and Radcliffe Choral Society; 8 p. m. on KMOX, Nelson Eddy, baritone, and Victor Kolar's symphony orchestra; Moussorgsky's "Song of the Flea" and other songs, and orchestral music by Wolf-Ferrari, Wagner and Sullivan; 9 p. m. on WMAQ, WSM, WHO and WEAF, Mehudi Menuhin, violinist, and symphony orchestra led by Erno Rapee; the Adagio from Mozart's Third Concerto, Novacek's "Peepetuum Mobile," the Pugnani-Kreisler "Praeludium and Allegro," Kreisler's "Schoen Rosmarin" and the Brahms-Joachim "Hungarian Dance," and orchestra music by De Falla, Strauss and Wagner; 10 p. m. on WEAF net, Giovanni Martinelli, of the Metropolitan Opera, and Conrad Mayo, a Western baritone, on the Melody Master program.

Tomorrow—7:30 p. m. on KSD, Richard Crooks, of the Metropolitan Opera, singing an aria from "Rigoletto" and songs, and Margaret Speaks, soprano; 9 p. m. on WJZ net, concert from Madison Square Garden, New York, Walter Damrosch conducting.

Tuesday—12:45 noon on WJZ net, children's concert by Rochester Civic orchestra; 1:30 p. m. Monday, KMOX, American School of the Air concert in Carnegie Hall, New York, 2 p. m., on CBS net, Howard Barlow's Understanding Opera concert; 2:30 p. m. on CBS net, Library of Congress Musicale; 3:45 p. m. on WJZ net, string orchestra; 5:35 p. m. on CBS net, Alexander Cores, Russian violinist; 7 p. m. on CBS net, Navy Band; 8 p. m. on WGN (720 kc.), Attilio Baggiore, tenor, and orchestra; 9:30 p. m. on WJZ net, concert orchestra.

Wednesday—2 p. m. on KWK, Rochester Civic orchestra; 3 p. m. on CBS net, Curtis Symphony concert; 6:15 p. m. on WJZ net, concert orchestra; 7:30 p. m. on KWK, NBC Concert orchestra; 8 p. m. on KMOX, Rosa Ponselle of the Metropolitan Opera; 9 p. m. on KWK, John Charles Thomas, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera; 9:30 p. m. on WLW (700), grand opera in miniature.

Thursday—2:15 p. m. on KWK, Rochester Philharmonic orchestra; 4:15 p. m. on WJZ net concert from Lisbon, Portugal; 6:45 on KSD, Pastorale Concert; 7 p. m. on KWK, Pittsburgh Symphony orchestra; 7:30 p. m. on KWK, concert; 10:35 p. m. on WEAF net (11 o'clock on KSD), Minneapolis Symphony orchestra.

Friday—10 a. m. on KSD, special Walter Damrosch Music Appreciation hour; 9 p. m. on WJZ net, Cleveland Symphony orchestra.

Saturday — 10 a. m. on KMOX, children's concert; 11:30 a. m. on WEAF net, reminiscences of Brahms and excerpts from his music; 7:15 p. m. on WJZ net (listed by KWK), Philadelphia Symphony orchestra; 8 p. m., Nino Martini of the Metropolitan Opera, arias and songs; 8:30 on WGN (720 kc.), symphony orchestra.

Beethoven's Seventh Symphony is programmed by Toscanini for next Sunday's New York Philharmonic concert. Helen Jepson, the radio singer who now is a member of the Metropolitan Opera Co., will be the soloist with Victor Kolar's orchestra next Sunday night. A broadcast from Russia at 8:30 a. m. next Sunday on the CBS net will bring music from Shostakovitch's opera, "Lady Macbeth of Mtensk."

New Zenith Auto Radio Sets Introduced Here.

Five new Zenith automobile radio sets, ranging from five to seven-tube styles, are being introduced by the Electric Lamp & Supply Co., distributor. All of them feature special safety features, including large black dial, illuminated pointer, true vision turntable turning, soft glow lighting of the dial figures from behind. When the "on-an-off" control is pressed the light goes on only when tuning. A turn of a ring, and the light stays on while the set is working.

No spark suppressors are required. Speakers may be had in headboard, ceiling or firewall" types, and twin speakers for the six and seven-tube sets. Metaglass tubes are used, for the first time, it is said, in an auto set.

Automatic volume control, of course, is standard. So are Zenith triple filtering and rubber cushioning of chassis and tuning condensers. Mounting is "one bolt."

In the largest of the new sets, ten-tube performance is obtained from seven tubes.

Graybar Co. to Distribute Stromberg-Carlson Sets.

The Graybar Electric Co. has been appointed distributor of Stromberg-Carlson radio sets in the St. Louis territory. "Open house" will be held by the company from 1 to 9 o'clock next Thursday, April 2, when the new Stromberg-Carlson sets will be shown to dealers, on the second floor of the Mart Building.

Plymouth to Start "Visual Sales Clinic" Here, Open to Anyone

As part of a nation-wide program of the Plymouth division of Chrysler Corporation, a new kind of instruction will soon be offered in St. Louis, according to J. R. Lakin, special Plymouth representative.

The Plymouth program is one of selecting applicants for retail sales work and giving them what is said to be the most comprehensive course in training yet developed. For the convenience of persons now otherwise employed, the classes are held in the evening.

The first test of this plan was recently conducted in Detroit and resulted in the training and employment of more than 300 men who had no previous experience in this field, Lakin said.

The course is called the "Visual Sales Clinic" as instruction is by means of slide film with sound. The 20 films in the course represent more than six months of preparation and thousands of dollars investment by the Plymouth factory.

Headquarters for administration of the training and interviewing of applicants have been established by Lakin at the Coronado Hotel. Paul A. Jerrue, regional manager for the Dodge Division, Ross Williams, regional manager for the De Soto Division and Ben Helm, regional manager for the Chrysler Sales Division of Chrysler Corporation, are also taking part in this program.

Buick to Recognize Ability of Dealers' Salesmen in Special Way

One thousand crack salesmen of the nationwide Buick retail organization soon will receive special recognition, according to an announcement by W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager of the Buick Motor Co.

This special recognition, Hufstader said, will be a three months membership in the Buick Salesmasters' Club, a newly created merit organization which will take the place of the Buick "Thousand Point" club. In addition, special awards will be made to the winning salesmen in each Buick zone.

Any new or used car salesman working for a Buick dealer is eligible for membership in the Salesmaster's Club, and each club member must hold his sales position in his zone during each quarter to retain his membership. Standings of salesmen and resultant changes in membership in the club will be announced at the end of each quarter. The first enrollment, consisting of the names of men leading their zones during the first three months of 1936 will be announced early in April.

Each Buick zone will have a chapter of the club with officers named on the basis of individual sales performance during the preceding quarter. To the champion salesman in each zone goes the office of chapter president with a tenure of three months or longer providing his first sales position is maintained.

Salesmaster lapel pins will be worn by each member of the club, subject to surrender at the end of each quarter should the sales qualifications of membership not be maintained.

Bopp Brothers' Firm Now Webster Groves Nash, Lafayette Dealer

G. J. BOPP

E. W. BOPP

Bopp Brothers, who have been in in the automobile business since 1905, and were the first automobile dealership in Webster Groves, have been appointed authorized dealer for Nash and Lafayette cars, according to F. A. Yardley, vice-president and general salesmanager of the Milstrand Motor Co.

Their showroom, at 668 East Big Bend road, contains more than 9000 square feet of floor space, and has been completely redecorated and re-equipped to take care of service as well as supply parts for the new line of cars.

The firm consists of George J. Bopp and Edward W. Bopp, brothers, who have been together in the automobile business since 1905.

For a period of 20½ years they have handled one make of automobile.

Their service manager, Arnold Bovie has been with them for 16 years.

Upsetting of House By Tire 'Blowout' on Truck Moving Building

Recent news reports from Bremerton, Wash., telling of a tire blow-out which upset a two-story house emphasize the danger of blow-outs in causing accidents on the highway, it is declared by tire engineers of the B. F. Goodrich company.

Collapse of the house occurred when a tire blew out on a truck which was moving it. Three workmen narrowly escaped injury.

Highway blow-outs, the tire engineers say, are even more dangerous than this unusual accident. A blow-out often throws a car out of control at high speed, making the automobile a hurtling menace to life and property.

Chevrolet Salesmen Honored at Meeting Of the 100 Car Club

The St. Louis zone management of Chevrolet Motor Co. held its annual banqut of the "100 Car Club" at a luncheon at the Coronado Hotel Thursday. Salesmen who attended the convention were presented with awards in recognition of their work in 1935.

There were 102 salesmen who won membership in this organization by selling the equivalent of 100 or more new passenger cars and trucks during the year.

The five leading salesmen in the group were named officers of the club. They were Homer Wilson of the Corn Belt Chevrolet Co., Jacksonville, Ill., who became regional vice-president; William Shields of the Corn Belt Chevrolet Co., Jacksonville, zone president; Victor Bloch, Epstein Chevrolet Co., St. Louis, zone vice-president; Al J. Niehaus of the Big Four Chevrolet Co., St. Louis, zone secretary, and Charles T. Goss, Standard Chevrolet Co., East St. Louis, zone treasurer.

The officers were inducted into their offices by Tom F. Brown, zone manager for the Chevrolet Motor Co.

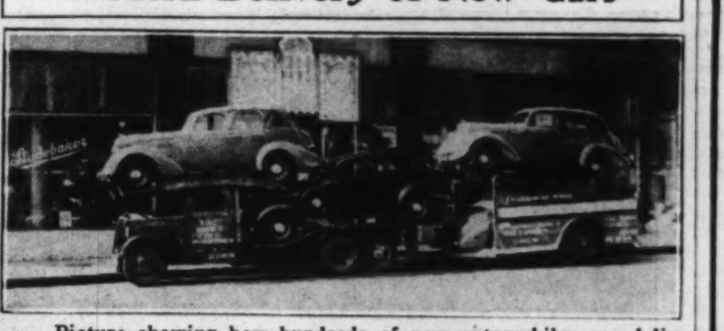
Plymouth Producing 7-Passenger Sedan On Long Wheelbase

A seven-passenger car in the low price field is announced by the Plymouth division of the Chrysler Corporation, to meet the demand of large families for a car that is at once large and economical. The new model is already in production and shipments are being made to dealers.

Has High Auto Registration.

There are more motor cars per capita in Nevada than any other State—one to 2.99 persons.

Modern Delivery of New Cars



Picture showing how hundreds of new automobiles are delivered in St. Louis daily from the factories to the distributors and dealers, With this method, the cars reach the showrooms without having been "driven away" from the auto plants. The photograph shows a truckload of new Studebaker cars being delivered from the South Bend, Ind., plant to A. R. Lindburg, Inc., the St. Louis distributor.

Plymouth Develops Pick-Up Unit for Use on Business Coupe

Development of a new pick-up conversion unit, by use of which the Plymouth business coupe may be converted into a commercial car for light hauling and delivery, is announced.

By making possible a quick and easy enlargement of the rear compartment loading space, the unit meets the needs of business men whose delivery and carrying requirements do not justify regular commercial vehicles.

The conversion unit consists of a metal box with sides which conform to the slope of the rear deck and two metal plates to finish off the front end of the compartment. The side walls of the unit are fastened to the rear deck lid by wing bolts, and three floor bolts lock the box down to the floor of the car. Rubber cushions beneath the front end of the unit prevent rattles.

A hinged lock plate on the top of the tailgate permits locking the deck lid when the unit is in place. The tailgate may be lowered and the rear deck lid removed to carry unusually long or bulky loads.

The conversion is made possible by the fact that the floor of the Plymouth business coupes luggage compartment is flush with the rear deck opening, permitting an easy extension of the luggage space.

New Truck Express Tire for Fast Service Introduced by Goodrich

A new 32-by-6 truck type express tire for fast service is announced by the B. F. Goodrich Co.

Goodrich has found that there is a wide need for this type tire in this size to replace the universal tread tire in long-distance hauls where traction is not a dominant factor.

This is especially true, Goodrich engineers report, in trailer service, where the new type tread tends to prevent side-sway and give longer mileage.

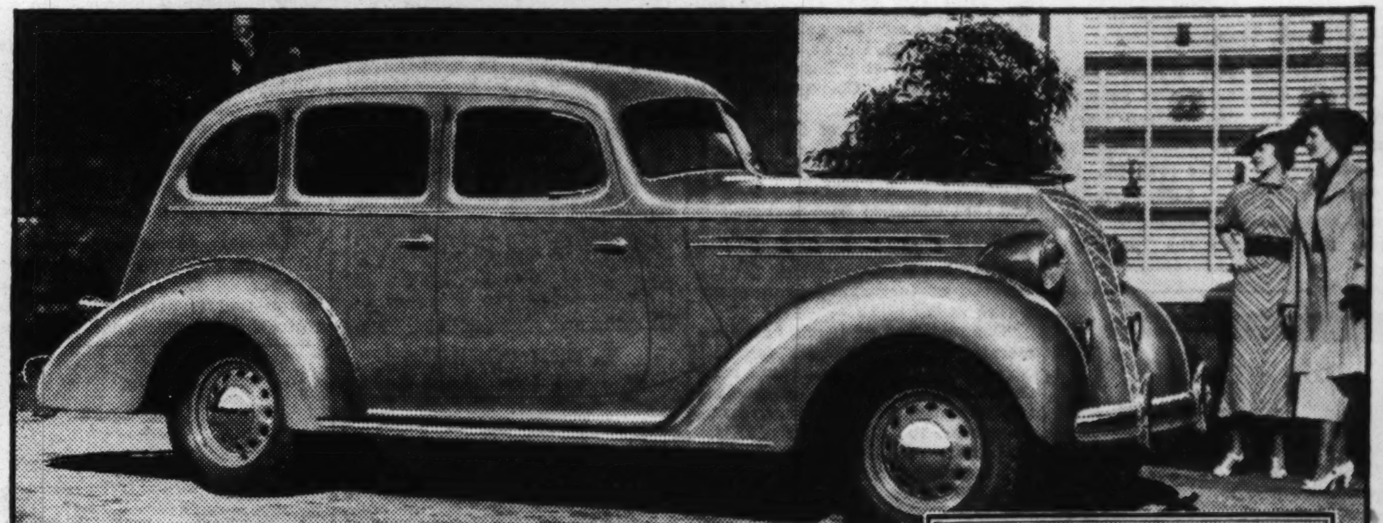
"Not another low priced car could measure up to TERRAPLANE"



"I'd never have believed it was a low priced car!"

MANY people who buy Terraplanes from us are soon bringing in friends who are in the market for a low priced car. That's when you'll hear these buyers tell why they chose Terraplanes . . . much the same reasons as you'll see at the right.

They'll talk about Terraplane economy, too . . . tell how they get greater savings than any car ever gave them before. And describe Terraplane performance with an enthusiasm that comes only from actual experience. They'll point out the distinctive new styling and mention the ruggedness beneath it . . . long life shown by 125,000, 150,000 miles or more from actual owner records.

And when they talk about safety . . . they've real news to tell! Safest stopping ever built into any car . . . with two braking systems from the same brake pedal! Powerful big hydraulics, away ahead of all hydraulics of the past. And, with them, a reserve set of brakes that takes hold automatically when needed! Plus still a third braking system operated by a new kind of parking brake that handles easier than any you've ever seen on any car.

If you have a friend who owns a 1936 Terraplane, ask him to tell you about the greater value he got for his money in this biggest of all low priced cars. Or, better yet, drop in at our showroom and take a "Discovery Drive" yourself in a new Terraplane that we have waiting for you to try.

"No Wonder Fashion Authorities Call this Money-Saving Car the 'Beauty Winner'" Says MADY CORRELL, featured in "Dark Tower," "June Moon," "Kill That Story" and "Sweet Mystery of Life"

The smart lines of this handsome new Dodge . . . the careful attention that has been given to the niceties of interior appointment, appeal to me beyond measure.

No wonder so many famous fashion authorities have called this new Dodge the "Beauty Winner" of 1936 . . . it surely looks much more expensive than it is.

And that's the amazing part about it . . . although it is more spacious and more luxurious than last year, it is priced still lower.

. . . and with such expensive-car features as the famous Airglide-Ride . . . genuine hydraulic brakes . . . safety-steel bodies . . . and patented Floating Power . . .

And with all this luxury, I have seen reports from owners all over the country stating they are getting remarkable gas mileage. For a combination of beauty, luxury and money-saving features, it seems to me that it would be pretty hard to beat the new Dodge "Beauty Winner."

Cadillac Executive Notes Rise in Sale Of More Costly Cars

Largest Proportion of Sales Still of Cadillac "Sixty" and La Salle.

One of a national series of 40 meetings was held here on Tuesday to acquaint Cadillac-La Salle dealers and salesmen with merchandising plans which Nicholas Dreystadt, general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., and his executive staff have formulated for the spring selling season.

The meeting followed a breakfast at the Coronado Hotel. Discussions were directed by E. F. Upson, assistant general sales manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Co., A. R. Dawson, district manager, and Guy Oliver, of the Oliver Cadillac Co., distributer.

"At no time in the last six years have prospects in the automotive industry appeared so bright as they do today," said Upson. "This is true of the industry in general and of the quality car field in particular. Buying interest in all Cadillac-La Salle price groups revealed an immediate gain following the announcements of our 1936 series cars late last year.

"Demand continued to improve through January and February of this year, our retail deliveries for that period being 192 per cent of sales in the same two months of 1935 But for the extremely severe weather in nearly all of our major markets in that period, I am certain that the increase in sales would have been considerably larger.

"The largest proportion of our retail volume, of course, has been on the Cadillac series 60 and the La Salle which has become a very definite factor in the medium price field.

"But what I regard as the most cheerful aspect of the present situation is the fact that our more expensive Cadillac-Fleetwood cars, in the ultra-luxury class, also are showing daily gains. The Fleetwood plant in Detroit, which builds custom bodies exclusively for Cadillac cars, is busier than it has been for years. A sharp increase has been noted in the number of orders for special Cadillac-Fleetwood bodies, which must be hand-built to the specifications of the buyer."

L. D. McConnell Regional Manager for Commercial Credit Co.

L. D. McConnell former district representative for the Commercial Credit Co., has been appointetd regional manager of a newly formed region with headquarters in St. Louis.

McConnell will supervise the Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky territory, in which his company has offices at St. Louis, Evansville, Ind., and Paducah, Ky.

The Commercial Credit Co. is one of the world's largest independent finance companies. Starting in 1912 with a capitalization of $300,000, the company's capital and surplus structure today exceeds $47,000,000. In 1935, the volume of its purchases exceeded $525,000,000. The company buys paper developing from the installment sale of automobiles, refrigerators, appliances, machinery, open accounts, notes and acceptances of rated manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers. Through its subsidiaries, Textile Banking Co. and the Edmund Wright Ginsberg Corporation, it offers to the textile and other trades a complete factoring service.

McConnell is well known to the motor industry, especially among the dealers throughout this territory. He will maintain his office at 1901 Continental Life Building.

A. D. Bryant has just moved here from Baltimore to become regional credit manager. J. P. Schmieder is the manager of the Commercial Credit Co.'s office in this city.

View of part of the Packard car display at the Berry Motor Co., looking from the elaborate spring garden. The Packard "Ladies' Week" exhibit is being continued until Saturday. The garden, planned by Elizabeth Kester Turk, includes growing evergreens, rock-bordered beds of flowers, a cascade falling into a pool, gayly colored sun umbrellas, and garden furniture and pottery.

Plymouth Reports Gains for Fifth Year

For the fifth successive year the Plymouth Division of the Chrysler Corporation reports a substantial increase in sales over the previous 12 months. In 1935, Plymouth sales showed a gain of 26.6 per cent over the total for the preceding year.

Predicts Truck Sales Will Show Increases Over Last Year's Totals

Joseph D. Burke, of Dodge Factory, Discusses Reasons to Expect Gains.

Volume of truck and commercial car sales this year probably will show an appreciable gain over last year, Joseph D. Burke, director of truck sales for the Dodge Division of the Chrysler Corporation, declares.

"With the return of faith in the general business outlook of this country a few years ago, the sales of trucks began to slowly ascend and that which at first was strictly replacement business soon was accompanied by a limited number of units which were purchased for the purpose of increasing equipment," Burke says.

"Compilations of truck and commercial car registrations for 1935 reveal that 510,683 trucks and commercial cars were sold. Regarding the probable total for 1936, it seems reasonable to believe that a 15 per cent increase in sales of commercial vehicles may be seen.

"Predicted as sources of important volumes of truck business during the next several months are the general contracting, plumbing and other lines which are identified with the constructions of houses and buildings. It is entirely probable that a truck upswing will be seen all over the country, as housing shortages are being felt in many population centers.

"Many factories in the United States that were empty a few years ago, are now occupied by firms that are contemplating expansion, another favorable contribution to the building trades.

"Following increased manufacturing activity, the retail field is forging ahead.

"Trucks of today have embodied in their design an attractiveness that has a tangible value from a display or advertising point of view to the company which owns them. Many a firm in the last two years has wisely replaced the unattractive and obsolete truck units with the more beautiful and economical vehicles.

"Efficiency in the operation of trucks in the last few years has caused numerous mechanical improvements, vastly improved motors, more efficient and greater economy in gas and oil, advanced load distribution, special steel in the springs, larger genuine hydraulic brakes and other innovations which have been necessary in meeting the more rigorous demands resulting from long hours of operation of motor vehicles under adverse conditions. In our Dodge trucks we have embodied these new features in order to keep ahead of the times.

"Increases in prices of farm products since the early part of 1932, have caused many thousands of trucks to be sold, and the outlook for the sale of trucks in agricultural districts may be viewed with optimism.

"Interstate carriers which feature door-to-door delivery service have been growing rapidly.

"Another acceleration in truck sales has been evidenced in the metal mining fields.

"Delivery systems in the retail field are being pressed this season as a result, it is believed, of many people returning to their former standards of living and insisting on the delivery of packages.

"Government works programs and highway maintenance, both of which have necessitated an extensive use of all types of trucks, have been a large outlet for trucks and commercial cars.

"Payment of the soldiers' bonus should offset whatever sluggishness occurs in buying in the weeks preceding the political campaigns."

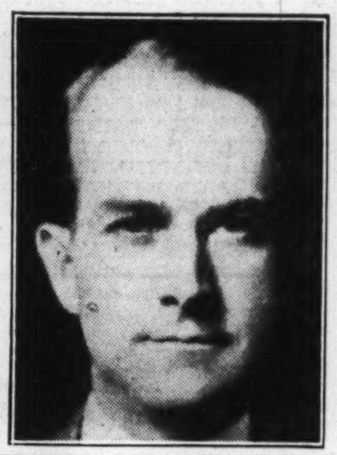
Shell Executive Dies in St. Louis



ERNEST RODMAN KENNER

Manager of the tire and accessory division of Shell Petroleum Corporation, whose death occurred March 23 of double pneumonia. He was born Sept. 8, 1885, in Atlanta, Ga., and was graduated in mechanical engineering from Georgia Tech in 1907. He was with the B. F. Goodrich Co. for six years, and joined Shell in 1932, being made tire and accessory manager last year. He was a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and was active in the St. Louis Rotary Club. He is survived by his widow, three sons and a daughter. His two older sons, Rodman and Forest, are honor students at Yale University, and the younger, Hamilton, recently won a scholarship at Western Reserve University.

The "Camel Ford," which began operating on St. Louis streets last Monday by the Gulf Oil Corporation. It derives its name from the fact that it uses no water and no air-blown cooling, both radiator and fan having been removed. Its engine is operated with the company's super premium "Lubrigas" gasoline which is designed to supply needed cylinder lubrication. Left to right in the picture—W. S. Car Run Without Fan and Radiator in Test of Lubri-Gas Gasoline

"The Camel Ford," so called because it uses no water, its radiator and cooling fan having been removed, is being driven on St. Louis streets this week by drivers for the Gulf Oil Corporation.

The car is being put through this daily test, according to A. F. Beaudreau, president of the corporation, to prove that the lubricating qualities of the corporation's "Lubri-Gas" gasoline do give extra benefits and protection of an automobile engine.

"Today's higher road speeds," Beaudreau said, "put greater stresses on auto engines, which demand more efficient lubrication.

"It is well known that ideal upper cylinder lubrication could be accomplished through the introduction of the oil in the gasoline. However, oil and gasoline, of themselves, do not mix and stay mixed. Oil will separate or go out of suspension. This is the problem the petroleum industry has been trying to solve for years—to treat high grade oil having a high viscosity and extra high fire point so that it will stay mixed when added to gasoline or other motor fuels.

"The finest quality, high viscosity and extra high fire test oil is treated with the Lubri-Gas process so that the dealer buying Lubri-Gas is assured that the lubricating gasoline sold by him will stay in perfect suspension in his storage tanks and also in the motorist's supply tank."

The Gulf Oil Corporation of Missouri, 4839 Fyler avenue, is the sole distributer of Lubri-Gas in Missouri. It delivers Gulf gasoline already treated with Lubri-Gas to dealers in greater St. Louis trade areas.

"Any high grade gasoline treated with Lubri-Gas immediately becomes a super-premium fuel which minimizes carbon, reduces friction and increases compression resulting in more power with a decreased consumption of gasoline, no burning or pitting of vales and a cool motor. It is proven by actual test the water will not boil in a radiator of a car using Lubri-Gas," Beaudreau declares.

Johnson Explains Meaning of the New Ford "R and G" Plan

"The recent announcement of the new "R & G" used car sales plan by the Ford dealers in the St. Louis territory of the Ford Motor Co., marks one of the greatest steps forward ever made by a dealer organization in setting a new and higher standard in used ca values," M. N. Johnson, manager in St. Louis for the company says.

The "R & G" stands for "renewed and guaranteed," meaning that used cars sold by authorized Ford dealers under this trade mark have met a rigid set of specifications as to their mechanical condition and appearance. Backing these specifications, for further assurance of the quality of "R & G" cars, is a written guarantee of "satisfaction or money back," which is given to the buyer by the dealer.

It agrees to correct at the dealers expense any condition in the car or truck which is not in accordance with the above specifications, provided that he is notified by the purchaser of the condition within 10 days from the date of sale and further provided that such condition is not the result of accident, neglect, or abuse of the car or truck after delivery, and that the car or truck has not been repaired or altered outside of the dealer's shop during the guarantee period."

It further agrees that the dealer will refund such part of the purchase price of the car or truck as has been paid by the purchaser, including any used car or truck applied as part payment or, at option, the allowance price in cash, thereby cancelling the sale if the purchaser so requests; provided that this request is made by the purchaser by a certain time and that the car or truck is then returned in the same condition as when delivered.

In effect, this written guarantee covers virtually every mechanical unit on the car, as well as the body, upholstering, hardware, paint, top, etc. Among the more important mechanical units covered are: brakes, chassis, clutch, electrical system, engine, including bearings, carburetor, compression, ignition points, radiator, rear axle, springs, steering and transmission.

Under this new "R & G" plan, a buyer is permitted to drive the car he selects for two days to allow him to put it through "its paces" on any test that he desires. If the car fails to measure-up to expectations in any way, he may return it to the dealer who will refund his money in full.

"R & G does not mean that cars sold under this emblem will cost more than ordinary 'used cars'—it does mean the mark of an exclusive value. It is the buyers personal guarantee of complete satisfaction in the purchase of an automobile backed by the pledge of the Ford dealer from whom he buys it," Johnson says.

Total of 135,000,000 Miles Flown by Pilots For American Airlines

Nine hundred thousand flying hours—the equivalent of approximately 135,000,000 miles in the air—represents the combined experience of 164 pilots and co-pilots of American Airlines, Inc., according to personnel records of the company.

A total of 164 first and second pilots, who have been flying from 22 years to a minimum of 5 years each, have established this number of flying hours, and are adding thousands of miles to the figures, with 1,100,000 flying hours probable by the end of 1936. So American Airlines' pilots have been in the air a total of more than 125 years.

The 99 first pilots of the company have an average of 7365 flying hours each, which is equal to more than 800,000 miles in the air for each pilot. The average time for 65 co-pilots is 2770 hours.

Credit for the most hours among the pilots goes to the veteran J. B. Glass of Los Angeles, with 12,900 hours to his credit on March 1. Another "old-timer" on the line's Southern Transcontinental route, Bobby Jewell of Memphis, Tenn., is second with 11,920 hours. E. L. Sloniger of Chicago leads Eastern division pilots with 11,800 hours and R. O. Fortner of Los Angeles has 11,353 hours. Joe Westover of St. Louis, who flys the air mail and passengers to Chicago, has 11,200 hours. Westover has been in aviation 23 years in one capacity or another and he, Jewell and Lindbergh flew the first Chicago-St. Louis air mail in April, 1926.

A majority of the 24 veteran pilots of American Airlines learned to fly during the World War and four of them prior to that.

Pierce Arrow Brings Out New Model of Commercial Sedan

The Pierce Arrow Sales Co., distributer of Pierce Arrow cars, has just received a new 1935 eight-cylinder Pierce Arrow commercial sedan, mounted on a 147-inch wheelbase.

This particular model has been expressly designed for funeral work, and the workmanship and material are far superior to those on any car that Pierce Arrow has heretofore built for this particular class of work. The car has 150 horsepower engine, which is one horsepower for every 37 pounds of car weight. Running balance is secured by fully counterbalanced crank shaft and by matching all connecting rods. A downdraft carburetor of duplex design has two mixing chambers, one for each four cylinders, which with duplex manifolds, insures proper distribution of the gas. The motor has an aluminum cylinder head and high compression ratio. Unusually large rear doors permit easy entrance to the car.

Hudson Co. Shipping New Hudson, Terraplane Convertible Models

Shipments of the new Hudson and Terraplane convertible models have been started already from the Hudson factory in Detroit, according to W. R. Tracy, vice-president in charge of sales.

The new Hudson Eight convertible coupe has 113 or 124 horsepower motor, flashing acceleration and smart appearance.

Finished in an entirely new color, antique ivory, this car has attracted wide attention wherever it has been shown. Other spring colors announced by Hudson are maroon, sage green and glacier blue.

The new Hudson Eight convertible coupe, with its wide seat that provides plenty of room for three and room for two more in the rumble seat, is an open car for spring and summer, and a closed car for the cooler seasons. It requires only a moment to change the car from a closed model to an open one, and only a moment to replace the top when desired.

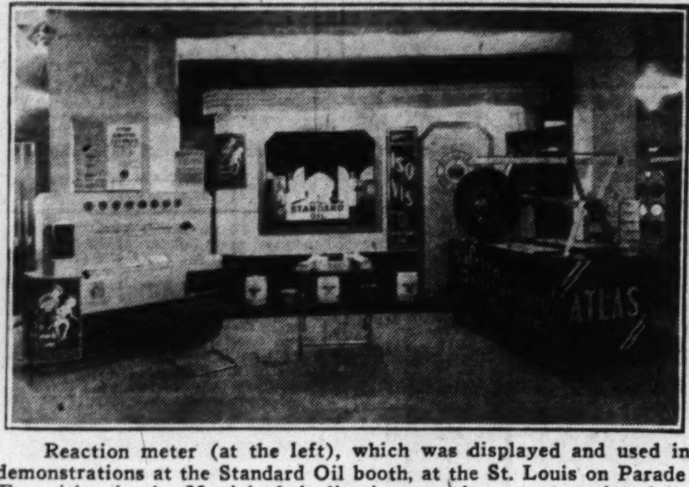
Shows Motorist's Reaction Time



Reaction meter (at the left), which was displayed and used in demonstrations at the Standard Oil booth, at the St. Louis on Parade Exposition in the Municipal Auditorium, to show to motorists in a dramatic way the length of time it takes to stop the average automobile.

The machine measures in split seconds the time it takes for a driver to react to a warning signal. The person being tested takes his place at the machine, puts his foot on the accelerator pedal which starts the machine, and when the red signal flashes, puts his foot on the brake. The time between the flashing of the red light and the application of the brake is shown to the driver in a colored panel and also punched out on a chart on which the driver is shown, not only the time involved, but also the distance his car has traveled before he actually applied the brake. There is also shown the distance the car traveled after the brake was applied, bringing the car to a full stop.

An Atlas tire testing machine also was used at the booth to demonstrate the safety features of a new Atlas tire as compared with a bald-headed tire, showing how good or poor tread affects skidding tendencies.

New Type of Book For Owners of Autos Brought Out by Pontiac

One day last summer several men at the Pontiac factory got to talking about the traditional instruction books given to owners of new cars. From their files they collected a dozen or so different books and studied them.

They soon discovered that the current instruction book belonged back in the days when owners stored their cars on blocks for the winter. Very definitely it was for the old-fashioned owner who thought he could be his own mechanic.

One of the men in the group at Pontiac expressed this thought: "Seems to me that we ought to bring our instruction book as up-to-date as our new car. Let's give some of the more important information that the mechanically-minded owner wants to know, but let's think more of the owner who isn't interested in wiring diagrams and how to grind valves. Let's tell him something about the art of driving and the things that will add to his satisfaction as a Pontiac owner."

Pontiac pioneered and produced a handbook of a new type for such manuals. It even has a new name—"The Automobile User's Guide." It appeals to the average new model owner instead of to the mechanic. It takes up the use of the car from the owner's point of view, shows him how to get the greatest pleasure out of driving, and instructs him pleasantly in the few things which he should know about his car.

In addition to a fresh slant on the proper way of breaking in a car, the book discusses driving, the purpose of the various controls, starting the engine, the art of gear shifting, the art of steering, city parking, night driving, winter driving, highway hints, cross-country tours, how to save gasoline, getting the most out of tires, "housekeeping" the car, prolonging the life of the car and maintenance schedule. And for those mechanically-minded, there is a section at the back of the book that tells the story of the car, from the engine to the turret-top body.

More than 15,000 requests for additional copies of the book have been received. The National Safety Council asked for 300 copies. One request from an Indiana school called for 850 copies. Stewart Warner is using 350 copies in connection with its Alemite safety drive.

The requests are said to be coming in daily from police departments, schools, colleges, clubs, traffic organizations and many others in all parts of the country.

Willcockson Elected Chairman of Board By Y. M. C. A. Directors

The Board of Managers of the Downtown Branch of the St. Louis Y. M. C. A., at a recent meeting, elected W. H. Willcockson, president of the Willcockson-Buick Co., chairman of the board.

Willcockson is a member of the Rotary Club and a past president of that organization. He is on the Board of Directors, and is a past president of the Algonquin Golf Club; is the immediate past president of the Midtown Business Men's Association, and is a vice-president of the Greater St. Louis Automotive Association.

Willcockson succeeds Forrest C. Donnell of the law firm of Donnell and McDonald, who served as chairman of the board for four years.

Steiner Attending Monthly Conference at Pontiac Factory

Harry Steiner of the Steiner Automobile Co., local Pontiac dealer, went to Pontiac, Mich., to attend the regular dealer conference Friday.

Steiner is one of 17 Pontiac dealers throughout the country who have been invited to the factory to learn of the latest developments in advertising, sales promotion and service policies and methods.

These dealer conferences have become a regular monthly institution with Pontiac. F. A. Berend, advertising manager of the company, will be in charge of the meeting. Sales promotion will be presented by F. H. Fenn, head of that department, while L. K. Marshall, general service manager, will discuss that subject.

In the afternoon an open meeting and discussion will be led by H. J. Klinger, president and general manager, and C. P. Simpson, general sales manager.

King Edward's Order For Buick Car Causes Commotion in Britain

Purchase of a new Buick by King Edward VIII of England caused a commotion in British automotive circles, according to Time magazine.

It was the first time the King of England had ordered a car other than the British make invariably used by King Edward VII and King George V.

The magazine said, in part: "A page of Empire business history was turned when it was announced by London's Buick sales manager that King Edward had ordered an enclosed Buick built to his special order in Canada at Oshawa."

Chevrolet Already Has Built 530,000 1936 Cars and Trucks

Chevrolet has already built more than 530,000 of its 1936 model cars and trucks, it is announced by M. E. Coyle, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co.

Coyle's statement was made in answer to a question as to whether the earlier announcement of 1936 models had resulted in leveling employment to a greater degree than in previous years.

Buick Production Schedule Increased

Increases in both domestic and export deliveries have necessitated a second increase in Buick's March production schedules with the result that output for the month will exceed 14,000 units, Harlow H. Curtice, president of the Buick Motor Co., announces.

RALLY IN WHEAT AT MINNEAPOLIS DOMINATES PRICE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 28.—Spectacular action of the Minneapolis market in jumping 2⅛ cents a bushel from a season new low price record today dominated the entire wheat trade.

Traders here kept sharp watch of the course of values at Minneapolis that suddenly reversed the trend of the last few days there, and were inclined to see as a reason an outlook that imports of Canadian wheat into the United States have been definitely checked by recent severe downturns of Minneapolis cash quotations. Prospects pointed to alternate freezing and thawing weather in Kansas and Nebraska, conditions especially difficult for wheat crop welfare.

Wheat in Chicago closed firm at about the day's top, ⅜@¾ above yesterday's finish, May 96½@⅝c, July 87½@⅝c, corn also ⅜@¾ up, May 59⅞@60c, oats ¼@⅜ advanced, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to 5 cents gain.

Leading pit authorities said liquidation of May wheat contracts both here and at Minneapolis appeared to be over, at least temporarily. Minneapolis reports indicated buying for mill account had taken the slack out of that market, and that a covering movement on the part of previous short sellers ensued. Talk also was heard of signs of improvement of spring wheat domestic flour trade, with evidence of wheat futures purchasing at Minneapolis against sales in Winnipeg to close spreads.

With no great amount of moisture expected for over the week-end Southwest and West, and with a cold wave promised for tonight in Nebraska, bullish sentiment increased as the day approached an end. Bears stressed unsuccessfully the fact that there appeared to be a pause in European demand for Canadian wheat. Yesterday's export business at Winnipeg, however, is now estimated as having totaled as high as 2,000,000 bushels.

Better shipping demand for corn helped to strengthen corn and oats.

Provisions averaged somewhat higher because of back-spreading between lard and corn.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 16,901,000 bushels, corn 2,539,000. Open interest in wheat was 97,619,000 bushels and in corn 25,972,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 28.—Reflecting the same influences that affected outside markets wheat prices rose fractionally at the week-end session. Corn futures also closed better.

Winnipeg wheat opened unchanged to ⅛c higher and ruled so early. The close was net unchanged.

Liverpool wheat closed unchanged to ⅛d lower after opening ⅛d lower.

Local wheat receipts, which were 15,000 bu., compared with 16,500 a week ago and 6000 a year ago, included 8 cars local and 2 through. Corn receipts, which were 63,000 bu., compared with 57,000 a week ago and 25,500 a year ago, included 36 cars local and 6 through. Oats receipts, which were 38,000 bu., compared with 42,000 a week ago and 18,000 a year ago, included 13 cars local and 6 through. Hay receipts were 1 car local.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was steady to 1c higher. Demand was fairly good. Inquiry continued good for No. 2 and No. 3, but the lower grades were not actively sought. Order buyers and local mills mainly wanted choice country run grain. There were no offerings of hard wheat. Inquiry was fairly good. Corn was ½@1c higher. Supply was light and with a better demand a quick clearance was made. Mills and feeders were the chief buyers. Oats were unchanged. Offerings were light, but with buyers and sellers apart, a very small trade resulted. Shippers and elevators showed the interest.

COTTON IS MODERATELY HIGHER AT WEEK END

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Cotton was moderately higher today on trade buying and covering accompanied by reports of a tight spot situation in the South and continued drouth in the Southwest. July sold up to 10.95 and closed at 10.93 with the general market ending very steady at net advances of 5 to 9 points.

An advance of 2 to 6 points occurred at the opening on renewed trade buying in the near months. There was some buying of the new crop in response to its relatively steady showing in Liverpool.

The initial bulge met some hedging and week-end realizing but this was absorbed on slight setbacks and the best prices of the day were made in late trading.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 77,000 bales against 82,000 last year.

Spot steady; middling 11.70.

Memphis Spot Cotton.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 28.—Spot cotton had a steady tone. Midling closed at 11.65c, compared with 11.60c yesterday. Sales amounted to 2585 bales.

HOG MARKET LOWER IN WEEK'S TRADING

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, East St. Louis, Ill., March 28.—Receipts: Hogs, 2000; direct 1200; cattle 350; calves 200; sheep 50.

(United States Department of Agriculture.)

Small variation was shown in hog prices during the week just closed, although marketings were slightly in excess of the previous week's supply. Receipts approximated 47,000 as compared with actuals of 46,800 the preceding week and 42,495 the corresponding week last year. Prices generally showed around 5@10c decline as compared with the previous week's closing trade. Stronger dressed trade in the East was one factor in supporting the market here. Weights from 180-210 lbs were in most demand during the period, although most 170 to 250 lbs average sold within a 15c spread. Most of these weights cleared at $10.60@10.75 in closing deals, with a top of $10.80 paid sparingly. Weightier kinds of 250 lbs up were scarce on the close, with last sales of these weights made largely from $10.25@10.60. Good and choice 140-160 lb averages earned $9.90@10.50 and 100-130 lb descriptions $8.75@9.75. Southern pigs and hogs encountered uneven discounts ranging up to $1.50 per cwt. Packing sows bulked at $9@9.35, off quality kinds down at $8.50 and below. A year ago this week hog tops ranged from $8.90@9.05.

Cattle, 350; calves, 200; compared with close last week: steers strong to 25c higher; mixed yearlings and heifers 25@50c higher; cowstuff steady; bulls 25c lower; vealers $1.50 higher; stock cattle 25c higher; tops for week: 1358-lb. steers $9.75, yearlings $9.50, 740-lb. heifers and 713-lb. mixed yearlings $8.50; cows $6.50; sausage bulls $5.75; vealers $10.50; feeder steers $7.85; bulks for week: steers $7.50@8.60; mixed yearlings and heifers $6.50@8.00; beef cows $4.50@5.50; cutters and low cutters $3.25@4.25; stocker and feeder steers $6.25@7.00; closing top sausage bulls $5.75, vealers $10.50.

Sheep, 50; compared with week ago lambs strong to 25c higher; sheep steady to 25c lower; top lambs for week, $10.75 to city butchers, packer top $10.40; bulk of native and Western lambs $9.75@10.25; throwouts $7@8.50; clipped lambs $8.25@60; medium to good clipped wethers $4@5.25; wooled ewes mostly $5@5.50.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY STOCKYARDS.

Mississippi Valley Stockyards, at St. Louis officially reports the market as follows:

WALL STREET UNDISTURBED BY DOMESTIC, OUTSIDE NEWS

Prices Change but Little on Net Balance—Continued Unsettled Foreign Affairs, Eastern Flood Damage and Favorable Domestic Corporate Reports, Equalizing Influences.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Securities markets during the week were jostled by three diverse and equalizing influences—continued unsettlement in foreign affairs, the Eastern flood damage, and favorable domestic corporate reports.

Faced with a new European gold bloc crisis, the market today maintained a calm, standoff attitude.

While the French franc dipped well below the level at which the yellow metal can be shipped to New York at a profit, and allied currencies exhibited fresh weakness, Wall Street did not appear particularly alarmed or apprehensive.

At the same time, numerous admittedly confused traders and investors stood aside to await further development in the foreign scene.

The equities list experienced its dullest Saturday session since Sept. 28. Transfers totaled only 656,780 shares. The Asociated Press average of 60 stocks managed to recover .1 of a point at 62.

Franc Lowest Since Oct. 4.

The French currency fell to its lowest point since Oct. 4, last, but strong support appeared and it closed slightly above its bottom figure for a net loss of .00⅝ of a cent at 6.58⅜ cents. The pound sterling ended ⅛ of a cent easier at $4.94½. The guilder shaded its extreme decline to end at 67.65 cents, off .26 of a cent.

As the result of growing French financial problems, some in Wall Street, envisaged a possible devaluation of the franc. Monetary experts for some time have thought the French unit was overvalued in terms of the dollar and British pound. Informed banking quarters, though, expected no drastic step would be taken by Paris, at least until after the French elections on April 26.

There were also diverse opinions regarding the effects of European monetary unsettlement on American securities. In the long run several bankers thought that domestic markets might be more benefited than otherwise. In addition, the theory was advanced that a fall from the gold standard by leading continental countries could be a long step toward international currency stabilization.

It was anticipated by a few analysts that continued flight of capital from the franc and similar currencies would bring a renewal of buying from abroad in United States stocks and bonds.

The domestic trade and industrial picture was still bright and, despite nervousness over happenings across the Atlantic, brokers reported that large holders of equities were not disposed to liquidate.

Little Change on Net Balance.

Prices on the New York Stock Exchange changed but little on net balance, although many individual equities registered wide variation.

Fluctuations in the bond market were narrow and prices were mostly steady. United States Government obligations were a feature for their strength, which pushed several issues to new high points since the date of issue.

About the time the diplomats appeared to have the German-Rhineland controversies under control, leading foreign exchanges turned heavy as a reflection of two developments.

Mussolyini revealed his determination to place leading private industries, key factories needed for munitions, under a tight Government control. The next day, prices of securities in Rome and Milan broke sharply when holders sought to sell. The lira slumped to a new low for the year.

The statement of the Bank of France showed a striking gain in discounted bills as private bankers gathered cash into their vaults as a safeguard against possible demands. The franc slid slowly below the gold point, making possible the shipment of gold to the United States for the first time since the week of Jan. 9.

Industry in the important Pittsburgh area returned to a normal basis of operations and railroads, steel mills, retailers and others were able to compute their losses.

Auto Production Rises.

The production of steel ingots did not fall so much as had at first been estimated, but freight car loadings for the week ended March 21 declined more than had been anticipated. Automobile production, entirely unaffected by the floods, continued climbing, this week to 98,415 units from 95,223 units the previous week, as estimated by Cram's.

Retail trade was reported by Dun & Bradstreet at 18 to 20 per cent above a year ago as the influence of Easter buying overcame the drawback of floods in the national total of distribution to consumers.

The new margin rules of the Federal Reserve Board, providing a uniform base permitting loans up to 45 per cent of the market value of securities, applicable to banks as well as brokers, was received kindly in Wall street because they will do away with most of the complex and involved elements of the present sliding-scale schedule.

Foreign Stock Markets.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 28.—Prices were heavy and trading was active in the stock market today. Rentes declined 50 to 75 centimes. International shares held steady. The closing tone was irregular.

By the Associated Press.

LIVERPOOL, March 28.—With fluctuations very narrow, wheat futures held steady today in sympathy with Friday's Winnipeg market and on firm Canadian offers.

Cotton futures continued steady. Hedging and continental selling supplied trade buying in near months with the new crop positions relatively firm on buying promoted by the continued drouth in the Southwest.

MORE THAN SEASONAL GAIN IN DEPARTMENT STORE SALES

NEW YORK, March 28.—A more than seasonal gain in sales of reporting department stores in the metropolitan area of New York in the first half of March was reported today in the monthly review of credit and business conditions by the Federal Reserve agent at New York.

"In February total dollar sales of the reporting department stores in this district were 11.6 per cent higher than last year, but after allowing for one more shopping day this year than last, the increase in the daily rate of sales in February was not as large as in January," the review said.

STEEL PRODUCTION BACK TO 58 PER CENT OF CAPACITY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Unusually rapid resumption of operations by steel plants in recently-affected flood districts combined with an increasing volume of orders for steel products accounted for a recovery in the steel ingot production rate to around 58 per cent of capacity late in the week as compared with 53 per cent as the week opened.

Demand for structural steel was stimulated for rehabilitation purposes in flood-swept areas. Seasonal increases from pipe lines and the canning industry were reported. Railroad buying was expected to continue. Part of the demand was being supplied from warehouse supplies until mill production became available. No price change was reported.

Non-ferrous metals were generally quiet. The copper trade was particularly interested in the possible significance of an advance of ½ to 1 cent per pound in prices for brass tubing, but whether it foreshadowed a rise in copper was a matter for conjecture. Moderate demand was supplied at 9¼ cents for electrolytic although several producers maintained the price at 9½ cents. Foreign prices were easier, but partial recoveries developed late in the week.

Tin spot premiums eased to a basis of 1 cent over futures during the week as a result of larger afloat stocks and poor consumer demand. Reports indicated that tin plate mills would rapidly resume activity.

Lead was quiet with prices unchanged. Smelters who had experienced a good demand earlier in the month were not pressing sales.

Zinc remained dull and quotations unchanged. Shipment specifications against old contracts were said to have been good.

Antimony was dull with no change in prices reported.

COMMODITY INDEX AVERAGES

Other statistical data showing economical trend.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The month-old upswing in industrial production was interrupted this week by the effects of the recent floods.

The Associated Press index of industrial activity at 81.3 compares with 82.2 a week ago and 75.5 in the same week last year.

Most seriously affected by the flood condition were electric power generators, railroad carloadings and steel manufacturing—all of them slumping sharply after adjusting for the seasonal factor.

Automobile output continued to rise as retail sales improved.

Cotton manufacturing maintained the uptrend begun early in February. Residential building contracts awarded in early March gained less than the usual seasonal amount.

The index, with its seasonably adjusted components based on latest available statistics, and with 1926 equal to 100, follows:

	Latest wk.	Pr. wk.	Yr. ago
Composite index ..	81.3	82.8	75.5

COMMODITIES UNDER PRESSURE.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Commodity prices this week continued under the pressure that has forced them steadily lower during the last month or more.

The Associated Press weighed wholesale price index closed yesterday at 74.16, a new low for the year, against 74.40 last week and 73.18 in the comparable period a year ago.

All groups save the foods closed the week behind minus signs as the prices of 17 individual staples dropped, 6 advanced and 12 remained unchanged.

Prospects of increased supplies was regarded as the principal factor in the persistent decline. In this connection, commodity interests cited the recent statement by Secretary Wallace pointing to the possibility of larger crops this year.

Grains, corn, wheat, oats and rye, slipped further on the prospect of increased plantings in soil with a better moisture base. Cotton prices moved up a few notches under the impetus of a sustained high level of activity in the manufacturing end of the industry and talk of a scarcity of long, good quality staple.

The food index managed to edge out a small gain for the week on the strength of better prices for the heavily weighted sugar, lard and butter. Four other edibles, however, slumped, these being eggs, cocoa, coffee and flour.

Livestock was somewhat cheaper, hogs and cattle reacting, while lambs advanced.

Industrial raw materials were weak; rubber, bituminous coal, turpentine and linseed oil yielding fractions. Textiles drooped with wool and cotton cloth off somewhat and silk registering a small upturn.

The combined index, with its component indices, based on 1926 as 100, follows:

FINANCIAL BAROMETER.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The fall of the French franc and other European gold currencies against the dollar in Foreign Exchange dealings this week has raised prospects of a resumption of the large gold inflow which was interrupted early this year. The nation's monetary gold stock is back near the January peak, having recovered most of the minor dip recorded in February as result of about $20,000,000 in exports to Europe and sale of $10,000,000 to China.

The monetary gold stock, as reported by the Federal Reserve Board, compared as follows:

Week ended March 25	$10,177,000,000
Preecding week	$10,173,000,000
Same week last year	$8,563,000,000

FRANC UNDER GOLD EXPORT LEVEL AND BANK RAISES RATE

French Exchange Meets Strong Support, Generally Regarded as Official—Rediscount Basis Made 5 Per Cent.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The precipitate tumble of the French franc and other European gold currencies was partly checked today when strong support, generally believed to be official, appeared in Wall Street exchange dealings.

After sinking to a new 1936 low at 6.58¼ cents, the franc rallied feebly to close at 6.58⅜ cents, off .00⅝ of a cent. Holland guilders declined to 67.60 cents, also a new 1936 low, but rallied to close at 67.65 cents for a net decline of .26 of a cent.

Support for the franc came from a single source which brokers said had all the earmarks of official action, and followed within a few minutes the receipt of news dispatches from Paris telling of the raising of the discount rate by the Bank of France from 3½ per cent to 5 per cent.

Accompanying the increase in the Bank of France discount rate was a similar increase on its rate for 30-day loans and an increase of 5 to 6 per cent on its rate for loans on stocks.

The rise in the discount rate in an effort to prevent the outward flow of gold was the first since Nov. 25, when the rate was boosted to 6 per cent as the Laval Government fought devaluation talk.

Below Gold Level.

Although the franc and guilder both remained well below their gold export level, so far as could be determined no arrangements had been made for shipments from either center to New York. A number of factors entered this angle of the situation, including the lack of fast steamship service before next Wednesday from any French port, and the reluctance of bankers to hold francs over the week-end in view of the uncertain situation in European centers.

The latest sinking spell of the franc stirred up fresh discussion in Wall Street circles as to possible devaluation of the currency after the French general elections on April 26. In one quarter it is held that the franc is over-valued in terms of the pound sterling and dollar. Such an eventuality, most observers believed, would have no adverse effect upon the United States, and some pointed out that it might even improve conditions over the long-term.

Based on the franc at its final New York rate, the dollar was at a premium of 76-100 of 1 per cent, compared with 66-100 on Friday and a discount of 81-100 a month ago.

THREE MAJOR OIL COMPANIES ADVANCE GASOLINE PRICES

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., March 28.—Three major oil companies advanced the price of gasoline on all three grades here today. The Texas, Sinclair and Magnolia companies posted a schedule of 20 cents for treated gasoline, 18 for standard grade and 15 for third grade.

Other companies were still retailing for 19, 17 and 13 cents a gallon, but were expected to meet the advances immediately.

LOCAL STOCK TRADE MORE ACTIVE, MIXED

Gains and Losses as Result of Week's Turnover About Equal in Number.

The volume of trading on the St. Louis Stock Exchange last week was double that of the preceding week. Price changes showed about an equal number of gains and losses with similar number unchanged.

Dr. Pepper was up over 6 points to 42¼, most of the gain being recorded at one session. Missouri Portland advanced over a point, while Wagner Electric, Scullin Steel preference and Hussmann-Legonier were among fractional gainers.

There was a fairly large turnover in American Investment "A," which reacted fractionally. Laclede Steel was down several points, while International Shoe lost a fraction.

EARNINGS AND DIVIDENDS

Orders, factory productions and other business items.

By Standard Statistics Co., Inc.

NEW YORK, March 28.

Comparisons in earnings with corresponding periods previous year. In sales statements, see detailed reports for changes in number of stores, if any, on comparative dates.

RETAIL TRADE.

Reeves (Daniel) Inc.—1935 common share earnings were 66 cents vs. 47 cents.

UTILITIES.

Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern Power Corporation—1935 $1.60 preferred share earnings were $2.55 vs. $2.62.

General Telephone Corporation — Declared an initial dividend of 25 cents on common stock.

New England Public Service Co.—1935 combined prior preferred share earnings were $4.26 vs. $5.03.

Scranton-Spring Brook Water Service Co.—1935 preferred share earnings were $10.37 vs. $11.84.

ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT AND RADIO.

Noma Electric Corporation—Common share earnings, year ended Feb. 29, were 81 cents vs. 22 cents in year ended Feb. 28, 1935.

HOUSEHOLD PRODUCTS.

Metal Textile Corporation—1935 common share earnings were 39 cents vs. 56 cents.

MISCELLANEOUS.

McKesson & Robbins Inc.—February sales were up 13.9 per cent; two months up 12 per cent.

National Surety Corporation—Bid of Bancamerica Blair Corporation of 101½ for 70 per cent of capital stock of National Surety Corporation was approved by Supreme Court Justice Valente, New York, who directed Louis H. Pink, State Insurance Superintendent, to hold the remaining 30 per cent pending completion of a plan under which creditors will be permitted to purchase the remaining stock at the same price; court rejected the bid of Commercial Investment Trust which offered $100.31 per share for the entire 100,000 shares said it would not allow C. I. T. the option of meeting Bancamerica-Blair offer.

OIL.

North Central Texas Oil Co.—1935 common share earnings were 25 cents vs. 22 cents.

RAILROAD AND RAILROAD EQUIPMENT.

Atlantic Coast Line Railroad—February net railway operating income was $625,268 vs. $518,619; in two months net railway operating income was $688,824 vs. $622,076.

NARROW RANGE MARKS TRADING ON THE CURB

NEW YORK, March 28.—Curb market stocks backed and filled in a narrow range today with the trend a bit to the offside in most groups. Trading was light.

Electric Bond & Share was again heavily traded in. After dipping a small fraction during the first hour support appeared and the stock worked up to 23⅞ at the close, where it was ¼ higher.

Other shares ending in the advance column included City Auto Stamping, Woodley Petroleum and a number of the inactive specialties.

Losers included American Gas, Atlas Corporation, Aluminum Co., Newmont Mining Creole Petroleum and Sherwin-Williams. Sunshine Mining and United Gas preferred were among shares ending unchanged.

Transfers of 234,000 shares compared with 383,000 last Saturday.

INCREASE IN RAIL EARNINGS

NEW YORK, March 28.—Reports received so far indicated today that railroad earnings for February and for the first two months of the year were substantially ahead of the same period a year ago.

The first 57 roads reporting turned in increases of 20.4 per cent in gross and 30.0 per cent in net operating income for February over the same month in 1935.

Improvement in the first two months was 15.3 per cent in gross and 38.9 per cent in net operating income over last year.

BOND MARKET SLOW WITH PRICES MIXED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The bond market idled along at a slow pace today with a mixed trend predominating in the corporate division and slightly lower prices recorded in the Government group.

With sales at $5,358,000, par value, the session had the distinction of being the dullest since last October. This compared with $6,041,000 last Saturday. Sales of Governments were around $1,000,000.

The Associated Press averages reflected the extreme apathy of the market by moving a range of .1 of a point on the upside and .3 of a point on the downside. Rails and the foreign group were lower, and utilities and the low-yields a shade higher.

The principal trading feature was modest profit-taking in the Government section, attributed by dealers to adjustments that ordinarily follow several days of rising prices. Losses ranged from 1-32d in Treasury 3⅛s of 1949 to 6-32ds in the 2⅞s of 1955, amounts comparatively insignificant in view of the sharp rise earlier in the week, when the majority of the active issues established new highs for the year.

Corporate issues finishing fractionally higher included Anaconda 4½s at 104⅜, Baltimore & Ohio 4½s at 70, Bethlehem Steel 4¼s at 106⅛, New York Central 4s at 98½ and Third Avenue Adjustment 5s at 39. Parmelee Transportation 6s and Remington-Rand 4¼s with warrants rose more than 2 each.

Losers included Erie Refunding 5s, Northern Pacific 6s, "Katy" 5s, New Haven 6s, Armstrong Cork 4s, Tennessee Electric Power 6s and U. S. Rubber 5s.

Foreign bonds also moved narrowly. German 7s and Colombia 6s were higher and Australia 5s and Poland 6s were lower.

FINANCIAL NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Reports from a group of companies representing approximately half of the manufactured gas industry of the United States show an increase in gas send-out for January and February of 4.62 per cent over the same months of 1935, the American Gas Association reported today.

The more important dividend meetings scheduled for next week include Allied Chemical & Dye Corp., American Can, American Chicle and Beneficial Industrial Loan Co.

Stockholders of Graham-Paige Motors Corp. are scheduled to vote at the annual meeting April 20 on a proposal to increase the authorized common stock to 3,500,000 shares from 2,500,000 shares. If the move is approved, 600,000 shares will be offered stockholders at $3 a share on the basis of one new share for each four held. The funds will be used to retire outstanding notes and for additional working capital.

Favorable dividend changes in the past week totaled 25, compared with 36 in the previous week, Standard Statistics Co., Inc., reported. Unfavorable changes numbered five against three the week before.

Shipments of pneumatic casings in January were estimated at 3,874,764, a decline of 6.7 per cent from December, 1935, and an increase of 5.8 per cent over January, 1935, the Rubber Manufacturers' Association, Inc., stated.

Business in the domestic copper market has been of a routine character during the past week, with sufficient orders passing daily to give the market a firm tone, says the current issue of "Metal and Mineral Markets."

NEW YORK, March 28.—The total sugar melt of 13 United States refiners, reported by the Sugar Institute, was 995,000 long tons in the period from Jan. 1 to March 21. In 1935, from Jan. 1 to March 23, the total was 925,000 tons. Deliveries for the same period were 795,000 tons in 1936, against 815,000 tons in 1935.

LEAD, ZINC AND COPPER

Lead and zinc were nominally unchanged in St. Louis Saturday.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Metal prices nominally unchanged.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Lead and zinc futures closed quiet. No sales were reported.

NEW YORK RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, March 28.—Crude rubber futures opened barely steady, 5 to 11 lower. May 15.86; July 15.93b; Sept. 16.01-02.

Crude rubber futures closed steady, 5 to 7 lower. May 15.86, July 15.95, Sept. 16.05. Smoked ribbed spot 15.91n.

n—Nominal.

Boston Wool Market.

BOSTON, March 28.—(U. S. Dept. Agr.)—A waiting attitude prevailed quite generally in the Boston wool market during the past week. Purchases were confined largely to small quantities that mills occasionally needed to piece out stocks. Prices realized on the wools involved in these transactions were around the low sides of the ranges of prices of the bulk of the sales during the past month. Nominal quotations on Ohio and similar strictly combing fleeces were unchanged at 34@36c in the grease for 64s and finer, at 36-37 cents for 58s, 60s, ½ blood and at 41-43 cents for 56s, ⅜ blood and 48s, 50, ¼ blood.

SCRAP IRON AND METALS.

Scrap iron in the St. Louis market was quoted as follows: Per ton: Country agricultural or industrials $5.75@6.75; stove iron $5.25@6.25; cast iron, $7.50@8.50. Metals—Per 100 lbs.: Light brass, $2.75; heavy yellow brass $3.75; red brass $5.25; heavy copper wire $6.50; light do $5.50; zinc $2.75; lead $3.50; lead foil $2.75; tinfoil $28; aluminum $11.50.

OPEN VERDICT IN DEATH OF MAN IN COLLISION

Two Drivers Released on Appearance Bonds in Crash Fatal to Elmer F. Busk.

An open verdict was returned by a Coroner's jury in the death of Elmer F. Busk, 54-year-old photo-engraver, who was killed early yesterday when two automobiles collided at Page boulevard and Hanley road, St. Louis County. Eight other persons also were injured.

Busk, who resided at 5942 Hamilton terrace, was riding with Dewey McGee, 35, a pipe fitter, 5991 Ridge avenue, who was driving west in Page when his machine struck the eastbound automobile of Edward Herzing, 26, a mechanic, 3767 Penrose street. McGee and Herzing, who suffered minor lacerations, were released on $500 appearance bonds.

Other passengers in McGee's machine were Busk's wife, Mrs. Rose Busk, 56, who was treated for concussion of the brain, and Grant Williams, 72, 1422A Hodiamont avenue, who suffered lacerations of the face.

Occupants of Herzing's automobile, all of whom were cut and bruised, were: Iver M. Rosengren Jr., 25, 2131A De Soto avenue; Arthur Naes, 25, 3825 West Florissant avenue; Lawrence Brinkman, 21, 4232A Prairie avenue, and Charles Meyer, 3767 Penrose.

Missourians Married 69 Years.

By the Associated Press.

EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, Mo., March 28.—Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bates today observed their sixty-ninth wedding anniversary on the farm four miles north of here where they have lived nearly all their lives. Bates is 89 and Mrs. Bates 88. Their children include R. L. Bates, former State Representative, and E. L. Bates, city attorney of North Kansas City.

Convicted Murderer to Die by Gas.

By the Associated Press.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 28.—Paul H. Carroll, 36 years old, was convicted today of killing C. C. Barnard, Union Pacific Railroad division superintendent. The jury made no recommendation for leniency, which automatically condemned Carroll to death in the State's gas chamber. Carroll, a discharged switchman, shot Barnard to death last October.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

BARTOW, Fla., March 28. — Ed Heusser, the "Wild Elk" of the Wasatch whose 1935 record was impaired materially by the fact that he so frequently had one bad inning in an otherwise well pitched game, had the same difficulty this afternoon and had to accept a 4 to 2 defeat at the hands of the Rochester Red Wings, International League cousins of Frankie Frisch's Cardinals.

Heusser had the honor of being the first Cardinal hurler to pitch a complete game and had it not been for four Rochester hits, bunched with a base on balls in the third, Ed's performance would have been brilliant. He gave only eight safeties in the eight innings he worked and seven of the eight were scoreless.

Weiland Gives Only One Hit.

That one bad inning made Long Bob Weiland and Short Johnny Michaels stand out as the pitching heroes of the afternoon. Weiland, a former member of Rogers Hornsby's Browns, started for the International Leaguers and his well placed southpaw curves caused the Redbirds no end of trouble, Terry Moore's double in the third being the only St. Louis safety during his five innings on the hill.

Michaels, who lost more than he won for the Red Wings last year, was almost as effective, but like Heusser, he had one bad frame. In the sixth, his first on the hill the

Heidelberg to Test Shamrocks Today in Western Cup Final

By Dent McSkimming.

A team of young Americans from the Pittsburgh district today will take over the task which long has been the exclusive privilege of Chicago clubs, that of trying to squeeze St. Louis out of the national soccer championship. Heidelberg, Pa., a suburb of flood-besieged Pittsburgh, has recently forced its way into the center of the national soccer picture and in some respects it has made greater football progress in the past 10 years than Chicago, Cleveland or Detroit have made in three times that span.

THEIR TASK IS TO STOP HEIDELBERG

Joe Rodriguez, top, and Bill Watson, goaltender and center halfback, respectively, of the St. Louis Shamrock soccer club which opposes Heidelberg of Pittsburg at Walsh Stadium this afternoon in a Western Cup final,

After having enjoyed unusual success in the national amateur cup competition, Heidelbereg today is playing, for the first time in the town's football history, for the Western open championship. At Walsh Memorial Stadium this afternoon Heidelberg opposes St. Louis' colorful Shamrocks, who won the United States title last season under the name Centrals.

A second game will be played next Sunday at Pittsburgh and if a third game is necessary, the place will be decided later.

Eliminated Sparta.

In succeeding Chicago as St. Louis' most serious rival in the West, it was necessary for Heidelberg to defeat the sturdy Sparta club on its home field. Previously, the Pittsburghers had eliminated the all-Canadian Kodak Park club of Rochester; Curry of Pittsburgh and other local teams. The most serious test, of course, was that at Chicago last Sunday when, largely due to the inspiration of Center Forward Buff Donelli and Outside Left John Kuten, the youngsters swept through the veteran Sparta players for a 2-1 triumph, the most stunning blow Chicago Soccer has received in years.

One of the high lights of Heidelberg's busy and successful season was a series of three exhibition games here with the Shamrocks. Although there was nothing at stake but the glory that attaches to victory, the Pittsburgh boys played as if in a national cup final. They bowled the champions over in their first game, 4 to 2; came back a month later and gained a tie, 2—2, and then a week later lost, 2 to 0. Altogether, it was a most remarkable showing and the Shamrock players need no further warning as to Heidelburg's ability.

Donelli the Dynamo.

It is difficult to estimate the worth of one man to a soccer team, but players and fans generally agree that Aldo "Buff" Donelli is the dynamo, the generalissimo and the nerve center of the Heidelberg team. Possibly, the machine would function without him, since it is a most unusual organization, but while he is on the field he has full command, even though the ball be 75 yards away from him. Forceful, unselfish, wise in football wile, a student of position play and a dominating personality, "Buff" directs the defense as well as the attack. Like our one-time center forward star, Rich Brannigan, who bore the nickname "Bull," Donelli was aptly named by his kid pals when they called him "Buff." He played fullback on Duquesne University's football team and he has learned to take a hard bump without crying about it.

Another Duquesne U. athlete on the squad is George Dresmich, who just finished up a successful basketball season. Although he had not played in goal for Heidelberg all season, he stepped into the gap last Sunday against Sparta and had the fans popeyed with his sensational stops. Goal tending is his regular position, but he has not had an opportunity to play much this season. John Kuten, who had guarded the goal in 19 straight games, went to outside left against Sparta, scored two goals and will start in that position this afternoon.

Watson to Guard "Buff."

The Shamrocks are laying no special plans to combat Heidelberg's speed. They have seen a lot of that element in games against St. Louis teams and the Marre club

SPAIN VICTOR OVER PORTUGAL AT RUGBY

MADRID, Spain, March 28.—Spain defeated Portugal, 16 to 9, today in an international rugby match.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Weight of the Imponderable.

DON'T be surprised if you read where some British tannery has been sued for millions of dollars, all because of the Grand National Steeplechase.

At least $2,100,000 was lost and the lives of at least 15 persons rendered miserable all because an insignificant piece of leather wouldn't stand up in a pinch.

The persons involved are the owner and rider of the steeplechaser Davy Jones, and the 14 persons who would have won a first prize of $150,000 each had the horse named won the event.

Davy had the situation well in hand nearing the final jump of the race. He was out in front and had set the pace most of the second round. Approaching the last obstacle it seemed a certainty that Davy would finish in front, when the reins broke!

The horse swerved and left the course and Reynoldstown, which had been trailing, galloped home first a lucky winner.

Proving that, even in a horse race, you can't take the little things too lightly.

Perhaps a proper inspection of the reins before the event would have earned $50,000 for the owner of Davy Jones, would have enriched 14 first prize winners and would have rewarded many backers of the horse at odds of 66 to 1.

It was Bismarck who said that "wars are won by the weight of the imponderables."

So, apparently, are horse races.

The Derby Runs a Temperature

THE derby business is becoming positively feverish. Although the race appeared one of the most uncertain in many years, a month ago, future books all report business better than usual.

This year, for the first time since Black Gold caused so many hand books to welsh, there are five future book operators in the field. Two monopolized the handle in past years—Tom Shaw and Tom Kearney.

This year 3h w, Charley Burke (now operating Kearney's "big store"), Jack Kyne in San Francisco, Frank Cosgrove in New Jersey and an unnamed backer of a book in Louisville are in the field.

The prices have one thing in

AL ROTHSCHILD BEATS WIESE FOR INDOOR TENNIS TITLE

By Davison Obear.

A gallant rally in the third and fourth sets by Ray Wiese did no more than inject additional thrills into the final match of the St. Louis Indoor Tennis singles final at Washington University Field House last night, for Al Rothschild, victor in the first two sets, tightened up in a crucial drive and won set and match and championship.

Rothschild, former St. Louis District junior champion, but now a resident of New York, surprised by sweeping through Wiese, a Triple A Club representative, in the first two sets by scores of 6—2 and 8—6. The local player had entered the final a slight favorite because of his brilliant conquest of Karl Hodge, and he hit the stride expected of him in the third set. He took this one, 5—7, and the fourth by the same score to square the match. He seemed on the verge of taking the title when Rothschild pulled himself together, flashed his most brilliant effort of the evening and took the fifth set, 6 games to 3.

As the result of his victory over Weise, Rothschild won the first leg on the new Roy Culbertson trophy. Hodge, the defending champion, was eliminated by Weise in the semifinal round.

The point score of the Rothschild-Wiese match follows:

Peacock Wins From Owens in Exhibition Race

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, March 28.—Eulace Peacock, Temple University dash star, defeated Jesse Owens of Ohio State University by less than a foot in a 50-yard exhibition raec at Public Hall tonight. The time was 5.4 seconds, two-tenths of a second slower than Owen's former hall record.

Dave Politzer of Western Reserve University was third and Bob Lewis of Ohio State placed fourth as the Philadelphia Negro outdistanced his Buckeye rival for the fourth straight time.

It was their first meeting this year.

A half-hour before the final race was run. Peacock slipped at the start and did not attempt to continue. Owens won easily over his other two foes in 5.5 seconds, but agreed to run again rather than disappoint a crowd of approximately 5700 spectators gathered for the annual interscholastic track meet.

Peacock's other three victories over Owens in as many races came in longer sprints late last season after the Ohio State track captain had gone through a hard campaign, breaking three world's marks in the broad jump, hurdles and 220-yard dash, and tying the accredited 100-yard dash record.

Each won his qualifying heat tonight in 5.4 seconds. Five timers agreed in clocking Peacock frst and Owens a very close second.

The field was off to a good start. Owens forged to the front, but Peacock, coming like a streak, caught him halfway down the floor. Observers at the finish line said they could barely see light between the two.

TORONTO DEFEATS AMERICANS IN FIRST GAME OF PLAY-OFFS

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, March 28.—The Toronto Maple Leafs tonight downed the New York Americans, 3-1, to take the first of a two-out-of-three game series in the semifinals of the National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoffs.

St. Louisan Reappointed.

By the Associated Press.

OMAHA, Neb., March 28.—Ak-Sar-Ben officials tonight announced the reappointment of Jack Hodgins, St. Louis, as starter for the Ak-Sar-Ben running race meeting scheduled for the Omaha plant May 28 to July 4.

REMEMBER 1926? They're Back Together Again

ROGERS HORNSBY and JIM BOTTOMLEY, two old favorites with St. Louis baseball fans, were instrumental in winning a pennant for the Cardinals in 1926. Now they're both with the Browns and hopeful of repeating their act.

UTAH UPSETS KANSAS AND QUALIFIES FOR OLYMPIC TRIALS

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, March 28.—Utah State won the right to compete in the Olympic basketball finals at New York by upsetting the University of Kansas 50 to 31 here tonight.

The Rocky Mountain cagers who on Thursday night toppled the Big Six Conference champions from the season's undefeated list after a string of 23 consecutive victories, grabbed a 20-16 lead at the half and loosed a bewildering offensive in the second half.

Kansas, coached by Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen, a director of the Olympic basketball competition in the United States, had been rated as one of the college quintets favored to battle right down to the Olympic finish.

The Jawhawkers managed to nose out Coach E. L. (Dick) Romney's charges 39 to 37 in the first game but were toppled 42 to 37 in the second encounter.

Temple Wins.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—Temple University advanced another step in the inter district Olympic basketball eliminations tonight, defeating Niagara University, 37 to 36, in a nip and tuck battle at the University of Pennsylvania Palestra.

Ernie Messikomer, Temple guard, found the basket for a foul with only 15 seconds to play to decide the game.

Niagara was champion of District One, Temple of District Two. By virtue of its victory, Temple will play in the National eliminations next week in New York.

CAROLINA CUP RACE AT THREE MILES WON BY J. L. SCHIFF'S INDIGO

By the Associated Press.

CAMDEN, S. C., March 28.—Indigo, big grey gelding owned by John L. Schiff, nosed out Oliver C. today in the seventh running of the Carolina cup race.

A society throng of about 10,000 was packed about the historic Springdale Course for the race meet.

KAY WINTHROP WINS AND RETAINS HER TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BROOKLINE, Mass., March 28.—Miss Kay Winthrop, Brookline, this afternoon successfully defended her New England women's singles tennis championship at the Longwood covered courts, defeating Mrs. Virginia Rice Johnson, Boston, 6—3, 4—6, 6—4.

Medica Wins Three N.C.A.A. Swimming Championships for Third Year in Succession

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 28.—Tireless Jack Medica of Seattle and husky Jack Kasley of Michigan set a furious tempo tonight to bring the thirteenth annual National Collegiate A. A. swimming meet to a close, and send the major honors of the competition to the Pacific Coast and Midwest.

For the third consecutive year, the dark-haired human nautical automaton from the University of Washington captured three N. C. A. A. titles, completing the triple slam tonight with a beautiful blistering 440-yard free style race. Medica previously had splashed his way to the 1500-meter and 220-yard free style crowns.

Kasley led a doughty band of Midwesterners to all of the remaining titles except the 100-yard free style, which was won by Charley Hutter, Harvard's sensational sophomore. Hutter's performance saved the East from being completely routed by the mermen who came from long distances.

Kasley Breaks Record Twice.

Kasley twice today broke the existing world record for the 200-yard breast stroke and set the pace for the rest of the competition by smashing three world standards in one race. In his trial heat of the 200-yard breast stroke this afternoon he was clocked in 2:22.5, more than three seconds better than the record of 2:25.2 set by J. Cartonnet of France. He went on to swim the 200 meters in 2:37.2 and 220 yards in 2:38.4. He broke another world mark set by Cartonnet at 200 meters and lowered the American mark, equivalent to a world record, at 220 yards.

In the final tonight Kasley swam 200 yards in 2:25 flat, again bettering Cartonnet's listed record. For his feats Kasley was presented with the prize awarded to the nation's outstanding college swimmer of the year by Coach Fred Cady of Southern California.

Michigan's Wolverines captured the unofficial team title with a total of 30 points, six more than Iowa and 14 more than Yale.

Frank Fehsenfeld of Michigan and the Wolverines' 400-yard relay team were the only 1935 champions present who failed to retain their titles. Fehsenfeld lost his one-meter board diving crown, but again won the title from the high board. Iowa defeated Michigan in the relay.

The summaries:

100-YARD FREE STROKE, FINAL—Won by Hutter, Harvard; second, Walters, Iowa; third, Macionis, Yale; fourth, Cooke, Yale; fifth, Reilly, Rutgers; sixth, J. Brown, Chicago. Time, 52.9 seconds.

200-YARD BREAST STROKE, FINAL—Won by Kasley, Michigan; second, Degnan, Wesleyan; third, Heilpern, Ohio; fourth, Horschke, Northwestern; fifth, Gorman, Western Reserve; sixth, Jacoby, Lehigh. Time, 2:25 seconds.

440-YARD FREE STYLE—Final—Won by Medica, Washington; second, Gilhuis, Southern California; third, Jacobsmeyer, Iowa; fourth, Barnard, Michigan; fifth, Hoyt, Yale; sixth, Woodford, Ohio. Time —4m. 44.6s.

FANCY DIVING 3-METER (HIGH) BOARD—Won by Fehsenfeld, Michigan, 146.22; second, Patterson, Ohio State, 145.28; third, Diefendorf, Michigan, 139.54; fourth, Grady, Michigan, 139.50; fifth, Johnston, Michigan, 139.06; sixth, Kallman, Ohio State, 119.44.

FINAL 400-YARD RELAY—Won by Iowa (Jacobsmeyer, Christians, Walters, Sieg), 3:35.5; second, Yale (Willcox, Cooke, Rogers, Macionis); third, Harvard (Bertzzi, McKay, Bainbridge, Hutter); fourth, Illinois (Hansen, Overman, Irwin, Lewis); fifth, Michigan (Kasley, Barnard, Drew, Mowerson); sixth, Brown (Beaven, Forbes, Hemmerdinger, Love).

SPRING SERIES AND OPENING DAY SEATS ON SALE TOMORROW

Tickets to the spring series games between the Browns and the Cardinals, April 11 and 12, and for the championship season opening day games will go on sale this week. Tomorrow, the Cardinals' ticket office in the Arcade building will begin sale of tickets for the Sunday spring game and for their season inaugural April 14 with the National League champions, the Chicago Cubs. The Browns will open their office in the Arcade building Wednesday for sale of seats for the first spring game, April 11, and for their home opener with the Cleveland Indians, April 17.

Only two games will be played in the spring series tilts this year. The Browns open at Chicago for one series, then return to Sportsman's Park for games with the Cleveland Indians.

In the spring series contests the Browns will be the "at home" team Saturday and the Cards Sunday.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 28.—Mike Meola, the broad-shouldered Italian from the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League, went a long way toward winning himself a regular job on the Browns' pitching staff this afternoon, even though he was charged with the defeat in the game with the Senators. The score was 8 to 7 and it took 10 innings to reach a decision. It was the second straight reverse for the Browns.

Meola was the only one of the three hill men used by Manager Rogers Hornsby, who even resembled a pitcher. Russell Van Atta, who started, was punished for four tallies in the first; Le Roy Mahaffey, who went to the hill after the southpaw finished, was found for five safeties and three runs in two innings. Then came Meola. For three rounds, he yielded only one hit.

Winning Run Scored on Error.

Then came the tenth. Stone and Kuhel opened with singles. Manager Hornsby ordered Catcher Holbrook purposely passed. Pitcher Bokina hit to Bejma and it looked like a double play via the plate. But Bejma missed connections and Stone came across the pay-off station with the deciding tally.

Thus, Meola, while he was on the hill allowed only three safeties.

It was a costly victory for the Griffmen. Buddy Myer, the club's second baseman and the leading hitter in the American League last season, was painfully injured in the fourth inning when a bad bounding grounder off Julius Solters' bat hit him in the nose. It was at first reported that his nose had been fractured, but after the game it was announced that the member had been badly bruised. However, it is expected that he will be miss-

Root and Kowalik Pounded in 14 Hits—Bees, Unable to Solve Hadley and Malone, Lose to Yankees, 5-0 —Dodgers Defeated by Newark, 6-5.

By the Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla., March 28.—The Cincinnati Reds, climaxing a 14-hit barrage with a four-run rally in the seventh, came from behind today to defeat Chicago's Cubs 7 to 3.

Cincinnati pecked away a hit or two each inning to score twice in the first six innings while the Cubs tallied three times on five blows off Emmett Nelson. The Reds then landed on Pitchel Charlie Root for five hits in succession to forge ahead in the seventh and added an extra run in the eighth on shortstop Billy Myers' home run.

Jim Brennan, who relieved Nelson in the fifth, held the Cubs to one hit in the last five innings.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 28.—After being held to three hits and two runs in seven innings by Fred Frankhouse, the Newark Bears of the International League hit Van Mungo freely in the closing frames to a 10-inning decision from the Brooklyn Dodgers, 6-5, today.

The Bears bunched four hits off Mungo in the eighth and sent three

TEN NEW RECORDS ESTABLISHED IN TEXAS RELAY MEET

FRANCIS BEATS SHOT PUT MARK SET IN 1931 BY RHEA, NEBRASKA

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 28.—Despite a stiff wind, records were smashed today in the Texas Relays, the nation's first major outdoor meet of the Olympic year.

The University of Texas Longhorns lowered the relays record of 1:27 in the half-mile relay to 1:25.6, but failed to equal the world record of 1:25.8.

The Longhorns also bettered the previous mark for the quarter mile relay by two-tenths of a second with a time of 41.5 seconds.

The Medley relay record of 3:35.2, established in 1928 by the Kansas State Teachers of Pittsburg, Kan., fell before the Oklahoma Baptists, who hung up 3:33.

Kansas State took one-tenth of a second off the old record in the mile team race, timed at 4:28.4. The Emporia (Kan.) Teachers lowered the previous record for the distance medley to 10:22.5.

New marks in field events were set in the shot put and the pole vault. Francis of the University of Nebraska hurled the shot 51 feet, 9⅜ inches, breaking the record of 51 feet 2½ inches set by Rhea of Nebraska in 1931.

Billy Roy of Loyola of the South, cleared the bar in the pole vault at 13 feet, 9⅞ inches to better the record of 13 feet, 8½ inches made by Warne of Northwestern in 1930.

About 1000 athletes competed in the ninth annual event staged by the University of Texas. Competitors came from Universities, colleges, junior colleges and high schools from many sectons of the nation.

Weather was fair despite a southwest cross wind.

The university, college and high school athletes smashed 10 records in all and another was tied.

Glen (Slats) Hardin, formerly of Louisiana State, showed excellent form in winning a special 400 meter hurdle race in which he holds the world record. Hardin defeated Alex Cox, former captain of the University of Texas track team. Hardin's time was 54.9 seconds.

The summaries:

SHOT PUT—Won by Francis, Nebraska; second, Dryer, Kansas State Teachers (Emporia); third, Erwin, T. C. U. Distance—51 ft. 9⅜ in. (New relay record.)

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Allen, Oklahoma Baptist; second, Wallace, Rice; third, Cardwell, Nebraska. Time—14.7s.

HIGH JUMP—Philson, Drake, and Stevens, Kansas Teachers, tied at 6 ft. 3¾ in.; Shannon, Kansas, and Williams, Southwest Texas Teachers, tied at 6 ft. 1¾ in.

100-YARD DASH—Won by Wallender, Texas; second, Reeves, Texas; third, Smith, Drake. Time—9.7s.

POLE VAULT—Won by Roy, Loyola (New Orleans); Weichert of Rice and Bryan, Schreiner, tied for second and third. Height—13 ft. 9⅞ in. (New relay record.)

ONE-MILE TEAM RACE—Won by Kansas State; second, L. S. U.; third, Texas. Time—4m. 28.4s. (New record.)

QUARTER-MILE RELAY—Won by Texas; second, Kansas; third, Rice. Time—41.5s.

MEDLEY RELAY—Won by Oklahoma Baptist; second, Kansas State Teachers of Pittsburg; third, North Texas Teachers. Time—3m. 33s. (New relay record.)

TWO-MILE RELAY—Won by Oklahoma; second, Kansas State (only entries). Time—8m. 6.5s.

DISCUS THROW—Won by Petty, Rice; second, Fanning, Kansas State; third, Socolofsky, Kansas State. Distance—152 ft. 8½ in.

3000-METER RUN—Won by Wheelock, Kansas State; second, Padgett, Drake; third, Cleveland, Oklahoma. Time—9m. 8.4s.

BROAD JUMP—Won by Cardwell, Nebraska; second, Koback, Chicago; third, Pitt, Kansas. Distance—23 ft.

HALF-MILE RELAY—Won by Texas; second, Kansas; third, Chicago. Time—1m. 25.6s. (New Relay record.)

DISTANCE MEDLEY—Won by Emporia (Kan.) Teachers; second, L. S. U.; third, Kansas State. Time—10m. 22.5s. (New Relay record.)

ONE-MILE COLLEGE RELAY—Won by Oklahoma Baptist University; second, Kansas State Teachers of Pittsburg; third, Southwest Texas State Teachers. Time—3m. 21s. (New Relay record.)

JAVELIN THROW—Won by Terry, Hardin-Simmons; second, Stephens, L. S. U.; third, Mayes, Rice. Distance—206 ft. 2.1 in.

ONE-MILE UNIVERSITY RELAY—Won by Texas; second, Kansas State; third, Kansas University. Time—3m. 19s.

Giants Lose Fourth Straight.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 28.—The New York Giants' ninth-inning rally fell one run short today and they dropped their fourth straight game to the Cleveland Indians, losing 5 to 4.

Score by innings:

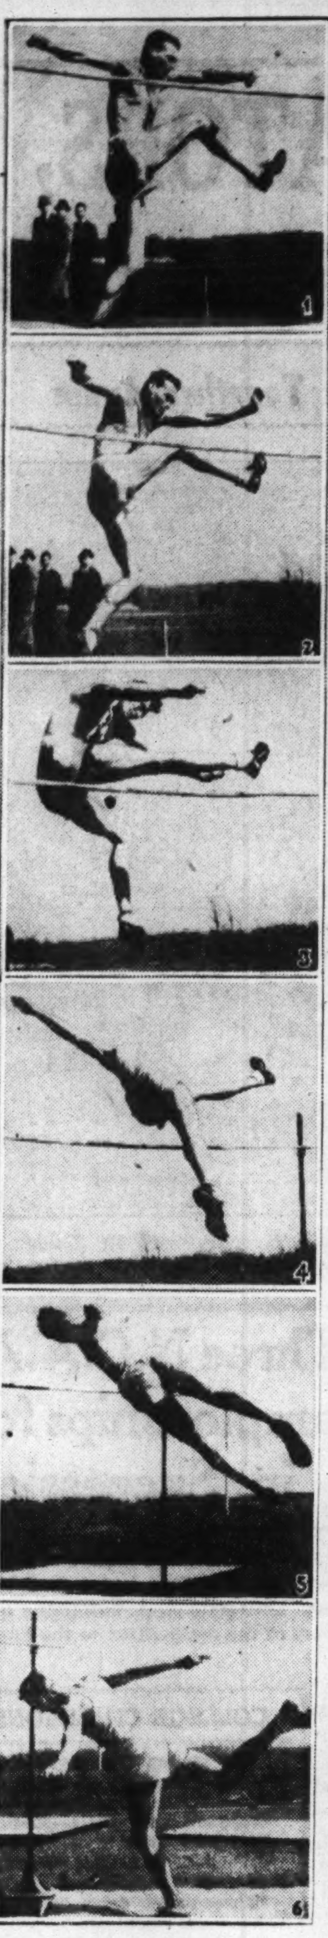
Yanks Step on Bees.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 29.—Behind the combined four-hit pitching of Irving (Bump) Hadley and Pat Malone, the New York Yankees shut out the Boston Bees 5 to 0 today for their fourth straight decision over the National League club and their sixth victory in 10 exhibition games.

Hadley, pitching the first five innings, allowed two of the hits and the other two came off Malone in the last four frames. The Yankees got to Danny MacFayden and Ray Benge for 11 safeties but did not score until the seventh and eighth innings, when they bunched six of their blows with Benge on the mound. Arndt Jorgens led the Yankee attack with a pair of doubles and a single.

The Eastern Roll



William J. Eipel illustrates what happens when a jumper clears a bar using the Eastern style leap. After completing the jump, the athlete faces exactly opposite to his starting position, he having executed a half turn in mid-air. Eipel, 1936 indoor champion, attends Manhattan College.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 28.—The veteran Gus Suhr snapped out of a long batting slump today in the twelfth inning to drive in the run that gave Pittsburgh a 4-3 triumph over Chicago's White Sox.

Suhr's liner bounced off Emergency Third Baseman Haas' glove for a single, to send in Paul Waner, ending an uphill battle for the Pirates that began in the fourth when Luke Sewell blasted a home run with two on.

But Hafey, pinch hitting for Padden, knocked a four-base blow in the ninth to tie up the game for Pittsburgh.

Phillies Lose, 3-1.

By the Associated Press.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 28.—The Phillies' mastery over minor league teams struck a snag today when the Baltimore Orioles defeated the National Leaguers, 3 to 1.

Grabowski pitched the first five innings and did not allow the Orioles a hit. It was against the pitches of Claude Passeau, recruit from Des Moines, that the Orioles put together all their hits and winning runs.

Champions Beat Red Sox.

By the Associated Press.

SARASOTA, Fla., March 28.—Manuel Salvo, West Coast rookie, held the Detroit Tigers scoreless for five innings today, but the world champions pounded Stew Bowers, his successor, during the last five frames to gain a 10-inning 5-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Salvo gave the Tigers but three hits and two passes during his stay on the mound. Bowers had a 2-0 lead when he entered the game but the Tigers tied it up in the seventh. In the tenth, with two out and two on, Marvin Owen decided the game with a slashing double.

ROYAL HEARTS PLAY GIANTS OF COURTS TONIGHT AT ST. LOUIS U.

The Globe Refiners of McPherson, Kan., National A. A. U. basketball champions, will stop off here tonight for an exhibition game with the Royal Hearts, Municipal A. A. champions, at the St. Louis University gymnasium. The game, scheduled to start at 9 o'clock, will be preceded by a contest between the United Service team, Ozark A. A. U. champion, and the Hi-Pointes, at 8 o'clock.

They call the Globe Refiners the Oilers, but their nickname could just as well be "Giants," because there is not a player on the squad under six feet. The coach himself is six feet tall, while the players range from six feet one inch to six feet nine inches. Here are the figures:

Francis Johnson, forward, 6 feet 1 inch; Jack Ragland, guard, 6 feet 1 inch; Bailey, forward, 6 feet 1 inch; Lee Gibbons, guard, 6 feet 2 inches; Bill Wheatley, guard, 6 feet 4 inches; Vernon Vaughn, forward, 6 feet 5 inches; Harry Dowd, forward, 6 feet 6 inches; Joe Fortenberry, center, 6 feet 8 inches, and Willard Schmidt, center, 6 feet 9 inches.

Beat New York All-Stars.

With that kind of a lineup, it is small wonder that the champions have defeated most of the outstanding teams in the country and are expected to win the American Olympic trials starting in New York Friday.

New York had a glimpse of the Oilers when they played an All-Star team there recently. The All-Stars were recruited mostly from Long Island University, which, as a team, won 23 consecutive games from college opponents. The Oilers had the New Yorkers pop-eyed when they took an overtime decision from the All-Stars.

The Royal Hearts, too, know what to expect, for they drew the Oilers in the second round of the A. A. U. tournament at Denver. Early in the game the Hearts had a 12 to 2 lead, but the Oilers then began to click to win out by a 64 to 37 score.

All Members Standouts.

In the A. A. U. tournament, against teams which were the pick of the country, the Oilers had a 57-points-per-game average, which speaks well for their sharpshooting. Two of the players were named for the first All-American A. A. U. team. They were Fortenberry and Wheatley. Three others were picked for the second team. They were Johnson, Ragland and Gibbons.

The Hearts probably will line up with Henry Krey and Elmer Serb, forwards; Elmer Ackman, center, and Jack Sanders and Bill Cochran, guards. Serb, a graduate of Central High School, will be remembered as one of the winners of the St. Louis Browns' traveling scholarships for being one of the two outstanding high school baseball players in 1934. Pete Chulick of McKinley, a pitcher, was the other boy who toured the circuit with the Browns that year.

Herb Fash, retiring captain of the St. Louis University Billikens for the 1935-36 season, has been declared eligible under A. A. U. rules for the game and he will break into the lineup at a guard position.

Coach Mike Nyikos of St. Louis University and Roy Newsom will referee tonight's game. The admission charge will be 40 cents.

The probable lineups:

McPHERSON, KAN.	Position.	ROYAL HEARTS.
Johnson	Fd.	Krey
Vaughn	Fd.	Serb
Fortenberry	C.	Ackman
Wheatley	Gd.	Sanders
Ragland	Gd.	Cochran

KIRKWOOD SENIORS WIN DUAL TRACK MEET FROM CLAYTON, 63-59

The Kirkwood High School seniors took a close decision from Clayton, 63 to 59, in a dual track meet held yesterday afternoon at Kirkwood.

Bud Harvey starred for Clayton with three firsts and a second.

The results:

100-YARD DASH—Won by Hughes, Kirkwood; Curtis, Clayton, second; Gorstang, Kirkwood, third. Time, 10.3.

440-YARD DASH—Won by Curtis, Clayton; Dierl, Kirkwood, second; Scott, Kirkwood, third. Time, 55.1.

MILE RUN—Won by Plank, Kirkwood; Rollston, Kirkwood, second; Pettibone, Kirkwood, third. Time, 5:26.3

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Harvey, Clayton; Whitson, Clayton, second; McAtee, Kirkwood, third. Time, 17.7.

200-YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Harvey, Clayton; McAtee, Kirkwood, second; Wunch, Clayton, third. Time, 24.8.

HIGH JUMP—Won by Duchek, Kirkwood; Harvey, Clayton; Whitson, Clayton, and Kasty, Clayton, tied for third. Height, 5 feet, 4 inches.

220-YARD DASH—Won by Cohen, Clayton; Garstang, Kirkwood, second; Hughes, Kirkwood, third. Time—24.2s.

880-YARD RUN—Won by Pier, Clayton; Tass, Kirkwood, second; Venarde, Kirkwood, third. Time—2m. 15s.

880-YARD RELAY—Won by Kirkwood (Hughes, Morgan, Dierl, Garstang). Time—1m. 19.4s.

POLE VAULT—Won by Brady, Kirkwood; Mutrux and Litzsinger, Clayton, tied for second. Height—10 ft.

SHOT PUT—Won by Barnett, Kirkwood; Gleitman, Clayton, second; Scott, Kirkwood, third. Distance—42 ft. 8 in.

DISCUS THROW—Won by Barnett, Kirkwood; Mutrux, Clayton, second; Duchek, Kirkwood, third. Distance—118 ft. 10 in.

JAVELIN THROW—Won by Mutrux, Clayton; Morgan, Kirkwood, second; Wesselmeyer, Kirkwood, third. Distance—150 ft. 3 in.

BROAD JUMP—Won by Harvey, Clayton; Curtis, Clayton, second; Morgan, Kirkwood, third. Distance—20 ft. 7½ in.

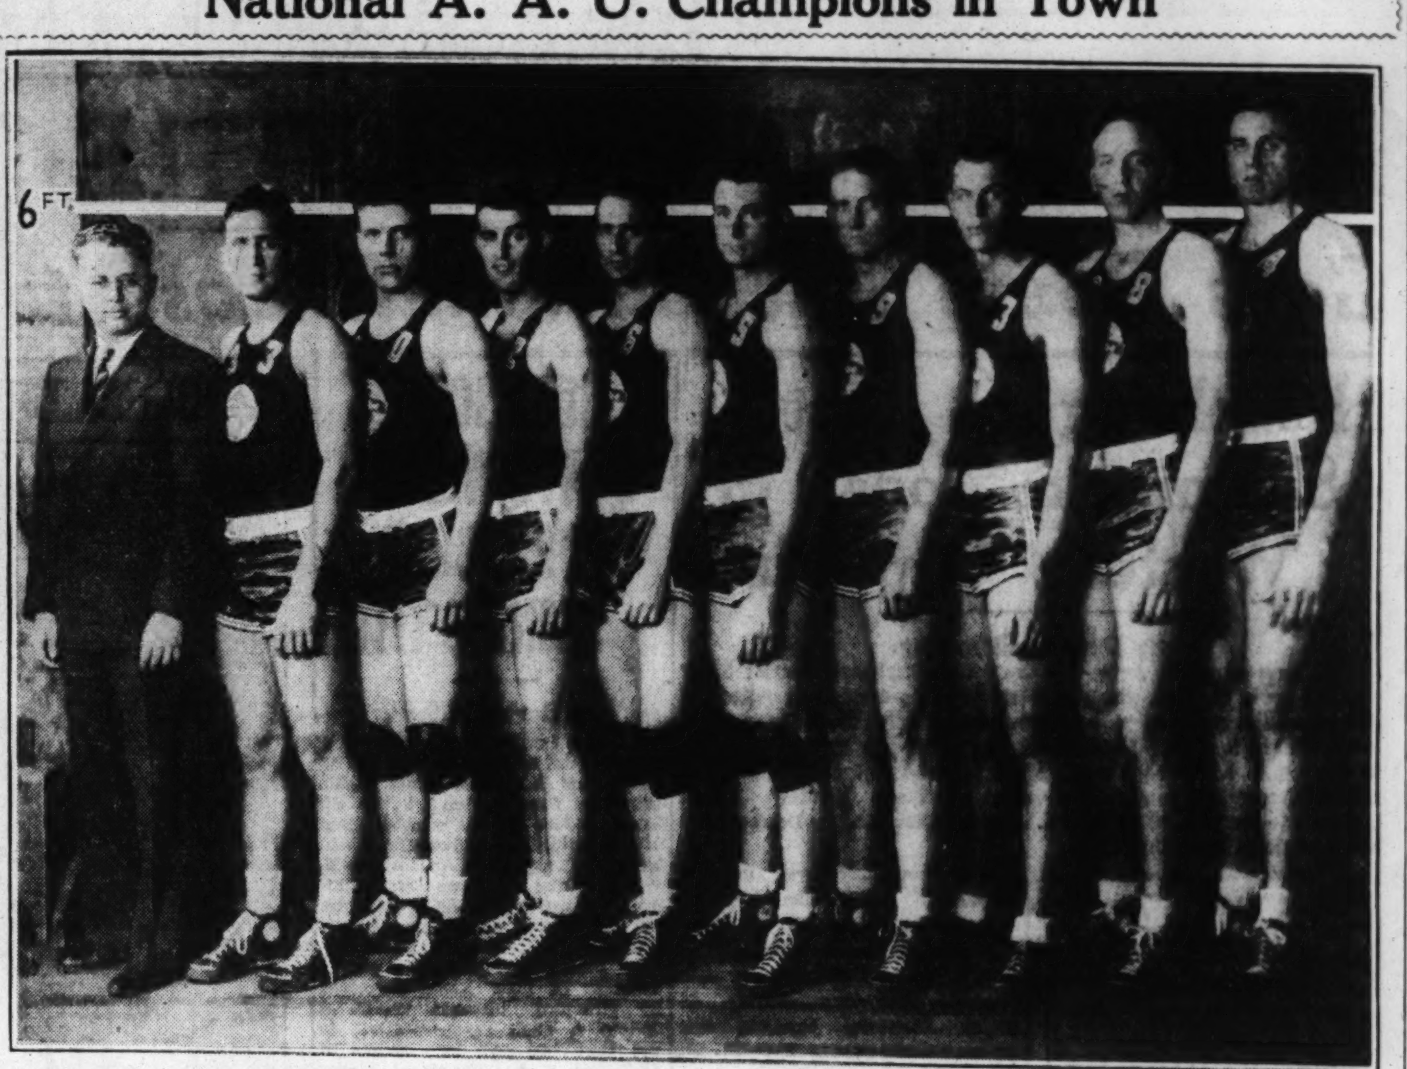
National A. A. U. Champions in Town



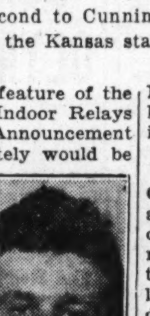
The Globe Refiners of McPherson, Kan., who will stop off here tonight to play the Municipal basketball champions at St. Louis University gymnasium. The Oilers, all of whom are over six feet in height, are as follows: Left to right—Gene Johnson, manager and coach; Francis Johnson, forward; Jack Ragland, guard; Bailey, forward; Lee Gibbons, guard; Bill Wheatley, guard; Vernon Vaughn, forward; Harry Dowd, forward; Joe Fortenberry, center; Willard Schmidt, center. Schmidt is 6 feet 9 inches tall.

Frank Nordell, Conqueror Of Glenn Cunningham, Races Kansan Here Next Saturday

By Damon Kerby

Frank Nordell, former New York University star who startled the track world by defeating Glenn Cunningham and Joe Mangan two weeks ago at Newark, N. J., and Glen Dawson, Tulsa distance star who finished second to Cunningham in a 1000 meter race here last summer, will be the Kansas star's opponents here in a mile race next Saturday night.

The race will be a feature of the St. Louis Invitation Indoor Relays at the Coliseum. Announcement that the meet definitely would be held was made yesterday by Norman Placke, promoter.



NORDELL

Nordell accepted the invitation to compete late yesterday afternoon, wiring his acceptance from Cleveland. He was a hard man to corner, according to Plake. The head of the St. Louis Relays Association first telegraphed him, care of the New York A. C. Nordell replied from Cincinnati. Plake sent him another telegram; to this one he replied from Cleveland, and, in his reply, he said if he came to the St. Louis meet he would need expense money from Philadelphia. Plake then wired him for the third time, and the acceptance followed.

Nordell, as was shown in the Newark race, is at his very best on a flat board track, and it is on this type of track he will run here next Saturday night. He will likely give Cunningham a stiff battle, but Dawson, too, should figure in there somewhere.

Dawson Approaching His Peak.

Long a seasoned campaigner among distance men, Dawson has engaged in a light season of activity during the fast-closing indoor season, having been saving himself for the Olympic tryouts. Just a shade short of the top flight men—he usually finishes third in the big races—he hopes that by entering the Olympic tryouts in fresh physical condition he can beat some of his rivals who have been following a strenuous winter grind. He finished third, behind Cunningham and Gene Venzke, in the Baxter Mile at the New York A. C. Games a few weeks ago, his first race of the indoor season.

The mile field will be limited to three men.

Ralph Metcalfe, the Marquette U. Negro star will be the outstanding entrant in the 50-yard dash. With his eyes on an Olympic team berth, Metcalfe has been burning up the boards recently. A few weeks ago he regained the national 60-meter title in the National A. A. U. indoor championships at New York, and later defeated Eulace Peacock and others at 60 yards in a meet at Newark.

Great Dash Race on the Fire.

Plake is trying to obtain Bob Grieve, University of Illinois star, and Jesse Owens of Ohio State as opponents for Metcalfe. Grieve raced 60 yards in 6.6 seconds at the Central A. A. U. indoor meet last Friday night at Chicago, on a dirt track.

Floyd Lochner, National Intercollegiate two-mile champion whose running was one of the features of the Indoor Relay Program here last month, will return to compete in the two-mile race Saturday night. His opponents may include Ray Sears, Butler U. star and Harold Manning of Wichita, Kan. Sears won the 3000-meter race here last summer, with Manning third.

The high jump event will be featured by the appearance of the veteran Harold Osborn, one of the marvels of the track world. This fellow, at the recent Millrose A. C. Games, jumped six feet six inches, the exact mark at which he won the high jump at the 1924 Olympics. Here last summer he bettered his own unofficial world record in the standing high jump, by leaping five feet six inches. Plake is trying to bring Lang of Rolla Mines and Kelley of Missouri U. in to furnish Osborn's competition.

All Olympic Prospects.

A 600-yard run and a mile walk will complete the invitational section of the program. There is a possibility that the brilliant Bart Ward, Oklahoma U. graduate who is keeping in training for the Olympic trials, will be here for the "600."

The coming meet will be the last indoor event of the season for the athletes who have been invited to take part. All of those invited will try for positions on the U. S. Olympic team which will depart for Europe next June, and, following the Olympics, most of them will retire from track competition. Therefore, this will probably be St. Louis' last time to see many of these athletics perform, whether or not they go to the Olympics.

All athletes in the Ozark District who are registered with the A. A. U. have been invited to compete in the Ozark section of the program. Events in this classification will be an eight-lap sprint relay, 440-yard, 880-yard, and mile runs.

Tickets, on sale this week at downtown sporting goods stores, range in price from 40 cents to $1.50.

M. U. HALFBACK, INELIGIBLE, DROPPED

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 28.—Scholastic difficulties deprived the University of Missouri football team today of the services of Don Johnson, St. Joseph, a regular starting halfback.

Johnson faled to make necessary grades during a six weeks' probation period and was forced to drop out of school. He can re-enter next fall but will not be eligible for football.

Johnson, a graduate of Central High School at St. Joseph, started about half of Missouri's games at right halfback.

A Flying Start.

Before a ticket had been printed for the Joe Louis-Schmeling fight, Promoter Mike Jacobs had sold the motion picture rights for $25,000 and the radio privileges for $27,500, which adds up $52,500 in American money. Almost enough to pay for the $60,000 worth of extra seats Mike figures on erecting in the Polo Gounds, or Yankee Stadium, as the case may be.

Freddie Miller, featherweight champion, fought on an average of once a week in 1935. More work and less play keeps a guy on edge.

Nothing Doing.

A GUY named Marcantonio
Would unionize the baseball pro.
"Lay off!" exclaimed the young recruit,
"I'll never wear a union suit."

St. Paul, having won the championship of the American Hockey Association, will play the St. Louis Flyers to find out if they are champions or just runners-up. It's a cock-eyed world, my masters.

George Earnshaw, whose rejuvenation has been the chief topic of discussion in the Stengel camp, says he may win 20 games this year. Indicating that George has caught that old Flatbush spirit.

The Marcantonio bill to unionize baseball originated in the lower house but we doubt that the Senators will fall for it.

See where Leo Durocher was presented with a wrist watch by the Navy in appreciation of his kindness in coaching the Annapolis baseball team in 1936. No one is better qualified than Leo to show the embryo sailors how to put the ship in championship.

Reynoldstown, which carried 170 pounds in winning the Grand National Steeplechase for the second time, is nine years old. They sure carry weight for age in those steeplechases.

The Cards have sent pitcher Herbert Moore to Houston. But they still have one Moore left.

"Although Judge Landis gave me mine,"
Said Dizzy Dean, "I'm feeling 'fine.'

The baseball players' union idea has been tried before but it failed to work. Collective bargaining is all right in certain lines of trade but the boys haven't done so poorly in individual bargaining. Ask Dizzy Dean, Hank Greenberg and a lot others.

Of course, if the boys were paid on a sliding scale, it might pep up the base running department of the game.

Probably the best dressed man in baseball is Thomas Yawkey. He has about $3,000,000 worth of Sox alone.

Yawkey's pet hobby in the summer time is hunting Tigers. In the winter he goes up to Alaska for polar bears.

Speed Figure Skating Act at Sonja Henie Show

Everett McGowan and Ruth Mack, whose act, "Wings," has been one of the sensations of the recent figure skating carnival in Madison Square Garden, were signed yesterday to present their unusual number in the ice show which Earl Reflow will present at the Arena April 7 and which will feature the first appearance in St. Louis of the world famous figure skater, Sonja Henie.

McGowan is a former speed skating champion who turned to figure skating with the idea of incorporating speed in a doubles act.

The act which he and Miss Mack portray symbolizes the speed and grace of airplane formations and is exhibited to music which has the droning of airplane motors as a theme.

It is one of the fastest figure skating acts ever produced and won great acclaim in New York. The two are performing the number in the big figure skating carnival in St. Paul at the present time.

Reflow announced, after signing these two, that he was negotiating with Heinie Brock and Shipstead and Johnston, the famous comedians of the ice. Shipstead and Johnston appeared here between periods of the Flyers' opening hockey game of the season. Brock, a Canadian who was employed as skating instructor for Hollywood movie stars during the past winter, was the featured comedian in the recent ice carnival at the Arena which drew a crowd of 14,000.

The carnival will close the skating season here. It will mark the first appearance in St. Louis of the little Norwegian miss who has held the world's figure skating title for the past ten years.

In her repertoire here she will include all the numbers that are required in Olympic competition, thus giving her an appearance of almost an hour on the ice. This will be divided in to five acts and in one or two of these numbers she will appear with her new partner, Jackie Dunn, English figure skating champion.

U. S., MEXICAN DAVIS CUP STARS IN TOURNAMENT IN TEXAS TODAY

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., March 28.—United States and Mexican Davis Cup teams will rehearse their cup play in the sixth annual River Oaks tennis tournament which opens here tomorrow.

The five members of each team, who will meet in the opening round of cup play here April 10-11, are entered at River Oaks.

Three of the American cup netsters will compete in the singles. The other two will arrive in time for doubles play.

Wilmer Allison, Texas veteran, was top seeded with Bryan (Bit Grant, the mighty mite from Atlanta, ranking No. 2.

Other stars are seeded, in order as follows: J. Gilbert Hall of East Orange, N. J.; Wilmer Hines of Columbia, S. C.; John Van Ryn and Henry Culley of Santa Barbara, Cal.; Hal Surface of Kansas City and Wilbur Hess of Houston, national intercollegiate champion.

Allison, Grant and Van Ryn have been selected for Davis Cup play. Donald Budge and Gene Mako, youthful Californians who complete the United States contingent, will appear in the doubles.

Kalle Schroeder of Sweden, who with Hall holds the national indoor doubles title, was top seeded among the foreign entrants.

Fans predict a pair of lads from Florida, Charles Harris and Arthur Hendrix, might upset some of the seeded players before the tournament is over.

Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, wife of the veteran Davis Cup doubles player, and Mrs. Mary Greef Harris of Kansas City were favorites in the women's division.

Syracuse U. and Duke Each Win Two Ring Titles

By the Associated Press.

UNIVERSITY, Va., March 28.—Hard-belting fighters from the East blasted their way to five of the eight individual National Collegiate Athletic Association boxing crowns here tonight with Syracuse and Duke each producing two title winners through an evening of tough shelling that lacked only the thrill of a clean knockout.

About 4000 spectators crowded into Memorial Gymnasium, scene of Virginia's triumphs in its long victorious team march through college circles to witness the titular bouts and see Gene Tunney, retired undefeated heavyweight champion, referee the first engagement.

The 16 lads who reached tonight's finals automatically earned the right to enter the final Olympic team trials in Chicago in May while the N. C. A. A. Boxing Committee later will announce the selections of possibly a dozen or more—perhaps the majority of the semi-finalists.

Tacking the eastern colors high were Mickey Brutto, West Virginia's bantamweight; Frank Goodman, Penn State lightweight; Of Fink, Syracuse junior middleweight; Ray Jeffries, Syracuse middleweight and Tom Pontecarvo, Western Maryland heavyweight.

Of this quintet all are eastern intercollegiate champions except Brutto and Pontecarvo, who held the crown for two years.

A pair of fancy boxers and heavy-hitters from Duke, Danny Farrar, welterweight, and Ray Matulewicz, light-heavyweight, brought to the South its only points, while Bob Fadner, Wisconsin featherweight, was the West's only bell-ringer.

WANTED: Hacks To Carry Cardinals To the Ball Park

Have you an old horse-drawn hack that would not otherwise be in use April 14? If so, the Chamber of Commerce wants to see you.

The Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a baseball parade to be held in the downtown business district April 14 in celebration of the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the National League. Search is being made for old hacks for use in the parade, to give it an appearance reminiscent of the times when baseball players rode to the park in such vehicles.

The Cardinals will oppose the Cubs the day of the parade in the opening game of the season. If the hacks are obtained, St. Louisans may get a view of Pepper Martin, Dizzy Dean and even Frankie Frisch, to say nothing of the eminent farmer, Cholly Grimm, driving hacks through the downtown streets.

As told before, all the Parade Committee lacks is the hacks.

And horses?

FLYERS AND ST. PAUL OPEN HOCKEY TITLE SERIES TOMORROW

FIRST GAMES AT ST. PAUL; GOALIE MURRAY LEFT AT HOME

By W. J. McGoogan.

Mickey Murray, Flyer goalie, was left at home when the St. Louis team departed yesterday for St. Paul, where tomorrow the Flyers open theid five-game series for the American Hockey Association championship. This means that Hub Nelson, Minneapolis goal tender who was pressed into service in the series with Tulsa when Murray was injured, will be in the net for the Flyers tomorrow night.

With this exception the Flyer team will be the same as the one which battled through the three-game set with the Oilers. The other players are in good condition.

It is expected the club will practice at St. Paul today, then take it easy until activities begin.

Second Game Wednesday.

The second game is to be played in St. Paul Wednesday, with the remainder of the contests at the Arena, the third being scheduled for Friday and the fourth Sunday. The fifth, if necessary, will be played here Tuesday, April 7.

On paper, at least, the series stacks up as a very even proposition for, the regular season's play, the Flyers won five, lost four and tied one with St. Paul. The Saints led in number of goals scored with 21 to 18. The St. Paul total was swelled considerably New Year's day when they beat the Flyers, 6 to 1, for the worst beating the St. Louis club suffered all season.

The two leading goal getters of the league, Oscar Hansen and Dahlstrom, are with the Saints, the former having totaled the almost unheard of number of 60 points for the season and the latter 43, one more than Pete Palangio, the St. Louis leader.

In the matter of defense, the edge seems to lie with the Flyers, as they were scored on but 90 times in the season, while the Saints' net was dented 99 times. And now, with Nelson in the St. Louis goal, the Flyer margin is increased a little, as Nelson, with a weaker team than St. Louis, was scored upon but 86 times.

It would not be surprising, though, to see the games develop into free scoring affairs, despite the fact that clubs in the playoffs invariably pay more attention to defense than in ordinary contests.

But with men like the Hansen brothers, Oscar, Emil and Emory; Dahlstrom, Flood and Hodge Johnson of the Saints, and with McPherson, Paddon, Palangio, Purpur and Burmister on the Flyers, out to get goals, it would appear that the goalies will be very busy.

Oscar Hansen and Dahlstrom were hardest for the Flyers to stop during the season, as in games between the clubs, each scored six times. Flood, Verge Johnson and Pleban counted twice each, while Matchshke, E. Hansen and Hodge Johnson got one apiece.

Palangio High for Flyers.

Palangio was high goal man for the Flyers, with four; McPherson had three; Paddon, Purpur and Burmister two ecah. Breckheimer, Carbol, Walker, Teel and Harold Johnson were the one-goal men.

The Flyers were more effective against the Saints in St. Paul than they were at home, for on the St. Paul ice the Flyers won three and lost two, while at home they won two, lost two and tied one.

Thus it would seem that the Flyers are not getting a bad break by starting play with two games in St. Paul, for they will have the big edge with three here and one of them will be the deciding contest, if a fifth game is necessary.

Players share in only three games of the title series.

HEUSSER GOES ROUTE, BUT CARDS LOSE TO ROCHESTER

Cardinals bunched three of their five hits, and the trio of safeties produced the first Cardinal run.

The performance of the Cardinals, witnessed incidentally by Branch Rickey, was not at all impressive. The boys played as though they were tired of it all after more than five weeks of spring training and were interested not at all in the joust with their minor league relatives.

Many Ex-Cards on Red Wings.

Rochester, on the other hand, playing under a new leader, the dynamic Ray Blades, hustled throughout the contest and the Red Wings seemed to take great delight in trouncing the mother club.

Many old friends, and several youngsters who may be Redbirds in a year or two, were in the Rochester lineup. Bob O'Farrell was behind the plate, Johnny Rothrock in right field and Heine Schuble, who will be remembered as the shortstop yanked from the bushes when Tommy Thevenow fractured his ankle, in 1927, was at short for the Wings.

At third base was young Maurice Charles Sturdy, a stalwart infielder who was found in Kirkwood and who has been progressing so rapidly that club observers expect him to be the Cardinals' third baseman next season or the year after.

Bush, the Wings' second baseman, opened the big attack on Heusser in the third inning, with a single to center, and after Crabtree and Rothrock flied out, Bush stole second. Doljack then walked and Sturdy had the honor of driving in the game's first run with a sharp single to left. Schuble and Barton also singled and there were four runs.

Singles by Pat Ankenman, Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize gave the Cardinals a run in the sixth, and in the eighth Ankenman walked, took second on an infield out, third on a wild pitch and scored when Schuble missed Medwick's grounder.

The Cardinals meet the Brooklyn Dodgers tomorrow and Hallahan will be the starting pitcher, with Nelson Potter likely to share the day's hurling with Wild Bill.

Redbird Notes.

THE game attracted not more than 250 customers.

Pepper Martin was given a day off and Eddie Morgan played right, Eddie didn't like the southpaw pitching. He struck out twice and failed to get the ball out of the infield.

Two of the five Cardinal hits were infield scratches. Moore hit a double down the leftfield line for the only extra base safety and Ankenman and Clark each singled to left.

Robert Ross, six-foot pitcher with the Springfield, Mo., club of the Western Association last year, who has acted as a batting hurler with the Cardinals this spring, was assigned to the Houston club of the Texas League today.

PICARD EASILY BEATS MANGRUM FOR GOLF TITLE

By the Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 28.—Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., completed five rounds of consistent scoring over one of the world's most testing golf courses by firing a 72 today to defeat Ray Mangrum of Pittsburgh, by five strokes in a playoff for the North and South open championship.

For the five rounds of the tournament and playoff, Picard scored 71, 72, 73, 72, 72 and thus was even par for 90 holes over the remodeled No. 2 course here. Mangrum matched Picard's 72-hole total of 288 with scores of 73, 68, 75, 72, but took 77 in the playoff for the gold medal and $1000 which went to the winner.

Second place money in the $4000 tournament was $600.

From the first hole, at which he played a spectacular shot to the green from behind a clump of pines where his sliced drive had ended, Picard always was in the lead in the playoff. Mangrum lashed his tee shot straight down the middle, but his second was wide and he took 5 while the Hershey professional got his 4.

Three one-putt greens in succession followed for Picard and he finished out the nine holes with 33 while Mangrum, who was two over par at the eighth and one over at the ninth, had a 39 and was six strokes behind.

Three putts on the eleventh and a trapped second on the twelfth cost Mangrum two more strokes and it appeared "in the bag" for Picard, but the Pittsburgh pro kept trying and picked up two shots at the fourteenth with a 3 to Picard's 5.

Then, on the sixteenth, Picard made his worst error, hooking into the woods from the tee. Except for a break of luck he might have lost two strokes or more. His second shot, played with a wood, hit a tree in the middle and bounded into a trap guarding the seventeenth hole. Had it caromed as far into the woods anything might have happened. As it was Picard came out for a five and lost only one stroke. He dropped another at the seventeenth, where he was bunkered, but got it back on the eighteenth, when Mangrum took a 5.

Orville White Runner-Up for Low Average

By the Associated Press.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 28.

WIFFY COX of Bethesda, Md., and Orville White of Overland, Mo., won the places in the Augusta national golf tournament, starting next Thursday, for the two players having the lowest scoring average in the winter circuit for those playing in both California and Southeastern events since Jan. 1.

Robert E. Harlow, manager of the tournament bureau for the Professional Golfers' Association, announced today Cox had an average of 73.51 strokes for 33 rounds, while White had 73.91 for 32 rounds.

BROWNS LOSE, 8-7, TO SENATORS IN 10-INNING GAME

ing from the batting order for at least a week. Meantime Ralph Kress, a former Brownie is scheduled to play the pivot station for Bucky Harris' crew.

A Wild Game.

As far as the ball game was concerned, it was a wild affair. There were 21 hits; the pitchers walked 16 batters and there were six errors, three for each side. The Browns drew 10 passes, while Van Atta walked four, Mahaffey one and Meola one.

When the Browns arrived this morning it was nice and warm. However, it was really cold before the contest began. Thus it was a tough day all around. To make matters worse, a strong wind was blowing across the field, making it hard for outfielders to judge high drives.

Hornsby's men started off with a run in the first. Lary and West worked Lanahan for passes. Solters flied out, but Coleman got an infield hit to fill the sacks. Bottomley forced Coleman, Lary scoring. However, that margin was short-lived. One out in the Senators' half, Lewis singled, Myer walked, Powell singled and Travis hit a tremendous drive down the right field foul line for a home run and the Senators had four tallies.

Bottomley's Hit Scores Run.

The Browns came back with four in the second. One out, Van Atta and Lary walked. West was safe on Lanahan's wild throw, Solters singled, Coleman walked and Bottomley singled to produce the markers.

Pete Appleton was pitching in the fourth when the Browns scored again. West walked and Solters singled. Coleman sacrificed and Bottomley sent a short fly to Reynolds. Lewis then booted Clift's roller and West scored. In the seventh, Clift's single, Carey's sacrifice, error by Travis and fielder's choice raised the St. Louis total to seven, after the Senators had taken a one-run lead with three markers in the sixth.

In this frame, with Mahaffey hurling, Kuhel doubled and Bolton singled him across. Appleton put down a sacrifice. Reynolds walked and Lewis singled to score Bolton and send Reynolds to third. Mahaffey did not help his own cause a bit, uncorking a wild pitch, which enabled Reynolds to come home with the third tally of the inning.

After this came a duel between Meola and Joe Bokina, a righthander, with the last named turning up the winner when Bejma missed that roller from Bokina's bat in the fatal tenth.

Brownie Notes.

JIM WALKUP and Sugar Cain are scheduled to pitch for the Browns in the second game of the series tomorrow. Jimmy Deshong is down to open for the men of Harris.

Tom Carey, injured in the game with the Athletics March 18, played six innings and handled four chances in the field cleanly.

Buddy Myer made a beautiful stop of Coleman's grounder behind second in the first, but there was no one to throw to and the rap went for a hit. He also made a nice stop of Bottomley's smash to follow the play.

Six of the starting Senator regulars were left-hand batters.

Cecil Travis robbed Mazzera of a safety in the eighth when he went behind second for a glovehand stop of his smash. He followed with a perfect throw to Joe Kuhel.

A shower before the game held the attendance down to about 400. After the rain stopped, a cold wind blew across the field. It was one of the most disagreeable days the Browns have run into in two weeks.

Julius Solters, who has been in a batting slump, came out with a vengeance, with four straight hits. However in the eighth, he threw in a bit of poor base running. On Bell's fly to left, he ran past second and before he could retrace his steps he was doubled even though Kuhel missed the throw from the outfield, had to run over to retrieve the ball and then toss to Pitcher Bokina for the finish of the two-ply killing.

Lary ran in front of second for a fine stop of Holbrook's slow roller in the eighth frame.

MONTANEZ AND ROSS SIGNED FOR TITLE MATCH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Pedro Montanez, the Puerto Rico lightweight who has yet to meet defeat in this country, has been signed for a 15-round welterweight championship fight against Barney Ross, Chicago's titleholder, it was announced today by Mike Jacobs, promoter of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club. No site or date will be set until Jacobs fixes a date for the 15-round battle between Joe Louis and Max Schmeling at the Yankee Stadium in June.

Mrs. Derringer is a resident of Sarasota.

ILLINOIS U. NINE WINS OPENING GAME

By the Associated Press.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 28.—Steady hurling by Howie Berg and Gus Cherry featured the University of Illinois victory over Illinois Wesleyan, 7 to 1, in the opening game of the baseball season here today.

Berg allowed five hits and struck out seven in six innings on the Illinois mound, while Cherry gave no hits and struck out five in the last three frames, three of his strikeouts being grouped in the ninth inning.

Murray Franklin led the Illinois attack with two triples.

The score by innings:

Illinois	1	0	2	1	1	2	1	0	*	7	9	0

common—a strong "Scotch" aspect as regards Brevity, the favorite. The highest quotation against the favorite is 3 to 1 and the lowest 5 to 2, indicating that all books were overwhelmed with Brevity money following that racer's victory in the Florida Derby. And they've taking even that' foolish price.

From this we know that the Derby epidemic has taken hold of the country. Three to 1 against a horse that (so report says) can't move in the mud and which must beat a powerful field is a sure sign that fans are running a temperature in taking it.

One Against 3,000.

ONE man on a bicycle will match endurance against 3000 athletes who will make up that 2200-mile relay team which will carry from Greece to Berlin the torch that is to light the Olympic fire.

The 3000 athletes carrying the sacred flame will travel an average of a little more than one kilometer each, but the bicycle rider will cover the entire distance and within the space from July 21 to August 1, 11 days.

The athlete who will attempt the bicycle heroics is a Hungarian, and young. He will have to be both young and strong, with a dogged determination few can boast of. Offhand his effort appears to fail, although in these glamorous days of athletic surprises, nothing seems quite impossible.

Our lone bike hero, to keep pace with the relay 3000, will have to cover 200 miles each day for 11 consecutive days. To do this he must ride about 15 hours each day, averaging more than 13 miles an hour.

It seems beyond human endurance to sustain such effort. Over a long distance a man can outrun a horse, they tell us. And 3000 men ought to outrun one bicycle.

Athletic Heart a Myth?

THE "athletic heart," the bugaboo that has frightened many a potential sport star and caused many parents to order their sons not to participate in strenuous competition, is an exploded myth, say a number of authorities, in an interesting article in this month's "Sports Illustrated."

The authorities quoted are the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn.; G. H. Brande, specialist in problems of hygiene, and Dr. William G. Leaman, expert in cardiology.

The first mentioned authority is quoted: "Athletic sports will not produce an athletic heart, for such an entity does not exist."

Dr. Leaman says: 'The so-called athletic heart is a misnomer." "Heart strain is not possible in a healthy heart," and "Participation in athletics does not predispose to early development of cardiovascular disease."

All of which should relieve our minds—about the heart. But it merely transfers the worries of fond parents. For, whatever organ or function is concerned, there is little doubt as to the harmful effect of frequent and extreme exhaustion due to athletic effort.

Athletic intemperance doubtless carries penalties. Physically speaking, you can't burn the candle at both ends and expect to still have the candle.

Maw of the Mutuel.

SOMETHING like $65,000,000 went into the maw of the pari-mutuel machines in Florida in four months this season, as a result of the prevailing mania for betting on dog and horse races.

For the privilege of heing allowed to bet, the public paid through the mutuels six and one-half millions of dollars in addition to a million or so in admission money. That's a heavy price to pay for the privilege of losing, as in the long run John T. Customer usually does.

Of all forms of betting, horseracing is considered one of the surest to "break" the follower. It's one of the most pleasing of relaxations, if taken as such by those who can afford it.

But unless you want to support track promoters in luxury and help upholster the coffers of the states which are in partnership with racetracks, it's hard to make a profession of mutuel betting and smile about it.

And, just in case you think we are spoofing about promoters getting rich and racetracks profiting, remember that within the last five years, at least five tracks from the Atlantic to the Pacific have earned the cost of their plants in a single season, while the states involved have profited about one-third as much as the owners.

At Santa Anita the 1936 handle was $25,000,000 for 58 days. The track gets 7 per cent and breakage and the State 3 per cent. The public paid $2,500,000 to both and about half a million dollars additional in admission money to the track.

That would pay for the entire Santa Anita plant, at the press agent's valuation, about three times over.

MILLER BREAKS ILLINOIS FOR 440-YARD DASH

By the Associated Press.

NAPERVILLE, Ill., March 28.—Bob Miller, Illinois State Normal speedster, broke his own Illinois intercollegiate record in the 440-yard dash tonight, winning the event in 52.8 seconds.

Tonight's performance shaved a second off the record which he established in 1935. Clark of North Central, pre-race favorite, finished fifth after falling.

Chittem of Illinois Wesleyan captured the 60-yard dash, beating Kemp of Bradley by a full two lengths. Four other place winners were closely bunched.

Charlie Culver of North Central won the 880 by stepping out in the last 40 yards after a long duel with Hein of Northern Teachers.

In the broad jump, Scott of Illinois Wesleyan nosed out Seibert of North Central by three-quarters of an inch. All of the point winners in the event leaped more than 21 feet, while Scott's best effort was 22 feet 11 inches.

North Central runners won both hurdle races, Seibert taking first in the lows after Godfrey's victory in the highs.

The summaries:

440-YARD RUN—Won by Miller, State Normal; second, Veach, State Normal; third, Bollen, North Central; fourth, Peterson, Wheaton; fifth, Clark, North Central. Time, :52.8. (New Conference record. Old record, :53.8, by Miller, State Normal, in 1935).

SHOT PUT—Won by Slanec, Illinois Wesleyan, 43 feet 3 inches; second, Bowles, North Central, 43 feet 2½ inches; third, Cowan, Northern Teachers, 42 feet 3¼ inches; fourth, Skinner, Illinois Wesleyan, 42 feet ¾ inches; fifth, Bright, State Normal, 41 feet 8¼ inches. (New Conference record. Old record, 42 feet 11½ inches, by Newburg, St. Viator, in 1934).

60-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Godfrey, North Central; second, Gillette, North Central; third, Duesing, State Normal; fourth, Mason, Bradley; fifth, Wagner, Western Teachers. Time, :07.8. (Equals Conference record held by Mason, Bradley and Godfrey, North Central, both in 1935).

60-YARD DASH—Won by Chittem, Illinois Wesleyan; second, Kemp, Bradley; third, Englehorn, Bradley; fourth, Peyton, Southern Teachers; fifth, Trakas, Northern Teachers. Time, :06.4.

800-YARD RUN—Won by Culver, North Central; second, Hein, Northern Teachers; third, Fiala, Elmhurst; fourth, Smith, Wheaton; fifth, Hughes, Western Teachers. Time, 2:04.5.

60-YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Seibert, North Central; second, Gillette, North Central; third, Peyton, Southern Teachers; fourth, Reid, State Normal. Time, :07.1.

TWO MILE RUN—Won by Camerer, Elmhurst; second, Bush, State Normal; third, Baker, Northern Teachers; fourth, Gummerson, Bradley; fifth, Rogers, Western Teachers. Time, 10.13.8

W. U. FENCERS LOSE, 6 TO 4, TO NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame University's fencing team, coached by Carlos Delandero, won its ninth straight match in defeating Washington University's swordsmen here last night.. It was Washington's fifth set back in as many starts this season.

Robert Snooks, St. Joseph (Mo.) youth, was clearly Notre Dame's outstanding man in the foils events, winning all three of his bouts in a convincing maner. Although Kevin Kehoe, co-captain of Notre Dame, was forced to a 6—4 match before wining over Carl Lattner, he demonstrated skill and speed in tthe foils event, winning both of his bouts.

Kehoe also captured two saber events, concluding his inter-collegiate career in these two bouts.

Carlos Delandero, the Notre Dame coach's son, who is a senior and co-captain with Kehoe, concluded his collegiate fencing activity in winning two saber bouts.

Notre Dame was weak in only one of the three divisions, the epee, in which Washington won three of the four bouts.

HEIDELBERGS TO TEST SHAMROCKS TODAY IN WESTERN CUP FINAL

gave them an extra dish of it last Sunday in their cup game. Bill Watson will be expected to cover Donelli, the wing men will try to spread the Pittsburgh defense, and the bulk of the shooting will be done by the Fall River "twins," Billy Gonsalves and Bert Patenaude.

The turf at Walsh Stadium will be of no particular advantage to either side, but it is evident after watching them in many games that the Shamrocks prefer grass to a very hard, fast field.

The kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 p. m.

By James M. Gould.

After about a month of spring training, the Washington University football squad, 1936 edition, yesterday concluded its preparation for next fall. The intra-squad game, between the Greens and the Reds, played on the Mary Institute field, resulted in a 32 to 0 decision for the Greens.

Which side wins is not as important to Head Coach Jimmy Conzelman, as how the players handle themselves. With a crop of coming sophomores bidding for jobs next fall, interspersed with some lettermen from last year, anything is liable to happen in the way of touchdowns. What Conzelman expected from the spring grind was not so much scoring as it was to get the newcomers used to "teaming" with the veterans to make a sturdy eleven.

Conzelman saw enough in the spring grind to make him believe that Buckin' Joe Bukant and Bounding Bob Hudgens again will be hard to stop next fall. Yesterday Joe was hitting dimes with his second-half passes and either Dwight Hafeli or Hudgens was on the receiving end of the tosses. Harold Tracy, ex-Normandy star, also blossomed forth as a player who will have to be watched next fall. Tracy made some nice gains, scored one touchdown and added two extra points.

Real Pep in Second Half.

The Greens were decidedly a logy team in the first half. It may have been because it was a rather warm day. Between the halves, Coach Conzelman made some caustic comments about the lackadaisical attitude of the Greens and when the varsity took the field in the second half, it began to click, as any good football team is expected to do.

In the first quarter the Greens started a march that produced a touchdown. Tommy Ozment returned a punt to his own 33-yard line, where the Greenies came in possession of the ball. Hudgens picked up 12 yards off tackle and Bukant ran to the Reds' 20-yard line. Tracy went off right tackle for the touchdown, but failed to kick the point after touchdown.

During the remainder of the first half the Reds repulsed the efforts of the Greenies with some fine defensive work.

In the third period the Greens began to play ball. Taking the pigskin after a quick kick by the Reds, Bukant, in two plunges, carried the ball to the Reds' 20-yard line. Hudgens went to the four-yard mark, then to the one-yard line, where he fumbled. Klein kicked out to Tracy at the Reds' 32-yard line.

An Extra Point Man!

Bukant then passed to Hafeli for the touchdown and Tracy converted. Incidentally, with a little grooming, Tracy looks as if he might be the lad that the Bears so sorely need to pick up their extra points next fall. He has good form on his place-kicks, but his accuracy could stand improving.

Following the Greens' kickoff after their second touchdown, the Reds were unable to gain. Klein dropped back to punt but Gould's pass from center was bad and Klein's attempt was blocked, Brungard recovering for the Greens on the Reds' seven-yard mark. Hudgens plunged over for the touchdown and Tracy again converted.

Early in the last quarter, the Reds made their only serious threat of the afternoon on the Greens' goal line. Klein passed to Effthim, who ran to the Greens' 30-yard line. As Effthim was about to be tackled, he lateralled to Gould, who was downed on the Greens' 15-yard mark. On the next play a bad pass from center, resulting in a fumble, halted the advance.

Evidently the uprising angered the Greens, for shortly afterward they scored again when Bukant passed to Hudgens for a net gain of 40 yards and a touchdown. Tracy failed to convert.

The fourth and final touchdown followed a pass from Bukant to Hafeli, who lateralled to Ozment for a nice gain. Another lateral from Tracy to Bukant also added a few yards. Then the third pass in the series, a forward, from Tracy to Hafeli, took the ball over the goal line.

The third weekly game again drew about 1000 persons, who saw the "pre-view" of the 1936 Washington University football machine. And if the boys play as the Greens did in the second half, the Bears should give a good account of themselves.

So until September, au revoir.

RUSHAWAY IS FAVORED TO WIN TODAY'S LOUISIANA DERBY

FLAG CADET AND UNDERSTAND ARE WELL LIKED IN A FIELD OF 12

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 28.—An even dozen thoroughbreds were nominated today to compete for the $5000 Louisiana Derby which concludes the Fair Grounds racing meet here tomorrow.

Entries were reduced to 12 when four horses were scratched today. The smaller field, prospects of excellent weather and a fast track were expected to take the biggest crowd of the season through the turnstiles.

Handicappers and form players have picked Rushaway, three-year-old black son of Haste-Roseway, to win. The A. G. Tarn entry displayed his speed here a week ago today when he outclassed his field and came within a fifth of a second of the track record for a mile and one-sixteenth.

Rushaway set a new mile record at Tropical Park during the present meet when he negotiated the distance in 1:36 3-5.

Understand is considered the real "dark horse" of the Derby. He ran a fine race in the Arkansas Derby at Hot Springs last Saturday, finishing second after he was forced to race wide when Wee Lad broke his leg and piled up on the track.

Local fans were pinning their hopes on Lolschen and Flag Cadet, the B. Hernandez entry.

Professor Paul and Reunited are two other horses that are expected to be up close. C. Mojena, leading jockey at the Fair Grounds this winter, has the mount on Professor Paul.

Excluding last-minute scratches, the following 3-year-olds will go to the post:

St. Louis Bowlers Fail to Disturb A. B. C. Leaders

INDIANAPOLIS, March 28.—Standings in the American Bowling Congress tournament got another shakeup today as heavy firing was resumed following the lull occasioned by yesterday's business meeting.

Pin smashers from Detroit, Sheboygan, Wis., and Syracuse, N. Y., took over first and third places in the doubles and second position in the individual ranks during the day.

Rudy Fassl, member of the Wright Aero squad, a St. Louisan bowling from Paterson, N. J., soared into seventh place in the singles division, connecting with games of 227, 233 and 223, high count of the day.

Fassl drew a 6-7 split in the fifth frame of the final game, which held down his total.

CUP CONTEST ONLY SOCCER HERE TODAY

The national challenge cup match at Walsh Memorial Stadium is the only soccer game scheduled today in St. Louis. The charity program being arranged for the Soccer Players' Protective Association was held over until next Sunday, and the St. Louis Soccer League postponed its league games until Tuesday night.

BASEBALL LEAGUE FOR BOYS IS BEING FORMED

A junior baseball league for boys 18 years old or younger is being formed by Roy Newsom. The purpose of the league is to give boys who have no sponsors a chance to compete in an organized association.

FEDERAL BAN IS BEING PLANNED ON SHIPMENT OF "DOPED" HORSES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—A strong legal cudgel has been fashioned by the Federal Government to swing against racetrack gamblers who dose horses with narcotics, if state racing commissions do not end that evil.

Harry J. Anslinger, Federal Commissioner of Narcotics, said today the Government would give the state commissions one more chance to rid the racing industry of the practice before bringing out the legislation the Treasury has drafted.

The proposed bill, regulatory in character, would prohibit interstate shipment of horses with "bad records for the use of narcotics."

"Cleanup" Policy Pledged.

Anslinger said the state racing commissions had indicated a desire to "play ball" with the Government and at a recent meeting in Florida pledged themselves to a cleanup policy.

At this meeting, Anslinger, as well as Dr. H. J. Wollner, Treasury chemist, sat in, and approved a plan whereby a national committee would be formed to deal with the problems. On it would be representatives of horsemen, state commissions and the Federal Government. Such a committee is now in process of formation.

Anslinger approved a decision to conduct saliva tests of winners of every race. He said this practice now was being carried on in a more or less desultory manner, with only about two of the conventional seven winners of a day's races being so tested.

These tests are usually made of early winners and officials said that as a result, the seventh race was often run with doped contestants.

Narcotics Used to Retard Horses.

The Commissioner said that while narcotics were commonly used to stimulate speed, there was a growing practice of using this method to retard the animals. Investigations are being made to determine what narcotics are used for this.

Another decision reached at the Florida meeting was that persons convicted of possession or use of narcotics would be severely dealt with by the national committee. This committee was given the power to either deny licenses to such persons or expel them from the tracks.

Anslinger called the results of the meeting "the biggest thing done in racing since the crusade against narcotics began three years ago."

He said the practice had been reduced greatly in virtually all racing states, and that the Federal Government would prosecute vigorously all cases reported by state commissions.

GOLFERS FILE ENTRIES FOR AMATEUR EVENT IN FOREST PARK IN MAY

Entries are beginning to come in for the St. Louis amateur golf tournament which is to be held over the 18-hole municipal course in Forest Park, May 18 to 24, Frank Molumby, president of the Forest Park Golf Club, which is sponsoring the tournament, announced.

The event is open to all amateur golfers in the city and is comparable to the St. Louis district tournament which is held each year at one of the private clubs.

There will be no qualifying round, the entire tournament being composed of 18-hole matches with the exception of the final, which will be 36 holes.

CHICAGO OPPONENT FOR WALTER McMILLAN ON MAT THURSDAY

Jack McAdams, a light-heavyweight from Chicago, was signed yesterday to meet Walter McMillan in one of the three 30-minute supporting bouts of Promoter Bill Schwabe's wrestling show at the Coliseum Thursday night.

The "Masked Marvel," a 210-pounder from the Pacific Coast, is down to meet Dorv Roche of Decatur, Ill., in the main event. The Marvel has shown here once, and on that occasion defeated the Indian, Jul Strongbow. Roche owns decisions over Strongbow and Frank Speer, and went to a draw with Gus Sonnenberg. He is a capable wrestler, fast and an expert tackler, and knows many holds.

The semi-windup sends Otto (Whitey) Brexler, champion of the St. Louis Fire Department, in action against Leo Newman. Newman, before turning pro, won the Ozark A. A. U. light-heavyweight laurels twice in a row.

Two 30-minute bouts remain to be completed.

MAPLEWOOD HIGH TEAM WINS DUAL TRACK MEET FROM McBRIDE, 87-35

30,000 AT COAST LEAGUE GAMES; SACRAMENTO IS AMONG WINNERS

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—Baseball bounced into the nation's 1936 sports picture today at a Pacific Coast League opening which attracted more than 30,000 fans in four California cities.

Gloomy weather in Oakland and San Francisco caused a drop in anticipated attendances there, but the mere fact the turnstiles clicked was pleasing to club officials. A year ago, not only all the scheduled Saturday opening games but those for two succeeding Sundays were rained out.

Games in San Francisco and Los Angeles each attracted approximately 10,000 fans. The San Francisco Seals, 1935 champions, trounced their home-town rivals, the Missions, 3 to 1.

Los Angeles scored a 7-to-5 victory over the league's new entry, the San Diego Padres, formerly the Hollywood Stars.

The reorganized Sacramento team, recently acquired as a farm club by the St. Louis Cardinals, sprang an upset by defeating the Portland Beavers, 2 to 0. Coast charges that the Cardinals had stacked the club with "rookies" recently caused a stir. Gov. Frank Merriam pitched the first ball and nearly grooved the plate.

Oakland defeated Seattle, 6 to 1.

Fourth Baptist Five Wins State Church Tourney

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 28.—The Fourth Baptist Church team of St. Louis defeated the St. Louis Metropolitan Christians, 29-19, for the championship in the church division of the State Y. M. C. A. basketball tournament here tonight.

Layton, guard, furnished seven of the Baptists' points and was high scoring individual. He spearheaded a third quarter attack that furnished 10 points and gave the winners a 21-15 lead at the start of the fourth quarter. The half ended even up at 11-11.

The Fleemans of St. Joseph captured the "B" title of the Y. M. C. A. Basketball Tournament with a 20 to 13 victory over the "M's" of Kansas City.

MILES-PARKS BATTLE ADDS CLASS TO TOMORROW'S FIGHT CARD

JOE VICTOR IN PREVIOUS BOUT; SIMMS FIGURES TO BEAT THOMAS

Interest of fight fans in tomorrow night's card is directed chiefly toward the Eddie Simms-Otis Thomas and Allen Matthews-Emilio Martinez bouts, but at the same time they are not overlooking some of the preliminary contests, which promise to be better than ordinary time-killers.

One in particular is that between Johnny Miles and Joey Parks. It will be a return engagement. In their previous encounter, Parks got the nod by a slight margin.

Parks' career has been a peculiar one. He started in the amateurs as a flyweight when he was very young and fought more than a hundred amateur bouts before he graduated to the professionals.

Meanwhile he had been growing and fought in about all the weight classifications to the light heavyweight, in which he is now boxing.

Joe is still only a youngster for he was taken out of the game by his manager, Kid Bandy, for quite a period to permit him to grow normally without the rigors of constant training.

Delayed Meeting With Miles.

This program proved an aid to Parks, for he is stronger and more rugged now than ever before.

Before the last program at the Auditorium he was matched with Jimmy Webb in a contest which St. Louis fans had wanted to see for some time. But Joe was stricken with diphtheria and Miles got the bout instead.

Johnny was under considerable worry at the time due to the illness of his father, who died the night before the match. Miles was underweight when he went into the ring but the powerful left hook attack to the body which he unleashed at Webb caused Jimmy's handlers to step into the ring to stop the bout in the sixth round.

Webb at the time was in obvious distress and almost surely would have been knocked out if the bout had been permitted to continue.

Jimmy Under Handicaps.

Miles was not given much of a chance before that scrap and predictions were freely made that Webb would stop him in a round or two. They are saying the same thing about Parks now but Miles is an experienced campaigner. He is rugged and has plenty of ticker, as he showed in another recent bout at the Auditorium when he was floored in the first round for a count but got up to outgame and defeat his opponent in six rounds.

So any of these youngsters who thinks Miles is a setup may be in for an unpleasant surprise.

Miles still is under a handicap, as he has a job which keeps him busy all day and he is forced to do his training at night. He had to work Saturday afternoon in order to get off for the weigh-in tomorrow, but apparently these extra burdens have helped rather than hurt him.

The boxers on the card finished their hard work yesterday, although Martinez plans to do a little boxing this afternoon, as he wants to be on edge for Matthews.

Simms didn't break training after his match with John Henry Lewis here recently and has since put in considerable time schooling under the direction of Jimmy Dunn, his manager, in an effort to smooth out some of the crudities in his style.

Eddie's best blow is a left hook. Some of his critics point out that he throws his right hand too much in a loop for it to be as effective as it should be.

Still, those who have been watching him train at the Business Men's Gymnasium think his superior speed and greater experience should enable him to defeat Thomas, although Otis' ability is recognized.

Martinez or Matthews?

The Martinez-Matthews match is a fooler. Emilio owns a decision over John Henry Lewis, and although it has been belittled as being a home-town verdict, etc., the fact remains that if he was good enough to hold Lewis even close, he should prove too much for Matthews.

Still, Allen has gone on for the past several years winning fight after fight, but seldom from high-class opponents. He is a hard right-hand puncher, not much of a drawing card anywhere, and he finds it difficult to get matches with the topnotchers, who do not care to risk a fight with him for the small purse which is usually offered.

ZELTMANS CAN WIN U. CITY SOCCER TITLE

The Zeltmans team can win the University City Municipal Soccer League championship this afternoon by defeating the Stuarts in the closing game of the season. A single game will be played at Heman Park on Olive Street road, starting at 2:30 p. m. The Zeltmans won the first half season pennant but the Stuarts have a half game lead in the second half and a victory for that club today would necessitate a playoff.

Church League Wants Nine.

The Suburban Sunday School Baseball League has organized for the coming season, but needs another team to complete its plans. Five teams now entered are: Sutter Avenue Presbyterian, Kingsland Presbyterian, Richmond Heights Presbyterian, Home Heights Presbyterian and Immanuel Methodist. For further information, call E. Washburn, CAbany 4314J.

High School Baseball Season Opens This Week; McKinley Defends Title With New Team

By Harold Tuthill.

Coach Victor H. Kirk of Beaumont is a strong believer of "practice makes perfect," because he has scheduled three practice contests this week before the Blue Jackets open their City High School League baseball campaign Saturday afternoon against McKinley.

The Beaumont-McKinley game will be the final one of the opening-day triple-header and will start about 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The two preceding games are between Roosevelt and Cleveland at 10 o'clock a. m., and between Soldan and Central at 1 p. m. Blewett, one of the best clubs in the circuit from the standpoint of experienced material, drew the opening bye.

Beaumont will play its first of three non-league engagements Tuesday afternoon at Beaumont. Then on successive days the Blue Jackets will be host to Ritenour and Maplewood. Friday will be an open date for the Jackets.

Both Teams of Green Players.

Coach Kirk realizes that he will have to "shoot the works" Saturday if he wants to win from McKinley, the 1935 champion. With only a green squad bolstered by four players from last year's squad, Beaumont's chance to capture the 1936 flag is not exactly a bright one. However, McKinley has had to build from the ground up this year, since the championship nine was wrecked by graduation and ineligibility.

Beaumont's probable pitcher is Joe Rayne, who as other former stars at Beaumont—Bill Slater and Marvin Quante—is a southpaw. Rayne has been on the squad for the past three years, but this will be his first chance as the starting thrower.

The "lettermen" are evenly divided between the infield and outfield. Capt. Freddy "Red" Friese at shortstop, Wilson "Bud" Schwenk at first base, Ney Amato in center and Renard Heydt in left field are the veterans around whom Kirk will build his team.

Richard Moran, understudy to Rick Tichacek last year, will be the team's first-string catcher. Eldon Blumentritt, reserve infielder, and Don Schmidt, substitute outfielder in 1935, also are slated for regular jobs.

The opening game between Cleveland and Roosevelt probably will be in the nature of an experiment. Coach Bert E. Fenenga of Cleveland has been dividing his time between baseball and spring football, while Coach Lee R. Carlson of Roosevelt, with only three 1935 letter men, has had to start from scratch.

Cleveland is expected to have a bunch of sluggers, as usual. Leading in this department are Frank Kaminsky, left fielder, and Norville Bleitz, right fielder. These veterans are certain to pound the ball if they live up to their performances of last year. The other letterman is Allen Turner, first baseman.

Cleveland has not scheduled any practice games, so the only experience Pitcher Joe Dickerman has had, has been throwing the ball past his teammates. Dickerman has been second string pitcher on the two previous teams.

Two of Roosevelt's veterans are Bill McHale and Byron Watson, both pitchers. Watson, a southpaw, is inclined to be a trifle wild. McHale is a righthander.

Listed on the Roosevelt roster are Outfielders Ed Niehoff, Thomas Hughes, Robert Caswell and Robert White; Infielders Bob Benish, Jack Beardsley, Sheldon Bender, Vernon von der Ahe, Kenneth Main, Kenneth Kraus and Capt. Joe Weckl.

Weckl, third baseman, is a leftover from last year's club. Von der Ahe, recruit second baseman, is a distant relative of Chris von der Ahe, who once owned the St. Louis Browns.

The Rough Riders have scheduled two practice contests this week, both at home. Tomorrow, Normandy will be Roosevelt's opponent and Tuesday McBride will appear on the Roosevelt diamond.

McKinley will put the finishing touches on its pre-season training when it visits St. Louis University High Tuesday afternoon.

Y. M. C. A. ANNOUNCES BIG ATHLETIC PROGRAM

Eight different leagues and tournaments will be conducted by the Industrial Athletic Association of the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. Industrial commission during the summer season, it was announced last night by J. S. Whitmore, secretary, following a meeting of the executive committee of this organization.

The events are baseball league, track meet, softball league, corkball league, golf tournament, tennis league, horseshoe league, swimming meet.

The track meet will be held at Francis Field, Washington University, Saturday, June 6. The committees on golf, tennis, horseshoes and swimming recently were appointed and announcements of these events will be made at a later date.

The baseball league, affiliated with the Municipal Baseball Association, will play its games on Saturday afternoons, using diamonds in Carondelet, Sherman and Fairground parks. Entries in this league will close April 4.

The softball league is affiliated with the Municipal Softball Association. Games probably will be played Monday and Tuesday nights at 6 o'clock on diamonds in Forest Park. Entries in this league will close Wednesday.

The corkball league probably will play its games on Saturday afternoons. The place has not been determined as yet.

Bowling Notes

The Annual Men's 80 per cent handicap tournament to be held at Heidel's Recreation has thus far attracted an entry of 55 teams in the major event with corresponding doubles and singles entries. The closing date for entries has been advanced to April 5 with the tournament opening April 11. First place in the team event is assured of a cash prize of $100. Full information can be secured by phoning Frank Heidel, PRospect 8400.

A four-game handicap diamond medal sweepstakes for women bowlers will be held at the Cinderella Recreation next Saturday and Sunday with squads starting at 3 p. m. Saturday and 2 p. m. Sunday. In addition to place prizes, two high single prizes and five prices for bowlers with 149 average and under will be awarded. Entry fees is $1.80 including bowling and reservations can be made by calling PRospect 8751.

The Hubbells set a new three-game record in the Wellston Women's league last week, toppling 2503 pins to better the Safferns' previous record by one pin. Mrs. Bert Blackford with a 539 series was the high scorer and helped her team take three games from the Security Five. With Mrs. Clara totaling 596, the Horstmeyers won three straight from the Bleckmans. In the other matches, the Schumachers won three from the West Ends, Menkhaus three from the Daus, Safferns two from the Subways and the Lavans two from the Wantraths.

Cinderella Notes.

Ray Bobmeyer and J. Dressner were the leading scorers in the Cherokee Business Men's league, Bobmeyer getting 628 and Dressner 627. P. Ross, with a 605, was the only other 600 shooter.

Walter Kerr, 638 and Mike Dressner 630, were high in the Tuesday night handicap league. Elmer Baker had 617, A. Neidel 607 and George Bobmeyer 601.

Charles Thein is leading high single and high average in the Purity Box league with 257 for single and 193 for average. Dave Kassell holds high three with 664.

Mary Albenesius hit 579 to lead the bowlers in the Friendly Foes League. Sis Held had 544, Helen Kerr 536 and F. Jackson 539.

The Schumachers increased their lead to nine games in the Metropolitan Handicap League when they gained a three-game forfeit victory over the Grand-Franklins. The second place Metropolitan No. 2 team dropped two games to the Turners. In the other match, the Schultes took two from the Met No. 1. Barry with a 602 series was the leading individual. G. Coibion and H. Schulte are tied for high average, each having 184.

CITY MAY SEND ONLY FOUR TO NATIONAL A.A.U. BOXING TOURNEY

St. Louis representation in the national amateur boxing tournament to be held in Cleveland likely will be cut to four instead of a full team of eight members, Charles Gevecker, president of the Ozark A. A. U. and chairman of its boxing committee, stated last night.

The reason is a lack of capable performers rather than limited finances, he said.

The whole matter is to be threshed out at a committee meeting tomorrow night.

At the time of the district Golden Gloves tournament it was announced that the winners would form the team to represent the city in the national except in instances where boys won championships who were not residents of the district.

Boxers Who Are Eligible.

Thus Quincy Troupe, Negro heavyweight; Leonard Bostick, Negro light-heavyweight; Courtland Schultz, middleweight; Al Brendle, welterweight; Bill Henley, Negro lightweight; Paul Spica, featherweight, and Eric Koberg, bantamweight, are eligible. Delmar Rowland, Fulton (Mo.) flyweight, winner is out of the district.

But Gevecker said it was unlikely that Spica would care to go following his trips to Chicago and New York for the Western and inter-district Golden Gloves affairs. And among the others there are not more than four who would appear to have the ability to have a chance in the national.

Spica undoubtedly would be the city's best bet to win a title at Cleveland, although he was defeated in the Western Golden Gloves finals by Kara of Cleveland and lost his match in New York.

Paul is the kind of boxer who catches the eye of judges of amateur bouts and his busy time of milling likely would carry him far.

Bostick a Hard Puncher.

Bostick is a terrific right-hand puncher without a great deal of boxing skill, although he has improved recently. Cortland Schultz has everything necessary for the ring except a real liking for the game, while Al Brendle is a hard puncher but is easily hit.

The others also have their strong points and weaknesses.

It is likely the boys will be selected immediately and, of course, under the rules of the National A. A. U., the local boxing committee has the right to select a team to represent the district regardless of tournaments.

Elmbank Wins Epworth Title

Elmbank Methodist's basketball team defeated Trinity Methodist, 45-35, to win the Epworth League Federation basketball title last night. Elmbank led, 29-14, at the half.

THIS is the last week-end until Decoration Day that Missouri's lakes and streams can have any legal lure for the angler because starting April 1 the game fish, excepting rainbow trout, come under the special protection of a closed spawning season. Theoretically, the State's game fish are supposed to propagate during this time but seldom is the major spawning completed before the season reopens the last week in May.

Missouri's game fishes include in their ranks many members of the sunfish family—the bass belongs to this group—and these begin spawning early and continue to deposit eggs until early fall. The closed season from April 1 until Decoration day is largely an arbitrary period established by the Legislature and is not necessarily the recommendation of fish culturalists. Conservationists, however, point out that the closed season is a great help in the propagation of the State't fishes in their natural environment and even suggest closing the season through the winter months.

Ton of Frogs Killed.

AQUATIC life in many small ponds and streams suffered from the long cold winter, a recent check-up shows. Some of the natural fish food was killed in areas as far south in the States as the Missouri River near Columbia. Frogs are known to have succumbed.

Joe Reed, Jefferson City coal dealer, who has a summer resort near Fulton, says he lost more than a ton of fine bull frogs from the freezing weather. Three years ago Reed started a frog farm at his resort and up to the end of last season had developed quite a colony of croakers. The pond in which his biggest stock had been placed for hibernation was frozen almost solid for several weeks and apparently the big amphibians succumbed. When the spring thaws came Reed expected his big stock to appear. They did after a few days, floating on the pond. He expected them to revive and start their croaking but when they failed to show any signs of revival a checkup was made. The big frogs were dead.

Frogs are rated as excellent human food and plan an important part in the furnishing of feed for game fishes. A female may deposit as many as 20,000 eggs at a time and these develop slowly. The sexes are easily distinguished, especially in the breeding season, male frogs having swollen thumbs or thumbpads while the females have more slender ones.

Frogs live in different places in different seasons and stages of their lives. While they are tadpoles they remain in the water but the air-breathing adults take to the land, keeping then generally in marshes, meadows and damp woods. In winter hibernation they may hide beneath stones, others dig into the bottoms of ponds and streams. Sometimes a score or more of the hibernating frogs may be found huddled together, apparently lifeless, in drain pipes or damp gullies. Attendants at the State fish hatcheries say they have found scores of the amphibians thus huddled in overflow pipes and flood gates between hatchery ponds.

Migrating birds are on the wing and the residents are rapidly assuming their spring mating plumage, the ornithologists report. Because Missouri lies in a rich faunal zone the number of resident birds and migrants which pass through this state is large. More than 400 different species of birds have been recorded in Missouri and a large percentage of these are found here throughout the year. Some birds which remain all year are generally unnoticed until spring weather starts them in song; many other migrate merely the distance from north to south Missouri.

Ozark A. A. U. Wrestling Meet To Start Tuesday

The entry list for the annual Ozark A. A. U. wrestling championships to be held Tuesday and Wednesday nights at the Y. M. H. A. closed yesterday. Preliminaries in nine classes will be held Tuesday and the semifinals and finals will take place Wednesday.

Harry Reget, director of the tournament, announced that he expected several new champions to be crowned, since some of the boys have grown heavier since last year or have turned "professional."

Competition will be in the following classes: 112 pounds, 118, 126, 135, 145, 155, 165, 175 and unlimited heavyweight.

Title Game Tonight.

The St. Louis Dairy team and the Metropolitan A. M. E. Zion quintet will meet in a game tonight, starting at 8:30 o'clock, to decide a championship of the Y. M. D. Basketball League. These two teams have met four times this season and each has won and lost two games. A victory for either will give the winner the championship of the league. Metropolitan is the defending champion.

In the games played last week the Kappas chalked up their second victory of the season, winning 25—24 over St. Louis Argus. Tonight's game will end the league season.

A Pretty Girl is like?
VAN DYCK

One thing a good cigar has in common with a pretty girl. No man can predict another man's likes or dislikes.

136 million Van Dyck 32's were sold last year—but it means nothing to you unless you like Van Dyck's flavor. When we say Van Dycks are better made of better tobaccos—that they're smoother, sweeter, milder—it matters little unless you enjoy this particular cigar.

But this IS important. For only a nickel, you can meet Van Dyck 32's at any cigar counter in town. Five cents and five minutes will tell you whether you'll live happily with Van Dycks forever after!

10 CITIES IN COUNTY TO ELECT OFFICIALS

13 Villages to Pick Trustees, 90 School Districts Directors, in April 7 Elections.

Officials for 10 cities, trustees for 13 villages, and directors for 90 school districts in St. Louis County will be chosen at elections Tuesday, April 7.

Mayors and other general officials will be elected in Clayton, Kirkwood, Richmond Heights, Shrewsbury, St. Ferdinand, and Valley Park. Aldermen only will be elected in Ferguson, Brentwood, Glendale and University City.

The villages of Beverly Hills, Bridgeton, Deer Creek, Des Peres, Ellisville, Huntleigh, Ladue, McKnight, Oakland, Olivette, Rock Hill, Peerless Park and Pasadena Park will choose members of their boards of trustees.

Two directors for three-year terms will be elected in each of the 23 consolidated school districts and one director for similar terms will bbe elected in each of the 67 rural districts. Voters at school elections also must reauthorize taxes levied for the teachers' and incidental funds and for building and repair funds.

Little Interest Shown.

A proposition to authorize directors of Ritenour District at Overland to institute transportation service for pupils of the seventh, eighth and high school grades who live more than two miles from their respective school buildings will be acted on by the voters there.

Yesterday was the last day for filing of candidates in municipalities in which filings had not previously been closed. Lack of interest in the elections is indicated by the small number of candidates, many incumbents being unopposed for reelection. In two cities, Shrewsbury and Kirkwood, there is no contest for any office.

Candidates for village trusteeships may file until the day before election. Usually there are no contests, incumbent trustees being elected year after year.

Municipal Candidates.

Candidates for municipal offices are:

Brentwood: For Aldermen, First Ward, Henry Eves (incumbent) and Oscar Tuckett; Second Ward, William Koch (incumbent) and Kirkland Parcher; Third Ward, John Holtman and James Willingham.

Clayton: For Mayor, Charles A. Shaw (incumbent) and Rea Mosley; Marshal, Rtto Schnarr (incumbent) and Charles Tacke; Collector, John D. Massey (incumbent); Alderman, First Ward, Ralph Schwenck (incumbent); Second Ward, Roy Campbell (incumbent); Third Ward, Elmer Keitel (incumbent); Fourth Ward, George Herpel (incumbent) and Dr. A. J. Shoemake; Fifth Ward, Russell D. Meyers (incumbent.)

Ferguson: For Alderman, First Ward, Theodore Kienstra; Second Ward, Edgar B. Burkholder; Third Ward, Ralph Schonde; Third Ward, unexpired term of Avery R. St. Louis Retail Sales Improve.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Retail business in St. Louis "generally improved under the stimulus of better weather," the Commerce Department said today, although department store sales declined fractionally below the previous week and 3.7 below the corresponding 1935 week. Heavy late orders, the review said, accelerated movement of Easter goods in the wholesale markets. The agriculture situation was reported favorable.

"ST. LOUIS ON PARADE" DREW 60,000 PERSONS IN 9 DAYS

Exposition Success "Although Somewhat Disappointing as to Attendance," Manager Says.

The "St. Louis on Parade" exposition at the Auditorium closed last night after a nine-day run. Charles P. Hatfield, secretary and general manager of the St. Louis Convention and Publicity Bureau, sponsors of the exposition, said it was a successful revival of the one two years ago, "although somewhat disappointing as to attendance, particularly in the afternoons."

He estimated the total attendance at 60,000, including complimentary admissions, and said receipts had been sufficient to pay all bills, leaving a percentage for the Bureau's fund for bringing conventions to St. Louis. More exact financial details will be announced at the conclusion of an auditor's report, he said.

The closing feature was a series of drills by eight military organizations, including a demonstration of two machine gun platoons going into action, presented by the Sixth Infantry of Jefferson Barracks. Following the drills, the nighly dance was held.

HILLBILLY MUSIC CONTEST AT THE COLISEUM TODAY

230 Entered for Midwestern Championships; Winners to Compete in New York.

Hillbilly musicians, 230 of them, will present their favorite numbers in fiddling, singing, yodeling and string band and accordian playing at the Coliseum this afternoon and evening to determine Midwestern championships. Winners in the various divisions will compete at a national contest in Madison Square Garden in New York next September.

Names of the bands are as colorful as some of the performers, whom Larry Sunbrock, president of the National Fiddlers' Association, described as being "as temperamental as a bunch of opera stars." Among the groups are the "Skillet Lickers" of Louisville, Ky.; the "Hoosier Sod Busters" of Indianapolis; the "Kansas Clodhoppers" of Kansas City, Kan.; the "Doodlebugs" of Joplin, Mo.; "Jimmy's Saddle Pals" of Fort Worth, Tex., and the "River Ramblers" of Shelbyyille, Ill.

674 BABIES GRADED HIGH IN SHRINE JUBILEE CLINICS

Rated 90 Per Cent or Better Among 1051 Entered in Tests Ended Monday.

A total of 674 babies received grades of 90 per cent or better in the medical examination in the baby clinic conducted by the Shrine Jubilee Committee at its headquarters at Seventh and Locust streets, according to an announcement made yesterday. There were 1051 babies entered in the clinic which closed last Monday.

The Shrine Jubilee celebration will be held at the Coliseum, May 7, 8 and 9, in an effort to raise $50,000 for charities of the order in St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Thirty-two girls have entered the "Miss St. Louis" beauty contest, which will be one of the features of the show in May. The winner will receive an automobile and a trip to the Texas Centennial Exposition at Dallas, Tex., in June.

Big Democratic Registration Gain.

PITTSBURGH, March 28.—The City Registration Commission said today 1127 persons registered yesterday as Democrats and 342 as Republicans. This is the last registration day in Pittsburgh, for years a Republican stronghold. "The figures show a gain of about 10 to 1 for the Democrats in the number of voters shifting from one party to another." The permanent registration system is used in Pittsburgh.

KANSAS CITY UNION STATION MURDER PLOTTERS IN PRISON

Three Surrender After Losing Appeals From Conviction of Crime Three Years Ago.

By the Associated Press.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., March 28.—Three men convicted of conspiracy in the Kansas City Union Station murders June 17, 1933, surrendered at the Federal prison here today to begin serving two-year sentences. They are: Frank B. (Fritz) Mulloy, Kansas City; Herbert A. Farmer, Joplin, and Richard T. Galatas, Hot Springs, Ark.

Louis (Doc) Stacci of Chicago entered the prison after the United States Circuit Court of Appeals rejected his appeal. Mulloy, Farmer and Galatas carried their case to the United States Supreme Court, but were denied a review.

The four men were convicted of a plot to free Frank Nash, a Federal prisoner, who, with four peace officers, was killed by machine-gunners in the attempted delivery at the Kansas City Union Station.

TRAINING SCHOOL FOR GIRLS

NYA Project at Hardin College Designed to Fit Them for Jobs.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MEXICO, Mo., March 28.—Plans to establish a National Youth Administration training school for girls about April 15 at Hardin College, junior college for girls here, which has been closed since 1931, were announced today by Champ Clark Buckner, State NYA administrator. The project will be the third in Missouri. Others are at Marble Hill and Ozark Wesleyan College, Carthage. The Hardin College plant, valued at a half-million dollars, will be used as a recreational and training school for relief girls to fit them for employment. Former Gov. Charles H. Hardin established Hardin College in 1873.

Buckner assigned Mrs. Doris C. Smith, administrative assistant, to open the first eight weeks' training course for 100 girls from North Missouri.

ANTIOCH COLLEGE HEAD OUT

Dr. A. E. Morgan Too Busy With TVA Duties.

By the Associated Press.

YELLOW SPRINGS, O., March 28.—The board of trustees late today accepted the resignation of Dr. Arthur E. Morgan as president of Antioch College. Dr. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, submitted his resignation nearly three years ago when he took the Federal position, but the trustees deferred action on it. Today Dr. Morgan requested that the resignation be accepted immediately, as his duties with the TVA prevented his serving the college.

Dean A. D. Henderson, acting as president, will continue in that capacity until a permanent appointment is made, May 1.

LANDON 'INDIRECTLY' INDORSED

First Virginia G. O. P. District Names Delegates.

TAPPAHANNOCK, Va., March 28.—Republicans of the First Virginia District today expressed confidence in Gov. Landon of Kansas although they did not specifically instruct delegates to vote for him for the Republican presidential nomination. A resolution adopted said:

"We assert that the deplorable condition in which the President has placed the country by his alien policies, his failure to keep his promises, his reckless expenditures and his piling up of billions of debt, requires a leader who is very opposite, and we express our confidence that such a leader is available to the people in this great emergency in Gov. Landon."

FORMER ST. LOUISAN'S WPA DRAMA A HIT

T. S. Eliot, Grandson of Washington U. Founder, Writes of Thomas a Becket.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—One of King Edward's better known subjects, T. S. Eliot, formerly of St. Louis, whose poetry baffled before it attracted the intellectuals on both sides of the ocean, is the man of the hour for this city's WPA toilers. His poetic drama, "Murder in the Cathedral," a WPA theater project, is a hit show at the old Manhattan Theater on Fifty-third street.

Queues of citizens at the theater doors indicate the interest in the play, which in verse and prose describes the martyrdom of Thomas a Becket in Canterbury Cathedral 866 years ago.

Massive pillars flank the stage, and the walls are gothic. Stained glass panels have been placed over the dome of the stage to complete the cathedral atmosphere. Applause greets such speeches as these:

"You know and do not know, what it is to act or suffer. "You know and do not know, that acting is suffering, and suffering action."

And—

"Now is my way clear, now is the meaning plain:
"Temptation shall not come in this kind again.
"The last temptation is the greatest treason:
"To do the right deed for the wrong reason."

The verse pattern that made the early Eliot literary solons is present throughout "Murder in the Cathedral," recalling the rhythm and structure of "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock".

"Let us go then, you and I,
"When the evening is spread out against the sky
"Like a patient etherized upon a table."

And the cynical observations of a poet who turned his back on the usual outpourings about roses in another earlier Eliot producton:

"You will see me any morning in the park
"Reading the comics and the sporting page.
"Particularly I remark
"An English Countess goes upon the stage.
"A Greek was murdered at a Polish dance,
"Another bank defaulter has confessed.
"I keep my countenance,
"I remain self-possessed
"Except when a street piano, machanical and tired,
"Reiterates some worn-out common song
"With the smell of hyacinths across the garden
"Recalling things that other people have desired.
"Are these ideas right or wrong?"

Thomas Stearns Eliot, a naturalized British subject was born in St. Louis in 1888, the son of Henry Ware Eliot and Charlotte Chauncey Eliot. He is a grandson of William G. Eliot, a founder of Washington University. He attended the old Smith Academy here, went to Milton Academy at Milton, Mass., then to Harvard, where he was graduated in 1909. Following study at Sorbonne and Merton College, Oxford, he first worked in an English bank and later became editor of the London publication, the Criterion.

He lectured in St. Louis in 1933, when he was the Charles Eliot Norton lecturer at Harvard University for the year. While here he stayed at the home of his uncle and aunt, Prof. and Mrs. Holmes Smith, 5440 Maple avenue. He is the author of several books of poetry, and is considered an authority on Shakespearean criticism, the topic of his talk here, given at Washington University under auspices of the William Henry Smith Foundation.

SHORT-WAVE RADIO STATION TO REPLACE STATE'S WOS

Broadcasts From Latter Ended; New One Expected to Improve Patrol Service.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 28.—The state-owned radio station, WOS, which in recent years has been operated by the Missouri State Highway Patrol, passed out of existence today.

A short-wave station, to be known by the call letters, KIUK, will replace WOS. Work on the new station is under way.

Meanwhile, patrol bulletins will be teletyped to Columbia where they will be broadcast over KFRU. The Federal Communications Commission already has given its consent to the change over to short wave and assigned the 1674-kilocycle channel to the patrol for the operation of the short-wave transmitter.

One of the advantages of the change, Superintendent B. Marvin Casteel explained, will be to give better service to patrol members. It also will afford a means of intercity communication, as well as giving Missouri a hook-up with other states that now maintain State patrols.

Ex-Congressman Strong Dies.

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., March 28.—Sterling Price Strong, 73 years old, veteran Texas politician and former Congressman-at-large, died today. He was a member of the Seventy-third Congress and formerly president of the Texas Law Enforcement Commission. Representative Hatton W. Sumners deefated him in 1934 after he was elected Congressman-at-large in 1932.

$433,000 LOW BID ON SEWER FOR WOOD RIVER, ILL.

Edwardsville Firm Makes Offer on Third Advertisement on Contract for Work.

A low bid of $433,090 for construction of a trunk and relief sewer system for Wood River, Ill., was submitted to the Wood River Board of Local Improvements yesterday by the Madison Construction Co. of Edwardsville. The bid was about 5 per cent above the city's estimate of $412,000.

The only other bid, $437,736, submitted by the Allied Bridge & Construction Co. of Chicago, was not considered as it was not accompanied by a good faith check for 10 per cent of the amount of the bid, as required. The specifications provided that alternate bids could be submitted on Diesel or electric engines for the sewer outlet, but both bids yesterday provided for electric engines to be used at the outlet.

The Public Works Administration has approved a grant of $133,000 for the sewer and the rest of the cost is to be provided by bonds issued after benefit taxes are levied under the city's Local Improvement Act. The board had advertised for bids twice previously. The first time an insufficient number of bids was received, and the successful bidder at the second letting was unable to carry out the contract. The city is considering filing suit against this contractor to recover the amount of the guarantee check deposited with the city when the contract was awarded. The PWA conducted an investigation earlier this year in connection with the sewer project, but no action has been taken as a result of the inquiry.

CHURCH SERVICE TO BE HELD IN INTERESTS OF SAFETY

The Rev. Dr. C. Oscar Johnson to Invite Members of Councils, Auto Clubs, Patrols and Police.

A special service in the interests of safety will be conducted this evening at 7:30 o'clock at Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards, under the direction of the Rev. Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, pastor. Members of industrial safety councils, automobile clubs, the school boy patrols and city patrolmen have been invited to attend.

The Metropolitan Church Federation of St. Louis, of which the Rev. Dr. Johnson is president, has joined with the Missouri Safety Mobilization organization in efforts for the promotion of safety.

In letters to the churches of the federation, the Rev. Dr. Johnson requested that members of the churches be given the opportunity today to vote on the federation's safety proposals. Children in Sunday schools, beyond the elementary school age, will be permitted to vote with the adults. The ballots will be tabulated at the Missouri Safety Mobilization headquarters, 4228 Lindell boulevard.

U. OF PENNSYLVANIA HONOR FOR DR. JOSEPH ERLANGER

Degree to Be Conferred on Washington U. Physiologist and Dr. H. S. Gasser.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—The University of Pennsylvania will confer honorary degrees on two physiologists Tuesday at the opening of a series of scientific lectures they will give under the auspices of the Eldridge Reeves Johnson Foundation for Medical Physics.

They are Dr. Joseph Erlanger, professor of physiology at Washington University, St. Louis, and Dr. Herbert Spencer Gasser, director of the laboratories of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

BANK ASSETS UP 10 PER CENT

Report for 1935 Shows 27 Pct. in Cash in Insured Depositories.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 28. — A 10 per cent increase in total assets of insured commercial banks for 1935 was reported today by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The corporation said the assets of 14,121 insured banks of Dec. 31, amounted to $50,915,092,000 in contrast with $46,436,802,000 reported by 14,135 insured banks the comparable date of the previous year. The figures covered banks holding more than 98 per cent of the total assets of the country's commercial banks. More than 27 per cent of the assets were held as cash, or deposits in other banks at the year's end, the report said, and about 26 per cent were invested in either United States Government securities, or obligations wholly guaranteed by the Government. Total deposits of insured banks amounted to $44,123,385,000 on Dec. 31, an increase of 13 per cent over the previous year.

TWO PASTORS ARE CANDIDATES

Poultry Dealer Also Running for Mayor in Brookfield, Mo.

By the Associated Press.

BROOKFIELD, Mo., March 27.—Two ministers are among Brookfield's three candidates for Mayor in a non-partisan city election April 3.

The candidates are Harry Cook, young United Brethren preacher and former insurance agent; Eloyd Lanning, Methodist minister, and Fred A. Burke, poultry dealer and baesball enthusiast. In the Linn County election, Max Brown, youthful son of Sheriff Carl Brown, is a candidate on the Democratic ticket to succeed his father.

UNITARIAN LEADERS ON PROGRAM TODAY

Dr. F. M. Eliot and Dr. F. W. Scott Among Laymen League's Speakers.

Delegates to the Midwestern convention of the Unitarian Laymen's League will meet at 10 a. m. today at the Church of the Unity, 5015 Waterman avenue, for a social hour, to be followed by the service of worship, in which the congregation of the Church of the Messiah will join.

The Rev. Dr. Frederick M. Eliot of St. Paul will be the preacher, his theme being "The Command Is Forward." He is the grandson of the Rev. William Greenleaf Eliot, who founded the Church of the Messiah and Washington University. The Rev. Dr. Walter Samuel Swisher, pastor of the Church of the Messiah, and the Rev. Dr. George R. Dodson, pastor of the Church of the Unity, will conduct the service.

At the afternoon session, in Hotel Chase at 3:30 p. m., the Rev. Eric Thomsen of Lincoln, Neb., of the Resettlement Administration staff, will be the principal speaker. The delegates will go at 5 p. m. to the Church of the Messiah, Union boulevard and Enright avenue, where a vesper service will be held, followed by a buffet supper and, at 7:45, the final session of the convention, with addresses by Dr. Eliot and Dr. Frank W. Scott of Boston, president of the League.

Prof. Frank J. Bruno of Washington University spoke at last night's session of the convention, at Hotel Chase, on "Liberal Religion and Its Application to Social Work." He said that social work could be done without the church, but that religion, so far as known, could not be mainained without the church. He said the churches had not made a sufficient effort to minister religiously to adults.

"As social work comes to recognize the place of religion in developing the personality of its clients," Dr. Bruno said, "it is going to insist on the church giving this service. If it is the distinctive task of the church to develop the attitude of reverance and faith, then it will gain nothing and will probably lose, if it fusses about, trying to hold onto functions which can be done equally well by someone else. Our Protestant churches, in their pursuit of feeding the tables, have neglected the preaching of the gospel."

William J. Burns of Topeka, Kan., and Dean Rexford Newcomb of the University of Illinois, were speakers at the afternoon session at the Chase. Dean Newcomb, in speaking of social problems confronting the church, said:

"The plain obligation of a clear-thinking, right-minded, truth-seeking, liberal religious body, such as we think ourselves to be, is to do something about this pressing problem of starvation in the midst of plenty. How the members of a liberal church, individually or collectively, can ignore these questions and still maintain their self-respect and save their faces, it would be difficult for me to understand. We must become as interested and take stands as definite as those which in the past have characterized our attitudes toward other issues.

"In other words, we shall have to put our plank of 'practical spirituality' to work to the extent that it really becomes effective in helping us to aid in the ordering of human affairs. If we do not meet this challenge, my feeling is that we had better close up shop and go out of business."

Talmadge Ousts Another Official.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 28.—Manning S. Yeomans, son of Georgia's Attorney-General, was removed as State Entomologist today for opposing the financial dictatorship of Gov. Eugene Talmadge. Yeomans refused to handle state money not appropriated by the Legislature. J. H. Girardeau of McRae, Ga., Talmadge's home town, was named to succeed him. Yeomans said he was the fifteenth official ousted since the Governor, angered by the failure of the 1935 Legislature to pass an appropriation bill, set out with the aid of National Guardsmen to run the state by executive decree.

O. R. BURKART PAYS $235,000 FOR CHASE BLDG.

Shops and Office Structure at Maryland and York Avenues Acquired From Chase Ulman.

By Berry Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver R. Burkart have been disclosed as the purchasers of the Chase Shops and Office Building, at the southwest corner of Maryland and York avenues, owned by Chase Ulman. Negotiations for the property were concluded several weeks ago by the Henry R. Weisels Co. representing the purchasers. Burkart is president of the Burkart Manufacturing Co.

The actual purchase price was not disclosed. The warranty deed carried $235 in revenue stamps, a dollar a thousand, or one per cent on a valuation of $235,000. As part of the purchase price, Mr. and Mrs. Burkart transferred to Ulman 23 acres at the southeast corner of Clayton and Geyer roads, valued by realty men at between $2500 and $3000 an acre. Both properties were unincumbered.

Reflects Inflation Psychology.

Involving all cash, with the exception of the amount represented in the Clayton-Geyer tract, the purchase of the building is pointed to as a noteworthy incident of apparent reflection of inflation psychology. Ulman was represented in the negotiations by the Kempland Realty Co.

The Chase Shops and Office Building, a three-story concrete fireproof structure, occupies a site with a frontage of 160 feet on Maryland and 94 feet 10 inches on York. The first floor comprises seven stores and the second and third floor offices. The exterior is finished in black carrara glass, terra cotta and brick. The equipment includes a steam heating plant with twin boilers, an oil burner, and two Otis elevators. The building was designed by Preston J. Bradshaw, with W. J. Knight & Co., engineers.

Approximately 75 per cent of the

7 FIRMS ESTABLISHED HERE IN FEBRUARY

Ten Concerns Expanded Facilities; Additional Investment Totals $144,000.

Establishment of seven new companies and expansions by 10 companies were reported for the St. Louis industrial district during February, it was stated in the monthly report of the Industrial Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce issued yesterday.

An additional industrial investment of $144,000 was represented by the new companies and expansions, which require the services of 99 additional employes. Existing floor space absorbed totaled 222,700 square feet, and 47,500 square feet of new industrial space was constructed.

The principal barometers of St. Louis business for February, 1936, compared with February of the previous year, were summarized in the report as follows:

Building permits decreased 25.82 per cent; debits to individual accounts increased 19.93 per cent; bank clearings increased 15.88 per cent; post office receipts increased 5.45 per cent; local telephone calls increased 20.42 per cent; industrial electricity supplied by the Union Electric Light & Power Co. to 197 identical customers increased 7.31 per cent, and industrial electricity supplied by the Laclede Power & Light Co. increased 2.47 per cent; water consumption increased 48.25 per cent; industrial gas consumption increased 13.5 per cent; revenue street car and bus passengers increased 14.97 per cent on the lines of the St. Louis Public Service Co. and the People's Motorbus Co. combined; value of milk production increased 11.16 per cent; revenue cars handled by the Terminal Railroad Association increased 23.67 per cent.

HOUSE AT 47 PORTLAND PL. BOUGHT BY NELSON B. GATCH

The residence at 47 Portland place, owned by the Davis estate, has been purchased by Nelson B. Gatch, a partner of the firm of Gatch Bros., Jordan and McKinney, Inc., through Mary Potter Love, Inc.

The Davis estate is composed of Samuel C. Davis, John T. Davis and Dwight Davis. The house until recently was occupied by John T. Davis.

It is a beautiful Colonial residence with spacious entrance hall and broad winding stairway. The first floor includes panelled library, dining room and reception room. There are five bedrooms with three baths on the second floor, a family bedroom with bath and maid's rooms with bath comprise the third floor. The garage corresponds in design with the house. The lot is 137x200.

PLAT OF 'DEER CREEK WOODS,' A NEW DEVELOPMENT, FILED

The plat of "Deer Creek Woods," a new residential development on the west side of Lay road in Deer Creek Village, has been filed with the Recorder of Deeds at Clayton, St. Louis County. The new subdivision adjoins on the north a tract of 68 acres at the northwest corner of Lay and Litzinger roads, given to the City of St. Louis by C. A. Tilles for a park.

"Deer Creek Woods," which is owned by the George Tilles Investment Co. will be handled by the Francis-Perry-Ruth Real Estate Co. It is being laid out with the highest type improvements, under the supervision of Roy Jablonsky, former surveyor and engineer of St. Louis County. Sewer, gas, telephone, electric and water mains have been installed, together with the construction of sidewalks, curbs and streets. Attractive entrance gates have been erected.

Ed Bakewell to Have Management of Chase Building.

Management of the Chase Shops and office building has been placed with Edward L. Bakewell. Construction of the building was started last, the project being the first of its type on a large scale to materialize since 1929.

REALTORS TO HOLD SALES CONFERENCE

Exchange President Will Preside at Meeting to Be Held Wednesday Evening.

A sales conference for realtors, their salesmen and affiliated members will be conducted by the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange on Wednesday evening, at the Hotel Statler.

Gale F. Johnston of St. Louis, divisional sales manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., with a territory covering nine of the Southwestern states and Hobard C. Brady, Secretary of the Wheeler, Kelley-Hagney Trust Co., Wichita, Kan., and president of the Wichita Real Estate Board will be speakers.

Brady, whose subject will be Militant Merchandising, is the head of an extensive real estate department and in this capacity has developed some new ideas for the management and sale of properties in charge of the company of which he is secretary.

Cyrus Crane Willmore, president, Cyrus Crane Willmore Organization, Inc., and president of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, will be the presiding officer. Arrangements for the Sales Conference are in charge of Arthur C. Hoehn, vice-president, Henry R. Weisels Co., Inc., and chairman of the Exchange's Program Committee.

F. H. A. WILL HOLD CLINIC DURING WEEK

Program Includes Dinner at Jefferson Hotel Wednesday Night—550 Already Made.

A visualized demonstration of the Federal Housing Administration's function will open Wednesday, April 1, 9 a. m., on the ground floor, Title Guaranty building, 710 Chestnut street. The clinic, as it is termed, will fully present the service that institution is rendering to the public of St. Louis, St. Louis County and Missouri, that of bringing exceptional opportunity for owning and equipping modern homes.

In connection with the clinic, which is being sponsored on behalf of the local public by a representative committee of 27 members, wholly outside of the FHA, there will be a dinner Tuesday, at 6 p. m., in Hotel Jefferson, the guests in the main being interests closely linked with the FHA activities in the form of finances ,the building trades and allied industries. The speaker at the dinner will be J. Howard Audrey, Assistant FHA Administrator, stationed at New York, and the toastmaster will be W. R. Mayne, chairman of the sponsoring committee. Approximately 550 tickets for the dinner have been reserved and the interest manifest leads to anticipation of 750 guests.

Should this number attend it will be the largest event of its kind incident to the clinic, that at Chicago recently having been attended by 588 persons. From the dinner the guests will go to Roosevelt High School Auditorium, where a public meeting is scheduled for 8:15 o'clock.

BUILDER BUYS 14 ACRES WITH 500 REET ON LAY ROAD

A tract of 14 acres adjoining Fair Oaks on the Lay road has been acquired by Howard W. Godwin, builder. Cornet & Zeibig and V. W. Reitz Jr. handled the transaction. The land, which has a frontage of 500 feet on Lay road, is attractive for residences of a higher order with which the purchaser intends ultimately to improve it. The seller, Rosalie Greffet, had owned the property more than half a century.

Godwin has built a number of handsome homes in Oakleigh Lane.

AARON T. FARRIS ACQUIRES HOUSE AT 556 STRATFORD

Aaron T. Ferris, manager of the accounting machine division of the National Cash Register Co., recently purchased a residence of English design at 556 Stratford avenue, through the Cyrus Crane Willmore Organization, Inc. The house has living room, dining room, hall and kitchen on the first floor. There are four bedrooms and two baths on the second floor.

HOME FINANCING

THE FEDERAL LOAN PLAN HAS MANY ADVANTAGES

1. The most satisfactory way of paying off the home loan. The cost is very low and is spread over a long period of years.
2. The Federal Plan does away with frequent renewals, frequent commissions and other expenses.
3. One single monthly payment takes care of all interest, principal, taxes and fire and tornado insurance premiums.
4. Each month the interest cost reduces; each month the principal payment correspondingly increases.
5. The monthly payment is made to fit your income. No more taxes to pay each December. No more insurance premiums coming due at inconvenient times.
6. The monthly payment remains unchanged during the loan.
7. Under supervision of the Federal Government.

NEGOTIATIONS CLOSED FOR TWO APARTMENTS

South Side Structure, One 12 Unit, the Other Six, Acquired as Investments.

Negotiations have been concluded through Nahn-Heberer Realty Co. for two South Side buildings on behalf of investors.

One is a 12-family building at the northeast corner of Arsenal street and Virginia avenue, purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Isaac S. Rose from the Charles S. Mueri Realty & Building Co. The other is a six-unit building at 3911 Castleman avenue, which was acquired by Augusta Daniels.

The Nahn-Heberer company acted as an intermediary in both transactions.

INSURANCE AGENCY ENLARGES QUARTERS AT 218 N. FOURTH

Isaac T. Cook Co. announces that they have closed a lease on the store at 218 North Fourth street with the Insurance Agency Co. This store is in the Rialto Building, the management of which was recently taken over by the Cook company.

The Insurance Agency now occupies the building at 214 North Fourth and is enlarging the space by the addition of this store, which adjoins its present quarters on the north. The store at 3552 South Grand boulevard, in the Kresge Building, has been leased to Gus Demas and John Degeerenis for restaurant purposes. Erma Rodriguez, operating a beauty parlor, has rented the storeroom at 4741 Morganford road.

The following leases have also been closed in the Mallinckrodt Building at Ninth and Washington avenues: David Cohen Hat Co., entire seventh floor at 615-21 North Ninth; Morris Londe & Lewis Londe, entire sixth floor at 907-09 Washington; Bezabel Rabinowitz and Leader Millinery Co., sixth floor of 901-05 Washington avenue.

The St. Louis Federal Savings & Loan Association (formerly the St. Louis Building & Loan Association), has taken an extended lease on its present quarters at 207-09 North Eighth street, in the Arcade Building.

All parties in the above transactions were represented by Isaac T. Cook Co.

space in the building, only recently completed, is rented.

The corner first floor and part of the second floor at 4924-28 Maryland avenue, is occupied by Lockhart, Inc., under a long lease. A store room at 4934-36 Maryland is leased to Open Door Book Shop. The western part of the second floor has been taken by the Junior League of St. Louis. The southern part of the third floor is occupied by the Phillips Petroleum Corporation as offices, under a long lease. A number of well-known physicians and surgeons occupy offices in the building, including Dr. B. and N. Pippin, Dr. M. L. Klinefelter, Dr. Wayne Rupe, Dr. Alfred J. Cone, Dr. F. P. McNally, Dr. R. K. Andrews, Dr. H. L. Alexander and Dr. Lawrence Thompson, and Masseur Ione C. Pringel.

Grouped With Large Buildings.

The building is just east of the towering Park Plaza Hotel at the southeast corner of Maryland and Kingshighway. It is also in the same city block with Chase Hotel at the southeast corner of Lindell and Kingshighway, and the Chase and Chester apartments, adjoining on Lindell—eight-story buildings erected by Ulman in 1922. He disposed of his interests in these buildings a number of years ago.

The tract acquired by Ulman in the deal has a frontage of 1034 feet on Clayton and 942 feet on the east side of Geyer. It is just north of 13½ acres recently purchased by Miss Gertrude C. Muckerman, daughter of C. H. Muckerman, through Edward L. Bakewell. Miss Muckerman's purchase is just north of and adjoins her father's 25-acre estate.

Joseph Sunnen, president of the Sunnen Products Co. of St. Louis, has bought a tract of 7.57 acres fronting 500 feet on the east side of Warson road, just south of Ladue road, with a depth to the west of 700 feet. It is south of Mary Institute. It is adjacent to the homes of John V. Janes, Charles H. Morrill and John S. Lehman. The sale was for cash and the Chauncey P. Heath Real Estate Co. represented both parties in the transactions.

MANY RESTRICTIONS FOR HUNTLEIGH WOODS

County Residential Section on Lindberg Boulevard to Have Art Commission.

The new residential development, known as Huntleigh Woods, owned by the Bowdon Co., Inc., of Kirkwood, of which David M. Donnan is president, is pointed to as one of the most attractive in St. Louis County.

The tract, which is heavily wooded, is just off Lindbergh boulevard, south of Clayton road. It is the plan of the owners to restrict all construction to homes of approved design, costing not less than $15,000. However, instead of depending on the monetary restrictions alone, which in time varies widely with construction costs, etc., their plan is unique in that it provides an art commission composed of men of outstanding merit and ability in their respective fields of architecture, planning, landscaping and business policy. The function of this commission is to co-operate with the individual plot owners for the purpose of making an harmonious artistic whole of the Huntleigh Woods community.

The members of the art commission as appointed are: Hugo Graf, well known architect an dartist, Russell H. Riley of Harland Bartholomew & Associates, planning and landscaping.

COLONIAL HILLS SITE ACQUIRED BY ALAN T. SMITH

Mr. and Mrs. Alan T. Smith have purchased a three-acre site in Colonial Hills on the Spoede road adjoining the estate of Raymond A. Dubuque, as a site for Colonial residence. It will have living room, dining room, breakfast room, kitchen and lavatory on the first floor, with four master bedrooms and three baths and a maid's room and bath on the second floor. Smith is connected with the Northwestern Trust Co. The Eggers Realty & Investment Co. represented the seller and the purchaser was represented by Albert T. Terry, Son & Co.

STUDY TO BE MADE OF LOAN PROCEDURE

Building & Loan Associations Here Have Over $1,500,000 Available for Borrowers.

A new committee has been appointed by the St. Louis League of Incorporated Building and Loan Associations to study the procedure which prospective borrowers must follow in securing various types of loans now available for home financing, James F. Williams, president of the League, announced yesterday (Saturday).

In addition to its survey of loan procedure, he said, the committee will gather information on the amount and types of credit available to home builders or buyers.

"With building activity increasing steadily," Williams said, "there is growing need for loans which can be secured in simple and direct fashion."

Building and loan associations in St. Louis and St. Louis County, he continued, have more than $1,500,000 in cash and liquid bonds available for borrowers. During the last nine months, Williams pointed out, these associations have loaned an average of $472,000 a month.

Members of the committee are Paul Blackwelder, secretary of the Midwest Savings and Loan Association, A. G. Kuehner, secretary of the Hamiltonian Building Loan & Savings Association, and Alfred Zeller, secretary of the American Home Building and Loan Association.

SUBURBAN RENTS

TO THE RENTER

WHO BOUGHT HIS CAR ON TIME

What a thrill you had when you made the last payment and the car was yours. You then owned something besides your clothing and furniture. Don't stop acquiring more. Even more important it is to own the house you live in. Real estate maintains a far better value than all those other things. Many a man has lived in a home for 10 years and sold it without a penny loss, in fact, made money on it. A home, therefore, is even a better investment than the other things, especially now when rents are being raised. We can finance 80 per cent or more of the appraised value of a home for you, so see us as soon as you can handle the remaining face equity.

SUBURBAN PROPERTY FOR SALE

Distinguished... to a MARKED DEGREE

The beautiful homes just completed in this most exclusive residential development—

La Hacienda

ON LADUE AND PRICE RDS.

Opposite the St. Louis Country Club

The architectural beauty of these new homes and the quality of materials thru which that beauty is apparent, together with expert workmanship, are three factors which distinguish them to such a marked degree.

Combine this with the exclusive environment, the convenience of the location, the many improvements not found in ordinary developments and the superiority of La Hacienda is unquestionable. But despite this superiority these new homes are reasonably priced. They are open for inspection today and we advise an early visit.

Drive out this afternoon. We welcome visitors.

Huntleigh Woods

A Community of Country Homes and Estates

Restriction Agreements are said to be quite similar. However, HUNTLEIGH WOODS is unique in that instead of relying entirely on its nominal monetary restrictions it provides an ART COMMISSION consisting of experts of recognized merit and ability in their representative fields, whose function is to cooperate with the individual plot owners with a view to making HUNTLEIGH WOODS a harmonious whole architecturally, artistically and otherwise.

Appointments as made to the ART COMMISSION are Hugo K. Graf, Architecture; Russell H. Riley (of Harland Bartholomew & Associates), Planning and Landscaping.

Do not fail to see and investigate HUNTLEIGH WOODS before you buy.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME

A fine opportunity for hard working man with $1000 as security. Prefer man over 25 years of age, and in good standing (this is not a get-rich-quick scheme). Possible earnings $50 to $150 per week according to your ability and the time which you devote to your work. We guarantee you no loss of your deposit. Territory—Missouri, Texas, Illinois and Indiana. We furnish you with a good automobile and fine quality staple merchandise. Also, A1 profitable distributing plan backed by advertising.

You are practically your own boss. This company is a Missouri corporation, manufacturers of new and profitable up-to-date items which has a great public demand.

In answer, give full details, education, married or single; give phone number; reply to Box M-64, Post-Dispatch.

OPPORTUNITY

We are looking for men who are anxious to make over $6000.00 yearly to start, with an opportunity of building a real business.

We want men of character, who are not afraid to work, who have some selling ability.

For the right men, we have some territorial openings in Missouri and Illinois. We are a responsible manufacturing company and this is an opportunity we are offering—not a job.

In order to quality, applicant must have at least $2000 in cash. This money is NOT to be invested with us, but is our guarantee that the applicant can finance himself until his profits start accruing.

Our proposition will net the right man more than a good living from scratch, together with an independent business, with attractive profits.

Our products compromise a complete line of cosmetics and toilet accessories —150 items for the retail trade. Other lines will be offered in the near future.

Your answer will be treated confidentially. Give us a brief sketch of yourself in your first letter. Interview will be held in St. Louis.

Please do not answer if you are just looking for a job—BUT DON'T OVERLOOK THIS OPPORTUNITY IF YOU WANT TO GET PERMANENTLY and PROFITABLY ESTABLISHED.

In answering give age and address and phone number.
Box M-51, Post-Dispatch.

USED CAR SALE SETTING NEW HIGH RECORDS!

CROWDS JAMMING THE BIG LOT AT 3501 WASHINGTON

Never before has St. Louis seen such a crowd as that present during the gigantic Used Car Sale now being conducted at 3501 Washington Ave. Hundreds of nearly new cars have been drastically cut in price. Automobile experts pronounce this sale one of the most sensational merchandising moves ever made.

OLDS DEALER CUTS THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS FOR SALE

Former prices apparently mean nothing to Fred Vincel, pioneer St. Louis Oldsmobile dealer. Vincel has announced his radical price reductions on his entire stock of fine used cars, many of them being offered for ridiculously low figures. An unusual feature of the sale is the completeness of the stock; every popular make being available in nearly all models. Prices range from $50 up.

END-OF MONTH USED CAR SALE

FOR A BANG-UP FINISH TO A BIG MONTH, WE ARE SLASHING PRICES SO AS TO MOVE 100 MORE CARS

All cars have been drastically reduced by orders of the Boss. We're going over the top with the biggest March in history if price can do it. You'll be amazed at Crosby offerings. Come early! Many are ONE OF A KIND!

> EDITORIAL
> I am convinced that we have made used car history this month, both in the size of our Used Car Arena and in Used Car Sales.
> Nevertheless, I have ordered the further reduction in prices on all of the 300 or more used cars, so that when Wednesday the 31st is over, the record will be high enough for even us to shoot at.
>
> It is my ambition to serve as many in the St. Louis area as possible, because every purchaser becomes a friend. One cannot have too many friends.
> May I suggest that now is a good time to get ready for the Easter parade with a Crosby Used Car?
> E. M. CROSBY,
> President and Sole Owner.

Questions Before The House

Foundation Planting—Care of Hardwood Floors—Paint Problems—Heating Systems.

Q. Is it practical to replace an old-fashioned bath tub with one of the newer type that sits directly on the floor? INTERESTED.

A. Yes, it is. A plumber will be glad to give you an estimate on a change of that kind.

Q. We built a house last year and for some reason or other we don't seem able to make plants and shrubs grow for what you call "foundation planting." What can we do to change this as the house looks very bare without growing things? A. G. C.

A. If there are no gutters on your house it may be that the water running off the roof washes away the top soil. It may be, too, that there is insufficient top soil; also when the house was finished waste plaster and refuse may have been thrown against the foundation with the dirt. Plants and shrubs need a good top soil and a clean subsoil. You might do well to investigate and see just what condition exists. A trench containing good soil and fertilizer and plant food will give your shrubs a start.

Q. Five years ago when my home was built the shingles were stained a light gray. The house is entirely shingled, by the way. The stain has begun to wash off and some places show a patchy white. One dealer advises paint reduced with an equal quantity of turpentine and one-half the quantity raw linseed oil. It doesn't seem to me that paint thinned this much would stand up very well.
J. W., Clayton, Mo.

A. Dry shingles are absorbent and the first coat of paint should be thinned, though not as much as suggested. Thinning with one-fourth as much linseed oil should suffice. After that use the house paint as it comes.

Q. Please publish how to take care of hardwood floors.
A BRIDE.

A. Where hardwood floors are in good condition waxing is the best care you can give them. Paste wax which is smoothed on and left to dry overnight and then polished makes a protective coating against marring. The liquid wax which dries with luster and without polishing requires several coats for a protective covering. A waxed floor may then be cleaned with a dust mop and a fresh coat of wax applied weekly on the spots that get the greatest amount of wear.

Q. Is it all right to cook with the hot water that comes from the tubes of a heating boiler?
MRS. F. M., Pine Lawn.

A. No, it is not. This water may contain metal salts which are not healthful.

Q. For the past three months the water does not drain rapidly from the bath tub. There is also a clucking noise. Can you suggest what the trouble might be? XYZ.

A. The drain is evidently clogged by hair or lint and the obstruction forms an air pocket which makes the noise. Have the whole drain pipe cleaned.

Q. A 20-year-old flat roof, tar, gravel and five-ply paper, is leaking. A recent serious leak has decided us on doing a new and complete job. Is there any new material now on the market better than what is now on the roof? Should we do the job at any time? Our roofer wants to do a temporary repair job now, and a complete job in about a month.
D. L. S., Webster Groves.

A. Wait for a stretch of dry weather before doing your complete job. Built-up roofings have been improved over plain tar and tar paper; asphalt is widely used, and impregnated felt also.

Q. My heating system is one-pipe steam with an oil burner; separate steam mains for front and rear of house. When the burner goes on in the morning, all radiators get very hot. Then rear radiators cool off, and do not heat when the thermostat again goes on. How can I keep the rear of the house warm? E. J. W.

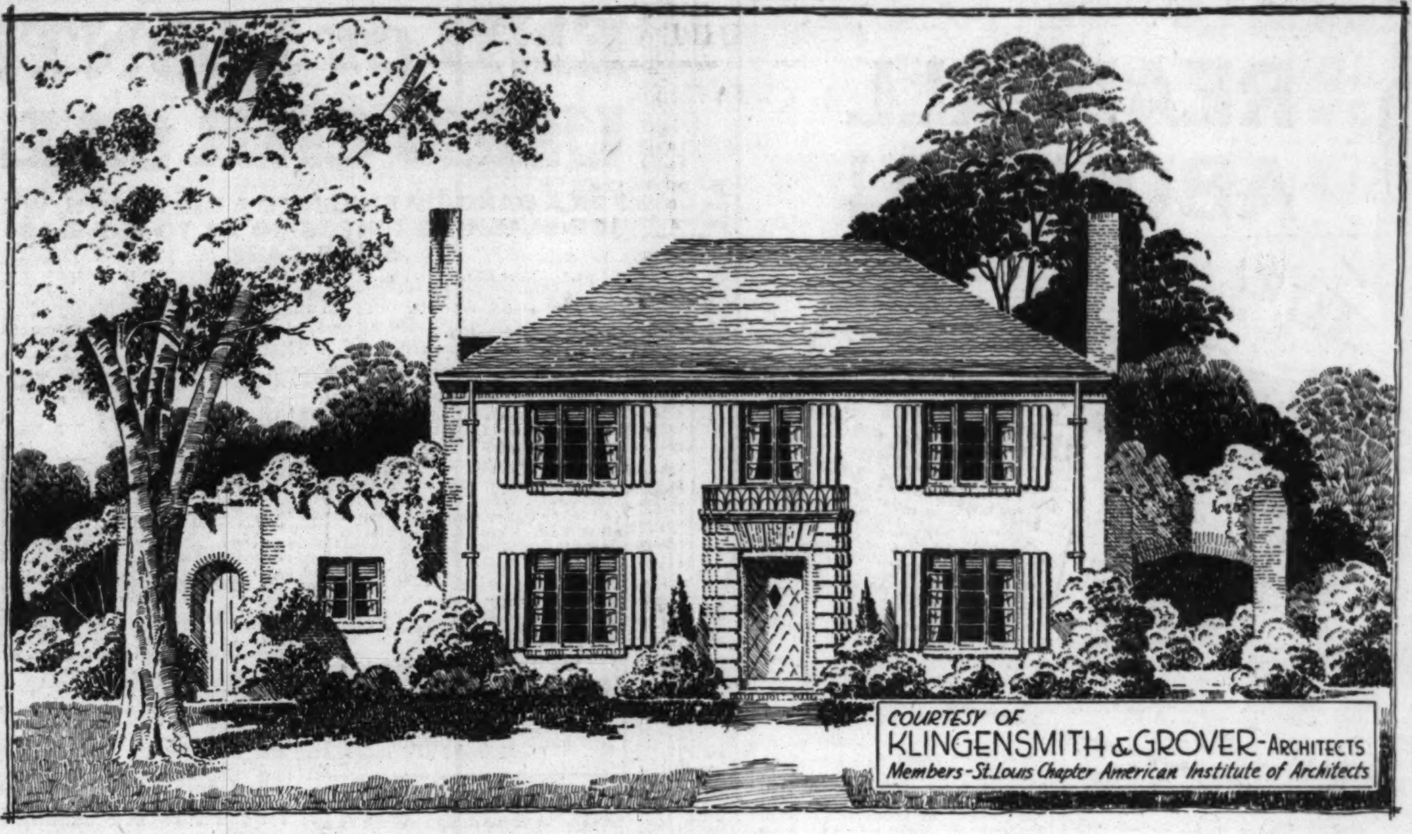
A. Your thermostat is in a room that heats quickly, and it shuts off before the rear radiators have time to heat. You do not get this effect in the morning because of the full pressure that is raised in bringing the house to day temperature. Move the thermostat to another position.

Chimney Width

A chimney that sticks out into the room is awkward and makes the room hard to furnish. In a narrow room it cuts the room in half and makes virtually two rooms out of it. A fireplace that is flush with the wall or has only eight or 10 inches of projection makes a nicer room and one much easier to furnish. If there is this slight projection, book shelves can be built against the wall on each side so that the front of the shelves is flush with the chimney breast, and neither the chimney nor the book shelves will seem to project into the room at all.

Modernized Mediterranean of Brick Construction

The Planted Roof Terraces and Massive Doorway, Which Is True Mediterranean, Are Only Part of the Charm of This House.



COURTESY OF KLINGENSMITH & GROVER-ARCHITECTS
Members-St. Louis Chapter American Institute of Architects

Simplified facade and roof terraces shown here. Note interesting treatment of windows.

TO MOST people who consider architecture at all, modern or modernized means a streamlined effect, utterly simple and, perhaps, with shining chromium somewhere about, corner windows and flat roofs. They are more right than wrong in this assumption—begging the shining chromium and corner windows—according to Mr. Grover, who designed the house shown above. Modernized means simply the paring off of some of the embellishment and simplifying the facade.

To be true Mediterranean there should be a tile roof instead of slate and there should be no indication of blinds. This house was designed to suit the taste of its owner as well as to fit into it surroundings on the lot on which it was built.

The entrance is massive brick, which is true Mediterranean. The flat roof terraces over the porch and kitchen on either side, which are planted to soften the harsh horizontal line are also in keeping with this spirit. The blinds, which are simulated shutters and function only as decoration and to give the windows the added weight which they needed in the design, are bolted to the wall and painted brown. There is an ornamental dogtooth brick course in the cornice, the house is built of brick in shades of red and has, as was stated before, a slate roof. The casements are wood and the window sills are brick.

All emphasis in the facade is centered on the doorway, which has a concealed light in the head of the opening and floods the entire doorway. The door is an interesting slab type, with diagonal V-shaped grooves cut in. One of these forms a tiny diamond-shaped pane.

WHEN an architect designs a house he must take many things into consideration and the climate of the Middle West is one of them. Where we have a minimum of sun in winter and a maximum of heat in summer, the problem of light and sun and provisions for and against must really be considered.

The house faces west and gives three exposures to the living room: west, south and east, making a most cheerful room even on dismal days. The screened porch which connects with the living room on the southeastern corner protects the room from too much heat in summer and yet leaves a corner that is always pleasant in the winter.

The dining room is just across the hall and has a west and northern exposure. The breakfast room, which opens off the dining room, is one of the most interesting rooms in the house, not only from a standpoint of decoration but also from planned conveniences. The walls have been done in four shades of yellow, shading from a deep yellow at the base to a pale yellow at the top. The shades are marked by horizontal bands of chromium. Cases built in at either side of the door have been painted black and have concealed lights in the tops. The black provides a proper background for beautiful pieces of colored glass, which are set out on plate glass shelves.

The breakfast room, like the back entry, and the living porch opens on a paved terrace which faces east. Here is an ideal spot for afternoon bridge or entertaining since it is shaded during most of the day. Food may be prepared with very little fuss and carried from the kitchen through the breakfast room to waiting guests.

THE kitchen forms its own wing on the north side of the house. It is an all-electric kitchen with every possible labor saving device in it. This home laboratory has been most carefully planned with a work counter on three sides of it. Below the counter are storage cabinets. A number of cabinets for dishes line the walls. Cooking odors are carried off by means of an electric ventilating fan.

Few home owners consider a garage directly connected with the house a fire hazard. Most garages today are fireproofed but even then fumes may creep into the house through a connecting passage. In this first floor plan the service entry forms a covered entrance to the two-car garage while actually separating the house from it.

The lavatory at the back of the house has been turned into a powder room which is done in shades of blue. The vestibule has two ample closets and the stair leading to the second floor has an ornamental wrought iron rail.

THE master's room on the second floor has two exposures, west and south. It has a bath with shower and built-in dressing table and towel cabinet. The connecting dressing room opens on the roof terrace. The bath which serves the west and east bedrooms is complete and has a modern square tub and built-in towel cabinet. The east bedroom opens on the roof terrace which is over the kitchen wing. The linen closet has been centrally located for all the bedrooms. A window opening in the back hall provides the platform with daylight.

The modern note is carried out through the house both in furnishings and fixtures. The living room has a beautiful modern mantel with vertical fluting, a simple cap and above that a large mirror which extends to the cornice and is without trim. Four stars hold it to the wall. This cornice is repeated in the dining room and hall.

Light fixtures in all the major rooms are of the concealed box type and were designed by the architects. They were built by the owner who is an electrical engineer. These lights are for general lighting which experts agree is the proper form. Lamps and side lights take care of more direct needs.

THE house is heated by warm air and is air conditioned. Provisions have been made for future cooling. Space in the basement is provided for a future recreation room. The house contains about 40,000 cubic feet and is estimated at a cost of 33 cents per cubic foot.

Careful foundation planting is being undertaken and a formal garden has been planned at the back of the house to give an outlook from the living and breakfast rooms. The house has been built in St. Louis County.

Garage Makes Good Hobby Room

Almost every man and many women love a place in which to putter. Usually the only place available is some dark corner of the cellar, where little or no daylight penetrates and where tools rust in the summer when the furnace is out. It is not a pleasant place to work, and consequently after a few weeks the discomforts and inconveniences to be overcome outweigh the yearning to putter. So the puttering ceases. The yearning never entirely disappears, however, and always there is that hope that some day a pleasant place will be provided and the building of ship models or whatnots or twisting iron into candle sticks can be resumed.

If you are building a new garage, add a few feet to it and there is the place to putter. A light partition can be built so that in winter, if the garage is unheated, either an electric heater or a small kerosene heater may be used. Most kerosene heaters are approved by the National Board of Fire Underwriters for use in garages, so they are safe to use. In such a room there will be plenty of daylight, and the electric wiring can include provision for sufficient plugs to run a couple of small motors for lathes or scroll saws or other equipment.

Don't be too economical of space; allow for a good-sized work bench, storage space, and enough room to move around in. The additional cost of a couple of extra feet of length will be small, and you will be more than repaid by the added comfort the room will provide.

For Better Living

If you look forward to a case of nerves from too much screen door banging this summer, plan to have the Handy Man install a screen door closer for you. These are very simple gadgets which work like a charm and cut down the wear and tear on doors as well as nerves. This door closer comes in rustless brass and has a spring of oil tempered flat rolled wire.

There is a new automatic water heater on the market which should be good news to all steaming hot shower devotees. This one has a new heating principle and combines radiation, reflection and absorption of heat. Heat is generated in a burner box at the bottom of the heater, radiates and is reflected by a chromium plated metal mirror surface which is portion of the shell about the tank. Installation is comparatively simple and the nice part of it is that it can be taken down if you happen to be a renter and have installed your own heater.

Aluminum paint is being recommended today as an undercoating for other house paints. It has a moisture proofing quality. Wood that is exposed to the wear and tear of weather benefits by the application of aluminum paint. It is also impervious to the ultra violet rays in sunlight.

* * *

Frequently a space is available in a bathroom to build in shelves for a large medicine cabinet. But don't make the mistake of building them deep, for where bottles and jars of various shapes and sizes are placed one behind another in several rows it is always the one in the back row that is wanted, and then there is first the difficulty of finding it and next the trouble of getting it out without upsetting several others. Shallow shelves with the distance between graduated to accommodate different height bottles are the most useful and convenient.

Attractive Acoustics

It is not always possible to combine science and beauty, but the application of sound-deadening treatment to the walls and ceilings of a room need not make it unattractive. In fact, quite the contrary is true. One of the popular types of acoustical materials is made from mica which is expanded by the application of heat and has an attractive natural color of iridescent golden ecru. Painting, however, does not lessen the efficiency. Decorative reps or highly ornamental brocades may be applied over other types of acoustical materials. In most cases acoustical application does not limit decoration at all.

Flower Trellis

A simple and inexpensive way to relieve the severe plainness of an uncovered front door is to build a trellis around it. It need not extend over 20 or 24 inches beyond the face of the house. Either a square top or an elliptical top may be used, depending on which would look better on the particular facade to which it is to be added. If it is stoutly built and vines are trained over it, it will make a delightful effect.

Sunshine.

A very soft, light tint of orange paint on the walls of a sunless room, gives the impression of sunshine.

Cracked Ceilings

When plaster ceilings become badly cracked and the usual methods of cutting out the cracks and filling them with new plaster will not suffice to give the ceiling a smooth look, the best thing to do is to cover the whole ceiling with a ribbed metal lath or one of the wood-fiber or gypsum-board laths and replaster the entire surface.

If you want to change the cornice of the room from the old classic style to something modernistic, or add a cornice where none exists, the same method can be used. Wire lath can be bent to the desired shape and wood blocks installed, to which the wire can be nailed, or the form can be built up out of one of the board laths.

In putting new lath over old plaster, it is necessary to find the exact location of the joists, so that the lath will be nailed to them and not merely to the old plaster. When the joists are located, lines should be drawn or snapped on the old plaster surface to mark them to act as a guide for nailing.

Try Anemones

Anemone japonica (windflower) is forgotten by too many gardeners. The lovely new varieties, growing from 18 inches to two feet in height, start blooming in September. Even smaller in plant and in blossom and just as welcome for that reason are the new dwarf hardy English asters. These range in height from seven to 12 inches, and, when they bloom in early fall, are entirely covered with a mass of small, starry, clear-colored blossoms.

Laundry Room

Service, convenience and comfort are the primary factors in good laundry-room equipment. Most equipment is installed too low, causing housewives many backaches from stooping. A built-in bench at proper height will be found convenient and an effective place to install washers, ironers, etc. Tubs should be at such a height that the housewife does not have to stoop from the shoulders.

Paint for Kitchen.

A wall that has been coated with a gloss or semigloss paint is easy to keep clean. Consequently, such wall treatment is advisable for kitchens, where a coating of smoke and grease is constantly forming on the walls.

HUSSMANN-LIGONIER ERECTING ADMINISTRATION BUILDING

Excavation work for the Administration Building to be erected in the 2400 block of North Leffingwell avenue, for the Hussmann-Ligonier Co. has been started. William H. & Nelson Cunliff Co. are the general contractors. The building, which will comprise 10,000 square feet, will be a two-story structure. Part of the first floor will be used as a display room for the products of the company. The executive and general offices will be on the second floor.

The building will be of a reinforced concrete, will be fireproof, with brick exterior. The entrance will be on North Leffingwell avenue.

The estimated cast is $40,000. Contracts call for completion July 15.

The company, established more than 30 years ago, manufactures a complete line of commercial refrigerators, meat choppers and coffee mills, etc. W. B. McMillen is president of the company; John Riley, vice-president; F. N. Moseley, secretary and treasurer; H. Giovanni, assistant secretary.

WE wish to acknowledge with grateful appreciation the kindness and sympathy extended us by our relatives and friends in our late bereavement.
THE SCULLY FAMILY.

IN MEMORIAM

BARBERA, SAM—Departed April 1, 1935:
I mourned for my husband in silence,
No eyes can see me weep,
But many of silent tears I shed
While others are asleep.
Sadly missed by wife, LYDIA.

CHRISTMANN, SOPHIA—In loving memory to my dear mother, Sophia Christmann and our dear daughter and sister, passed away March 30, 1935.
One year ago she passed away.
We grieved when she departed;
Time was too short to say farewell
To those she knew and loved so well.
We miss her coming footsteps,
We miss her everywhere;
Home is not what it used to be,
Since she is not here.
WM. CHRISTMANN, SON, JOHN and CHRISTINA DOERNHOEFER, parents; FRED and JOHN H., brothers and HILDA, sister.

EICHENLAUB, PETER—In loving memory of my dead husband, our father, father-in-law, grandfather, departed March 30, 1935:
There is a longing in our hearts today
For one so true and dear;
Loving memory, kind and sweet,
To us are always near.
Sadly missed by
Wife, Children and Grandchildren.

EICKEL, ROSE MARY—In loving memory of our dear infant daughter, who died March 29, 1935:
There is a link death cannot sever;
Love and remembrance last forever.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND FATHER and All Who Loved Her.

KEEDY, RALPH—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, who died March 28, 1933. Sadly missed by WIFE AND CHILDREN.

MEISINGER, GEORGE — In memory of my beloved husband, who departed this life March 24, 1932.
From this world of pain, sorrow, to the land of peace and rest,
God has taken your dear loved one, where you have found eternal rest.
Sadly missed by WIFE, FAMILY.

REINEKE—In loving memory of our dear parents, Joseph and Sophia, who passed away March 27, 1928 and June 15, 1929.
More and more each day we miss them.
Friends may think the wound is healed;
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our heart concealed.
Sadly missed by DAUGHTERS.

SCHALLER, OSCAR—In loving memory of my dear husband, who passed away March 31, 1933.
Never shall his memory fade.
Sadly missed by his WIFE.

SCHEER, RAYMOND—In loving remembrance of my dear son, died April 3, 1934. Mass St. Anthony Church Thursday, April 2, 8 a. m.
I thing of you when alone,
Memory is the only thing that grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER and FRIENDS.

SCHOLLMEYER, CHRISTIAN—In loving memory of our dear father, who departed Feb. 18, 1925, our dear mother, Barbara Schollmeyer, who departed March 28, 1927.
Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Love's remembrance outlasts all,
And though the years be many or few
They are filled with remembrances dear father and mother of you.
Sadly missed by their son,
CHRISTIAN JR., and daughter, MRS. LULU PAULUS.

SIEDHOFF, FRANK—In memory of Frank Who died March 29, 1935.
Till memories fade and life departs,
You'll live forever in our hearts.
Sadly missed by
HIS WIFE and CHILDREN.

MOTHER.

TAMM, ADOLF—Died March 29, 1935.
Gone, but not forgotten.
From his loving wife, LILLIE.

THOMAS, FRANK—In beautiful memory of Frank Thomas, who departed this life March 28, 1934. Sadly missed by ANNA AND EARL.

WAHL, HELENA—In loving memory of Helene Wahl, who departed this life March 30, 1935:
It was sad indeed the way you had to die,
Without a chance to say good-by.
Your spirit flew before we knew,
That you from us had gone.
If you had raised your dying head
And bid us all farewell,
The grief would not have been so hard
For those who loved you dearly.
Sadly missed by HUSBAND AND FAMILY.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN

WHAT IS YOUR FUTURE? ARE YOU GETTING AHEAD? ARE YOU ON THE ROAD TO INDEPENDENCE IN YOUR TRADE OR PROFESSION? CAN YOU EXPECT TO MAKE FROM $40 TO $100 A WEEK IN 1936? IF NOT, INVESTIGATE THIS OFFER OF FREE INSTRUCTION AND IMMEDIATE EMPLOYMENT. WE HAVE NOTHING TO SELL YOU.

We will take on additional men who wish to learn to do this work and who can get along on earnings of $35 to $40 a week while studying and practicing. We will train such men free. We will furnish full equipment with no deposit required. There is no expense. No previous experience in any kind of selling is necessary. If you are capable of understanding and following instruction, if you are one who likes to practice to learn skill and judgment in what he does, and if you are willing to work for success, then we will give you a chance. We cannot guarantee you that you will be a star, but we do guarantee you a trial with substantial earnings, practical instruction and guidance.

We have a wonderful invention that renders a very unusual service. Our men are thoroughly trained as to how to conduct our business. Those, we believe, in a personal interview, can qualify, will be given the opportunity of seeing our invention, meeting our men, investigating their earnings, our company, and our entire business methods.

It is not unusual that men in this organization make $25 to $50 for one day's work.

This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good substantial positions. Please do not apply for these positions unless you can meet the requirements, and the requirements are that you be of neat appearance, between the ages of 25 and 40, and of good character and reputation and willing to work.

Applicants will be personally interviewed at 512 Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive sts., Monday between 9:15 a. m. and 1:15 p. m.

PART FIVE ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, MARCH 29, 1936. PAGES 1—12G

Frances Wachter Engaged to Marry Charles H. Reasor

Prospective Bride Debutante and Veiled Prophet Maid of 1933—Her Mother to Be Matron of Honor at Wedding, May 8.

THE engagement of Miss Frances Meriwether Wachter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Alfred Wachter, 54 Mason avenue, Webster Groves, and Charles Hayden Reasor, was announced Thursday afternoon at a tea at the Wachter home. About 80 friends were invited from 4 to 6 o'clock, ostensibly to meet the hostess' married daughter, Mrs. James Orson Phelps III, the former Miss Rubye Wachter, Oak Park, Ill., who spent a few days last week with her parents.

Miss Jane Kendrick greeted the guests with a tray of wedding rings, to each of which was attached a white ribbon-tied card bearing the names of the engaged pair. Sweet peas, in which orchid and pink predominated, and green tapers, decorated the tea table at which Mrs. Charles Carr and Mrs. William Cummings served. Mrs. Wachter and her daughters received in a bower of spring flowers in the living room.

The wedding, at which the bride's mother will be matron of honor, will take place Friday, May 8, the anniversary of her parents' marriage. The ceremony will be performed at their home at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Miss Wachter is a graduate of John Burroughs School, and attended the St. Louis School of Fine Arts at Washington University. In 1933 she made her debut at a reception, and served as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet Ball. Her mother was Miss Laura Childs Ewing of Tennessee.

Mr. Reasor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Reasor, 1235 Hampton Park drive. He attended Washington and Lee University for two years and was graduated from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

Plans for Opera Ball April 18

GLADYS SWARTHOUT, Merle Alcock and Marion Telva, operatic stars, have wired acceptances to the patronesses for the opera ball planned for April 18 at the Municipal Auditorium during the spring opera season. Funds will insure a permanent grand opera fund for St. Louis. In addition, there will be a large group of St. Louis patronesses, and a floor committee of 100 prominent men to assist with arrangements.

The evening will begin with a concert of favorite operatic arias sung by Sonia Sharnova, Mario Chamlee, Carlo Morelli, Edith Mason, Joseph Bentonelli and Rosa Raisa, who will give their services. Then the audience will have an opportunity to meet the stars at a reception in their honor, and later there will be a buffet supper served in the refectory. Fifty bar maids and 50 cigarette girls from the debutante group will dispense their wares, wearing gayly colored serving aprons over their evening gowns. An entertainment committee of 125 young men will be divided to provide a group on each floor of the opera house. Rows of seats will be arranged in the foyer and upper galleries for those who care to watch the general dancing which will follow supper.

The entertainment is patterned after the opera ball held annually in New York.

Lecture-Recital at Pettus Home By Paul Nordoff, Pianist-Composer

PAUL NORDOFF, young American composer and pianist, who was the feature of a Veneer Club soiree about a year ago, will return to St. Louis Monday, April 6, and the following evening at 8 o'clock will give a lecture-recital on American composers. It will again be held in the art gallery of the Pettus home, 33 Westmoreland place, and the public is invited to attend.

Among the young men and women sponsoring the affair are Miss Martha Pettus, Miss Martha Love, Miss Emily Lewis, Miss Frances Conant, William Julius Polk Jr. and Robert Smith.

Mr. Nordoff will be the house guest of Miss Love and Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Love, 44 Westmoreland place, during the first week of his stay here and will then go to the home of Robert Smith in the St. Louis Country Club grounds.

When he was in St. Louis last year, the musician was a guest in the home of Mrs. Carlos Hickenlooper, 4545 Maryland avenue, with whose daughter, Mme. Olga Samaroff Stokowski, he has studied in New York and Philadelphia.

Paul Nordoff is one of the few artists to whom a Guggenheim Fellowship for study abroad has been awarded two years in succession. His recently completed concerto for piano will be given its premiere next season by Eugene List and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Eugene Ormandy. Ormandy conducted Nordoff's "Secular Mass" last year when the Minneapolis Symphony played it.

Kathryn Hagar Is Betrothed to Robert S. Turner

Announcement Made at Tea Given by Mrs. Leigh Turner in Honor of Bride-Elect and Her Mother, Mrs. A. O. Hagar.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Hagar, daughter of Mrs. Albert O. Hagar of Cambridge, Mass., and Robert Sewell Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh C. Turner, formerly of Webster Groves.

The announcement was made at a tea given by Mrs. Turner at their apartment in the Embassy, Union and Washington boulevards, in honor of Miss Hagar and her mother, who arrived a few days ago for a visit.

About 100 guests, who called between 4 and 6 o'clock, were served from a flower-trimmed tea table by Miss Catherine Annan, Miss Betty Greenland, Miss Mildred Clark, Miss Elizabeth Johnston and Miss Ruth Jane Jones. Mrs. Edmond A. B. Garesche, Mrs. Stanley S. Waite, Mrs. Roger P. Annan and Mrs. Jerome de Saxe assisted in entertaining.

Miss Hagar prepared for college at Miss May's School, Boston, and was graduated from Smith College in the class of 1935, after taking her junior work at the Sorbonne in Paris.

Mr. Turner, who is in St. Louis for the week-end, is a student at the Meadville Theological School (Unitarian) of the University of Chicago. In 1933 he was graduated from Dartmouth College, where he became a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity ,and Dragon, senior society.

The wedding will take place Sept. 15.

Junior League Lecture.

Prof. Roland G. Usher of the Washington University History Department will discuss the European situation tomorrow at 11 a. m. at the Junior League Clubrooms, 4934 Maryland avenue. He will comment particularly on today's election in Germany, which is in effect a referendum of Hitler's defiance of the Locarno and Versailles treaties. The lecture tomorrow will conclude the Monday morning series sponsored by the Junior League.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM O. DeWITT (Margaret Holekamp) after their marriage March 21 in the Union Avenue Christian Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Holekamp.

Character Singer To Be at Woman's Club

BETTY HAROLD, character singer, with Maxine Bower at the piano, will entertain the St. Louis Woman's Club Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Miss Harold has created 12 singing characters, and will present four of them—Italian street singer; Signalman, First-Class, U. S. N.; Victorian Maiden of Essex, and Fraulein von Bayern.

Miss Antoinette Taylor is chairman of the entertainment committee of the St. Louis Woman's Club,

Service Bureau Sponsors Art Exhibit

THE Service Bureau's new exhibitions committee has arranged a showing of Chinese art objects, some from the Imperial collection, and from ancient Chinese temples, by Yamanaka, New York, to be given at the Park Plaza, where the Service Burean has headquarters, April 13 to 18. Mrs. Kenneth G. Carpenter and Mrs. Lynton T. Block are co-chairmen of the committee for the exhibit, which will open with a tea and lecture by T. Shimo April 13.

Sybil Pitman To Wed British Naval Officer

St. Louisans Receive Invitations to Wedding, April 17, in Bath, England—Bride-to-Be a Frequent Visitor in City.

INVITATIONS have been received in St. Louis from Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pitman of Bath, England, for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Sybil Pitman, to Lieutenant-Commander W. Kaye Edden of the Royal Navy. The cards are for the church ceremony Friday, April 17, at 2:30 o'clock at "The Abbey, Bath, and afterwards at Cranwells," the Pitman estate.

The bride-elect made a prolonged stay in St. Louis in the fall of 1934 as the guest of Miss Mary Bolland Taussig, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Taussig, 50 Westmoreland place, and last summer Miss Martha Love, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Love, 44 Westmoreland place, visited her in England. Both Miss Taussig and Miss Love have been asked to be bridesmaids but do not plan to serve. Miss Taussig became acquainted with Miss Pitman at Mlle. Boissier's School at Neuilly-sur-Seine, France, where the latter was the roomate of Miss Cynthia Davis, daughter of Dwight F. Davis, formerly of St. Louis.

Nine young women have already accepted Miss Pitman's invitation to be bridesmaids. They are to be gowned in white cire lace made over white cire satin.

After the wedding the bridal pair will take an apartment temporarily in London.

Lieutenant-Commander Edden recently returned to England after service with the British fleet in the Mediterranean.

Gunnin-Skinner Wedding to Take Place on April 29

MISS MARGERY SKINNER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Spalding Skinner, has chosen Wednesday, April 29, as the date of her marriage to Carroll E. Gunnin, formerly of Asheville, N. C. The Rev. George M. Gibson will perform the ceremony at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the First Congregational Church in Webster Groves. A small reception will follow at the home of the prospective bride, 420 Oakwood avenue, Webster.

Miss Caroline Bliss of Kansas City, who was here for the engagement announcement a few months ago, will attend Miss Skinner as maid of honor, and her other bridal attendants will be: Miss Marjorie and Miss Dorothy Gunnin, sisters of the bridegroom-elect; Miss Harriet Robbins, Miss Grace Gale, Miss Emily Turman, and Mrs. Charles William Burkhardt.

The brother of the prospective bride, George Skinner, will be best man. Three other brothers of Miss Skinner will be groomsmen — Charles Skinner of Minneapolis, John Skinner and J. Watson Skinner—besides H. Fred Hageman Jr., Gilbert Antoine, Earl Godbold, Charles W. Burkhardt, and William T. Jones Jr.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Christopher C. Gunnin of Asheville, will come to St. Louis for the wedding as will his two married sisters, Mrs. C. K. Siler, also of Asheville, and Mrs. R. L. Moser of Shelby, N. C. Mrs. Charles Skinner will accompany her husband here for the ceremony at which Mr. and Mrs. Byron G. Bliss, parents of the maid of honor, will also be present.

On their return from a wedding trip the Gunnins will live at 205 Peeke avenue, Kirkwood.

E. R. Blades to Wed Miss Edna Francis

THE engagement of Miss Edna Kathryn Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Estil Wright Francis, 7506 Wydown boulevard, and Edward Raymond Blades, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Harris Blades, 7412 University drive, was announced yesterday at a luncheon given by Miss Annie Lane Bailey at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William V. Bailey, 31 Kingsbury place.

A large silver basket filled with white roses and lilies of the valley decorated the table. The announcement was written on tiny scrolls tied with white satin ribbons and orange blossoms. At each place was a mauve orchid as a favor. The place cards and small white candy baskets were ornamented with miniature brides and bridegrooms.

Miss Francis was graduated from Mary Institute and attended Ward-Belmont College, Nashville, Tenn., for two years. Her paternal grandmother is Mrs. John Gatewood

WASHINGTON SCENE

By the POE SISTERS

WASHINGTON, March 28.

"IT must be 9 o'clock for there is Mabel Boardman on her way to the Red Cross," a neighbor of that humanitarian leader remarked to a friend some time ago. Miss Boardman could have been seen in Red Cross uniform last week as the flood situation throughout kept all officials in the national headquarters long into the night.

As secretary of the American Red Cross, Miss Boardman directed the work of volunteer women workers attached to the various chapters, summoned by Red Cross emergency service. Since the days of President Taft, when the Red Cross was housed in a single room in the State War and Navy Building, Miss Boardman has directed its service through national emergencies.

She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William P. Boardman, formerly of Cleveland, O.

The best story told of Miss Boardman concerns the present King of England, Edward VIII. When he was in America for the first time, he attended a Washington reception. Suddenly he saw a woman entering the room. Startled, the Prince of Wales looked at her with unbelief. Then he grasped his aid by the arm and ejaculated: "Great heavens, Halsey, there's mamma!" It was Miss Mabel Boardman whose personal resemblance to Queen Mary of England has often been noticed.

EVERY other person in Washington is a collector of some kind or another, and President Roosevelt is no exception. His hobbies are marine pictures, ship models and stamps.

The public has an opportunity to see the President's nautical collection which has been put on display at the Corcoran Gallery of Art. Among the articles in the exhibit are some of President Roosevelt's rarest treasures, many of the ship models museum pieces.

Most of the Presidents were collectors, especially John Quincy Adams, who sought rare books far and wide and had a famous collection. He was also an autograph hunter.

President Harding had the true collector's zest when it came to pipes.

ANOTHER pipe collector in official life here was the late Speaker, Champ Clark of Missouri. He confined his collection to corn cob pipes. When the Speaker gave his luncheons in the private dining room assigned to him all the men guests were presented with corn cob pipes at the conclusion of the meal.

The late Mrs. George Dewey had a collection of fans.

An entire room at Friendship, the home of Mrs. Edward Beale McLean, is filled with china cats and other animals of all sizes and varieties most of them of great value, collected by the late Mr. and Mrs. John R. McLean and the collection continued by Mrs. McLean.

WHENEVER a play is given by society folk in Washington they think at once of Mrs. George Barnett's collection of costumes of all nations. The majority of her costumes are Chinese and Japanese. Most of them she acquired while in China with Gen. Barnett and some of them were presented to her by the Dowager Empress. One of her costumes, including headdress, shoes and beads was the royal robe worn on state occasions by the Empress herself.

Mrs. Frank B. Noyes, wife of the president of the Associated Press, has a collection of dolls dressed in keeping with the periods and historical events and personages they represent and even their faces are true to the types and races of people whom they resemble.

John Roosevelt in Play Given by Harvard Club

WASHINGTON, March 28.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT returned to the capital in time to see her son, John, show his histrionic abilities as a minor member of the cast of "The Lid's Off," the annual presentation of Harvard University's Hasty Pudding Club, which opened at the National Theater tonight.

Benjamin Welles, son of Sumner Welles, Assistant Secretary of State, donned grease paint as a member of the chorus. His father was among the audience.

Before the performance the cast were guests at a dinner in Washington's Cosmos Club, and after the show they attended a supper and dance at the Sulgrave Club.

The wife of the Vice-President, Mrs. John Nance Garner, and Mrs. Joseph W. Byrns, wife of the Speaker of the House, were honor guests at a tea given by members of the Congressional Club Wednesday.

Miss Jane Maitland and Francis Ramsdell Cummings were married at the Sulgrave Club Friday night. The same night, at Walter Reed Memorial Post Chapel, Miss Helen Tewksbury, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William D. Tewksbury, became the bride of Lieut. John Harry King Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harry King of Washington.

The former Miss Maitland and her sister, Diane, English born, have spent two winters in Washington, chaperoned first by Mrs. Churchill Candee and this season by Mrs. P. Lee Phillips. Their mother, Mrs. Hamilton Condon, who has just completed a round-the-world trip with Mr. Condon, came from her villa at Chartres, France, for the ceremony. Mr. Cummings' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cumhings of San Francisco, also were here for the wedding.

Interpretation of "Wild December."

Ralph J. Broeker will give an interpretation of the play "Wild December," by Clemence Dane, at a meeting of the alumni and guests of the Morse School of Expression this afternoon.

Beatrice Raff Engaged To Bernard Schimmel

FORMAL announcement will be made of the engagement of Miss Beatrice Raff, daughter of Mrs. Freda Raff, 5671 Waterman avenue, and Bernard Schimmel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schimmel of Omaha, Neb., at a reception tonight from 8 to 11 o'clock, at Hotel Kings-Way which Mrs. Raff will give in honor of her daughter and Mr. Schimmel.

Miss Raff, formerly of New York, has lived in St. Louis for the past six years. Mr. Schimmel received his education in Switzerland and France and is now living in Galesburg, Ill., where he and his bride will make their home. He is a brother of Walter Schimmel, manager of Hotel Kings-Way. The wedding is planned for June.

Among the out-of-town guests here for the reception are the prospective bridegroom's parents and his sister, Miss Miriam Schimmel; his brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schimmel, Danville, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Schimmel, Lincoln, Neb., and the bride's sister, Mrs. Alvin B. Goldstein of Clarksville, Tenn. Mrs. Robert Nassauer, 5547 Waterman avenue, is also a sister of Miss Raff.

College Litreary Club To Sponsor Lecture

THE Readers, a study club organized under auspices of the Maryville College Committee, is sponsoring a lecture to be given by Herbert H. Coulson, M.A., on "Queen Victoria," Tuesday at 8:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Joseph Chambers, 4969 Pershing avenue. Mrs. Hubertus Schotten, president of the club, is making the arrangements with the assistance of Mrs. William Massey and Mrs. William K. Holland.

Mr. Coulson has been teaching English history at St. Louis University for 10 years.

W. B. Heyne to Give Pre-Symphony Lecture

THE Educational Committee of the Women's Committee of the St. Louis Symphony Society has arranged a pre-symphony lecture on Friday morning, at 11 o'clock, in the Wednesday Club auditorium. William B. Heyne, director of the symphony chorus, will speak on Verdi's "Requiem." Miss Edith Gordon will be at the piano.

The hostesses will be the members of the Educational Committee, who are: Mrs. Max A. Goldstein, chairman; Mrs. Willard Bartlett, co-chairman; and Mrs. Arnold Maremont, Mrs. Henry Bry, Mrs. Paul Blackwelder, Mrs. Harry Stix, Mrs. Robert E. Blake and Mrs. Edgar Rombauer.

The public may attend.

THE Post-Dispatch cannot undertake to guarantee the safe return of unsolicited photographs.

MISS EDNA KATHRYN FRANCIS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Estil Wright Francis, whose engagement to Edward Raymond Blades was announced yesterday.

MISS BEATRICE RAFF, daughter of Mrs. Freda Raff. Announcement will be made tonight of her engagement to Bernard Schimmel. —Jules Pierlow.

Francis of Nashville, and her maternal grandmother is Mrs. Ernest Von Taschek, who makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. Francis. Mr. Blades is a graduate of the University of Iowa and a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

The wedding will take place the latter part of next month and Mr. Blades and his bride will reside at Hot Springs, Ark., where he is in business.

The following attended the luncheon: Mrs. Milton T. Hartman, Miss Betty Weinert, Mrs. Throop Wilson, Mrs. Calvin Brown, Mrs. Helen Catt, Miss Francis Shaw, Mrs. Von Taschek, Mrs. J. W. Burian, Mrs. Francis, Mrs. Blades and Mrs. Bailey.

Ensign J. R. Compton To Wed Virginia Girl

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM GOODWIN JONES of Norfolk, Va., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Frances Jones, and Ensign James Richard Compton, U. S. N., son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Roy Compton, 4837 Palm street. The marriage will take place early this summer.

Miss Jones attended St. Mary's School, Raleigh, S. C., and was graduated from Randolph-Macon Women's College, class of 1935.

Ensign Compton is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, class of 1934, and is now stationed for duty on the West Coast.

John Halk, Violinist, Gives Concert Series For Benefit of Blind

THE second of a series of three concerts by John Halk, St. Louis volinist, will be given this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the ballroom of Hotel Statler. The artist will be accompanied on the piano by Miss Dora Minkin. He will play Beethoven's Sonata, F Major; Lekeu's Sonata, G Major, and Sonatina, by Schubert.

These concerts are being given for the benefit of the Industrial Aid for the Blind, Inc., and proceeds will be used to expand and develop industrial opportunities for blind men and women of St. Louis. They are sponsored jointly by a committee of women who are patrons of music and active in work for the blind, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Carroll Smith.

During the intermission this afternoon, a new educational movietone, "Without Benefit of Sight," will be shown.

Western Roundup For Welcome Inn

THE junior committee for the Western Roundup to be held at the Arena April 11 to 19, for the benefit of Welcome Inn, has organized three permanent groups to aid in the work for the relief station. The committee, made up of debutantes, post-debutantes and young women prominent in society, is organizing parties for the Roundup and social affairs to precede and follow the nine day event.

The new groups will assist Mrs. Nat S. Brown, chairman of Welcome Inn, in all activities concerning the organization. A clothing and food committee will seek donors of these two commodities and aid in the distribution. This group includes Miss Vera Angert, Miss Katherine Berg, Miss Martha Westlake, Miss Mildred Webster and Miss Genevieve Lamy. The committee will meet every Tuesday and Thursday.

A sewing committee will collect material and distribute the finished garments to needy families. In this group, which will meet every Tuesday and Wednesday, Miss Betty Jane Stoughton, Miss Ruth Harms, Miss Jane Jordan and Miss Martha Westlake.

A story committee will assist in the child welfare work and story reading at the Welcome Inn playground. In this group are Miss Alice Sullivan, Miss Marcella Berkley, Miss Marie Taylor Spink, Mrs. James Samuels and Miss Laura Baumgarten.

Plans for the Roundup have been completed. The opening matinee performance will be given for underprivileged children with Mrs. Charles E. Rostron in charge. Every branch of competition known to cowboy range hands will be included in the tournament of which Earl Reflow is in charge. Several tableaux and exhibitions of cowboy life also are scheduled.

Out-of-Town Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ferd Oberwinder of Hampton park are entertaining Mrs. Bruce Dazey of Chicago and her son, Bruce Jr. The visitors arrived a few days ago and will remain until the middle of this week. Mrs. Dazey was the guest of honor at several informal parties last week.

St. Louisans Foregather in Field to Put Bird Dogs to Test Under Expert Observation at

SPRING TRIALS at WARRENTON

By DOROTHY JEAN COLEMAN

THE first brace was down. That, in field trial terminology, means that a pair of bird dogs was off on a hunt for quail. Last Sunday morning near Warrenton, Mo., where the St. Louis Field Trial Association was holding its spring meet, it meant that Janet Wallace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Brookings Wallace, and Bertha Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Scott, had "cast loose" their dogs and were handling them from horseback, followed by two judges and a gallery, all mounted. It was an early start, about 9:30 o'clock on a gray day. A few stragglers tarried behind, waiting for the next heat which was to be run over a different course an hour later. They gathered in knots to speculate on the possibility of rain, or spent the time warming up their dogs.

As a black and white banner announced, headquarters was the White Way Camp a few miles east of Warrenton where many participants found lodgings in the tourist cabins. Others were registered—the children as "2 Carr, 1 McDonald, 2 Scott"—at the Colonial Hotel in town, a hostelry in the best Missouri tradition with hot biscuits, toothpicks and all.

AMONG those who went from St. Louis to run their dogs or follow the field in the semi-annual trials were Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Wallace Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Kennard Wallace, Janet Brookings Wallace with her father, Asa B. Wallace; Mr. and Mrs. John E. Eggers Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lammert III, Mrs. Marion Gratz Carr with her two young children, Barbara and Lucien; Hugh Scott, with Bertha and Nancy Scott; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cupples Scudder and their son, Cliffton Scudder III, who were up Saturday but left before noon Sunday; Mr. and Mrs. John Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Coghlan, Dr. E. H. Jacobsmeyer, Charles Lucas Hunt, Mrs. Elmer Kerckhoff, who returned to St. Louis Saturday evening; Nathaniel B. Randolph and his son, William Randolph; and John and Philip Fouke Jr., who were up just for Sunday. Mrs. Hugh Scott and her mother, Mrs. Harry Block, motored to Warrenton Sunday morning to join the party for a few hours.

DOGS rode to the meet beside their masters or traveled in trailers with screened backdrops. Those cared for at the kennels of Paul Brockfeld, field marshal of the trials, in nearby Truesdale, came over in a kind of station wagon. Most of the dogs, however, were chained and padlocked for the night behind the filling station, under a shed on bedding of fresh excelsior. An old pointer spent the night in a cabin on the bed of his young mistress.

Near Warrenton Asa and Mahlon Wallace have leased 1500 acres for quail shooting. They say they get plenty of birds in season, but not a covey was found Saturday or Sunday. There was one point on a blacksnake and another on a rabbit, but otherwise the gallery had to get its thrills from the hazards of the trail which, laid out in advance, led over creeks and through thickets. Horses and riders were up to it. There were no serious accidents although one of the judges, John McDonald, spilled coming up a creek bank. There were not enough nags to go around Saturday—it's spring plowing time in the country—but by Sunday the countryside had been combed for mounts, not stylish but sturdy, and two by two, the teammates followed the field behind judges and handlers.

Less energetic spectators traveled a modified course in a farm wagon, drawn by a pair of strawberry roans named This and That. The wagon made every heat. It bogged down once or twice in the mud, but each time was pulled clear and jolted up a hill to catch up with the field.

SPRING had not yet touched the country, only the green of the cedars showed in the woods; but the myrtle spread green over an old burying ground beside one of the trails.

A haunted house, with sagging roof and boarded windows was a point of incidental interest. An old sleigh abandoned in the middle of a field gave a resting place to the saddle-weary.

Fatigue from the day's riding kept down the hilarity Saturday night, but the crowd gathered in the booths and at the bar of the White Way Camp to have a few drinks, swap stories—and listen to Charlie Hunt. Charlie, in old trousers, tennis shoes and a fur-lined Nellie Bly hat, he was telling with expansive gestures about that time he "brought down 11 mallards with one barrel from the south blind up on Diamond Island." He lost his audience when he got around to the Missouri game law against "hogging and tickling" catfish.

"Hogging" and "tickling" fish is a country trick. Believe it or not, any farm boy knows he can sneak up on the fish where it naps under rock ledges or in hollow logs, put his hand motionless in the water and then by stroking the under side of the fish until he reaches the gills, grab it and lift it from the water—no hook, no line, no sinker.

On the mirror behind the bar were pictures of the winners in the fall trials—Asa Wallace, E. E. Pershall and Wade Childress, whose pointer, Bing, handled by Asa Wallace, won the all-age trial last Sunday. Silver trays, platters and pitchers—trophies for the winners—were ranged behind the beer glasses.

At the door was posted "Don'ts" for riders—"Don't throw lighted cigarette butts out in the field"—"Don't get too close to the rear end of the horse"—"Don't ride in front of the judges."

The social event of the week-end was Sunday dinner, family style, in the cafe of the White Way Camp between heats. There were drinking parties in the cabins after the winners were announced about 4:30.

COMFORT was an easy winner over style in the field costumes. The women wore anything from tweed skirts with chamois windbreakers to whipcord breeches and hunting boots. Gloves, crops, spurs and other fashionable appointments were conspicuously absent. The men, too, were dressed for comfort, in blue jeans and puttees, in canvas hunting coats with a game pocket across the back. There were a few in more conventional costume. Some carried movie cameras, some carried their own saddles. There weren't any binoculars, lapel cords for hats, no collapsible seats on sticks or other smart trappings.

The language was as functional as the dress. It was at first completely unintelligible to the novice, who soon learned, however, to talk with self-conscious glibness about "heading for draw country," "casting the dogs off," "honoring a point," "shooting birds over a dog," "flushing a covey" and "showing style" and such. One even gathered that a dog that had to be whistled too often to keep him on the course, or failed to respond to overhead hand signals was just no good.

Officers of the St. Louis Field Trial Association are Asa Wallace, president; Chester E. Clapp, vice-president; John E. Eggers Jr., secretary and treasurer.

On the board of directors are Samuel Cupples Scudder, Hugh Scott, Mahlon Wallace, Dr. E. H. Jacobsmeyer and John Merrill.

Medical Auxiliary To Install President

MRS. WALTER C. G. KIRCHNER of St. Louis will be installed as president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Missouri State Medical Association at the auxiliary's twelfth annual meeting in Columbia, April 13 to 15.

She was graduated from the University of Michigan, where she devoted much time to the sciences. She spent a winter at the University of Berlin doing research on the micro-chemistry of plant stomata. She continued her research at the University of Chicago, where she was elected to membership in Sigma Xi, honorary scientific research society. After coming to St. Louis she taught botany at Central High School. She studied voice and did some church solo work. She married Dr. Walter C. G. Kirchner, then superintendent and surgeon-in-charge of the City Hospital of St. Louis.

Mrs. Kirchner is a member of the Gamma Phi Beta Sorority. She is interested in club work and has served as president of the St. Louis branch of the American Association of University and was president of the Women's Auxiliary to the St. Louis Medical Society, 1933-34.

Notes of St. Louisans Visiting in Paris

PARIS, March 19.

FRANCOIS LATOUR, president of the Paris Fete Committee, outlined the program for the gala season in Paris to newspaper men who met yesterday at the Hotel Crillon. As already announced the "Vray Mistere de la Passion," French version of the Passion Play, which was given last year in the square in front of Notre Dame Cathedral, will be repeated. Another feature will be a pageant procession entitled "La France au Travail." This production is being designed by Paul Colin, artist. The procession, in which 10,000 persons will take part, will be more than two miles long.

Another show will be a fancy dress ball in the Tuileries, under supervision of M. Lehmann, Chatelet Theater director.

Among the many interesting sports events to take place during the period between April 26 and July 14 is a polo tournament. Argentina is sending a polo team with 43 ponies and 16 players and an English team will come to Paris to compete with them.

Harrison Williams, who makes his home at Antibes on the French Riviera, has been spending the last two weeks in Paris at the Hotel de L'Universite. Mr. Williams is a former resident of St. Louis. He spent part of the winter in Germany at Munich.

Mrs. Mimika Frith, who is arriving on the S. S. City of Norfolk Saturday, is accompanied by Mrs. Poage, a sister of Mrs. John Hamilton Farish of St. Louis. They will be the house guests during their Paris stay of Comte and Comtesse Louis LeClercq of Neuilly. Following a month's visit here Mrs. Frith will go to Prague to be with Mrs. May Larned Clark, a former St. Louisan. Mrs. Clark makes her home in the Czechoslovakian capital, where her granddaughter, Vicomtesse Aubert de Thieusies has been for a number of years. Vicomte de Thieusies is counselor of the Belgian Legation in Prague.

Mrs. Florence Alison of the Hotel Lancaster is leaving Paris today on the Aquitania for New York. Mrs. Alison expects to spend several months in America before returning here where she makes her home.

Capt. Charles Vical, fencing instructor at Washington University, left yesterday on the Champlain for America and will return to St. Louis. Capt. Vical has spent the winter in France, studying and giving instruction in fencing. During his stay in Paris he made his home at the Hotel Louis-le-Grand.

E. G. Richardson of St. Louis is in Paris for a visit and is stopping at the Hotel de Paris.

Mrs. Walter L. Russell had as luncheon guests at the Ritz yesterday: Comte and Comtesse Antonetti, Mme. Verhulst, Comtesse Uribarren, M. Sierra Valle and M. de Sorela.

SCHOOL and COLLEGE LIFE

MISS LENORE SCHIERDING, Miss Mary Greer, and Miss Mary Ruth Tyler were in the receiving line Thursday at 4:30 o'clock at a tea given by the Lindenwood College chapter of Pi Gamma Mu, honorary society of the social sciences. About 50 students were guests, besides several members of the faculty. Dr. Alice E. Gipson, dean of the college, and Mrs. R. T. Case served. Miss Martha Perry, pianist, played during the reception.

The Home Economics Club of Lindenwood College has sent out invitations for its annual style review Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, in the college club room. All garments modeled were made by students in the home economics department.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS in the CHURCHES

THE fifty-fourth annual meeting of the St. Louis Presbyterial Missionary Society will be held Friday from 10:30 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the Kirkwood Presbyterian Church. There will be an intermission at noon for a box luncheon. The program will be modeled on the monthly magazine, "Women and Missions," published by the Women's Committee of the Boards of National and Foreign Missions, and facsimiles of the magazine will serve as program guides. It will be conducted by the Executive Board of the Presbyterial Society, with Mrs. Leo J. Vogt of Webster Groves, Mrs. William J. Hagedorn of the Victor Street Mission, Mrs. Dean Moneymaker of West Church, and Mrs. Charles Hamilton of Kirkwood as the "editorial staff."

Addresses in the form of feature articles will be presented by Mrs. Bessie P. Nurminger of Guatemala City, and Mrs. Andrew Todd Taylor of New York. Others who will take part in the program are: Mrs. Sam F. Burnet and Mrs. J. Ross Blackford of Webster Groves, Mrs. Gerrit Heideman of Richmond Heights, Mrs. Philip Ziegenfuss of Victor Street Mission, Mrs. Lee A. McLean of West Church, Mrs. Claude O. Pearcy of Tyler Place Church, Mrs. Winston Comfort of Cote Brilliante Church and Miss Rose Kiel of Winnebago Church. Mrs. Fred Hudson of La Plata, Mo., president of the Missouri Synodical Society, will install the officers, who will be elected at this meeting. Dr. Henry Little Jr., pastor of the Kirkwood Church, will give an address, and the music will be furnished by Mrs. Raymond Henley, Mrs. J. H. McKelvey and Miss Florence Johnson of Kirkwood. Mrs. S. D. Gradinaroff, Presbyterial Missionary for 22 years, will be a guest of honor.

The Evening Missionary Societies will meet at Giddings Presbyterian Church Friday at 6:30 p. m. Dinner will be served by the women of the church, and Miss Elfreda Creymeyer of Grace Presbyterian Church will preside at the meeting to follow. The speakers will be Mrs. B. P. Nurminger, Mrs. A. T. Taylor and Mrs. Fred Hudson.

The monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of West Presbyterian Church will be held at the church tomorrow at 2 p. m. Mrs. Henry A. Strain, chairman for the meeting, will lead the devotionals, and Miss Addie C. LAMMERT FURNITURE CO. 75TH BIRTHDAY TOMORROW

Celebration to Last Through Week Starts With Banquet for 277 Employes.

The Lammert Furniture Co., established in St. Louis when a team of horses required half a day to haul a load of furniture as far as Grand avenue, will celebrate its seventy-fifth anniversary on Monday. The anniversary celebration which is to last a week, began with a banquet attended by 277 employes, among them six who have been with the firm for 50 years.

The company was one of the first business houses to introduce furnished units as part of its display three years ago when it opened 39 completely appointed and elaborately detailed rooms. It was also one of the first firms to make the FHA plan available to customers.

From the small store which was opened by Martin Lammert in 1861 at Eleventh and Franklin and its branch on Fourth street it has kept pace with westward movement of the business center, opening its present quarters at Ninth and Washington avenues in 1924. A complete cooling system is to be installed for the summer.

The management of the store has remained in the family from the time of its founding. Martin Lammert II is president, Martin Lammert III vice-president, and Warren Lammert, treasurer.

Lectures by Thompson Seton.

Ernest Thompson Seton, naturalist, author and lecturer, will present two illustrated lectures Tuesday at Municipal Auditorium under auspices and for the benefit of the Children's Home Society of Missouri. He will speak on 'Wild Animals" at 3 p. m. before school children and Boy Scouts, and at 8:15 p. m. on "Wild Animals and Folklore."

I·MILLER says:

You'll walk in Color this Spring—

...and as fashionwise women are doing, first of all you'll assemble your accessories... in colors to contrast all your new clothes, and pick up your old ones as well.

Which means you'll begin from the ground up... with shoes, bags and hosiery. You'll know that it's smart fashion to do so this Season... that it's a contrast era... that this is the new trend which I. MILLER foresaw many months ago, and for which we're ready, as usual, with an original collection in superb colors... colors so true, they might have lived on a painter's palette.

You'll wear our BRITISH TAN with your gray, blue, beige, brown and black clothes, too.

" our BLUE . . . . . with your grays, bright greens and rusts

" our GRAY . . . . . with your blues, greens and rusts

" our BLACK . . . . with your beiges, bright greens, yellows and pastels and our combined colors and materials just for the love of it

College Sororities And Fraternities

Panhellenic

ZETA TAU ALPHA chapters throughout the country will celebrate National Scholarship Day Wednesday when alumnae and students will participate in a program of scholarship observance which originated 24 years ago. Since 1912, a fund to which all chapters contribute has assisted over a hundred girls in securing a college education. The scholarships are not limited to members of the sorority. Zeta Tau Alpha has established other scholarships, including one given annually at the Virginia State Teachers' College in honor of the first national president of the sorority, and the Dr. May Agness Hopkins fund at the University of Texas for training in child welfare. The national organization also has awards for individual and chapter excellence which are announced at each convention. Miss Anne Gist is scholarship chairman for the Washington University chapter and Miss Evelyn Koenig for the St. Louis Alumnae Association. The alumnae advisory board which includes Miss Koenig, Miss Ruth Manlove, president; Miss Evelyn Moehle and Miss Virginia Price, pledge advisor, will present a silver plaque to the student chapter Wednesday. The name of the girl making the highest grades each year will be engraved upon it. The alumnae chapters will also send a gift at this time to the national philanthropic fund which is used to maintain the sorority's health center in the mountains of Virginia.

Phi Delta Phi, law fraternity, has elected the following alumni officers: President, Albert Chandler; first vice-president, Forrest M. Hemker; second vice-president, John G. Burkhardt, and secretary-treasurer, Carl F. Gissler.

The alumnae of Alpha Delta Pi will give a bridge tea Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sidney R. Stanard, 486 East Big Bend road, Webster Groves. The assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Edward A. Doisy, Mrs. E. Lee Shrader and Miss Alice Lockwood. A committee of which Mrs. Stanard is chairman will present plans for the Founders' day dinner to be given in May. The sorority has organized a second alumnae group which, for the convenience of members in business and the professions, meets in the evening on the fourth Monday of each month.

Mrs. George W. Schalchlin, 7401 Parkdale avenue, will be hostess at a luncheon for the alumnae of Delta Delta Delta to be given at her home Saturday at 12:30 p. m. Mrs. H. P. Thym, Mrs. William Seegar, Miss Virginia Mays and Miss Ruth Pearcy will be assistant hostesses.

The April meeting of the Beta Sigma Omicron alumnae chapter will be held Friday at 1 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Chase Morsey, 7732 Davis drive. The assisting hostess will be Mrs. Clark Quick. A convention delegate and chapter officers will be elected.

The Sigma Kappa alumnae chapter will meet for dinner Friday evening at the home of Miss Dorothy Kuhlman, 203 Parkhurst terrace, Webster Groves. At the business session there will be discussion of the chapter's philanthropic work, the establishment of a Sigma Kappa Book Shelf at St. Luke's Hospital. A sorority book plate is to be made and the library will include magazines and books for children and adults. Mrs. Roland Bauer is chairman of the Book Shelf Committee the members of which are: Mrs. C. G. Kurrus, Mrs. R. W. Ayers, Mrs. J. G. Forsythe, Mrs. Emma Millard and Mrs. Roy V. Coffey They are assisted by the members of the Ways and Means Committee: Mrs. Allen Clark, chairman; Mrs. James Kellogg, Miss Marie Shaver and Mrs. Ayers. Mrs. Fred Lake of the Library Committee of St. Luke's and Miss Elizabeth D. Waller of the occupational therapy department of the hospital will speak at the meeting.

Miss Sylvia Carafiol, 6303 McPherson avenue, will entertain the alumnae and student chapters of Kappa Beta Pi law sorority at her home Saturday afternoon. The assisting hostesses will be Miss Celeste East, Miss Louise Bernero and Miss Elizabeth Kausch. The Washington University chapter recently announced the initiation of Miss Jane Chappelow, Miss Kathleen Duey and Miss Helen Simpson.

The Theta Xi Mothers' Club will meet Saturday at 2 p. m. at the fraternity house on the Washington University campus. After the installation of officers, Mrs. F. J. Dicks will review "Silas Crockett," by Mary Ellen Chase. Mrs. Harry McKee will be hostess for the Easter tea at 4 o'clock.

The Zeta Beta Tau Mothers' Club will meet at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning at the fraternity house, 6189 Westminster place. Officers will be elected.

Mrs. Arthur C. Luippold was elected president of the Mothers' Club of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority at a meeting held Wednesday. Mrs. William H. Schaefer was elected vice-president; Mrs. Milford G. Houghton, secretary; Mrs. Edward Schlagenhauf, treasurer, and Mrs. A. Jackson Price, historian. Installation will be at the April meeting.

The Beta Theta Pi Mothers' Club will meet at the chapter house on the campus at 2 p. m. Thursday for election officers.

WEDDINGS and ENGAGEMENTS

Jasper-Polinsky

MISS DOROTHY POLINSKY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Polinsky, 5661 Maple avenue, became the bride of Dr. Milton H. Jasper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jasper, 5951 McPherson avenue, last Sunday evening. The ceremony was performed at 7 o'clock at the Hotel Coronado with Rabbi A. E. Halpern and Rabbi Samuel Thurman, officiating.

The bride wore a gown of shell pink satin, on princesse lines, with tiny buttons down the front. Her double veil of rose tinted tulle was caught at the top, by two rows of tiny pearls, which formed a circle around her face. Her bouquet was of pale pink orchids.

Mrs. Melvin Block was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Florence Wolff, Miss Rose Rudman, Miss Gloria Rudman, Miss Muriel Kanterman, Mrs. Sylvia Olian, Miss Rosemary Rotman of Dubuque, Ia., and Miss Hilda Spizel of Cleveland, O.

Dr. Jasper had Nathan Polinsky, Robert Mass, Edward Sterneck, Irvin Wiess, Milton Lachterman, Harry Mellman and Melvin Block of Detroit, Mich., as ushers. Gerald Polinsky served as ringbearer.

Harris-Rosenthal

Isaac Rosenthal, 4369 Lee avenue, has announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Mildred, and Harry Harris, 1447 Granville place.

Cavanaugh-Shea

The marriage of Miss Ruth M. Duggan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Duggan, 1340 Belt avenue, to Champ Clark Stonebraker, 5030A Cates avenue, took place at Cabanne Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Saturday, March 21. The Rev. J. Frank Baker performed the ceremony at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and a wedding supper for the bridal party and members of the two families was served later at the Winston Churchill Apartments.

Miss Alberta Kersting attended the bride and James Grace served as best man.

Mr. Stonebraker and his bride are now at home at 5540 Natural Bridge avenue.

CavanaughShea

Miss Genevieve Marie Shea has chosen April 15 as the date of her marriage to Audran Joseph Cavanaugh of Chicago. The ceremony will take place at 9 o'clock in the morning at St. Margaret's Church. After a honeymoon in California the pair will reside in Chicago. Miss Shea makes her home with an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Francis Judge, 2631 Gurney court.

Mrs. Judge will give a trousseau tea for the prospective bride this afternoon at her home.

Miss Shea is a graduate of St. Joseph's Academy.

Norrenberns-Ziegler

The wedding of Miss Frances Ziegler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ziegler, 4308 Nebraska avenue, and John Norrenberns, 3439 Indiana avenue, will be solemnized at St. Anthony's Church Wednesday, April 15, at 9:30 a. m.

The bride will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Charles Farley, as matron of honor, and by Miss Marcella Lueken and Miss Eleanore Rothacker as bridesmaids. John Robertson and Arthur Straub will be groomsmen.

Barth-Pope

Miss Florence Henrietta Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Pope, 7535 Melrose avenue, will become the bride of John Kling Barth of Cape Girardeau, Mo., early next month. The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Barth of Akron, O. Miss Pope was complimented last Sunday at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Miss Lucy M. Broccard.

Laskove-Raskas

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Raskas, 4441A Page boulevard, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruth L. Raskas, and Abe Laskove, son of Morris Laskove of Memphis, Tenn. The marriage took place Tuesday in Jerusalem, Palestine, where the bride has been living with her grandmother, Mrs. Isaac Raskas, for the past year. Mr. and Mrs. Laskove will make their home temporarily in Jerusalem.

Kendis-Erber

Miss Lois Estell Erber, daughter of Charles S. Erber, will become the bride of Dr. Joseph Bernard Kendis, 6205 Arsenal street, this morning at 10:30 o'clock. Rabbi Samuel B. Thurman will perform the ceremony at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kober, 727 Harvard avenue, with whom she resides. Only members of the immediate family will attend the service and the bridal breakfast following.

The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Michael Benjamin Kendis of Sedalia, Mo.

The bride will wear a gray suit with caracul fur and wine-red accessories.

On their return from a short wedding trip the pair will make their home at 6205 Arsenal street.

Brossman-Saul

The marriage of Miss Edith Saul, daughter of Mrs. Anna Saul, 1394A Hamilton avenue, to Max Brossman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brossman, 5527A Wells avenue, took place last Sunday at 5:30 p. m. at the Saul home with Rabbi Jacob Mazur officiating.

THIS NEW YORK

By LUCIUS BEEBE

NEW YORK, March 28.

NOW that the Mayor has ruled against hiring ambulances just for joy rides and parties (restricting their extra-surgical use, presumably, to Burgess Meredith, who uses them to get to the stage door when traffic is bad), we hasten to report an episode in upper First avenue last week. A collapse cart from a hospital that shall be nameless clanged its way through the late afternoon traffic just about the time school was out. Policemen blew whistles, bakers' horses climbed the sidewalks and citizens cowered in the shelter of lamp-posts. We followed in our car, hoping for a perfectly hideous street accident, at the least. Near the Williamsburg Bridge the herdic turned into a cross street and stopped before a nice brownstone house. A little girl with schoolbooks under one arm and a lunch basket on the other, was assisted to the curb by an interne. The interne kissed her. The little girl ran up the steps. The ambulance started down the street. No bell ringing.

One of the most magnificent suburban beards that now and then lends a glory to the urban scene is that of Waldo Pierce, painter, jongleur and hero of a latter-day saga of spacious gestures unrivaled by any of his generation. Pierce was famous, locally, as a Harvard undergraduate early in the century, but he first swam into the general ken as "Jumper Pierce, the man who didn't want to go." He had started for Europe aboard a prewar liner with John Reed, and when the ship was off Fire Island Pierce decided he wasn't going to Paris, after all, leaped overboard in dead of night and swam back to America. He had left his watch and money with Reed, who had a pretty time, in a world without wireless, convincing the ship's officers that he hadn't pushed his friend overboard and pocketed his possessions. He was the official painter of the United States Army during the war, but of all the honors conferred upon him he is proudest of being a member of "Les Grands Buveurs de Calvados de la Vallee de la Chevreuse," the ranking French society of applejack drinkers and a congress of mighty men. When he is not exiled to his native Bangor Pierce haunts the steam room of the Boston Harvard Club. Pierce's beard, famous through New England, appears but infrequently upon the Manhattan scene, but connoisseurs of whiskers rank it along with those of Ernest Boyd, Monte Woolley and Robert Underwood Johnson.

Nothing so depresses this department when it drags its old and shopworn person out of bed on one of those bleak, suicidal days (the kind on which it is forbidden to sell rope over in New Jersey) as to open the paper and find the second section fairly bristling with vigorous looking athletic people. There they are, sprinters, bobsled pilots, horse and mallet fellows, handball players, third basemen and the ultimately demented who go in for winter sports and come home, like as not, skewered on a broken Alpin stock—and good enough for them, too—but all smirking healthfully and irritatingly into the camera lens. There is a gratuitous insolence about a triumphant basketball captain making faces at you in a two-column cut, when you are wondering if you have the strength to brush your teeth, that one of these days will provoke some one to mayhem. The really happy pictures, that come as bracers to you after you have swallowed your seltzer, are those of defeat and calamity. A shot of an evicted faimly will send even the most depressed citizen to his desk feeling a little better, if only by comparison. The most cheering pictures are the "before-taking" ones in household remedy advertisements. They make a fellow go to his office singing like a lark.

From Serbia John Whitaker, the Herald Tribune's foreign reporter, brings the details of what must be the most delightful cafe life in the world. The Serbians, it appears, like the Russian Grand Dukes before them, take an inordinate pleasure in the sound of smashing glass. So, for that matter, does everyone everywhere, only some are at pains to hide this perfectly normal human weakness, almost as though it had something to do with sex. The Serbs are smarter, they have special restaurants where, for a modest price, you can break all the glassware as it comes to your table during the evening. Other cafes announce that there is no extra charge for breaking the glasses and decanters. Presumably a cheaper, and therefore slightly less satisfactory glass, for smashing is used in these. Still other establishments, frequented largely, Mr. Whitaker reports, by the bon ton, the military and the diplomatic corps of Belgrade, allow patrons not only to destroy all the crockery but also the furniture and decorations, and for a sum about the equivalent of $500, you are allowed to toss the piano out the window. In the old days in New Haven it used to be possible to buy the whole of a dairy lunch known as Sheff Longley's by depositing $300 with Mrs. Graves, the cashier, and then, after Sleepy Hall's band was tired of playing "Kalua" while sitting on the steam table, you could break everything but the plate-glass windows for the one cover charge. This was about the only thing we recall comparable to the Serbian institution, and you had to pay extra if you hurled a grapefruit through the window, too. Perhaps, in view of its policy of wholesale and useless consumption of energy and resources, the government at Washington could be induced to set up a Federal Glass-Smashing Commission. The nearest we ever got to organized demolition of crockery was a New York State ordinance requiring the destruction of empty liquor bottles. Surely this can be improved on.

The old-fashioned twenty-and-ten gyp cab still haunts the nocturnal boulevards of the town, snaring the unwary and trapping happy stews as they gyrate on the pavements. Mostly these shabby herdics cruise in the neighborhood of the Grand Central and the stretch of Forty-third street between Vanderbilt and Madison is a nest of them. Somehow the lights over their meters never are on and the victim finds himself with a 90-cent fare over what he darned well knows is a 35-cent route. The drivers are ugly mugs, too, and a guy in his right wits will scream for a policeman when these gyp artists start holding him up. There's a law about lights on meters, and the city is strict about it.

TWA 16-PASSENGER PLANE

First of Two New Ships Delivered; In Service in 10 Days.

The first of two new 16-passenger airliners ordered by Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., has been delivered to the company base at Kansas City and will be placed in cross-continent service through St. Louis in 10 days.

The ship, a Douglas low-wing monoplane, is powered with two 710-horsepower engines and has a cruising rating of 200 miles an hour. The cost of the airplane was reported as $85,000. The second ship will be ready for service late next month.

LEPPERT ROOS FUR CO. WILL OPEN NEW PLACE TOMORROW

Showroom and Reception Room at Ninth and Locust Remodeled in Modernistic Style.

The Leppert Roos Fur Co. will formally open its new quarters at Ninth and Locust streets on Monday. The show room and reception room on the first floor has been remodeled along modernistic lines and has indirect lighting, cream colored panelling and modern mirrors and furnishings. Three additional floors are required for showrooms, workrooms and cold storage rooms for pelts and garments.

The company was founded in 1867 by Leonhard Roos and occupied quarters on North Fourth street, which was in the business center at that time. In 1917 it was reorganized and in 1918 A. G. Solari, who had worked his way up from stock boy through all the departments, was made president. A grandson, Joseph A. Marre, is one of the vice-presidents.

Leppert Roos is among the first stores in St. Louis to install complete air conditioning and to arrange for storage of furs. The new quarters have all the latest improvements for cold storage of furs.

RAYMOND SOVEY RE-ENGAGED AS MUNICIPAL OPERA ARTIST

Made More Settings for Current Broadway Shows Than Any Other American Designer.

Raymond Sovey, who designed the settings for more Broadway shows during the current season than any other American stage artist, has been re-engaged as art director of the Municipal Opera for the 1936 season, it was announced by the Municipal Theater Association last night. The improvement in scenic settings was one of the most marked successes of the Municipal Opera's 1935 season, which was Sovey's first at the outdoor theater.

Among the productions which have been offered in New York since last September with settings by Sovey are "Libel," "May Wine," "Star-Spangled," "The Eldest," "Life's Too Short," "Sweet Aloes," "Alice Takat" and "Silver Swan."

NEW SCORING RULE FOR SCOUT CAMPARALL

Two New Activities Also Announced by Committee in Charge.

Changes in scoring rules and the addition of two new activities were announced yesterday by the committee arranging for the annual Spring Camparall, to be held May 22, 23 and 24 on the old aviation field in Forest Park.

W. H. S. O'Brien, chairman of the Scoring Committee, recommended that awards for proficiency be made according to the degree an individual troop approaches the theoretical perfect score of 2790 points for the three days 'activities. In former years awards were determined by the relation of a troop's score to that of all others in the district to which it is assigned.

Gold streamers will be presented to patrols, units of eight scouts, which get more than 2510 points. Those rated at more than 2241 points of the possible 2790 will receive blue streamers, and those with more than 1952 points will get red banners. Patrols with smaller scores will receive white streamers, emblematic of participation in the outdoor rally.

The suggestion of Dr. C. E. Colgate, chairman of the Projects Committee, that competitive demonstrations of methods of life saving and resuscitation be included in the program were also adopted by the general committee, which is headed by H. F. Walz. Col. H. D. McBride was appointed campmaster for the Camparall, with Capt. E. B. Langenberg his assistant.

A training course for den mothers to be held on five consecutive Thursdays at 9:30 a. m. at Stix, Baer & Fuller, and a course for study of first aid, meeting on Monday evenings at the Washington University Medical School, were begun last week.

Other classes in the spring training program are as follows: Elements of Scoutmastership, beginning Tuesday evening at the Michael School; Flowering Plants, April 6, Stix School; Elements of Scoutmastership for St. Charles leaders, May 5; Troop Committeeman, Stix School, May 6, and Troop Camp Leadership, May 2, Lion's Den reservation.

The banners of Troop 24 will be blessed in a special ceremony Sunday, April 19, at St. Mary Chesthova's Church. Scouts and leaders of the troop will attend mass together that morning.

Cub Pack 4, Southampton Presbyterian Church, will observe its sixth anniversary Tuesday evening with a reunion dinner at the church. The pack will receive its five-year award.

An Eagle Scout badge will be awarded to Jaquin Hernandez at a joint court of honor of Troops 160, Emmanuel M. E. Church, and 118, Chouteau School, tomorrow evening at the school. Clay Covington will receive a Life Badge and Clarence Hahn a Star insignia.

Troop 4 of Kirkwood will present Life Scout badges to William Veazey and F. P. White at the Kirkwood Presbyterian Church Thursday evening. Life awards will go to Wayman Green and David Kraft.

All awards in the scout movement were presented at a court of honor of Troop 41, Delmar-Harvard School, in University City, Thursday night. Herbert Prinster received the Eagle badge, John George Heidbreder Life awards, and Wayne Gollub and Joe Bush Star badges. Palms were awarded to Eagle Scouts Tom Klentker, David Hughes and Bill Carmichael.

Walter W. Jones, scoutmaster, received a scoutmaster's key, and the troop received an Achievement Roundup banner and a Standard Troop award.

Other scouts advanced last week at courts of honor held by their troops are: George Frieburghaus of Troop 222, Eagle; Phil Sincoff of Troop 153, Donald Mackson, Edward Schaeffer and Arthur Steppan of Troop 104, and Herman Wernle and Clement Naylor of Troop 33, Star scouts; and Howard Lackland and Evarts Graham of Troop 153, Billy Gaugh of Troop 74, and Frederick Veninga of Troop 165, Life scouts.

Then scouts have enrolled in a new troop being organized at the Marvin Park Methodist Church. The organization will be completed Friday night.

The Brentwood Mothers' Club is sponsoring a new cub pack. William Koch is chairman of the Pack Committee and Jacob Spratt is cubmaster. Den mothers include Mrs. Phil Wochner, president of the club.

Girl Scouts.

Miss Georgia Flowers will be the instructor in two courses in tramping and trailing for girl scout leaders which will begin soon at the Little House, 4253 Magnolia avenue. The first meeting of one course will be at 10 a. m. Wednesday and will continue at the same hour on successive Wednesday until May 13. The second course will be held at 5 p. m. on Wednesdays, from April 8 to May 20.

A training class for brownie leaders will meet for the first time Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the West Presbyterian Church, 5872 Maple avenue. The final session will be May 5.

First class scouts of city and county troops have been invited to a tea at the Little House from 3 to 5 p. m. today.

4 BASIC LASTS

No.-1 Last No. 2 Last No. 3 Last No. 4 Last

No. 1 Last—Sold only with a doctor's prescription. The most extreme last of them all.

No. 2 Last—More modified than No. 1. Outward flare, seamless at large toe joint, narrow back.

No. 3 Last— Even more modified. Renowned "cookie" for correction of elongation. Prevent rotation.

No. 4 Last—Designed to keep normal feet normal. Slightly wedged at balance points. Short back lasts.

3 ADDITIONAL LASTS

No. 1½ Last No. 22G Last No. 23BX Last

No. 1½ Last—Exerts gentle upward pressure under the arch. Straight inner border, 1-in. heel, wide flange.

No. 22G Last— Wide, roomy toe. "Cookie" and wedge for perfect balance.

No. 23BX Last—The bunion Shoe, built for enlarged joints. Straight inner border last with wedges to improve posture.

Dr. Locke first designed 4 lasts. Later, to fill additional needs, he created 3 other lasts based on the first 4 but with variations to suit individual types of feet. Famous-Barr Co. is now offering these shoes in "MELLOPEDIC," a new leather that is soft, pliable and wears exceptionally well.

LARGER ACREAGE URGED FOR STATE PENAL BUILDINGS

Welfare League Cites 'Mistakes 'in Bond Issue Provisions for Penitentiary and Women's Prison.

PUBLIC LUNCHEON TO DISCUSS CHANGE

More Land Said to Be Needed for Work and qRecreation of Prisoners—Appropriation Suggested.

A public luncheon of the Missouri Welfare League will be held at the Sayman Town Club, 1122 Locust street, at 12:15 p. m. Wednesday as part of a movement to correct what the league believes to be two mistakes in the plans for development of state penal institutions under the $10,000,000 bond issue of 1934.

In a statement issued yesterday, W. S. Ford of St. Louis, president of the league, called attention to the State's proposal to spend more than $3,000,000 on enlargement of the present general penitentiary at its urban site in Jefferson City, and to spend $336,000 for a new women's department of the prison on a small piece of land a short distance to the east.

The new penitentiary buildings, he said, should be erected on a large tract, covering at least 300 acres to start with, or better, 500 to 600 acres, and the women's department, too, should have a larger location. Land was needed, he pointed out, to give prisoners a suitable opportunity for work and exercise and to make it simpler to keep unwelcome visitors away. The Federal law limiting sale of prison-made products, the league believes, will make it even more necessary to provide agricultural employment for prisoners.

Attorney-General's Ruling.

It has been held by the Attorney-General that proceeds of the bond issue may not be used for purchase of land, under the terms of the bond proposition. Therefore, the league has proposed that a direct appropriation for acquisition of land—perhaps $300,000—be made by the Legislature.

Anticipating that Gov. Park may yet call a special session of the Legislature, Ford suggested that, in addition to appropriations for relief and support of the old-age pension system, the call include the subject of the appropriation for land.

"Unless the large population of the penitentiary, more than 4600 prisoners, is divided and men best fitted to work on the land are given a chance to do this," said Ford, "the opportunity to fundamentally improve our prison system will be largely lost. The Bipartisan Advisory Board is not planning the creation of a new important branch or branches of the prison, except a costly institution for the very small number of women prisoners. This will tend to perpetuate an intolerably bad condition. When the people voted for the bond issue, it was understood that the money could and would be used for purchase of land necessary for development of sound plans for institutions."

It has been proposed to spend $336,000 for establishment of the new women's department, and $323,629 for new buildings, repairs and remodeling at the Missouri Training School for Boys, known as the "reformatory," at Boonville, Ford pointed out. The number of women prisoners has averaged 81, while the number of boys and young men confined at the reformatory averages 470, he said.

Overcrowding at Boonville.

"At the same time the overcrowding in the training school is acute and most of the buildings need extensive repairs," he continued. "The future of the training school at its present plant is considered uncertain. However, if the pressing needs of that institution are not to be met because it is believed some or all of the boys now sent there will be cared for in some other way, there are other important needs in penal institutions which affect the well being of much larger groups than the small number of women prisoners."

Plans adopted for the general penitentiary and the women's department will be discussed at the luncheon by Miss Carol Bates, executive secretary of the Missouri Welfare League. P. John Hoener, president of the St. Louis chapter of the American Institute of Architects and a member of the National Committee on Site Economics and Planning, will speak on "The Importance of Land in a Building Program." Dr. Burdette G. Lewis, field representative of the American Public Welfare Assocation, who was an adviser to the Bipartisan Advisory Board and the Missouri State Building Commission, recommending establishment of branch prisons and other proposals, will deliver an address entitled "Improving the State Penal System, the Major Objective of a Penal Building Program." Reservations for the luncheon may be made at the league office, 1574 Arcade Building. CHestnut 7052.

OIL STATION BURGLAR, SHOT BY POLICE, DIES

Andrew Malone Wounded Four Times When Fleeing From Officers.

Andrew Malone died early yesterday at City Hospital from four bullet wounds inflicted by policemen who caught him in the burglary of a gasoline filling station at McCausland and Plateau avenues early Thursday.

Malone, who was 27 years old, was wounded three times in the back and once in the hip when, ignoring cries of "halt," he ran from the filling station with an adding machine under one arm and a peanut vending machine under the other.

Detective Gerald Keating and Patrolman Louis Kaufman both shot at Malone, Keating firing two shots and Kaufman three.

The officers had been seated in an automobile parked in a driveway between two residences, overlooking a grocery on the corner opposite the filling station. They had been assigned there because of recent store burglaries in the neighborhood. Their attention was attracted to the filling station when they heard the crash of glass as Malone broke a glass panel of the door in forcing an entrance.

Malone, arrested several times for investigation, had been convicted twice. Caught in a burglary in December, 1933, he was permitted to plead guilty to the lesser charge of malicious destruction of property and was sentenced to a year in the workhouse. Last July, charged with burglary in the county, he was permitted to plead guilty to a charge of petty larceny and was sentenced to six months in jail. He gave his address, at the hospital, as 7346 Hoover avenue, Richmond Heights.

HOOVER WANTS G.O.P. NOMINEE TO BE 'BEST QUALIFIED MAN'

Republicans Have Four Jobs Ahead of Them, He Says, in Chicago Writing Speech.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 28. — Former President Herbert Hoover declared here today the Republican party should choose "the best qualified man," as its presidential nominee. Coming to Chicago unannounced for a week's stay, while preparing a speech he is to deliver in Fort Wayne, Ind., April 4, Hoover said in a statement:

"The Republicans have four jobs in front of them. The first is to demonstrate that the policies of the New Deal would lead the country to ultimate disaster for farmers, honest workers and business men alike.

"The second is to offer a courageous and constructive program, which will re-establish the progress of all the people.

"The third is to choose the best qualified man to administer the office of President, and to choose the best qualified men to sit in the Congress.

"The fourth is for every Republican to get behind these men and elect them."

Hoover, traveling alone, is staying at the home of Chauncey McCormick, a member of the harvester family, who is a candidate for delegate to the Republican National Convention.

When Hoover headed the American Relief Administration, McCormick, then a Captain in the Army, served in Poland as Hoover's representative.

Rubicam Offices Robbed.

Burglars broke into the general offices of the Rubisam Business School, 4933 Delmar boulevard, Friday night, and fled with $300 after knocking the combination off a safe. The robbery was discovered shortly before noon yesterday.

NEW FEE ARRANGEMENT ON FOREST PARK LINKS

Maintenance Exceeds Income, So Permits Are Barred on Saturday and Sunday.

Finding that average income of the two public golf links in Forest Park has been 21 cents a round, while average cost of maintaining the courses was 27 cents a round, Director of Public Welfare Joseph M. Darst has decided on a new rule in an effort to increase the income.

Play on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, under this rule, will be limited to persons paying single game fees, with annual permit holders prohibited from entry then under their permits.

This provision will become effective when issuance of permits for the new season begins early next month. Darst announced yesterday that, in view of this plan, he would withdraw his request for passage of a pending ordinance to increase the annual permit fee from $10 to $25. It will remain at $10.

The new rule was made under an opinion by City Counselor Edgar H. Wayman that the Director of Public Welfare had the right to prescribe such regulations as he saw fit for use of the golf courses.

The regular single game fees of 25 cents for the nine-hole course and 50 cents for the 18-hole will apply on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. Darst explained that holders of annual permits had been thronging the links on these days, to the exclusion of single game players, whose payments did more to support the facilities.

In the 11½ months elapsed of the current fiscal year receipts of the courses have been $16,969, but maintenance cost $21,400. Fees from 8093 games on the 18-hole links, at 50 cents, were $4046.50; from 35,290 games on the nine-hole links, at 25 cents, $8822.50, and from 410 annual permits $4100. The annual permit holders were reported as playing 36,900 games.

MAN ACCUSED OF SELLING JOB IN NEW YORK LEAPS TO DEATH

Plunges From Fourteenth Floor of Hotel After Champagne Party With Woman.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Louis Feldstein, 34 years old, charged last week with accepting $750 from a lawyer on the promise he would have him appointed an Assistant District Attorney, plunged to his death today from a fourteenth floor hotel room after an all-night champagne party.

Two partly filled champagne bottles were found in the room where Feldstein's woman companion, who gave her name as Beatrice Palmer, lay sleeping when he jumped from the window of the hotel.

An employe of the hotel, who was working in a room across the court, told police he saw Feldstein mount a window sill, open the window and, throwing his arms above his head, leap. Feldstein, fully clothed, crashed on the second floor extension and was killed instantly.

Hotel managers said Miss Palmer was still asleep when they reached the room. She was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

"Scienec and Medicine" Movie.

A sound film entitled "Science and Modern Medicine," will be presented by the Missouri Social Hygiene Association at the Y. M. H. A.-Y. W. H. A., 724 Union boulevard, at 8 p. m. Tuesday. The film deals with the biological phases of human welfare and stresses social diseases and their effects on individual health and family life. The public is invited to attend without fee.

SISTERS OF ST. JOSEPH CEREMONY APRIL 15-20

Order 100 Years Old; Nationwide Celebration to Be Centered in City.

The hundredth anniversary of the establishment of the Sisters of St. Joseph in the United States will be celebrated here April 15-20, beginning with a pontifical mass at New Cathedral, conducted by Archbishop Glennon.

The American headquarters of the order are at 6400 Minnesota avenue and the nation-wide celebration will center in St. Louis. While actually the centenary was last Wednesday, as it was on March 25, 1836, that six nuns of the order arrived here from France, observance was deferred because of the Lenten season.

The secular phase of the celebration will be a pageant depicting the history of the order, which was founded in France in 1650. The pageant, with a cast of 1000, will be presented at the St. Louis Theater Sunday afternoon and evening, April 19, and the following Monday evening.

The pontifical mass, at 10 a. m., Wednesday, April 15, will be the only centenary service open to the public, as subsequent exercises will be in the Holy Family chapel at the Mother House, where restricted capacity will limit attendance to those formally invited. At the mass a sermon will be given by Bishop Christopher E. Byrns of Galveston, Tex., and an address by Archbishop Glennon.

Solemn benediction will be given at the Mother House at 4 p. m. on the opening day, with the Very Rev. John P. Spencer, pastor of St. Roch's parish, preaching the sermon. April 16 has been designated Alumnae Day, and a solemn high mass will be held at the Mother House, with the Very Rev. Optatus Loeffler of Chicago, provincial of the Franciscan Fathers, as celebrant, and the Right Rev. P. P. Crane, pastor of Holy Name parish, preaching the sermon. The Rev. Raphael C. McCarthy, S. J., of St. Louis University, will preach the sermon at a solemn benediction at 4 p. m., April 16, at the university.

Memorial Day will be observed April 17 with a pontifical mass at the Mother House, Bishop Christian H. Winkelmann celebrating and the Very Rev. William P. Barr, president of Kenrick Seminary, preaching the sermon. The Rev. Peter Forbes of St. Alphonsus rectory will preach at a solemn benediction at 4 p. m.

TOASTS TO KING AND HOW TO DRINK THEM, OFFICIALLY

Orders to British Fleet Say They Are to Be Taken Sitting, Unless Anthem Is Played.

LONDON, March 28.—Fleet orders were issued today on correct procedure in drinking toasts to the King.

The health of the King should be honored seated in all naval messes, whether on ship or on shore, on all occasions except when the national anthem is played, when the toast should be drunk standing.

When toasts to heads of foreign states are included, they and that of the King should be drunk standing, whether the national anthem is played or not.

The custom of drinking to the King seated is said to have originated in the days of wooden warships, where there was insufficient headroom for a man to stand below decks.

KILLS SELF BY ASPHYXIATION

Georgee Frederick Eblen, 52, Had Poor Health and No Work.

George Frederick Eblen killed himself by asphyxiation early yesterday at his home, 3125 Russell boulevard. He was 52 years old, out of work and in poor health.

His wife found his body, with the head covered with a carpet, near an open but unlighted gas burner in the basement. She told police he had attempted suicide before.

EDITION OF HORACE ISSUED BY ST. LOUISAN

John B. Quinn Publishes Privately Translation Begun 30 Years Ago.

Pursuing a hobby of 30 years' standing, John B. Quinn, chief attendance officer of the Board of Education, has just published privately a translation of the odes, epodes and the "Art of Poetry" of Horace, Latin poet of the first century, B. C.

"I never thought seriously of putting my work in book form until last year, when the 2000th birthday of the poet was celebrated," Quinn said to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday. "When I became attendance officer in 1905, after teaching Latin and mathematics at Central High School for 13 years, I began the translations purely as a cultural recreation and to keep up my Latin. I finished the work 10 years ago and since then have been revising it.

"Several years ago I met Dr. Walter Miller, professor of Latin at the University of Missouri, and he has been very helpful, particularly in suggesting verbal changes."

In a foreword to the 180-page volume, Dr. Miller says the translations are "in conformity with the Latin text and spirit, at the same time retaining the brevity of the original." The difficult "Art of Poetry," the foreword goes on, "has been rendered clearly and elegantly by interpreting it as a colloquy," and the social odes and panegyrics "are of a high degree of excellence."

Acquires Rare Works.

Quinn has collected about 125 volumes pertaining to Horace—texts, translations and reference works—since he began his translation. Included in these are an edition of the complete works, published in Venice in 1498, and the Art of Poetry, Strassburg, the same year. He owns several other rare editions printed during the following century.

In making the translation, much research was necessary in history, mythology, philosophy, geography, ethnology, science and law, Quinn said. In addition, the work provided practical exercise in English.

The most difficult and puzzling features of translation pertained to interpretation, Quinn asserted. The earliest extant texts of the poet are copies made by monks of the Middle Ages, who used little punctuation, and it becomes necessary for the translator to use every available text and other source to arrive at the meaning intended by the poet, he said.

Poetic Introduction.

The introduction to Quinn's volume is a poem of his own composition, entitled "Vade Mecum" (Walk With Me). Its opening stanza reads:

"My Horace has for many years beguiled
"My hours of leisure to efface the care
"Of daily toil and stem the passions wild
"That surge where wicked persons fare."

And the last:

"Then come where loom the timbered Ozark heights,
"And where the limpid purling streamlets flow,
"And join with me in his serene delights,
"To share his company where'er we go."

Business Man Ends Life in Auto.

By the Associated Press.

MANHATTAN, Kan., March 28.—Clarence H. Chase, young Manhattan business man, was found shot to death in his automobile in Sunset Park on the western outskirts of Manhattan today. A revolver was found beside him. Bullets had pierced his chest and head. Sheriff E. W. Richter said a note was found in a book in the automobile telling of his love for his wife and small son and for his parents but explaining his inability to get his mind away from office duties. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Chase, Kansas City, Mo. He was a graduate of Kansas State College.

MAN ENDS LIFE IN CAR IN FRONT OF HOSPITAL

WPA Foreman Takes Poison While Waiting in Auto of Doctor at Deaconess.

Matt Stoves, 50 years old, a WPA foreman of West Frankfort, Ill., ended his life with poison shortly before noon yesterday while seated in an automobile in front of the Deaconess Hospital.

Stoves had spent the night at the home of Dr. Allen Webb, 1135 South Kingshighway and at the physician's suggestion accompanied him to the hospital and waited in the machine while he called on a patient. Dr. Webb returned to find Stoves slumped in the seat, an empty bottle, which had contained poison, beside him.

In a coat pocket police found an empty envelope bearing the return address of Mrs. Matt Stoves, Medical Lake, Wash. Stoves had written in pencil on the back: "In case of death it is my wish for Otis Stone to take care of my body." Stone was identified by Dr. Webb as a West Frankfort undertaker.

Stoves and his wife were separated, Dr. Webb told police. Before going to the home of Dr. Webb, Stoves had lived for several days at the Belcher Hotel, 407 Lucas avenue.

ST. LOUIS FLOOD RELIEF QUOTA LACKS $17,683

$41,317 of $58,000 Asked for by Red Cross Subscribed Thus Far.

The St. Louis Chapter, American Red Cross, yesterday received contributions of $3304 for flood relief in 13 Eastern states. The St. Louis quota was set at $58,000, of which $41,317 has been donated so far.

American Red Cross headquarters reported that continued heavy rains over a large portion of the flooded area had increased suffering and brought the number of families in need of emergency relief to 468,000, more than double the original estimate. More than $3,000,000 will be required to provide minimum needs for flood victims.

Several cities have exceeded the quotas assigned when the call for funds was issued. Detroit subscribed $112,000, 10 per cent more than the amount requested. Contributions to the national fund have been received from far distant points, including $8000 from residents of Hawaii.

The largest subscription received in St. Louis from an individual yesterday was $250 from Horton Watkins, vice-president of the International Shoe Co. Contributions of $100 each were made by Mrs. H. B. Collins, F. A. Sudholt, Alpha H. Ruf, Mrs. Sigmund Wolff, employes of McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Co., the Security National Bank Savings and Trust Co., St. Louis Globe-Democrat, St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Illinois Powder Manufacturing Co., and the Universal Match Corporation.

"Why Keep Them Alive?" Asks Paul de Kruif in Study of The Poor as Victims of Disease

"Science for Sale" of No Avail to Them Whose Undernourished Bodies Most Need Its Services.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 28.

POVERTY, Paul deKruif has discovered, defeats science. The scientist in his laboratory finds new ways to triumph over old diseases, but this knowledge, this skill, can be had only for money and there is not enough money to go around.

Having reported in popular language the victories of the death-fighters and the hunger-fighters, deKruif now reports on poverty in the United States and how it destroys health and life. He is indignant at what he has found about the relation between poverty and health and the way in which the present economic system checkmates the scientist. His latest book "Why Keep Them Alive," (Harcourt, Brace & Co.), burns with indignation.

And above all he is indignant for the suffering and deformity and the deaths that children must suffer because of poverty. Science knows how to save them, deKruif says, but science, he adds, is for sale. That is why he asks at the end of his book: "Why Keep Them Alive?" One chapter, perhaps the most angry chapter of all, is headed by the question: "Should Children Eat." That is not, he says, an ironic, or a rhetorical question, either. It is a question our present society should seriously ask itself.

What to Do About It?

He tries hard to find out what he himself can do to fight the plague of poverty and he comes to no very satisfactory conclusion except that it must be his duty to make the facts known to as wide an audience as possible.

"I don't know why," he writes, "it took me so long to see that the strength and life-giving results of the toil of these searchers were for sale; that life was something you could have if you bought and paid for it; which meant you could have your share of it if you'd been shrewd, or crafty, or just lucky.

"It still puzzles me why for so long I found excuses for our ghastly cartoon of a civilization—that's great....chiefly in its science and treats its men and women of science as if they were not much more than clever varlets; that's ruled by the Calvinistic humbug that God predestined suffering and that suffering is good; that awards its searchers prizes, smirks congratulations at them, and allots the real benefits of science to the well-heeled few; that turns its face from millions in pain, or hidden-hungry, or dying with an absolutely possible abundance of life-giving science all round them."

When he first came to the realization that the life-saving medical discovereies of recent years were not available to all but were "for sale," what deKruif did was to go into the slums of two or three cities to observe at first hand the relations between poverty and health. His reports of malnutrition, of "hidden hunger," are startling.

He suggests in several places that a mass epidemic, such as the fatal influenza that swept the world during the war, is not an impossibility as a result of the malnutrition forced on millions by the depression.

The 'Controlled Abundance'

The "controlled abundance" of the New Deal also draws deKruif's anger. The policy exemplified by the AAA is not "controlled abundance," in Secretary Wallace's phrase, but "controlled scarcity," deKruif declares. In proof of this he cites a study carried on under the Federal Relief Administration with funds provided by the Government.

The National Survey of Potential Product Capacity used as a basis for their study the "liberal diet" tabulated in the Department of Agriculture's famous pamphlet on living standards. So many quarts of a milk a week, so many eggs, so much butter to an individual. The directors of the Survey multiplied these diet figures by the number of individuals in the country and compared the totals with production figures. The result showed, deKruif points out, a tremendous scarcity of all vital foods. And this was in 1929 "when our food production was at its peak in American history...."

DeKruif relates this shortage of food directly to certain diseases and above all to the incidence of rheumatic fever among children. Medical science shows that this cruel, literally heart-breaking disease strikes, almost without exception, in the slums of the Northern States. There is a map carefully prepared as the result of months of medical research showing that in New York City rheumatic fever is practically non-existent in the better residential areas whereas on the lower East Side it recurs with greater and greater frequency.

Death, Disease on Upgrade.

This is one of the most startling disclosures that deKruif makes. He points out that death and disease in many instances on the downgrade before the beginning of the depression have now begun to mount. This can be shown, he says, most vividly by graphs which were descending and now within the past year or so have just begun to show a tendency to turn upward.

"The newest science against the hidden hunger," deKruif writes, "shows up the dangerous and even deadly malnourishment now enormously existing—with no outward signs of sore-eyes, beriberi, rickets or scurvy. You see, it used to be sound hunger-fighting science that our children shouldn't eat more than they strictly, theoretically, needed according to the simple arithmetic of calories.

"This must still be the belief of our Government head men who now, by limiting and even demanding destruction of our land's abundance, are trying to half-starve our people back into prosperity that never did exist in the most hectic boom, for millions. It used to be science that the amount of food a child barely needed was not much less than what was best for its growth, development, lustiness. This old-fashioned science must still be in use for the easing of the consciences of our money-crimped myridons of Mr. Hopkins, who are rationing millions of American children on their present famine dole.

"Today this old science may still hold good for mere calories. But it is dangerous, and may even be deadly when you apply it to the vitamins that fight our hidden hunger. To day it is known that the amount of vitamin A that a mother feeds her baby to keep it from developing sore eyes, is twice, is even four times, less than the amount of this stuff needed for the child's greatest growth, real vigor, and resistance to infection.

"It is certain, now, that a constant abundance, an overplus of good food rich in vitamin A, is needed to guard children from a dangerous wasting of the mucous mebrances of their air-tubes and lungs. Too often the damage of this hidden hunger happens before there's any outward sign of it at all. An explosive, fatal pneumonia is the consequence of this mysterious starvation in babies outwardly well fed."

DeKruif cites diphtheria as one disease that is on the increase after a long and consistent decline in the number of cases reported. Beginning in 1930, for three years

Clark Calls Pending Copeland Measure "Steal"

CONGRESS SPLIT ON SHIP SUBSIDY

U. S. Spent Five Billions on It in 18 Years

Missouri Senator Tells Roosevelt He Won't Vote for Alternate Guffey Measure Permitting Government Ownership, But Won't Organize Fight Against It.

Appropriation for Ocean Mail Bonus Struck Out in Senate, So That It Will Come to End July 1, Unless Money for It Is Provided in Some Way or Other.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.
WASHINGTON, March 28.

IN the midst of a session of Congress that administration leaders want to bring to a speedy and harmonious close, a bitter quarrel has broken out over the issue of subsidies to American shipping.

Threats of filibusters have come from Missouri's Senator Bennett Champ Clark and on the other side of the battle line Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York has said that he will fight to the death any attempt to bring about "Government ownership" of the merchant marine. Prolonged and angry debate that may delay the adjournment of Congress indefinitely is a possibility unless President Roosevelt himself intervenes.

The quarrel is not bounded by party lines. The issue of who shall control and operate the merchant marine, into which the Government has already poured hundreds of millions of dollars, has divided the Senate, in general, into progressive and conservative blocs. With Clark, who has taken the lead in the fight on the subsidy system proposed by Copeland, are Democrats such as Wheeler of Montana, Bone of Washington and Black of Alabama, and such Progressive Republicans as LaFollette of Wisconsin and Nye and Frazier of North Dakota. With Copeland are those who profess to oppose any extension of Government ownership or operation.

Two Subsidy Bills Up; Clark Calls One of Them "Steal."

But it is not by any means a clear cut fight over Government ownership of the merchant marine. Charges of waste and inefficiency under the subsidy system, as made by Black in the report of the Senate Committee that investigated ocean and air mail contracts, are involved. Black's charges have aroused many Senators to oppose anything resembling a subsidy to private shipping companies.

There are two ship subsidy bills now before the Senate. The Copeland bill would end the present system of indirect subsidies given through contracts for carrying the mails and provide generous direct subsidies to shipping companies that have benefited in the past from the indirect system.

The subsidy bill introduced by Senator Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania also would end the present indirect subsidies and substitute a carefully circumscribed system of direct subsidies, to be supplemented or replaced by outright Government ownership "if necessary."

"The Copeland bill," says Clark, "is in my opinion the greatest steal ever to come before Congress."

"The Guffey bill would take all these beautiful ships," Copeland waves him arms in the direction of the ship pictures that adorn his committee room, "and put them under Government ownership. I'll die before I let that happen."

"It's absurd to talk about fearing Government ownership," Guffey says. "The Government has already put up from 90 to 95 per cent of the price of those ships. Why should we be afraid of taking over the other five or ten per cent?"

Clark Gives Views on the Two Measures.

Clark fought the Copeland bill every step of its course through the Commerce Committee.

Copeland is chairman of that committee and Clark is a member. Because Copeland is a shrewd parliamentary strategist, Clark has had to be constantly on guard. On numerous occasions Copeland has called committee meetings on a few minutes' notice. He has persisted in holding sessions that run into the night, with no recess for dinner. But Clark has been equally persistent and at every opportunity he has interposed his arguments against the Copeland measure.

"The President asked me some time ago about the matter of a ship subsidy bill," Clark said. "I told him then that I would fight the Copeland bill to the last ditch and I told him there were a number of other Senators who felt the same way about it. I am opposed to any ship subsidy bill. Why my father would turn over in his grave if he thought that I contemplated voting for a ship subsidy. But I told the President that while I would not vote for the Guffey bill, I would not organize a fight against it.

"If it is necessary for the Government to supply the money to build these ships, then certainly the Government should own them and lease them out to private concerns or operate them itself. I see no reason in the world why the Government should pay the bills and then have nothing to say about operation.

"The structure of the Copeland bill cannot be revised. The real reason for the delay in shipping legislation is the fact that the shipping interests will not accept any reasonable compromise. They attacked the Copeland bill merely to take off the curse of their implied support of it. The shipping interests dominate the Copeland committee. I have rarely come into the committee room without discovering seven or eight shipping trust men hanging around."

The present system of indirect subsidies was denounced by Black in June of last year. He said the Government had been corrupted and the taxpayers robbed "in a saturnalia of waste, inefficiency, unearned exorbitant salaries and bonuses and other forms of so-called 'compensation'; corrupting expense accounts, exploitation of the public by the sale and manipulation of stocks, the 'values' of which are largely based on the hope of profit from robbing the taxpayer, and a general transfer of labor and energy from operating business to 'operating on' the taxpayer."

Five Billions in Loans and Subsidies Paid Out.

According to the Black committee, the Government in the last 18 years has invested five billion dollars in subsidies and "loans" and yet the United States stands almost at the bottom of the list of maritime nations in the number of vessels of 2000 tons or more built in the last 10 years.

Ocean mail contracts with the leading shipping companies under which the Post-office Department pays nearly $30,000,000 a year for a service which actually costs only a few hundred thousand dollars, form the base of this system of indirect subsidies. These contracts will expire at midnight Tuesday unless the House follows the lead of the Senate and adopts a special act extending them to May 31. The Senate took this action Friday and the House is expected to follow suit. Copeland, however, insists that the contracts would have continued automatically, despite the expiration date, unless President Roosevelt had taken specific action to abrogate them.

But—and here is the catch—the money to pay the $30,000,000 of indirect ocean mail subsidy was taken out of the Postoffice Department appropriation bill when it was up in the Senate. Therefore, unless specific action is taken to restore this amount in some way or other on July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year, all subsidy payments to shipping companies will end.

Copeland Forecasts Bankruptcy If Aid Is Refused Lines.

"That will mean the bankruptcy of every shipping company," Senator Copeland says. "That will mean 42 law suits by the 42 companies that have contracts with the Government. It is my judgment that if we do not pass any new legislation, the appropriation provision for the present mail contracts will be restored.

"Here's what we've achieved by means of the subsidy system," and again the Senator indicates with a broad gesture the painted ships that line the committee room. "Thirty-three ships, the finest fleet America has ever had, the finest on the ocean. This fleet has been built up by the subsidy system.

"The Government has no right to take these ships and that's what will happen on July 1 unless some action is taken. The Government doesn't have a dollar invested in those ships. It merely advanced the money and the companies are paying it back.

"Subsidies are necessary because it costs twice as much to build a ship in this country as elsewhere. We have certain standards of labor that other countries do not have. Our labor is paid twice as much as in England or Germany or Denmark. It costs twice as much to operate our ships. If we are going to have a merchant marine, we will have to subsidize it."

Big Borrowings From RFC Possible Under Copeland Bill.

Throughout the hearings on the Copeland bill before Copeland's committee, Clark demanded of witness after witness, many of whom represented the shipping companies, whether it was not true that under the Copeland bill a shipping firm could obtain from the Government, through subsidy and "loan," actually more funds than were really necessary to construct a new ship. If he received a negative or evasive answer, the Missouri Senator proceeded to demonstrate how this was possible under the bill.

Under the measure a direct subsidy of 50 per cent of the cost of a ship is provided to compensate for the difference between foreign and domesic construction costs. Taking as an example a $1,000,000 ship this would be, Clark points out, $500,000. But the shipping company is required to put up only $125,000 in cash, the balance of the $500,000 to be paid in annual installments over a period of 20 years. But besides this the bill provides that the company may borrow from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation "not more than 75 per cent of the foreign cost of constructing, outfitting and equipping" a vessel. This means that the RFC could advance, for a vessel costing a million dollars, 75 per cent of $500,000 or $350,000.

This makes a total advance by the Government of $850,000. In addition, however, according to Clark, the measure provides that the Government shall take from the company an old ship as a 'trade-in' and shall agree not to operate the old vessel in competition with the new one to be built with funds advanced by the Government.

"It is obvious that almost any old ship the company could produce would be worth $150,000," Clark says. "And the Government would be stuck with this old ship. No witness was ever able to refute this showing because of course it's in the bill just as I outlined it."

Black to Join Clark in Fight Against Subsidy.

Black's analysis of the Copeland bill is equally damning. He has indicated that he will join with Clark in a vigorous fight on the measure.

"Even with all its tendencies to open wide

'The Presidential Lottery': Hit-and-Miss System by Which U. S. Elects Its Presidents

Chairman O'Brien of Tariff Commission Thinks Chance and Luck Determine Candidates and Most Are Unfit.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 28.

A DEEP study of American politics has convinced Robert Lincoln O'Brien, chairman of the Federal Tariff Commission, that presidential conventions and elections for the past 75 years have had most of the characteristics of a lottery, with chance and luck determining the candidates for the highest office in the nation.

When an American citizen casts his or her vote in the election next November, he or she may think she is making an individual choice of President of the United States for the next four years. Not so, says O'Brien in an interview, who points out that even if the citizen takes the time to vote in presidential preferential primaries he or she usually has only a choice among half a dozen candidates whose "availability" has been settled by fortuitous circumstances over which the candidates and the voters have had no control.

O'Brien substantiates his thesis by numerous instances in political history, and irreverently observes that a good case could be made for assertions that, by and large, American Presidents have been ill-prepared for their tremendous tasks, and that when a President did fit into the national picture, it was a coincidence that might happen in any lottery.

A Contrary View.

James Morgan in his book, "Our Presidents," takes a contrary view when he says:

"The Presidents, taken as a whole, form perhaps a matchless line. It seems to Americans, at least, that no lists of premiers, no other political succession since 1789 quite measures up to the presidential average in ability and character. Certainly no dynasty could afford to invite comparison. Neither the Hapsburgs nor the Hohenzollerns produced, in half a thousand years, two princes who are equal in world fame to Washington and Lincoln."

O'Brien would leave the kings and princes out of the comparison. He insists that the parliamentary system, in which the Prime Minister wins his position through merit and political skill, offers a better training ground for Democratic rulers than the hit-and-miss American system in which certain sections of the country and some small states are politically debarred from offering candidates and in which an emotional appeal to the electorate is usually more effective than an appeal to common sense.

Offers No Remedy.

O'Brien does not urge that the parliamentary system be substituted for what he calls the "American presidential lottery." He says that he is merely pointing out conclusions from a study of American history in the hope that American voters will not believe that they are making an actual choice among the men best qualified for the presidency. His observations are pertinent at this time when the country is about to decide whether the next President shall be Frank D. Roosevelt, Gov. Alfred M. Landon, Senators Arthur H. Vandenberg, William E. Borah and Lester J. Dickinson, former President Herbert Hoover, Col. Frank Knox, former Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills or some Republican dark horse.

O'Brien and James Morgan are in agreement that the man who seeks the presidency is usually disappointed. The exceptions have been Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt and even in their cases luck played a considerable part. Those who failed were Clay, Webster, Cass, Douglas, Seward, Blaine, Sherman and Bryan.

"The strange thing is," observed O'Brien, "that some of the men seemingly best qualified for the presidency had unfortunate experiences in the White House, while others who seemed to have few of the necessary qualifications left office with great prestige."

How Lincoln Got In.

"Lincoln," O'Brien says, "was not a popular choice. He had been defeated for the Senate by Douglas in 1858, and although he was Illinois' candidate for the presidency in 1860 he was scarcely known outside the State. His Cooper Union speech made him acceptable to some Eastern Republicans. The leading candidate for the nomination was well-known Senator Seward of New York. In the end, he was nominated largely because he was the least known man of the list of candidates. And he was elected, by less than a popular majority, because the remaining votes were divided among Douglas, Breckinridge and Bell."

As every school boy knows, Andrew Johnson succeeded to the presidency at Lincoln's assassination. From a standpoint of public training, Johnson was well qualified as an administrator but not as a politician. In fact, it is questionable whether Lincoln himself could have handled the Republican "radicals" in the reconstruction days. Johnson had been an alderman, a mayor, a Congressman for eight terms, Governor of Tennessee for two terms, and military governor of Tennessee by appointment of Lincoln. He was selected by Lincoln as a running mate in 1864, however, because he was a war Democrat and a Southern Unionist.

"Johnson was a tailor by trade," O'Brien says, "and his sign 'A. Johnson, Tailor' can be seen today. When he was 19 years old he could read only a little and had difficulty in writing the letters of the alphabet. His education was due entirely to his wife. His school room was his tailor shop and his home. Yet by the assassination of Lincoln, he was rushed into the presidency a month after his inauguration as Vice-President.

Grant and Hayes.

"Grant, his successor, owed his elevation to the presidency not to his ability as a statesman but to his reputation as a soldier. His election demonstrates the public's belief that success in one field carries with it ability to perform in another. Even today we see people seriously advocating the election of Henry Ford and Col. Lindbergh to the presidency. Grant's experience in the White House shows the folly of selecting a man by mere popular reputation."

The nomination of Hayes to succeed Grant, O'Brien believes, illustrates how lack of timing in a convention can defeat the leading candidate. In 1876, James G. Blaine lost the nomination because the Cincinnati convention adjourned overnight after Robert G. Ingersoll had delivered his stirring tribute to "The Plumed Knight, the man from Maine." Had the ballot been taken while the delegates were under the influence of this address. Blaine probably would have been nominated instead of Hayes. The overnight adjournment, however, permitted the supporters of other candidates to "gang" Blaine, and although he was within 30 votes of the nomination he was defeated by Hayes, who had been fourth and fifth on most of the ballots. And in the election contest, Hayes won over Tilden, who had a popular plurality of 250,000 votes because the supposedly impartial members of the Supreme Court, who were on the Election Commission, divided on party lines.

"Garfield," says O'Brien, was probably nominated because Senator Hoar of Massachusetts, who

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Our Educational Sausage Factories.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE recent news item which conveyed the brilliant Dr. Crile's condemnation of our expensive educational systems and their failure to conduce to the solution of our modern problems, is but another link in the chain of attempts by interested humanists to awaken America from its dormant state of helplessness in this direction. Recent statistics have it that considerably more than a billion dollars is spent annually for our present machine type of education, where the student is "standardized" before entering college, then he is rolled through the stamping process of the educational robot, and after a definite period (Providence alone knows how this was arrived at) the student is turned out as a graduate with his diploma, very much like a sausage is produced with its envelope, and with about as much reasoning power.

Floods, earthquakes, volcanic eruptions and (certainly the one to be feared most as a destroyer of "civilizations") dust storms, in the realm of the material world; war clouds, Communism, capitalism and allied distortions in the realm of thought; and betwixt these, the mediating forces of duration attempting to balance the cosmos—the greatest requirement of life. If America does not wake up to the hazardous signals which are being thrown out by mediation in an attempt to establish liaison with the reasoners, it will not be so very long before some wondering archeologist will be digging our material civilization out of the sands and commenting anent our utter lack of aptitude in the matter of providing suitable leadership in the sphere of thought.

What is the corollary to be deduced from the above? Don't denounce the capitalist; educate him to use wealth as a means to an end—service. Does anyone know of a college or university where this is being done? My own guess is that more ethical principles are instilled in the primary schools of the land than in any university. The universe is but a huge chemical laboratory; the laws of chemistry are basic and immutable, and man must meet them on that sphere of reasoning. We are existing in a world of action and reaction, and the universities of the land must learn to bring life and its armamentarium to the schoolroom instead of training students to the expectancies of a Utopia, City of the Sun, an Atlantis and allied chimeras of the imagination which do not exist. When America commands, the colleges and universities will begin to deliver leadership; until then, they will continue as gilded juggernauts which destroy the individualism of youth, and replace it with that hideous concomitant of present-day education—standardization.

How the Greeks Pronounce It.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE just read a letter in your column which attempts to settle the pronunciation of the Greek letters, "Phi Beta Kappa." It occurred to the writer that the question could be settled by asking the first literate Greek to give the correct pronunciation of these letters. The writer adds, "I feel quite sure he will say, 'Fee Baytah Kahpa.'"

After consulting a Greek dictionary, I have concluded the writer's feeling was not "sure" in its entirety. May I submit the following: Beta, the second letter of the Greek alphabet, is pronounced ve'eta, as "v" in "vivid." Kappa, the tenth letter of the Greek alphabet, is pronounced "ca'ppa," as an open "k," like "c" in "cap"—before all letters except certain vowels, and the soft diphthongs, when it has a soft, liquid sound, something like the "k" in "key," but much softer.

Historic Quotations on Smoke.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

APROPOS your editorial of March 26 on smoke, may I submit the following historic quotations:

From the Town Talker in the Spectator of July 9, 1881: "Could St. Louisans manage to infuse a little of that get-up-and-get spirit of Yankee enterprise into the Southern inertia of their characters, they might not be so content to sit with folded hands in the midst of the dirt and smoke of this grimy old burg when nature stands in all her freshness and beauty with open arms ready to receive them."

From Old and New St. Louis, by James Cox, published in 1894: "The Citizens' Smoke Abatement Association is another organization designed to aid the trade as well as the salubrity of St. Louis. Nearly all the coal used for manufacturing purposes in St. Louis is bituminous, and the quantity of smoke sent out by the countless chimneys is very destructive to stocks of merchandise, in addition to being objectionable from both the standpoints of health and comfort.

"As the result of prolonged agitation, the Citizens' Smoke Abatement Association was formed two years ago. It has succeeded in obtaining legislation against the emission of smoke. An immense number of boiler-plant owners have cooperated without waiting for legal proceedings. Those who failed to fall in with the procession are now being proceeded against in the courts, and although in a manufacturing city like St. Louis there will always be a certain amount of smoke, the smoke nuisance will be so far reduced as to be practically abated."

MAJOLICA.

THE NAZI ELECTION FARCE.

One of the greatest political farces of modern times is being played today in Germany. The spectacle is that of citizens being herded to the polls to mark ballots that can express only one verdict.

Ostensibly, this is an election to choose a new Reichstag, but the Reichstag has long since abdicated its functions as a law-making body, and only National Socialist "candidates" are in the field. It is supposedly also an expression by the German people on their Government's policies, but only one voting space, and that marked "Ja," appears on the ballot. It has been announced that ballots marked any other way will be thrown out as invalid, and so will unmarked ballots.

Nor may those courageous souls who do not wish to submit to dictatorship refrain from this empty indorsement by absence from the polls. Party leaders have given word to each voter that unless he has visited the polls by 1 p. m. today, a Storm Trooper will call to find out why. Those who are ill will be carried to the voting places. Those who cannot be found know well what misfortune awaits them, in the fate of others who have been beaten, sent to concentration camps, discharged from employment, dispossessed of property or even murdered for the slightest difference of opinion with the regime.

Though scorning democracy and all its works, Hitler apes the form of democracy in this procession to the polls, and discourses eloquently on the assertion that he is consulting the popular will. "I want this election for the benefit of foreigners," he asserts. "They must know that Germany is united." Can he seriously expect to impress more than a negligible few with the figures of his fake plebiscite?

As an election, this is a fraud. But as an example of propaganda methods, it is a masterpiece. All previous Nazi demonstrations have been outdone in this campaign. There has been an orgy of shrieking radio and public speeches, massed flags, of chiming bells, singing of hymns, torchlight parades, screaming sirens, giant demonstrations of all sorts. All these expressions, even the "spontaneous demonstrations" for Hitler, are carefully planned and regimented. Dr. Goebbels' instructions for display of flags are typical, containing these words: "All public and private buildings are expected to obey the command and keep up the flags until the end of the election. Woe to the building owner if flags do not fly over it."

Germans as a whole, whatever their view of Nazi repression, are strongly behind Der Fuehrer's latest move in sending troops into the demilitarized Rhineland. Then why this forced election and its concentration of ballyhoo methods?

One reason that no opportunity is given for the electorate to vote Nein may be in the results of the two previous "plebiscites." In the balloting of Nov. 12, 1933, with Germany's withdrawal from the League as the immediate issue, Hitler got 93.5 per cent of the votes, and 2,101,000 ballots were cast against him. In the balloting of Aug. 19, 1934, the major issue was his assumption of full power after the death of Von Hindenburg. On this occasion, the Realm Leader got only 88.1 per cent of the votes, and 4,294,654 were cast against him. Dictatorship can exist only by enforced control of all the people. It would be an evil day for Nazi-ism should the present election chance to show a greater adverse vote than its predecessors. So this time there will be no adverse vote whatsoever.

But why bother with a vote at all on a decision that has already been taken, and irrevocably, according to the Fuehrer? Partly to provide another of the circuses by which Fascism keeps up popular enthusiasm. And partly, according to some observers, because the high-strung Hitler is so constituted that he requires a demonstration of approval to bolster him psychologically after taking a decisive step. This may be only theory, but it is fact that the three Hitler "plebiscites" have followed decisive Hitler actions.

A strange aspect of today's proceedings is the seriousness with which the Germans lend themselves to the childish farce. Mass hysteria and compulsion explain the amazing demonstration. Hitler will get his "unanimous approval." But the result will be meaningless, save as a demonstration of how Fascism rules the minds and bodies of all its subjects.

CHICAGO AND THE CITY MANAGER PLAN.

Ought Chicago adopt the city manager form of municipal government? This question is being studied by some key people in the country's second largest city these days. A committee of its City Club has the proposal under consideration and is assembling facts and figures about the manager plan in operation. Obviously, the question is one for Chicago itself to answer. But even so, it will not be out of order for believers in the city manager system elsewhere to express the hope that Chicago will accept it in spirit as well as form if and when it does. A city whose government has been dominated by such rulers as Big Bill Thompson and the Kelly-Nash combination could benefit both itself and the city manager plan if it did as long boss-ridden Cincinnati did; that is, if it accepted administration by non-political technicians as necessary for successful operation. On the other hand, if Chicago followed the disappointing example of Kansas City, which has failed to accept that basic principle, both Chicago and the cause of better local government would lose.

BACON VS. SHAKESPEARE.

For a couple of hundred years or more, men have urbanely discussed the question as to whether Bacon or Shakespeare wrote the plays attributed to the latter. Oh, on occasion, we suppose, an enraged Baconite has socked a Shakespeare addict, or a firm believer in Shakespeare has coolly murdered a Bacon fanatic. Then, too, there have been interlopers like Marse Henry Watterson who, shouting "A plague o' both your houses," have come out foursquare for Kit Marlowe. But, for the most part, it has been one of the most pleasing diversions of the human race.

It now appears that the argument is getting out of bounds. The nasty argumentum ad hominem—ad feminam, too—is being used. Miss Alicia A. Leith, vice-president of the Bacon Society, charges that "William Shakespeare was an uneducated boor who went out hunting deer. He didn't go to school and he didn't even learn to read." Those are harsh words. But Miss Leith goes further. To clinch her case, she says in effect that Bacon never admitted authorship of the plays because he was the son of Queen Elizabeth and it was contrary to court etiquette for the Queen's immediate circle to engage in such namby-pamby stuff as composing iambic pentameter lines.

Now, it is pretty late in the day to bring Queen Bess into this, especially when the old girl is no longer here to defend herself. Besides, if Miss Leith proves her point, there is imminent danger that the world will be deprived of an argument that has given men comfort and solace and should continue to do so to the end of time.

A FIGHTING EDITOR.

The end of a long and stormy career comes with the death, at 64, of George R. Dale, editor and former Mayor of Muncie, Ind. A man of unshakable convictions, he fought through many a bitter controversy. Longest remembered will be the courage with which he exposed and denounced "invisible government" in those troubled days a dozen years and more ago, when the Ku Klux Klan rode roughshod over Indiana.

In a time when Klan control was virtually complete, Dale refused to give in to its domination. He continued, in the columns of his Post-Democrat, to oppose its machinations and the corruption and vice that followed in its train, though bitter reprisals followed. He and his family were threatened and attacked; he suffered financial losses that cost him his home and reduced him to penury; he served time at a State prison farm. But he was not silenced. He attacked the night-riders, the Klan-dominated officials, the Judges. His case was carried to the United States Supreme Court, which upheld his sentence for contempt of court because he had accused a Judge of corruption in a case then pending.

Dale lost many of his fights, but in the end he was vindicated by the decay and downfall of the Klan. His record as a fighting editor, who made great sacrifices in exposing corruption and enlightening the public, is an outstanding one.

AN UNWRITTEN BOOK.

The name of William Marion Reedy reappears in print, by way of the letter column. A correspondent quotes Edgar Lee Masters, in the latter's biography of Vachel Lindsay, as appraising Reedy's death as "a misfortune of great magnitude." There will be no whisper of dissent from the St. Louis that waited expectantly for Reedy's Mirror, an event of pith and moment on the city's weekly calendar. And many St. Louisans who have gone on to larger fields and greater renown will bow in something like filial acquiescence. He was their discoverer, guide, philosopher and friend.

Among these proteges of Reedy was Edgar Lee Masters. It was in Reedy's Mirror that "Spoon River Anthology" found expression, and Masters awoke to find himself famous. Somehow, none of the graduates of the Reedy school has got around to what ought to be a labor of love—a biography of Reedy. Fannie Hurst, Zoe Akins, Louis Dodge, Orrick Johns, to mention but a few, might becomingly pay their debt due to this patron of theirs who dowered St. Louis handsomely through gay and shining years.

NOW THE CORRESPONDENTS OF FUTURE WARS.

Devoted to obtaining bonuses at once for its members' anticipated military service, the Veterans of Future Wars was organized recently among college students. Now comes a natural sequel to this engaging satire: the Association of Future Correspondents of Future Wars. This has been formed at City College, in New York, with the stated purpose of obtaining Government funds to "establish training courses in the writing of atrocity stories and garbled war dispatches for patriotic purposes."

It is well that this bit of preparedness was not overlooked by the collegiate satirists of war and all its manifestations, though the training of the organization's members will be a fairly simple matter. It will be mostly the study of dispatches and pamphlets produced in the last war, for they had reached a high standard of perfection by the time the armistice arrived.

A journalist's duties consist of far more than propagandizing, of course. In the field of news reporting, there need be little difficulty about instructing the members, either. The implements of the next war are common knowledge: bombing planes, deadly gases, high explosives, etc. Not much imagination will be required to write in advance quite accurate accounts of their use against both armies and civilian populations. Distributing a few of these anticipatory dispatches to the public will serve a useful purpose in letting the people know about what may be in store, and perhaps helping rouse them to prevent its happening.

We wish for the A. F. C. F. W. a big but peaceful future.

THE WILD LIFE AMENDMENT.

Organizations representing a variety of interests in Missouri are going on record in support of the amendment to the State Constitution proposed by the Restoration and Conservation Federation of Missouri to take wild life conservation and management out of politics.

This is as it should be. Sportsmen are not the only persons whose interests are affected by the efficiency, or lack of it, in conservation activities. The wild life resources of a State like Missouri consist of much more than game to be hunted in wood or field and fish to be propagated and caught in lakes and streams. The administration of State parks, with their recreational facilities for an ever-increasing number of visitors and havens for song birds and wild flowers and shrubs, is becoming a more important conservation function each year. Men, women and children in all walks of life, in big city and country town, have a vital stake in the elimination of political methods from wild life conservation.

Every indorsement of the proposed amendment increases the likelihood of its adoption. May there be many in the weeks to come!

BUILDING UP THE KANSAS COOLIDGE.

A British View of Europe's Crisis

Requirements for settling present issues are neither to condone German breach of faith nor to lose the chance for cleaning up Europe's "horrible mess of suspicion and fear," English journal says; thinks it is time to end the inequality that produces endless friction; sees full mutual confidence as only basis for real security.

From the Manchester Guardian.

AT THE first shock of Hitler's announcement and the first news of the entry of German troops into the prohibited region, the French took steps to man their fortifications. This may serve to us as a symbol of the difference between our state and theirs, they having the noise of invasion still sounding in their ears and fearing lest any "movement of troops" might mean that the danger was again at hand.

That is not the case now. Hitler is not "remilitarizing" the zone in order now to invade France; one might rather perhaps find a hint of his thoughts in his omission of Germany's Southern neighbors among those with whom he is willing to make nonaggression treaties.

It was, no doubt, because of the inevitable alarm of his neighbors after Hitler's stroke of violence and because the guarantees of Locarno had in a legal sense gone by the board that Mr. Eden announced that Britain would come to the aid of France and Belgium if Germany should make on them "any actual attack" which would violate Article 2 of the treaty. This is, in effect, a defensive alliance between us and France and Belgium.

German policy, we may be sure, has no intention of bringing this undertaking into play. So far from desiring to run the risk of bringing Britain into the field against her, Germany is ingenuously anxious to conciliate British opinion.

Mr. Eden said Germany's action had "profoundly shaken confidence" in any international agreements in which she was concerned. That is so, and therefore merely to accept her "offer" of a new settlement as though she had not trodden underfoot a freely signed treaty would no more be a final solution than is M. Sarraut's laconic "unacceptable." The case is not so simple.

If we cannot overlook a repudiation which was as wicked as it was unnecessary, neither, when "sanctions" are spoken of, can we forget that for Germans to insist on defending their own territory with arms is not the same heinous moral offense, nor deserving the same penalties, as waging war, like Mussolini, on an unoffending country or preparing a base for an invasion.

It may be recalled, by the way, that last April, when Germany repudiated Part V of the Versailles Treaty, the French secured at Geneva the appointment of a committee to draw up a list of economic and financial sanctions which should be applied in the future to any state that "unilaterally" repudiated its treaty obligations. This committee never reached an agreed report but had to say: "If the proposals that emerge are of a kind open to rather serious objections, that is the result of the inherent difficulty of the task that has been entrusted to the committee."

Mr. Eden, as was to be expected, made no reference to this aspect of the question, but promised only that the Government "would examine the new proposals of the German Government clear-sightedly and objectively with a view to finding out to what extent they represented a means by which the shaken structure of peace could again be strengthened."

On the one hand, not to pass over or condone the German breach of faith; on the other, not to lose the chance, if there should be the chance, of clearing up the horrible mess of suspicion and fear which has poisoned these last few years, and to do it somehow with Germany, since it is obvious that it cannot be done without her: that is the aim we have to keep in view.

The French, even more than the other countries which signed the Locarno Treaty, cannot but be indignant and dismayed at the brusque destruction of the "inequality" clauses which Germany had freely accepted and which, in fact, had contributed greatly to the general peace. But is it not now clear that the time has come when the "inequality," which has been the source of endless friction and resentment, should be brought to a formal and legal end? There will be no peace until it is.

Since before the disarmament conference, Germany's "equality" has been accorded by us in theory and denied in practice. Since almost the beginning of the conference, the Powers have sought the elusive "equality of security" and sought it in vain. So the continuance of the German "demilitarized zone" has been defended on the ground—accurate enough in fact—that it compensates the French for certain glaring defects in their own "security" such as their inferior numbers or geographical position.

But national security is not to be obtained, or obtained permanently, by such arbitrary subtractions and additions, any more than it is by adding arms to arms or alliances to alliances; it is to be obtained ultimately only by the complete confidence of each in the strength of all.

If the Powers were formally to intimate that they had no longer the desire to limit or postpone Germany's legal equality, and that on that foundation they would consider her latest schemes, and any other schemes, for rebuilding the "shaken structure," there is no good reason why she should not voluntarily rescind her violent gesture, which is what she ought to do, and set us back, with a gleam of hope, on the old rule of law.

A LITTLE LESSON IN TAXES.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

IF you wish to know how far taxation may add to prices, buy a cheap pack of playing cards. The price is 21 cents. You will observe on the box a 10-cent stamp. That is what Uncle Sam took. Then you will get a 1-cent stamp. That is what Ohio took. Out of your 21 cents, 11 cents go for taxes and 10 cents are left for the manufacturer and the retailer.

There is a practical demonstration of how it works. Cards, of course, are taxed on a luxury basis. Another luxury, liquor, is taxed on a basis of over 85 per cent. With things as they are in Washington, we are bound to have new taxes. Bread and milk now are about the only things exempt. (Not in Missouri.—Editor's note.)

In spite of the universal cry for economy, the legislators keep on spending money. There is no way to raise it except by taxation. Very likely this extreme example of 11-cent tax on a 10-cent pack of playing cards will be duplicated all along the line. That is what we can reasonably anticipate.

To Avert Industrial War

From the New York World-Telegram.

NO more disheartening news ever has appeared than that concerning the secret arming of certain American industrial plants in anticipation of war with their workers.

"On account of their desire that their employes be not familiar with what they are doing, they require that we use great secrecy in the way bills are handled." So reads a letter from an agency specializing in strike-breaking equipment (Federal Laboratories, Inc.) to Smith & Wesson, gun manufacturers, concerning a shipment of military and police revolvers ordered by the Weirton Steel Co.

Similar correspondence has come to light involving secret purchases of tear gas, guns and ammunition by other concerns.

A critical phase has come in American industry. Machines are beginning to displace men in greater and greater numbers. Cruel as this process is, it is not fair to blame owners and managers. They are caught in a competitive condition that seems to leave them no choice. They must keep abreast of improvements or go out of business.

The movement toward mechanized manufacturing is as relentless and as irresistible as the movement of a glacier; it is as cold and unswerving. Industry cannot stand across its path, but must move with it.

This is understandable. Thousands of employers who find themselves forced to participate in this process are hating it in their hearts. They foresee trouble—human trouble. They sympathize with the tentative and sometimes blundering attempts of political statesmen to meet the developing situation. They know, even as they reduce employment in their own plants, that America's way out is through more employment, not less.

Further, they recognize the right of the workers to seek their own means of thwarting the ruin that threatens them. They respect the leaders of labor, knowing that if fate had placed them on the other side of the table, they would be fighting for labor's existence, even as these leaders are—some of them blindly, some of them intelligently.

Such employers are not secretly arming with the idea of surprising their employes and crushing them when the time comes. They know that their problem is part of a great national and world problem. They are prepared to sacrifice something toward the solution of the problem if the Government or industry itself can find a solution.

They know the answer will not come from the mouths of machine guns or in the atmosphere of tear gas.

The hope of averting a national labor conflict lies with employers of this kind. Industry is organized in more ways than one. If its leadership is wise, it will take in hand those employers who by their stupid preparations for war with their workers are definitely hastening the day when war will come.

HITLER, "HOUSE PAINTER."

From the Cleveland Press.

IF we have read one, we have read a hundred articles referring to Adolf Hitler, "the former house painter, now dictator of Germany," and usually it was implied that Hitler was deserving of contempt for having been a house painter and aspiring to a position so high in contrast.

This is a strange attitude to take in America, where we are proud that a boy can rise from bare feet and overalls to the seats of the mighty.

As a matter of fact, the best thing Hitler ever did was to paint houses.

HOW CITY SCHOOL COST HAS RISEN SINCE 1908-09

TEACHERS' PAY AVERAGES $2250

Figures That Bear on Tax Rate, Now 85 Cents on the $100, to Be Fixed Next Month.

Members of the Board of Education, faced with the annual task of fixing the school tax rate a month hence, have been considering the problems raised by unavoidable and increasing demands for money on one hand and by the shrinkage of revenues on the other hand.

The maximum tax rate for general purposes (that is, excluding the sinking fund tax) may be 85 cents on the $100 valuation, as fixed by vote of the people for a four-year period in 1934. The board may make the 1936 rate lower than this, but some members already have indicated that they did not believe the school system could afford the resultant loss of revenue.

Since 1921 the rate has been 85 cents each year, except for 1934, when it was 84 cents, and 1923, when it was 82 cents. The rate was 75 cents in 1920, 60 cents in 1909-19, 55 cents in 1905-08 and 40 cents for many years theretofore.

Since the fiscal year 1930-31, when the board reached its all-time peak of annual income and expenditures, it has been confronted with the danger of wiping out its annual surplus. This surplus is needed to take care of any excess of annual expenditures over receipts and to pay bills from the start of the fiscal year, July 1, until the major tax remittances come in, about Jan. 1.

Record Since 1908.

A study of the board's finances for the last 27 fiscal years, starting with 1908-09, the first year after the panic of 1907, has been made by the Post-Dispatch from the board's official records.

Annual income from all sources increased 232 per cent and expenditures increased 258 per cent, from 1908-09 to the peak, 1930-31, since when income has decreased 23 per cent and expenditures 35 per cent. This compilation excluded capital accounts based on bond issues for buildings. In the meantime, enrollment of pupils, growing almost constantly, has increased 48 per cent since 1908.

Receipts were $3,992,395 and expenditures $4,250,766 in 1908-09. They grew, respectively, to $13,265,358 and $15,202,795 in 1930-31. School finances did not begin to show the effects of the depression until about two years after the stock market crash of 1929. In the last fiscal year, ending last June 30, receipts were $10,180,859 and expenditures $9,770,036. The totals will not be greatly different in the current fiscal year, nor is it likely that the budget for the coming year will vary greatly from the current one, if no reduction is made in the tax rate.

School expenses reached $5,000,000 in the war year of 1917-18 jumped to $8,000,000 by 1921-22 and rose to $10,000,000 two years later, rising steadily thereafter, and dropping just under $10,000,000 for the first time last year. The rise and fall of income more or less kept pace with this.

General Taxes Bulk of Income.

General taxes on real estate and personal property in the city, to which the general school tax rate applies, always have furnished the bulk of the school income, amounting to about 80 per cent of all revenue in recent years. Their annual yield grew from $2,902,759 in 1908-09 to a peak of $10,081,134 in 1930-31, an increase of 247 per cent, then fell 19 per cent to $8,114,566 in the last year.

Assessed valuation of property, on which general taxes are based, increased annually from $485,704,170 in 1908-09 to a peak of $1,253,610,090 in 1931-32, a rise of 158 per cent. Then it fell 21 per cent, to $978,871,442 last year.

Contributions from State school funds have risen and fallen during the years, starting at $283,243 in 1908-09 and reaching a peak of $810,122 in 1922-23. They receded to the lowest point in the period under review, $170,260, in 1933-34, but have shown a marked increase since, due chiefly to the State's augmented revenue from sales, liquor and income taxes. The State paid the Board of Education $530,201 in the last full year and $428,987 in the first nine months of the current fiscal year, with the expectation that $230,471 more would come from this source in the remaining three months.

Other Sources of Revenue.

The board's revenues have three other main classifications—railroad and public utility taxes, which attained a peak of $782,882 in 1927-28 and were $588,853 last year; merchants' and manufacturers' taxes, which reached a peak of $1,208,094 in 1921-22 and were $682,755 last year, and miscellaneous items, whose peak was $985,713 in 1929-30 and which were only $264,482 last year. The miscellaneous receipts have included rent from real estate owned by the board and income from bonds held as an investment. They were affected adversely by the depression in real estate.

Salaries of teachers and supervisors amounted to only 44 per cent of all the board's expenses in 1908-09, exactly 50 per cent in the following year, 53 per cent the next year and thereafter have never been less than 56 per cent of all school costs. This ratio reached a high mark of 76 per cent in 1920-21 and in the last three fiscal years has been: 1932-33, 75 per cent; 1933-34, 73 per cent; 1934-35, 74 per cent.

The volume of these salaries rose 360 per cent, from $1,895,962 in 1908-09 to the peak of $8,727,328 in 1930-31, then fell 16 per cent to $7,270,044 last year.

Average Salary of Teachers.

The average annual salary of the teaching corps, including the supervisors and high school instructors as well as the grade school teachers, was only $872 in 1908-09, but went up 204 per cent, to a high level of $2655 in 1931-32, then dropped 15 per cent, to $2250 last year. Thus the average weekly income of the members of the teaching corps last year, spread over 12 months, was only $43.26.

The number of teachers in the same period of comparison grew from 1150 to a peak of 3322, an increase of 52 per cent, and now has fallen away slightly to 3222. At the same time, the annual enrollment of pupils has grown steadily, except for two brief setbacks, from 72,452 in 1908-09 to 107,253 at present, an increase of 48 per cent.

That the number of teachers has kept steady pace with the enrollment was shown by the fact that the average number of students per member of the teaching corps has fluctuated only between 32 and 34 for the entire period, except that it dropped to 31 in four years of the '20s and early '30s. The present ratio is 33.

Other Expenditures.

Besides instructional salaries, the board's expenditures have been lumped under two other general headings—permanent outlay for land and buildings, and "all other expenses," the latter item covering textbooks, educational supplies, maintenance, operation, administration and miscellaneous items. "All other expenses," varying considerably in earlier years, reached a peak of $3,870,377 in 1929-30 and were cut to $2,493,098 last year, a drop of 35 per cent from the high level.

In the matter of permanent outlay, or capital investment, the board has long had the traditional policy of erecting new buildings out of general income, but twice has been forced by circumstances to depart from this and issue bonds.

Its capital investment out of general income in the period of nearly 28 years to date has been $27,143,045. Expenditures from bond issues, in addition, have been $3,479,363, making the total capital outlay since 1908 $30,622,408. The expenditures from bond funds were not included in the compilations of general expenditures.

$3,000,000 Bond Issue.

There was a $3,000,000 bond issue voted in 1916, due to financial conditions related to the World War. The proceeds were used in 1917-22. Outstanding bonds of this issue now amount to $1,997,000, against which the sinking fund already holds State and Federal bonds of a face value of $1,136,000. These bonds will be retired in 1937-39. In 1934 there was another bond issue, of $2,000,000, maturing in 1940-54 and augmented by a $578,000 PWA grant. So far only $538,832 of this issue has been expended, but considerable additional work has been undertaken.

Some school officials have concluded that a sinking fund tax rate of 2 cents on the $100 valuation would suffice in 1936, 1937 and 1938. This rate last year was 3 cents, while it was 1 cent in 1934 and no charge was made in the two preceding years.

Since 1932 expenditures for capital outlay from general income have amounted to only $141,649. They were comparatively small during the period of expenditure of the proceeds of the 1916 bonds, but reached a peak of $2,646,989 in 1930-31 as more buildings were required with the growth of enrollment above the 100,000 mark.

Surplus Needed 11 Times.

Annual expenditures from general income have exceeded income in 11 years since 1908, six of these years being within the last decade. The excess was met from the surpluses carried over, as under the working of the law the board may not incur a deficit in its budget.

Principal economies put into effect during the last four years have included: 10 per cent cut in salaries of teachers and all other board employes; trimming of the cost and volume of supplies; reduction of evening school costs; elimination of summer school; lower salary levels for new teachers, and limitation of promotions in the teaching corps.

Receipts in the first nine months of the current fiscal year have come within $383,182 of the budget estimate of income for the whole year. In addition, it has been indicated that reversions of unused appropriations, chiefly from the instruction and supply departments, may exceed $200,000 at the end of this fiscal year. However, this advantage for the surplus probably will be offset to a considerable extent as the result of a large reduction in the real estate assessment and a shrinkage in the volume of delinquent tax payments.

CITY TAX CITATION AGAINST SHOE MACHINE FIRM DROPPED

Board of Equalization Dismisses $100,000 Action as to United Corporation.

A citation of the United Shoe Machinery Corporation, 1427 Olive street, to show cause why it should not be assessed $100,000 on machinery leased to manufacturers in St. Louis was dismissed by the City Board of Equalization after a hearing Friday.

The company's counsel, Douglas Robert, informed the board that the rental contracts required the lessees to pay the taxes, and that the manufacturers' taxes paid to the license collector included an assessment on the machinery. This explanation was accepted by the board and Assessor Ralph Coale.

Hearing of a similar citation of the International Business Machines Corporation, 1610 Locust street, was postponed until next Friday at the company's request.

Congress Split on Issue Of Subsidy for Shipping

the doors of the United States Treasury," Black said recently, "the Copeland bill probably will not satisfy those who have had their hands in the public till so long."

Both the Copeland and the Guffey bills provide a maritime authority to supervise shipping, taking this prerogative away from the Shipping Board Bureau in the Department of Commerce. But Guffey insists that the maritime authority he would set up is empowered to compel construction of at least 30 modern cargo ships every year for seven years, the number required "to bring our merchant marine up to what we should have."

"The other bill," Guffey said of the Copeland measure, "leaves the success or failure of the national program entirely in the hands of the shipping people. If they fail to build the ships and maintain the lines we need, it is just too bad, but nothing can be done about it. We have seen how this has worked out in the past. In spite of the huge subsidies paid under the ocean mail contracts, the private owners in seven years have given us only 29 new ships. My bill proposes that the Government shall build the required number of ships if the private owners fail to do so.

Guffey Explains His Bill.

Guffey's proposed maritime authority would be made up of five members, all of whom would be selected from outside th shipping industry. Copeland would have three men on his authority and there is no restriction in the measure as to their previous shipping connections.

The Guffey bill provides for a total subsidy of 33 1-3 per cent of the cost of construction. Besides the specific subsidies provided in the Copeland bill, Guffey points out, a subsidy up to the full amount of the cost of the vessel may be granted if the President approves. The Guffey measure also specifies a method for determining the actual difference between foreign and domestic construction costs, something which is omitted from the Copeland bill.

"We have had no competent evidence," Guffey says, "that the subsidy need go above 33 1-3 per cent. If it does become necessary to pay more than that percentage after this law has had a fair trial, Congress can increase the amount that may be allowed. But let us wait a while before we open the doors of the treasury vaults too wide."

According to Guffey, his plan does not necessarily call for Government operation. "It is," he says, "private operation under bare boat charters to be awarded on competitive bids.

Government Held the Bag.

"This plan avoids the evils of the managing-operator agreements used by the old shipping board, which resulted in lining the pockets of private operators while the Government held the bag.

"Under the charter plan, the operator must take the chances of profit or loss. If his profits go above 10 per cent the Government recaptures half of them and thus recoups for the aid it gives to the operator when the line is unprofitable.

"This is a new plan. It has not been tried before. But the whole subsidy plan is new. With the safeguards provided in my bill, the plan must be honestly administered and the possible losses to the Government are reduced to a minimum.

"While we are providing handsome subsidies to be enjoyed by private ship operators and owners, we must not fail to take care of the interests of the seamen and officers on these merchant vessels. My bill contains provision for minimum wage and manning scales to be prescribed and administered by the Department of Labor."

The Copeland measure as first made public did not contain such labor provisions. A later version of the bill provided wage scales but specified that they should be administered by the Department of Commerce.

Administration Approval Claimed

When Copeland first gave out his bill, he said that it had administration approval. He intimated that it represented a compromise between the views of Secretary of Commerce Roper, one of Copeland's closest allies, and Postmaster-General Farley. President Roosevelt at his press conference on the same day was asked to comment on Copeland's remark. The President said that all he had done was to tell Roper and Farley to go ahead and settle the shipping issue.

President Roosevelt has been somewhat handicapped in his handling of the shipping issue by the fact of his friendship with Vincent Astor who controls the United States Lines, a subsidiary of the International Mercantile Marine. The latter company and its officers came in for considerable condemnation in the Black ocean mail report. Roosevelt was charged last year with approving a deal for laying up the Leviathan, only American super-liner, which was in effect an additional subsidy to the United States Lines of $1,720,000. Twice during his administration the President has gone on fishing cruises on Astor's yacht, the Nourmahal.

"I've done my duty," Copeland says, "it's up to the President now. If he wants a ship subsidy bill he can give an order and get the bill he wants. Otherwise it is highly improbable that any shipping legislation will be passed at this session."

Certain Senators are of the opinion that Copeland himself, by an indirect maneuver, had the ocean mail subsidy struck out of the Post-office appropriation bill in an effort to force new subsidy legislation. Copeland, of course, rejects this suggestion indignantly.

Maneuvers Keep Clark on Jump.

In his efforts to checkmate Copeland's parliamentary moves, Clark has been kept very busy. On at least one occasion he found it necessary to be in two places at once. Before his committee Copeland was maneuvering to bring out a favorable vote on his bill while Clark was doing all he could to prevent such a vote. At the same time on the Senate floor Senator Tydings (Dem.), Maryland, was presenting a resolution calling on Secretary of Commerce Roper for what would have been, according to Clark, "a stump speech" in favor of the Copeland bill.

The resolution was so worded that Roper would have been required to present only the information which would make the strongest possible case for the subsidy system. Clark objected to the resolution, rushed back to the Senate committee room to denounce the Copeland bill, hurried back again to the Senate when informed that Tydings was once more making an effort to put over the resolution and returned again at the first opportunity to the Commerce Committee room and the battle on the Copeland bill itself.

Clark, too, is a resourceful fighter. If the ship subsidy issue comes to debate on the floor of the Senate, with no word from the President as to his wishes, it will be a grand free-for-all. The battle of words and strategy that will ensue may well delay Congress until the political conventions in June.

SHORTER CATECHISM FOR JURORS EXAMINED

Judge Russell Considers Having Booklet Like That in New York Printed Here.

St. Louis jurors will not have to guess at the meaning of the words "plaintiff" and "defendant," or to puzzle over other courtroom terms and practices, after the jurors' shorter catechism, on the New York model, has been printed for distribution in the courts here.

Judge Harry F. Russell, presiding Judge of the Circuit Court, has obtained a supply of the blue-backed booklets from Frederick O'Byrne, Commissioner of Jurors for the County of New York, and has sent them to lawyers and laymen for inspection. He is considering a request to the Judges in general term to authorize the publication of such a booklet here.

O'Byrne's "Primary Instructions to Jurors," are divided into sections relating to jury duty in civil and criminal trials. In the civil section, the first questions and answers set forth that the ordinary civil case has a plaintiff, or one who is making a claim against another person, and a defendant, or one who is opposing a plaintiff's claim.

The "Q." and "A." paragraphs proceed to tell how the jury should proceed in considering evidence and reaching its decision. One of the longest paragraphs is in reply to the question how a juror may determine what testimony is to be believed. It ends with "the final test in a juror's mind as to whether the witness's story rings true, the deciding of which is partly a matter of sensing, or instinct, or intuition."

In the instructions for jurors in criminal cases, circumstantial evidence is discussed, and reasons are stated why it may be the best kind of evidence. "In the evidence of eye-witnesses," a jurist is quoted as saying, "we are not guaranteed against mistake and falsehood, or distortion by exaggeration or prejudice; but when we are dealing with a number of established facts, if upon arranging, examining and weighing them in our minds, we reach only the conclusion of guilt, the judgment rests upon pillars as substantial and sound as though resting upon the testimony of eye-witnesses."

When the Judges meet in general term next month, Judge Russell said, a proposal would be made that the criminal divisions of Circuit Court be included in the consolidated jury system, which the Judges have decided to install as soon as a large assembly room can be provided. Under this plan, those summoned for jury duty will report in the assembly room, instead of going to the various divisions as at present, and will be assigned by an assignment Judge.

W. Blodgett Priest, president of the Lawyers' Association of St. Louis, has expressed himself as favoring inclusion of the criminal courts in the new system from the outset. He will be invited to attend the Judges' meeting, when some practical obstacles, due partly to the location of the criminal courts in another building than the civil courts, will be discussed.

MIKADO TO LEAD WAR GAMES IN PERSON IN NORTHERN JAPAN

Emperor to Set Precedent by Going to Hokkaido Island in the Fall.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, March 28.—For the first time in history an Emperor of Japan will command the annual maneuvers of his army on the plains of Hokkaido, the big northern island of Japan proper. Emperor Hirohito will take personal supervision of the war games Oct. 1 to 3, after traveling from Yokosuka, the naval base near Tokio, to Muroran, Southern Hokkaido, by warship.

At least two and perhaps three divisions will take part but other details are secret. Newspapers have been forbidden to print anything concerning the maneuvers except what the Government announces.

This is attributed to the tense relation of Japan with Soviet Russia, and the probability that since Hokkaido is the part of the Japanese homeland that lies nearest Russian territory the war games will be interpreted as drill for a possible conflict with the Soviets.

Hokkaido is also the part of Japan proper which would lie first in the path of an American fleet approaching along the great circle route, and military experts think that the coming maneuvers will test the ability of the army's new air bases in that island to stand off planes from the aircraft carriers of a hostile navy.

Government censorship also has been imposed on news of this year's annual navy maneuvers.

FUNERAL OF ADOLPH H. MERCK

Body Cremated as Suicide Note Had Requested.

Funeral services for Adolph Herman Merck of Belleville, 19-year-old University of Missouri freshman, were held yesterday morning at Missouri Crematory, 3211 Sublette avenue, in conformity with his wishes expressed in a note left in his room in Columbia early Friday morning before he shot and killed himself there.

Columbia police declined to reveal the contents of the note, but made public another, also found in Merck's room, in which he gave ill health as his reason for ending his life. Surviving are his mother, widow of Herman F. Merck, Belleville baker, who died two months ago, and a brother, Charles C. Merck.

"Why Keep Them Alive?" Asks Dr. Paul de Krui

the graph was stationary and then in 1934 it began to rise. In that year, according to De Kruif, 5000 children died of it; and this, he is quick to add, despite the fact that it is preventable by an anti-toxin that is available to those who can pay for it.

But the author emphasizes especially rheumatic fever as the outstanding example of a disease induced by poverty. He describes in complete detail the case of one child in Grand Haven, Mich., who died of rheumatic "heartbreak;" the descent of her hard-working parents into poverty; the effort to live on "charity" that was always insufficient; the onset of the disease, the child's patience and fortitude in the face of it and finally her death under circumstances that could scarcely be more tragic. DeKruif makes the most of this story to hammer in his point about the relationship between poverty and disease.

He gives a fascinating account of the search to find the cause and cure of rheumatic fever. Dr. Alvin Coburn of New York has had perhaps the most to do with this search. It was Coburn who, reflecting on the fact that the disease never, or almost never, occurred in the tropics or the sub-tropics took a group of children suffering from "rheumatic heartbreak" in an advanced stage to Puerto Rico. There they lived in an open building just a few yards from the ocean, exposed to wind, damp, rain and sun.

Within six months these ten children were almost entirely recovered. It seemed like a miracle. The streptococcus disappeared from their throats. "Their frantically beating hearts became quiet. Their pains were soothed."

But—in June the money put up by kindly New Yorkers was gone. There was no longer sufficient money to keep these children in Puerto Rico. They were taken back to New York. Before another half year three of the ten were dead of "their final heartbreak."

Still Another Demonstration.

Still another demonstration of the vital importance of diet, sunshine, fresh air and a measure of freedom from filth and infection is cited by DeKruif. In the poorer sections of London rheumatic fever is very prevalent but in the excellent boarding schools to which children from these sections are sent when they are orphaned, there was "next to none of it." Similarly the rheumatic heart sickness was "twenty times as prevalent" in the general wards of the Presbyterian Hospital in New York as it was in the private pavilions.

"At the Pelham Home for heart-sick children," De Kruif writes, "Coburn watched a serious outbreak of the rheumatic terror in rheumatic girls in spite of their having been fed for months on a diet of plenty of Vitamin C, of oranges, of milk, of every kind of vitamin. Yet on the other hand, these stricken girls hadn't been fed that way from the first of their lives.

"And isn't it possible that infant semi-starvation, hidden hunger, malnourishment, in the very beginning of a child's life, is what upsets that child's secret chemistry, marks your child with the rheumatic stigma? Yes or no cannot be said to it, and all you can say is that, even if children have what well-to-do youngsters get from the beginning of their lives, they only rarely get the rheumatic sickne That much is certain."

$5 a Week Not Enough.

The mother of the child who illness and death De Kruif d scribes in such detail tried her be he declares, to feed her family six children on $5 a week. She w intelligent and she read everythi she could get her hands on abo vitamins and diet. But $5, sa De Kruif, was not enough.

The author made a survey of t remarkable study being conduct by the Department of Health Cincinnati, O., to show the mark difference between "the highe economic hundred thousand" a the lowest. It is plain, De Kru writes, "that the are two distin different kinds of Cincinnati. Ju as there are two different Ne Yorks, Chicagos, Bostons or Sa Franciscos."

De Kruif, a tall, vigorous, Ame ican of Dutch descent, found ever where he went the same strikin contrast between the rich, or t well-to-do, and the poor. And a the time his knowledge of moder medicine made him realize that:

"The new nutrition could peop our country with a buoyant, ene getic, mentally alert, strong chil hood beyond the dreams of the o concocters of utopias. But ma nourished wretchedness amon children is widespread, notoriou too terrible for any luckier, we fed human being to face—and g on eating."

So De Kruif wrote his book an filled it full of all the indignatio he could muster and with it not small measure of confession th he had gone so long without seein what he now regards as so obviou He even offers an humble apolog for some of his earlier books, which, he says, he held out a hop of life and health to those wh may never attain it because the lack sufficient money. It is all all a most human book that th medical reporter has written.

"Of Making Many Books"

EDITED BY
JOHN G. NEIHARDT

European Life as Men Knew It

THE DAWN OF A NEW ERA; 1250-1453. By Edward P. Cheyney. (Harper & Brothers, New York.)

REALISM AND NATIONALISM: 1852-1871. By Robert C. Binkley. (Harper & Brothers, New York.)

WITH publication of these volumes, the 20-volume "Rise of Modern Europe," which the House of Harper announced two years ago, is one-fifth completed. If at the outset the high character of the undertaking seemed apparent from the list of distinguished scholars whom the editor, Prof. William L. Langer of Harvard, secured as historians of the various periods, this quality is clearly demonstrated in the four published volumes.

Here is history that is much more than the time-worn narrative of political and military events. Following the example of Arthur M. Schlesinger and his associates in the illuminating "History of American Life" series, the writers of "The Rise of Modern Europe" are setting down history that is as well a carefully written report of the social, economic, religious, scientific and artistic developments of the times with which they deal. Theirs is to be a history of European life as the people in Europe have lived it.

"People of Europe" is used advisedly. For Prof. Langer and his colleagues in this monumental undertaking see Europe as a whole, not as a dozen compartments. Being historians, they know that boundaries are always changing. Being social historians at least part of the time, they know that artificial lines do not confine intellectual and scientific progress.

The earlier volumes, "A Decade of Revolution: 1789-1799," by Crane Brinton of Harvard, and "Reaction and Revolution: 1814-1832," by Frederick B. Artz of Oberlin, covered the French Revolution and the revulsion which came in the wake of the Napoleonic wars. They stand close together, as volumes 12 and 14. Even better do the new studies, volumes 1 and 16, reveal the purposes and values of historical writing of this broad view.

The two-decade span from 1852 to 1871, to take up first the volume by Mr. Binkley, who is a professor at Western Reserve University, saw the unification of Germany and Italy accomplished through the statesmanship of Bismarck and Cavour. Yet the author finds so much else in the period that these victories for nationalism are required to share the limelight with developments that have been ignored for the most part by other historians of the same years.

Finding science crowding philosophy into the background as the second half of the century opens, Prof. Binkley starts with the work of the scientists and the beginnings of the popularization of science. To him an international convention of chemists at Karlsruhe in 1860, to clear up the question of chemical notation when the whole atomic weight concept was at stake, is entitled to its place in the record along with a conference of diplomats. Similarly, the appearance in 1859 of Samuel Smiles' book, "Self-Help," whose doctrine of success urged workers to win fortunes for themselves, becomes historically important.

The time of Pasteur and Lister, of the "Origin of Species" and realization that filth in English cities was related to disease, it was as well the period of the first world boom and the first world crisis. Concession-hunting and freedom of business enterprise; railway expansion over the world; the piling up of public debts, largely to provide profits for promoters; new credit sources, soaring prices and higher wages; speculation in everything and then the crash of 1856-57—how familiar it all sounds to a generation which has passed through the post-war years and debacle of 1929!

Is "federative polity" the hope in the Europe of today, especially in the Balkans? Prof. Binkley reports it counted out by nationalism at the close of his period. How far shall we go in the matter of neutrality? The author's account of neutral rights in the Crimean War shows what comes when trade and finance control neutrality policy. Clearly, here is a book which helps us, after three-quarters of a century, to see our problems in better perspective.

"The Dawn of a New Era," by Dr. Cheyney, of the University of Pennsylvania, who at 75 is one of the venerables among American historians, is a rapid survey of a much longer period. The introductory volume of the series, it traces the rise of forces that have come down to the present from the transition period during which the medieval era gave way.

Trade expands and wealth increases. Industry grows and banking becomes a business. With the rise of the middle class comes the development of popular government. There are the Hundred Years War, Joan of Arc, the beginning of Russian greatness; there are also heresy's spread, John Wyclif and John Hus, Dante, Boccaccio and Petrarch and Cosimo de Medici's princely patronage of painting which ushered in a new era for the world of art.

Both books are brightly written and the extensive bibliographical essays are as lively as the books themselves. Editor and publishers are to be commended on the handsome design. The front end pages of each volume carry a map of Europe as the period opened and the back end pages a map showing the changes wrought by the end of the period. Contemporary illustrations reflect the care which characterizes this highly significant enterprise in the writing of history.

SINGING IN THE WILDERNESS: A SALUTE TO JOHN JAMES AUDUBON. By Donald Culross Peattie. (G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.)

THIS book is like a cleansing, refreshing breath from the outdoors, so thoroughly does the author know the woods and fields and skies and the creatures of nature which people them. The love story of John and Lucy Audubon set against the American wilderness, it is as well a prose poem on our trees and birds and streams.

The author, who lives at Glenview, Ill., is now at work on a collection of biographical sketches of the great naturalists. Those who meet Audubon through him will look forward eagerly to knowing Asa Gray, Agassiz and the rest under the same favorable auspices.

A Needed Discussion

WHY DEMOCRACY? By Jay William Hudson. (D. Appleton-Century Co., New York.)

THE author's answer to his questioning title might be summed up in this way: Democracy, although inefficient and blundering, offers the best guarantee of the rights of man—those that give each man an opportunity to develop the best that is in him.

Many a conversation through the lean depression years left the impression that any government benevolent in intent was a good government. Some of us argued for more autocracy, some less; some for Fascism, some for Socialism; but all wanted to be assured of the honest intent of the governing power.

Now, in calmer mood, it is time to consider some of Prof. Hudson's arguments, such as: (1) "That there are certain human rights . . . which demand democracy as the best condition of their fulfilment"; (2) that "Rights are the conditions necessary to . . . self-realization"; and (3) "if a god were deliberately inventing a way by which men . . . would engage their indeterminable powers in the interest of their rational and social self-development, what better invention could he present men than responsible political deliberation and decision?"

To the argument that democracy tends to hold exceptional individuals to a dead level, Hudson responds, "so do all autocracies." To the argument that the average man is incompetent to decide his political destinies, he answers, "so are most experts." And he holds that the masses, on the whole, prove to be pretty keen judges of persons, although they may not always be clear as to what all the shouting means.

Seeing beyond practical voting politics to a broader democracy of human beings, he argues, "Until a people understands something of the ethical motives of its democracy, it possesses no sure standard of political progress."

He concludes with a statement of 10 principles, set down as a creed for democracy. Two are presented here as subjects for the readers' reflection:

"We believe that the welfare of all men is a genuine part of the welfare of each man.

" . . . That all the rights which democracy gives a man are also obligations whose betrayal destroys his rights."

On and On Like the Trains

MAIN LINE WEST. By Paul Horgan. (Harper & Brothers, New York.)

PITCHED on a basic theme of the tendency of Americans to go ever in quest of limitless horizons, posed against a background of man's battle with unseen adversaries, "Main Line West" somehow fails to realize the avowed purposes of its author.

Excellent early characterization of a rural family, subsequent vivid bits of dramatic description, fail to redeem a basic plot that is shopworn, or to make real improbable final episodes.

After all, the story of a traveling salesman, with a roving eye, who is finally captured by a country girl only to desert her, leaving her to support their son, is hardly material for a present day social theme of significance. The mother, by dint of operating a restaurant, makes a livelihood, finally discovers unsuspected powers of prayer, becomes a traveling evangelist.

The son, whose formative experiences are sympathetically drawn, especially a tense episode of an encounter with a bullying tramp, travels with his mother, witnesses a dramatically narrated but implausible episode when a mob, inflamed by war hysteria, stones her because she prayed for peace. Shortly afterwards the mother dies on a train from the effects of the attack. The boy is taken in by some kindly townspeople—only to bring the book to a close by stealing away and hopping a freight.

It is quite true, as the author points out, that "the trains would go on, carrying America from place to place." The same might be said with equal depth of any country. But to this reviewer at least, his plot, like the trains, goes on, carrying the reader from place to place but failing to arrive anywhere.

Augustan Romance

GOLDEN PEACOCK. By Gertrude Atherton. (Houghton Mifflin Co., Boston.)

HUMAN nature has not changed in 1900 years, according to Gertrude Atherton, who, in her latest novel, plays skittles with the imposing names of the "golden age of Augustus." Love, intrigue, fashions, the depression and the dole were as important to the Romans as they are to us.

Mrs. Atherton begins her story with a political plot against Augustus, and casts into it all the great names that come to hand. The story is told in headlong fashion by Pomponia, daughter of Pomponidus, a man of consular rank, who, with his wife, is murdered as part of the plot that was to deprive Augustus of Egypt. Pomponia is a clever and beautiful debutante of 18, and with the aid of Horace and Maecenas, patron of the arts, is able to foil the villains and marry the handsome young soldier to whom she is betrothed.

Historically the book is most accurate. Unfortunately the author has not been able to breathe the spark of life into the great poets of the Augustan age. They revolve about Pomponia like painted figures. Horace is a fatuous old bachelor rather than the kindly, ripe soul who preferred life on the farm in the shadow of Mount Soracte and near his Bandusian spring to the hectic political intrigues of Rome. Virgil is a sickly shadow, and Catullus, the greatest lyric poet that Rome knew, is dismissed by Pomponia as writing silly verse to an old woman.

Mrs. Atherton has managed, however, to make Roman manners and customs seem contemporary by linking them with life as we know it today. Nor does she overburden the book with scholarly Latin terms.

A Russian Novel

DARKNESS AND DAWN. By Alexei Tolstoi. (Longmans, Green & Co., New York.)

EVEN though it may not be said that "Darkness and Dawn" is in the great tradition of the Russian novel, most readers are likely to agree that it deserves a place on the shelves not far from the works of the great Leo Tolstoi, to whom the author is only distantly related.

It is an historical novel, dealing with the World War and depicting the Russian people struggling in bewilderment and pain for some common consciousness of their meaning and worth. Spengler has suggested that history should be written in such books as "Quentin Durward." "Darkness and Dawn" presents history somewhat as Spengler would have it, always emphasizing the human values involved.

One naturally expects a certain bias in the author of a Russian "best seller," a devotion to economic determinism or some glorification of the class-conscious worker. It is surprising, therefore, to find the author developing his theme through the love stories of two sisters, well-bred girls of the upper middle class.

The younger, Daria Bulavin, after shaking off an infatuation for the leader of the futurists, realizes her love for Ivan Ilyich, an engineer. Their love for each other suffers from the great upheaval all about them, but it remains an anchorage. Daria's sister, Ekaterina, a social leader in her husband's official set, finally finds a haven in her love for Capt. Vadim Petrovich, a boyhood sweetheart. Ivan Ilyich, bewildered as are all the many characters in these stirring scenes, has yet a firm touchstone: "Whatever I do is right, if it is done for love." Capt. Roshin, a former white officer, who is moved by hate of the rabble, carries with him Ekaterina's admonition to understand before he goes out to kill.

The narrative and descriptive powers of the author compel the reader to share the harrowing experiences of the Russians through the riots, the February and October revolutions, and finally the hydra-headed civil war. Through all the excitement, the reader feels the equable temper of the author who sees historical necessity in the events, and instead of commenting on the changing scene, projects in action the intellectuals as ineffectual soldiers, statesmen, and revolutionaries; the bourgeoisie, with their acquisitiveness and evasion of responsibility; the workers as recognizing the futility of war; and below all these, the shaggy muzhik, arousing from his deep sleep with century-old desires, a demand for justice and for a future in which there is something to eat.

The drama of the book is slow in getting under way, but from the February riots to the very end, the rapid action holds the reader so closely that there is a feeling of disappointment when peace is declared.

Bridging an Old Gap

THE RETURN TO RELIGION. By Henry C. Link, Ph. D. (The Macmillan Co., New York.)

DURING the nineteenth century it became a common conviction among intellectuals, as well as an unconsidered but overwhelming persuasion in a large portion of the unthinking millions, that Science had at last discredited Religion. The power of this persuasion is in no way better attested than by the numerous attempts that have been made by religionists themselves to reconcile Religion with Science; and a great deal of more or less ingenious rationalizing has been applied to the task. Commonly the effort involved a symbolical interpretation of Genesis designed to fit the current scientific conception of the universe.

But Science, triumphant by reason of its enormously successful technology, went serenely about its business of explaining everything in terms of matter-in-motion. If there was any anxious adjusting to be done, Religion, it seemed, would have to do it.

It now begins to appear that the old antagonism grew, as most antagonisms must, out of faulty definitions. Science, having taken for its exclusive province of reality the field of sense perception, naturally considered no values but those which pertained to that particular section of the entire scale of humanly realizable values. Religion, on the other hand, had taken as its exclusive province that portion of the scale which is described as spiritual—the realm of immaterial values that are concerned with man's higher relation to his fellows and to the cosmos conceived somehow as divinely harmonious.

To put the matter more simply, materialistic Science was insisting upon the exclusive reality of an "objective" world, with reason as its sole dependable means of knowing. Religion was concerned with a "subjective" realm of attitude, of direct intuitive experience, commonly described as "mystical," wherein reason was without authority.

The difficulty lay in the ancient philosophical problem of finding a "tertium quid," a third something that would bridge the gap of ignorance between the "objective" and "subjective" conceptions of the undivided universe of man's experience.

It is hardly to the discredit of Religion that Science itself seems destined to build that bridge. Nor could it possibly have crossed the gap until it had entered, in its systematic fashion, upon the exploration of the realm of psychology.

How this has been undertaken, and with what significance for mankind, should be clear to anyone who will give a few hours of sympathetic attention to the revealing book here listed.

Dr. Link is a practicing psychiatrist and director of the Psychological Service Center in New York City. By describing many cases that have come under his observation, he convincingly illustrates his thesis, to wit: that the central idea in psychiatry is identical with that of essential religion, regardless of special creeds or of race and time. From the earliest religious seer to the latest, the vital teaching, the essence of all "mystical vision" however expressed, has been the same: He who would live within and for himself, hoping thus to save himself, is inevitably self-defeated. He who passionately yearns to be "right" with as much of the human and cosmic process as he can conceive; he who finds joy in throwing himself away upon something greater than himself shall truly save himself. A poet has said it in two lines as follows:

> "I know in my heart, in the sun-quickened blossoming soul of me,
> This something called self is a part, but the world is the whole of me."

Evidently, Dr. Link would agree to define religion as "a binding back" of the self to the whole of which one is an integral part; the habitual sacrifice of self-regard for a larger impersonal regard. And what, in keeping with this view, is the achievement of "holiness," but a realization of one's vital relation to the largest scheme that one can conceive? It is an achievement that in the practice of psychiatry, as well as in the practice of essential religion, results in a harmonious, healthy personality—in the peace and the power that inevitably grow out of such harmony.

Dr. Link explains the ancient conception of being "born again" by pointing out that the world of infancy and early childhood is a world existing exclusively for the needs and desires of the self. To become truly adult, then, is the spiritual process of escaping the limitations of that infantile world through "rebirth" into a vitalizing consciousness of the larger identity.

Surely it is a matter of profound significance that the idea here considered has become more and more conspicuous in our literature of recent years—particularly since 1929. It is not uncommon in works on scientific theory; and it is central in two of the most vital novels of recent years—"The Magnificent Obsession" and "The Last Puritan." This is in keeping with a main trend in world thought on the higher, prophetic levels—away from the materialistic and individualistic conceptions, which, in the ultimate view, are only varying aspects of a single attitude.

There is so much light in Dr. Link's very practical discussion, that one hesitates to question what certainly appears to be a serious philosophical inconsistency in his remarks regarding social organization.

Makes History Live

PATRIOTIC LADY. By Marjorie Bowen. (D. Appleton-Century Co., New York.)

THIS chronicle of a courtesan of the eighteenth century is depicted through a deft delineation of the career of Emma Hart, a country girl, known to posterity as Lady Hamilton, wife of Sir William Hamilton, one time minister to the Court of Naples.

But the story is not only the narrative of a country girl who made good by being bad—even to immortalization on a Romney canvas—but it is set against an historical background which reproduces with animated fidelity the manners and modes of the times.

The book does not fall into the category of literature made realistic for the sake of debunking. Instead, it deals in terms of simple appraisal, attempts a faithful depiction of life as it was lived, without fear or favor.

Lord Horatio Nelson, for instance, the victor of Trafalgar, is described as a man with an overweening ambition. Loath to accord credit to subordinates, he is portrayed as a physical weakling without magnanimity.

Happily free from pedantic platitudes, the authoress presents spicy details of a dissolute court, compares the gayety of the southern court with the frigid atmosphere of austere conventionality encompassing the English court of Queen Charlotte.

In making history live again—an accomplishment in itself—episodes are recounted in swift-moving, virile fashion. Scant sympathy is wasted on Lady Hamilton, not because of her morals or rather lack of them, but because she repudiates the heritage of her lowly origin by contributing her influence towards the destruction of the Neapolitan patriots who cherished a premature dream of a republic. As for Lord Hamilton, he is characterized as a senile dilettante, unskilled in diplomacy, actuated primarily by the buxom person of the—Patriotic Lady.

Mass Self-Pity

THE ETERNAL ROAD. A Drama in Four Parts. By Franz Werfel. English Version by Ludwig Lewisohn. (The Viking Press, New York.)

LIKE its predecessor, the historical novel, "The Forty Days of Musa Dagh," this play is in effect a dissertation on race persecution, obviously motivated by sympathy for victims of German anti-Semitism. It is unrestrained mass self-pity, sublimated, if at all, only by a notion that divinely imposed agony is virtuous and noble in itself. Those who question this will get no quarter from Mr. Werfel. His self-righteous pessimism is thrust forward with messianic assurance.

Structurally, "The Eternal Road" is rather spectacle than literary drama, though its prose is interspersed with verse. The playwright has sought by double action to convey an eternity of persecution. The two plots (if they are plots) proceed on parallel lines—first, the experience of a Jewish congregation on the night of a pogrom; second, a succession of Biblical episodes with the same theme. A note of maudlin misery precedes the action and persists monotonously to the end. Any possibility of triumph is eliminated. The argument is a racial persecution complex.

Technically, Werfel's determination to cram several historic cycles into a play and Lewisohn's choice of a linguistic pastiche that travesties the noble prose-poetry of the King James version discount a claim to artistic merit. One contrasts this treatment with the Murray translations of Greek tragedy and realizes that subject matter, pregnant with tragic implications, has been mishandled by an author and translator who let their surging emotions run away with them.

HISTORICAL SURVEY OF GERMAN LITERATURE. By Sol Liptzin. (Prentice-Hall, Inc., New York.)

ALTHOUGH tracing the development of German literature from the beginning, the author is chiefly concerned with those works which are "actually read in the English-speaking world," and most of the book, therefore, is given over to authors from Goethe to the present day.

Sees Design In Human Story

THE BATTLEGROUND—Syria and Palestine; by Hilaire Belloc. (J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia.)

THE foundation for "The Battleground" is laid in a characteristically sardonic preface of less than 200 words.

"This book needs a brief apology," says Belloc. "The writer has not only taken for granted that there is a God, but also design in the universe and in the story of Mankind. He has affirmed a special design in the story of Syria and particularly of Israel, reaching a climax at the Crucifixion. He even seems to imply the Divinity of his Savior."

No emotionally absorbing story of the clash of great personalities is that which follows, but rather a careful—and sometimes slightly dull—account of the history of Syria and Palestine and of the influences—providential or fortuitous—that set the stage for the birth and death of Christ and the spread of Christianity through the world.

It is back to the dawn of the country's recorded history that the author turns, beginning his narration in the age of Abraham, with a close study of the influences of mountain, desert and sea on its first inhabitants. From that point on, the story is of continuous wars, through which the little group of descendants of Abraham preserved their racial and religious entity, their devotion to their one God. Oppressed by Egypt, carried into captivity in Babylon, returned by the conquering Persians, overcome by the Greeks and refined by their western culture, they remained a stout-hearted unit, producing towering figures from Abraham, through Judas Maccabeus, down to Christ.

After the account of the Crucifixion the story turns to the spread of Christianity and its final approval by Constantine. The rise of Mohammedanism is traced, and for its phenomenal spread the author is baffled for explanation, since he finds no good in the creed. The book ends with a brief account of the Crusades and of the failure of the Christian countries to wrest the Holy Land from the Moslem.

All in all, "The Battleground" is history in the long view, an unusually capable though somewhat academic attempt to establish the existence of a scheme of events working as though providentially directed to a specific end.

Dogs—and Men

THE MIND OF THE DOG. By F. J. J. Buytendijk. (Houghton Mifflin Co., Boston.)

ANY dog-lover who has wondered at times just what goes on in the consciousness of his most worshipful friend should find this book enthralling. Not that it may be assumed to give a final answer. The author himself, a distinguished scientist and professor of physiology at the University of Groningen, would be the first to insist that if "final" answers be humanly possible, the mode of inquiry called scientific will hardly yield them.

After discussing the instincts of the dog and offering tentative explanations thereof, the matter of sense perception is considered, many ingenious experiments are described and their results set forth.

But it is the author's remarks, after his strictly scientific discussion is ended, that give the book its really vital significance. Therein he reaches a conclusion not formerly to be admitted by the scientist as pertinent to the search for truth and understanding.

The author is aware that no amount of factual data, however scientifically arrived at, can give a complete picture of the living truth. Always what most matters will be lacking — the spirit of the undivided whole. And all the facts that men may ever learn about a dog's behavior, and the way his instincts and his senses work, must fail to yield the essential dogness of the dog his master knows and loves.

"What can experiment and observation furnish?" asks this physiologist. "They may reveal phenomena," he answers, "discover and arrange rules and laws. But from each fact, from every experiment, a way leads to the depths of life itself. Science does not take that path. . . . But in the purity of its own experience, the spirit knows that love alone makes one clear-sighted. . . . Science itself must recognize this respectfully, if she would be true to her devotion to clarity and insight, and go forward, step by step, in her difficult task, holding fast a firm belief in the unity of life."

And so, after all, the book is not exclusively about Rover! J. G. N.

THE CATALYST CLUB. By George Dyer. (Charles Scribner's Sons.)

IT IS a convention among book reviewers, as unequivocal as an opening two-bid at bridge, not to give the reader any real inside on mystery stories. Union rules permit only a titillating hint, an expository sentence or two. In the reverse then: This is a tale of the strange murder of the high-flying and naughty Brenda Challis, found on the lawn in her bathing suit near the swimming pool, oddly mutilated. It is a fish story. Conan Doyle probably would have disposed of the case in 15 or 20 pages. George Dyer takes 288, actual count. It'll do, it'll do.

One Who Truly Lived

SOUTH RIDING. By Winifred Holtby. (The Macmillan Co., New York.)

SIGNIFICANT writing is a product of fusion of author and material. It can hardly be disputed now, after "South Riding," that Winifred Holtby and her native Yorkshire were curiously and inseparably one. Hence significance and even greatness for "South Riding." Her theme is humanity, society, the cross-weave of individual antics, passions and emotions, and, though the setting is rural England, the values carry over to anywhere. Here is sound and sympathetic work.

It is shocking to think the author barely lived to finish it. She di last year at the age of 37. But mo of her must be here, and that consoling.

Miss Holtby, in a dedication her mother, states her basic ide Local government is a bulwark throw between ourselves and po ers that are beyond us; its functio ing makes a focus of all the co flicting elements of the communi The development of the idea co cerns people rather than gove ment or politics. Bewildered Youth

THE LOST GENERATION. By Maxine Davis. (The Macmillan Co., New York.)

SEEKING to learn the effects of the depression on the youth of our land, the author, an experienced newspaper woman, set out in a second-hand flivver to talk to the boys and girls themselves, and to those who come into most intimate contact with their problems.

She regarded herself as a reporter on assignment, but she has proved to be a great deal more than that. Gathering bits of the experiences of youth, at filling stations, on campuses, at home and in the five-and-ten, in language piquant, profane or serious, she has set down her findings in vigorous and colorful fashion.

For all its sombreness, the book is not without a note of hopefulness. It is as though a whole section of our social fabric had been blown into the air by the explosions of the past few years, and had come down in a new pattern. Miss Davis found an army of youth, caught between the years when the policy of business was to rehire old employes, and the period in which the practice has changed to that of taking on the freshest crop of youngsters out of school. These in-betweens are a bewildered group, drifting into apathy. They have debunked the "honesty, industry and integrity" formula for success; they do not seem to be very closely attached to the church; their drinking is sometimes appalling; movies are their dope; they are forming their own concepts of marital relations. But they cling with pathetic gallantry to their forlorn hope. Here and there they are helping themselves with brilliant ingenuity.

Some communities are doing a definitely practical job in assisting these youngsters to find themselves. Two agencies that win special praise are the Y. W. C. A. and the CCC camps. The latter, the author believes, probably should be made a permanent part of our educational system, which needs a good deal of remodeling to tie it to present day life. Of overwhelming importance is the necessity for people everywhere to band themselves together in a determined effort to bring the youth and the job together where any jobs are available, and thus endeavor to save our weary young people from becoming the prey of such Pied Pipers as have arisen in other lands.

How Hate Fails

STORM TOSSED. By Daniel S. Lord, S. J. (The Queen's Work, St. Louis.)

IN a storm-tossed world, as Father Lord views it, there is a clear call for somebody to do something. The Communists are trying to do something and the Catholics are trying to do something. The trouble with the Communists is that they do not have the truth that they need, and the trouble with the Catholics is that they do not have the zeal that they need. Perhaps if the Catholics had more zeal they could carry more truth to the Communists and to all who share their zeal but also share their lack of truth. Regardless of whether the Communists, in their zeal, will welcome truth, there is need, as Father Lord sees it, that those who have the truth may be spurred to such zeal that social and industrial reforms may be accomplished through peaceful evolution. To such a purpose are directed the efforts of the Social Action group of Catholics and to such a consummation is "Storm Tossed" dedicated, in the form of a play as produced recently at St. Louis University, and in its present novel form.

Hate, in the belief of the earnest author, will not do what needs to be done; and he proves it with his vivid story. Love, he says, will do it if it gets a chance, but it does not get much of a chance in life or in the pages of this book. Hate, in the story, has its day, with Capitalism and Communism battling to the hurt of each. Con Fey, capitalist, and his striking workmen, dominated by Communists, come out of the battle hating each other more than ever. Love, looking on and trying to do something about it, suffers most. The tempest is not stilled, but there is, at the story's end, a prayer and a new-born purpose that love may have its day and uproot the causes of hate that frustrate love in a storm-tossed world.

It may well be that 1935 will the date used by historians of future as that in which the wo crisis entered its acute stage. in 1935 Hitler threw off the V sailles Treaty's shackles an nounced the rearmament of G many. TREASURE EXPRESS. By Neill C. Wilson. (The Macmillan Co., New York.)

THIS history of Wells-Fargo, the express and banking agent of the West of the stage coach and El Dorado, is punctuated with brief accounts of famous express and mail robberies and yarns of the Concord coach. The treasure expresses started in California to carry the gold of the Forty Niners to New York and bring back mail. The author traces the rivalry between Adams & Co. and Wells-Fargo, with the clipper ship races around Cape Horn, their couriers traveling the paddle-wheel river boats inland and their horse races over the trails. Adams went under in a run in 1855.

From that time to the end of the century Wells-Fargo dominated the field. If competitors were not beaten they were absorbed. Starting in San Francisco, the service spread over the Mother Lode of California and followed to the Comstock Lode of Virginia City and on to Deadwood and Tombstone.

In 1858 Wells-Fargo opened the Overland Mail, first transcontinental stage line, which traveled from St. Louis to San Francisco in 24 days, five miles an hour, and cost $200 a passenger. The Overland Mail closed its last way station after three years and gave way to the Pony Express, which furnished San Francisco with news that was "just nine days old." The Pony Express, charging $5 for a half ounce of mail, lasted 18 months. It was followed by the Central Overland Stage and finally by the railroad in 1868. Through each step Wells-Fargo and its couriers dominated the express.

Most of the stories are twice told tales, but "Treasure Express" is a good catalogue of famous robberies and a good introduction to the days when the West was really wild.

THE BARONESS. By Ernst Wiechert. (W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., New York.)

THOSE who care for stories that depend for holding power less on plot than on a cumulative mood, more on subtle intimation than on statement, should find this strikingly original novel to their liking.

After nineteen soul-destroying years in an African penal colony, Michael, a German soldier, who had been reported among the dead, wanders back to the home of his youth on the estate of a widowed Baroness, where his aged peasant father, broken by the loss of his sons in the Great War and living in a fantastic world of his own creation, receives him serenely as a ghost. . . . All the others had come back, and why not Michael? They had often sat there on the bench beside the stove a little while and then left quickly, but never through the door as Michael did, and never did they stay so long. If Michael said that he was still among the living, did not all the others say as much? And Michael, humoring the old man in his comforting delusion, plays the ghost. Indeed he seems to himself a nearer neighbor to the dead than to the living. He becomes the gamekeeper of the Baroness, whom much sorrow has made wise; and it is the developing relationship between aristocrat and peasant that makes the tale.

"The Baroness" is said to have been the most successful novel of the past year in Germany.

WORLD WITHOUT FAITH. By John Beevers. (Harper & Bros., New York.)

BY way of building the background for a statement of his "personal philosophy," John Beevers, sometime literary editor of the London Time and Tide, here discusses with unquestionable brilliance current ideas in literature, art and politics. It is said that he wrote the book at the age of 23, a statement scarcely to be questioned in view of his "philosophy," expressed as follows: "I ask for a world without faith—where men and women live full and free private lives uncramped by the pressure of any belief in anything outside themselves as human beings!" But solipsism—and what else is indicated?—may hardly be called philosophy, which is "a way of seeing things whole." The book has been enthusiastically praised in England. It is of some importance for the reason that it clearly expresses the anarchic cultural mood of the day. Even so, it would be far more impressive if the author were aware that, by implication, he both defends and attacks his own view.

VOYAGE TO GALAPAGOS. By William Albert Robinson. (Harcourt, Brace & Co., New York.)

THE author of "10,000 Leagues Over the Sea," makes another voyage through the West Indies, along the coast of South America to the Lobo Islands, and then back up to the Galapagos, and presents a retouched log of his voyage, which ended with the "mercy flight" of the United States Navy when he was stricken with appendicitis literally 1000 miles from nowhere.

The Svaap, a 32-foot ketch, set sail from Staten Island with a crew of three, the author, his wife and his cousin. It dodged hurricanes, was fought over by various port authorities, was dropped in the jungle by a Central American river in flood, stalled its motor when needed most in the Humboldt current and finally was abandoned in the Galapagos when its master was hurried away on a destroyer. No albatross was killed, but the luck of the Ancient Mariner followed the adventurers.

The incoherent news stories about the Empress of the Galapagos and the "mercy flight" are explained in detail and can now be filed in the morgue.

The book is a tale of supercharged adventure told simply with dramatic suspense. The illustrations and maps are good.

"Hit and Miss" Presidential Lottery

Who O'Brien Is

ROBERT LINCOLN O'BRIEN, chairman of the Federal Tariff Commission, has made a life-long study of two subjects—government and journalism. A year after his graduation from Harvard in 1891, he became personal secretary to Grover Cleveland, then Democratic nominee for the Presidency. He continued with President Cleveland in this capacity until 1895, when he became Washington correspondent of the Boston Transcript, a position he held until 1906. He left Washington to become editor of the Transcript, and four years later he was selected president of the company publishing the Morning Boston Herald and the Evening Boston Traveler. For 18 years he was editor of the Herald.

President Hoover named him chairman of the Federal Tariff Commission in 1931, and this honor was continued by President Roosevelt last year. His appointment to the commission will expire in June.

was in the chair, refused to recognize him when he tried to stop the presidential lightning at the Chicago convention of 1870. Garfield was nominally for John Sherman of Ohio and had been the Lieutenant in the House of Blaine.

"Blaine was the leader of the 'half-breeds' and Roscoe Conklin was leader of the 'stalwarts,' who thought there was another presidential victory in Grant. Throughout the balloting Garfield had received one vote, but on the thirty-fourth ballot Wisconsin broke for him, presumably because the convention was tired of Conklin's strutting. Garfield rose to make a point of order but Hoar refused to recognize him, believing he had risen to withdraw his name. Two ballots later he was nominated by a combination of Sherman and Blaine delegates.

"This same convention named the next President when it selected Chester A. Arthur as vice-president. Arthur had been a Republican boss of New York City and had been collector of the port until ousted by Hayes, who could not stand for his spoilsman tactics. The convention leaders sent a note to Conklin that the vice-presidential nomination was his if he wanted it, but Conklin, in disgust, showed it to several of his colleagues, among them Arthur.

"Arthur said that he would like to have the honor, as a vindication of his actions while collector. Conklin agreed, and Arthur was nominated. At Garfield's assassination he became President. Thus accidents and inside maneuvers determine the choice of President."

Buffalo's "Veto Mayor."

O'Brien is an authority on the life of Cleveland, and although he was closely associated with him, admits that accidents helped him on his way to the White House in 1884.

"At 45," says O'Brien, "Cleveland was not well known even in his own town of Buffalo. Three years later he was in the White House.

"I cannot vouch for the truth of this story, which was written by a well-known political writer of that day, but some of the circumstances certainly existed:

"There was a factional row in the Republican ranks in Buffalo and one group of leaders approached the Democratic leaders with the proposition that if the Democrats would list six possible Democratic candidates for Mayor, they would select one and support him in the election.

"The story goes on that the Democratic leaders had no trouble in finding five candidates but were stumped on the sixth, when someone mentioned Cleveland, who had been sheriff of Erie County. Cleveland's name was added, and when the Republicans made their selection, they had objections to all except him. With the combined support of the Democrats and dissatisfield Republicans he was elected Mayor of Buffalo.

"In this position he earned the name of the 'Veto Mayor,' which lead to his election to the Governorship. As Governor, Tammany Hall lined up against him, which gave rise to the famous declaration that aided in his nomination for the Presidency—'We love him for the enemies he has made'."

Out and in Again.

Cleveland, however, was not a politician, and he helped defeat himself when he sent to Congress his famous tariff message, beginning: "It is a condition which confronts us, not a theory." The protected industries turned against him and selected their own "safe" candidate, Benjamin Harrison, grandson of former President William Henry Harrison.

The Eastern Republicans had wanted to nominate Blaine but the "Plumed Knight" had had his fill of presidential politics. He cabled from Scotland, "Take Harrison," and his advice was followed.

Money, not chance or the people's will, decided the election. Senator Matt Quay sent word from Republican headquarters to "fry the fat out of the protected industries."

Harrison was an unattractive candidate, and even Gen. Lew Wallace, his campaign biographer and author of "Ben-Hur," could not make him a romantic figure. The tariff barons, however, elected him. Four years later, the consumers, bitter at the high prices caused by the McKinley tariff, re-elected Cleveland.

McKinley Well Qualified.

O'Brien believes that McKinley was one of the best qualified Presidents although he was defeated for Congress in 1890 and was actually picked by Mark Hanna as a "safe" candidate. The alarm at Bryan's free silver platform did much to put McKinley in the White House.

At the 1900 convention, at which McKinley was nominated for re-election, another political accident occurred. Theodore Roosevelt as Governor of New York had aroused the bitter antagonism of "Boss" Platt; as Assistant Secretary of the Navy he had been in disfavor with McKinley. Platt insisted that Roosevelt should be "shelved" in the vice-presidency. Roosevelt's own choice was a second term as Governor. Platt won, and on McKinley's assassination, T. R., popular with the masses and unpopular with the industrial and political leaders, became President.

"T. R.," O'Brien says, "was never in high favor in Washington, either as Commissioner of Civil Service or Assistant Secretary of the Navy. But he was marked at an early age for a popular reputation. When I was a student at Harvard, he came to make an address, and although then in his early thirties, if that old, he had already made a name for himself."

Roosevelt's popularity with the people was so strong that he was able to name his successor, Taft. He told the Republican leaders, "If you don't take Taft, you'll have to take me." The people had little choice in 1908 and Taft was elected. It was a different story in 1912, when the candidates were Taft, Wilson and Roosevelt.

Wilson's Election.

Wilson had been selected Governor of New Jersey by a group of Democratic bosses who thought he would "play ball" with them. They had not taken the trouble to read his books to learn his political philosophy. He was his own Governor, and as it later turned out, his own President. But what put him in the White House, after winning the Democratic nomination over Speaker Champ Clark of Missouri, was the Taft-Roosevelt feud in the Republican party.

O'Brien, as an authority on New England, has a wealth of annecdotes about Calvin Coolidge, who was selected as a Republican running mate for Harding in 1920. Harding, as is well known, was selected by a group of Republican leaders at 2 a. m. in a room at the Blackstone Hotel in Chicago, after the late Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania by long distance telephone had given his approval. The details of this selection were printed by the Post-Dispatch in 1928 in an article based on a letter to Harding by the late John T. King, a Republican national committeeman for Connecticut.

Chance played a great part in the selection of a running mate for Harding. Three men, the late Gen. Wood, Senator Hiram Johnson of California and Senator Irving I. Lenroot of Wisconsin, refused the honor as beneath their dignity. The convention was tired out by the wrangling between Lowden, Johnson and Wood for the Presidency, and rushed through the nomination of Coolidge for Vice-President. Coolidge had had his lucky break in the Boston police strike, and the reputation he got from it, deservedly or not, was responsible for his nomination. At that time he was not known outside of Massachusetts either for dry humor or economy.

"When Calvin Coolidge was in the Massachusetts State Senate," O'Brien says, "a Vermont life insurance company issued a pamphlet listing 1000 famous sons of Vermont. Although that list contained the names of many locally known Vermont merchants, it did not include the name of Coolidge. His early life did not indicate that he had much of a future. He was one of the most fortunate Presidents. Have you ever stopped to think what Herbert Hoover's reputation would be today, if he had been elected President in 1920 instead of Harding?"

O'Brien agrees with former Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri that Hoover was extremely fortunate in being in London at the outbreak of the World War. It was then that Hoover got his first reputation as the man able to handle an emergency, although Hawes who was in London at the same time, insists that other Americans did as much to repatriate the stranded travelers as Hoover. The other Americans, according to Hawes, had to return home. One of Hoover's homes was in London, and he remained in charge of the work and was mentioned frequently in the news cables. After that he was put in charge of Belgian relief work and later became American Food Administrator.

In the commission for the relief of Belgium, several of Hoover's young lieutenants advocated Hoover for President, but the movement did not get under way until he was Food Administrator. There can be little doubt that he was working for the Presidency when he was in the Harding and Coolidge cabinets.

Franklin Roosevelt.

O'Brien tells what may be an apocryphal story to show that Franklin D. Roosevelt, like Hoover, for years aimed at the White House. This story is to the effect that shortly after Franklin D. and Eleanor Roosevelt were married they came to visit Mrs. Roosevelt's uncle at the White House, President Theodore Roosevelt. The then President was busily engaged and he detailed one of the aids to show his young relatives about Washington. To make conversation, the aid asked, "Mr. Roosevelt, what future have you mapped out for yourself?"

To this query, the reply was, "I think I should like to have a career of public service, like Eleanor's uncle Theodore in the White House." The aid, from whom O'Brien got the story, thought the young man naive and "soft."

Whether the story is true or untrue, later events bore out the theme. Franklin Roosevelt served at Albany, was Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and was a candidate for the vice-presidency in 1920. Luck, chance, fate or what you will, entered his life in 1928, however, when Alfred E. Smith insisted over the long distance phone that he would have a better chance for the Presidency if Franklin D. Roosevelt ran for Governor of New York. Roosevelt reluctantly accepted the invitation and carried New York, while Smith failed. Probably from then on, and certainly after his reelection in 1930, he was an active candidate for the Presidency.

Charles Hay on Landon.

What about the future Presidents? It is too early to predict what will happen at the Republican convention, but Charles M. Hay of St. Louis, now a special Assistant Attorney-General in Washington, is trying to make out that Landon is an accident. To be sure, he was elected Governor of Kansas in 1930 over Woodring because Dr. Brinkley of goat gland fame was the third candidate, but Hay insists that the Kansas Coolidge would be unknown had it not been for the New Deal.

Speaking at Akron this week, the former St. Louis City Counselor, facetiously declared that Landon's candidacy was unconstitutional.

"My reasoning is this," Hay said. "Like father, like son. Landon's candidacy is the creation of the New Deal. The operation of that act (the Agricultural Adjustment Act) in Kansas enabled Kansas farmers to pay their taxes. The payment of taxes enabled Landon to balance the budget and thereafter become a presidential possibility. The AAA has been declared unconstitutional — ergo, Landon's candidacy is unconstitutional."

Getting away from Hay's frivolous constitutional reasoning, the curious voter might wonder if Landon would have been heard from if the New Deal had not put one or two hundred millions of dollars into Kansas.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

DRAMA-MUSIC-MOVIES

Stage Season Closes With 14 Weeks' Total

Winter of 1935-36 Best of Last Three; St. Louis Off the Track for Several Major Shows; Prospects for Next Fall.

WITH the final curtain last night on "Three Men On a Horse" at the American Theater, the St. Louis legitimate season of 1935-36 came to a close. Although not living up to its rosiest prospects, for spring especially, it did run up 13 weeks' playing time at the American, plus a week of "The Great Waltz" at the Municipal Auditorium.

It was, therefore, the best season of the last three (1934-35 had a little over 10 weeks), although comparison with the highly active winter of 1927-28, when there were 30 weeks of entertainment at the American alone, with the Shubert-Rialto not yet surrendered to the cinema, shows the ravages wrought in the theater by a disturbed national economy.

So far as the box-office response to the 12 "productions" of 1935-36 is concerned, six shows had "good" business, two "fair," two merited the classification of "big," and two found the going pretty difficult. The six in the first group were "Tobacco Road" (for three weeks), "The Great Waltz," "The Old Maid," "Personal Appearance," "Cyrano de Bergerac" and Cornelia Otis Skinner. The Gilbert-Sullivan revivals of the Civic Light Opera Co. and Ethel Barrymore in "The Constant Wife" had only passable houses. "Dodsworth" and the first production of "Three Men On a Horse" were the two that packed them in. Nazimova's revival of "Ghosts" ran into cold weather and slumped; last week's No. 3 company of "Three Men On a Horse" likewise was a disappointment, without consolation of bad weather.

The American does have one more show, but it is the de luxe screen attraction, "The Great Ziegfeld," set for April 12 and thereafter.

CONTRARY to the situation in 1934-35, St. Louis did not get all the important shows which were out on the road, by any means. "Porgy and Bess," the George Gershwin folk opera, came as far West as Chicago but found no great amount of trade and went back East; the Lunt-Fontanne version of "The Taming of the Shrew," closed to permit its stars to enter a new play, "Idiot's Delight"; "Anything Goes," one of the few touring musicals, folded up in competition with the picture version; "Boy Meets Girl" is still in Chicago. Ruth Draper would have come to St. Louis except that a competitor in one-woman showmanship, Cornelia Otis Skinner, was booked at about the same time.

Both of America's "No. 1" actresses, Katharine Cornell and Helen Hayes, chose to arrive on Broadway by brief road tours. Miss Cornell started her "St. Joan" in Detroit and headed Eastward; Miss Hayes went to New York from Washington with "Victoria Regina."

Next fall will likely see as much a shortage of musicals as this year. The current "Ziegfeld Follies" and George White's "Scandals" are possibilities, of course, but "Jubilee" has closed. "Jumbo" will travel in a circus tent and Laurence Schwab's "May Wine" is not expected to cover the out-country.

Dramatic chances rely on "Boy Meets Girl," "The Children's Hour," "Dead End," "End of Summer," "First Lady," "Call It a Day," "Night of January 16," "Pride and Prejudice," "Saint Joan," "Victoria Regina," "Idiot's Delight" and possibly one or two others, with the usual repertories that spring up each season.

As usual, a big percentage of plays have been sold to picture companies, which makes touring doubtful. Increasingly, however, it is becoming the custom to make contracts which hold picture versions back until plays have had a chance on the road. Such was the case this season with "Dodsworth" and "Three Men on a Horse."

Picture production of these two within the next year will demonstrate whether Hollywood can afford to wait two or three seasons before delivering its story properties to the film public. The answer will be an important one for the road theater all over the country.

Symphony Chorus With Orchestra In Verdi Requiem

THE Verdi "Manzoni" Requiem will be performed for the first times by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra and the Symphony Chorus of 200 voices, at regular concerts on Friday afternoon and Saturday evening at the Municipal Opera House. Vladimir Golschmann will conduct.

Vocal soloists are Jeanette Vreeland, soprano who has sung with the chorus before, and three newcomers, Rose Bampton, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera; Dan Gridley, American tenor, and Keith Falkner, noted English bass-baritone.

The Requiem Mass, long established as a classic for orchestra and chorus, was written by Verdi in memory of his friend, Allessandro Manzoni, Italian poet and novelist.

The work has been under rehearsal by the Symphony Chorus for nearly a year. The chorus, directed by William B. Heyne, was heard first in Beethoven's Ninth Symphony last spring.

One more group of concerts remains in the orchestra's season. On Thursday afternoon, April 9, and Saturday evening, April 11, it will offer an all-orchestral program featuring Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

This week's program in detail:

Requiem and Kyrie
  Soprano, mezzo-soprano, tenor, bass and chorus.
Dies irae (Day of Anger)
  Four solo parts and chorus.
a—Dies irae (Day of Anger) chorus.
b—Tuba mirum (Hark! the Trumpet) chorus.
c—Liber scriptus (Now the Record) Mezzo-soprano and chorus.
d—Quid sum, miser! (What Affliction) Soprano, mezzo-soprano and tenor.
e—Rex tremendae (King of Glories) Quartet and chorus.
f—Recordare (Ah! Remember) Soprano and mezzo-soprano.
g—Ingemisco (Sadly groaning, guilty feeling) Solo tenor.
h—Confutatis (From the Accursed) Bass solo.
i—Lacrymosa (Ah! what weeping!) Quartet and chorus.
Domine Jesu (Oh, Lord God)
  Offertory for soprano, mezzo-soprano, tenor and bass
Sanctus (Holy)
  Fugue for Two Choirs
Agnus Dei (Lamb of God)
  Soprano, mezzo-soprano and chorus
Lux aeterna (Light Eternal)
  Mezzo-soprano, tenor and bass
Libera me (Lord, deliver my soul)
  Solo for soprano, chorus and final fugue.

Municipal Opera Decides on Three More 1936 Revivals

THREE more shows for the 1936 Municipal Opera repertory were announced yesterday. They are revivals of "The Bohemian Girl," which was played in 1919, 1924 and 1929; "The Red Mill," done in 1926 and 1927, and "No, No, Nannette," from the 1928 season.

A new departure will be tried in this year's production of "The Bohemian Girl." Going out for a special cast of grand opera headliners, the opera will attempt to make the Balfe work the musical triumph of the season. Both the Victor Herbert and Vincent Youmans shows will be brought up to date, a task which the Forest Park organization will turn over this year to hardened New York play doctors.

Previously announced for this summer in the park are "Sons O' Guns," "A Connecticut Yankee" and "Oh, Boy!", all new, with revivals of "The New Moon," "The Merry Widow" and "The Three Musketeers."

"Garden of Allah" Selected.

The desert country near Yuma, Ariz., has been selected, after color tests, as the locale for the forthcoming screen production of "The Garden of Allah," which will star Marlene Dietrich.

Young Man as Old Favorite

Freddie Bartholomew an Ideal "Fauntleroy"

By COLVIN McPHERSON.

IN ALL the 40 years that boy prodigies and kittenish sweethearts of stage and screen have struggled into plush pants to play Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett's darling little Ceddie, it is doubtful if ever there has been a more honest portrayal than that of Master Freddie Bartholomew, the reigning "Little Lord Fauntleroy," at Loew's. With the angelic headgear stowed away, and not even a bleached blonde, he makes the American heir to the Dorincourt fief a dignified young gentleman for whom top hat and the best British manners are a natural fit. Considering his mature sensibilities, I suppose it would not have been beyond him to play his mama, "Dearest," as well, or even the old Earl of Dorincourt, but the two other members of that beloved trio are safely entrusted to Dolores Costello Barrymore and C. Aubrey Smith. So the sentimental thrills remain. Little Ceddie, living peacefully in Brooklyn in 1885, has his happy existence disturbed by the advent of the English solicitor, or "mouth-piece" as they would say in Brooklyn today, for the old Earl. Ceddie must go to England and take over his rights to the title, even though that means that "Dearest" has to be in the doghouse, as 1936 would put it, by having long suffered the old Earl's displeasure. The customers' delight comes as Ceddie softens the heart and countenance of his gruff old grandfather, bringing a better understanding everywhere. A certain mustiness clings to "Little Lord Fauntleroy" for the painstaking efforts of production have rebuilt an antiquated era. What is to be enjoyed by today's audience is in the personality of young Bartholomew, and was not put there by "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Although C. Aubrey Smith gives the lad a run for his camera space, it seems to be the young English genius' lot to evoke heart-warming approval always. It is his show.

In "Cock O' the Walk," color cartoon, Loew's show another of Walt Disney's delightful novelties. The top comedy scene, of two barnyard fowl doing the "Carioca," is matchless.

Desire.

WHAT have come to be known as "Lubitsch touches" abound in the Marlene Dietrich-Gary Cooper encounter at the Orpheum. That means that the slyly suggestive humor of "The Smiling Lieutenant," "Trouble in Paradise," "Design for Living" and the other personally-supervised productions of Herr Ernst, is the characteristic mirth this time. Moreover, the two headliners know the pace and the emphasis. Marlene is one of those gorgeous creatures who raise the rates on theft insurance. She has just lifted the most famous pearls in Paris and is scooting over into Spain, when she meets Gary, and hides the pearls in his pocket, to escape detection. As a matter of business, she must get them back, so has to be with Gary for several reels. Gary, in search of a vacation and what he refers to several times as "senoritas," is hers for the taking. Eventually, after Marlene has sung a husky song inquiring "Can It Be That Tonight Is the Night?" love is practically inescapable, and the screen play author's only problems are to get the pearls back to Paris, and have everybody 'fess up about everything. It may be revealed that those situations are handled adroitly and Marlene is finally a fraulein very sorry for her sins. Squaring things with the law being practically no task these days, she and Cooper can take the same boat for America. And all's well. Backing up the production is a fanciful background, and a Continental atmosphere. Ernest Cossart, Alan Mowbray and John Halliday, who would add polish to anybody's screen play, are in the supporting cast.

Sutter's Gold.

IN the life of Gen. Johann Augustus Sutter, California's early land baron, Hollywood had, and still has, abundant material for one of its richest American dramas. The facts themselves, as set down in biography, history book and encyclopedia, give license for more blood and thunder than the most intrepid screen dramatist would allow himself to invent. "Sutter's Gold," at the Fox, however, seems to be willing to take the details at their face value, reproducing them without any great amount of research or insight. It is, therefore, a spectacular but rather tedious tale of the West, without dramatic unity. Sutter is followed from Switzerland to New York, then to Missouri (he lived for a time near St. Louis), on to Vancouver, Hawaii, and California. A street car strike in New York, revelry in the "Sandwich Islands," brutality on the high seas, mutiny, the erection of the inland empire, battles with the Mexicans, the gold rush which cost Sutter his realm, scenes of early San Francisco and of Washington, D. C., are reproduced without stint. Yet realism nowhere seems to be the guiding principle. Edward Arnold, as Sutter, is immaculate from start to finish. Things always happen at propitious moments. A blond child grows up to be definitely brunette. Arnold seems well-chosen for the energetic Swiss and Binnie Barnes lends a lovely grace as an English lady of fortune who was attracted by his opulence. Yet recollection of "Silver Dollar," which depicted the rise and fall of the Tabor fortunes, will show how far "Sutter's Gold" missed its mark.

Programmed with "Sutter's Gold" is "The House of a Thousand Candles," a spy melodrama with Irving Pichel as the brains and Phillips Holmes the bright young Britisher who brings his doom.

The Walking Dead.

BORIS KARLOFF turns detective in "The Walking Dead" at the Shubert. After being shunted over into the other world by several thousand volts of electricity, he is restored to life by Edmund Gween, scientist, and sets out to "get" the men who caused his unjust execution. When that is done, and he has been shot to pieces by one of them, he is willing to die and stay dead. The Shubert's concurrent offering is "Silly Billies," in which Wheeler and Woolsey join the gold rush. A sample of the humor is Woolsey's statement, as a dentist, "I don't have to practice. I'm perfect."

The Morals of Marcus.

IN the Grand Opera House feature, Lupe Velez escapes from a harem and persuades Ian Hunter, a scientist, that she should be taken to England and educated. They learn to be fond of each other, living in the same house, but his English amanuensis, as he calls her, breaks Lupe's heart with a wicked falsehood. So Lupe flees to quiet comfort of a Parisian night club and is singing a lullaby for the trade when Ian tracks here down, and explains. Vaudeville also is presented.

Jeanette MacDonald In Variety of Songs

Jeanette MacDonald has a heavy vocal assignment for her next picture, "San Francisco," in which she, Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy are the stars. She will sing the "Jewel Song" from "Faust," the "Prison Trio" with Mephistopheles and Faust; an aria from "Traviata;" "Love Me and the World Is Mine," "A Heart That Is Free," Gounod's "Ave Maria," "Nearer My God to Thee" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." "San Francisco" depicts the flourishing days of the Barbary Coast, with Gable the boss of the main resort.

"First Legion" at Auditorium.

"The First Legion," drama of the lives of Jesuits, will be played at the Municipal Auditorium Opera House tonight, Tuesday afternoon and Tuesday night, by St. Luke's Players, for the benefit of Father Dempsey's charities. William Dorbin, a professional actor, heads the cast.

Jesse James as Film Material.

Jesse James, celebrated train and bank robber of the old days in the Middle West, will be pictured on the screen in a big melodramatic Western, an idea of Darryl F. Zanuck.

Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper in "Desire," Orpheum.

Mummers to Present "I Pledge Allegiance"

"I Pledge Allegiance," by Martin B. Hasse and Robert Hahnel, will have its premiere presentations on Friday and Saturday evenings by the Mummers, at the Wednesday Club, Taylor avenue and Westminster place. Described as "an experimental drama of reconstruction," "I Pledge Allegiance" is laid in 1919 and tells the story of Erich Stainer, violin virtuoso, who returns from the war apparently uninjured but conscious that his skill is seriously impaired.

A new production scheme is employed, in that the 13 scenes are played without intermission and merge into each other. A complete musical score supplements the action. Hasse, one of the authors, heads the cast, which includes Genevieve Albers, Olga Becker, Anita Moser, George Chopin and Wesley Gore. Willard Holland directed.

Chamber Music Concert Next Sunday

The third concert in the St. Louis Chamber Music Society's second series will be heard next Sunday evening at the St. Louis Woman's Club, 4600 Lindell boulevard. The program consists of three string quartets to be played by the regular ensemble under the direction of Scipione Guidi. They are:

Corinne Frederick Recital.

Corinne Frederick's second Beethoven sonata recital, which has been twice postponed, will take place at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in the Crystal Room at Hotel Coronado. The series, which will include the performance of 16 of the 32 sonatas, is scheduled to continue with recitals on April 8 and 22. Tomorrow's program consists of Sonatas Opus 7, Opus 10, Numbers 1, 2 and 3, and Opus 13. The last is the well-known Sonata Pathetique.

Quadrangle Club Comedy.

"Come and Get It," a two-act musical comedy, will be presented by the Quadrangle Club at Washington University on Friday and Saturday nights, at the old Mary Institute building, Lake and Waterman avenues. Dorothy Warfield and Alfred Fleischer are authors of the book. Irene Jennings and Fleischer wrote the music.

Will Shakespeare Gets A Publicity "Build-Up"

English Playwright to Be Introduced Personally to Movie Audiences in One-Reel Film Heralding "Romeo and Juliet."

BY H. H. NIEMEYER.

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.

IF William Shakespeare, when he was writing and producing plays and turning a hand, now and then, at painting scenery, to say nothing of acting and watching the box office, had a press agent it is not a matter of record. But that has been fixed up. He has one now. Irving Thalberg, who is producing "Romeo and Juliet" on a big scale, thinks the modern movie fans don't know who Shakespeare was, so he has turned the Bard's history over to the publicity department and has told the boys to shoot the works. To properly introduce Mr. S. to the 40-cent cash customers an elaborate one-reeler is being made around Shakespeare himself, and to prove that he was a regular guy and a strictly up-to-date writer, his love life will be gone into rather sharply, with the usual Hollywood improvements. Also it will be made to appear that his plays were not the tragedies the literati, outside the film lot walls, have always believed them to be. "Romeo and Juliet" was, it seems, strictly a "Boy Meets Girl" affair with gangster trimmings.

This film will be released, not as an advertising trailer, but as a regulation short play and will be seen in the Loew theaters around the country weeks before "Romeo and Juliet" is shown. Incidentally, "Romeo and Juliet" is nearing completion on the M-G-M lot with Norma Shearer and Leslie Howard—the first blond Romeo—pretty well worn out by their long task. Just as soon as the picture is finished Mr. Howard will sail for New York by way of the Panama Canal. He says he is not going to leave his stateroom on the entire trip.

"Playing Romeo is strenuous work," Howard says. "I have had to engage in a lot of sword fights, scale high walls, climb rope ladders and do a lot of other things I never did before. I need a rest and I'm going to get it."

ALL the old time writers are coming into their own again. For one thing, they get no royalty, although the caged dramatists of the studios are paid handsomely enough to bring the masterpieces of Shakespeare, Thackeray, Dickens et al. "up to date." Now the film factories are reading up on Robert Louis Stevenson and "Suicide Club"; his stories of an organization designed solely for the advancement of murder and sudden death, went into production at M.-G.-M. during the past week. The screen play was made from several of Stevenson's yarns: "The Story of the Young Man With the Cream Tarts," "The Story of the Physician and the Saratoga Trunk," and "The Adventure in the Hansom Cab," which will be brought up to modern times as a taxi. E. E. Paramore, former St. Louisan, combined the stories into the play and Robert Montgomery, Rosalind Russell and Frank Morgan have the leading roles.

SPEAKING of old-timers the studios are beginning to do something about the men and women who used to shine pretty brightly in the early days of the films. The Academy's belated recognition of D. W. Griffith started the thing off and an even dozen of former stars have just been given contracts at a single studio. All of them have really been in pictures ever since they faded from the electric lights. Been playing bit parts and doing extra work, but now they are to become "character actors," assured of pretty continuous work. The list of fortunate ones include Florence Lawrence, who was the lovely "Biograph Girl" 25 or so years ago; Helene Chadwick, one of Sam Goldwyn's early best bets; good old Flora Finch, who goes back some 30 years when she was a comedy star with the late John Bunny; King Baggot, Lillian Rich, Naomi Childers, Mahlon Hamilton, Barbara Bedford and one or two others.

They were youngsters when you first saw them on the screen. Character actors now—and glad to get the work.

HEARD Along Hollywood Boulevard—Today being little Virginia Weidler's birthday she began work on her first starring picture, "The Good for Nothing" . . . Wolfe Hopper, son of the late DeWolfe Hopper, is working as an extra in "Florida Special," his first try at acting . . . Fred Brennan, author and St. Louisan, is doing the script for "The Imperfect Husband" which Paramount will produce with Mary Boland and Charlie Ruggles . . . "The Princess and the Pauper" will be Miriam Hopkins' next . . . Cary Grant, who has been in the hospital for a minor operation, and Mary Brian are likely to furnish the next film wedding story. They are deep in the romancing stage now . . . Clark Gable and Spencer Tracy are both growing beards for their roles in "San Francisco." The fans and autograph hunters fail to recognize them on the Boulevard . . . Greta Garbo has written her secretary that she will arrive back in America in about two weeks . . . Anne Nagel, a young actress from Boston is being hailed as a find by Warners and has stepped right into the lead in "Two Gun Buckaroo," a Nick Foran western. As a matter of fact Miss Nagel is not new at the game. Fox had her under contract and she played small parts in several pictures including "The Country Doctor."

PLAYING Their Way Back to HEALTH

New Technique Followed by Nurses in a Chicago Children's Hospital Built on the Idea That a Happy Child Gets Well Faster Than an Unhappy One.

A cupboard full of toys for sick children from which each child makes a selection in the Children's Memorial Hospital.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

CHICAGO.

IN the Children's Memorial Hospital here they play a trick on the patients. It's an exceedingly pleasant and helpful trick, lacking in any real element of deceit—nothing like concealing castor oil under a coating of jam or telling a youngster squirming before a camera to watch the bird come out. It's merely having the children help themselves get well by doing something they don't know is for that purpose. That something is play.

Singly or in groups, up and about or stretched in bed, all the patients in Children's Memorial Hospital play who are able to enjoy it. They occupy their hands and minds with simple toys and play simple games such as "Farmer in the Dell" or "I Sent a Letter" or whatever is suited to age and interest. And the way the children take to this unusual hospital activity has proved to the doctors of this institution that sick children need play as much as well ones do, and are benefited by it. Play makes children happy, and happiness speeds recovery. Play, therefore, is an established part of the therapy at Children's Memorial Hospital. It is not, explains Miss Anne Smith, director of play at the hospital—"the Play Lady" to the children—merely entertainment, or "something tacked on after the physical care has been attended to," but an integral part of the treatment.

The hospital staff finds that play is almost as necessary for the child's development as food, drink and physical care.

Of course, that applies to well children as well as sick ones, but the well children manage to get the necessary play, while those in hospitals are generally deprived of it. Even at home, a sick child may be missing out on play, especially if he is a child in a home where no one has time or knows how to play with him.

The play is arranged to suit the various children and their physical condition, just as medicines and other treatment are prescribed, and the nurses at the hospital are taught play technique just as they are taught how to take temperatures, give baths and otherwise care for their small patients.

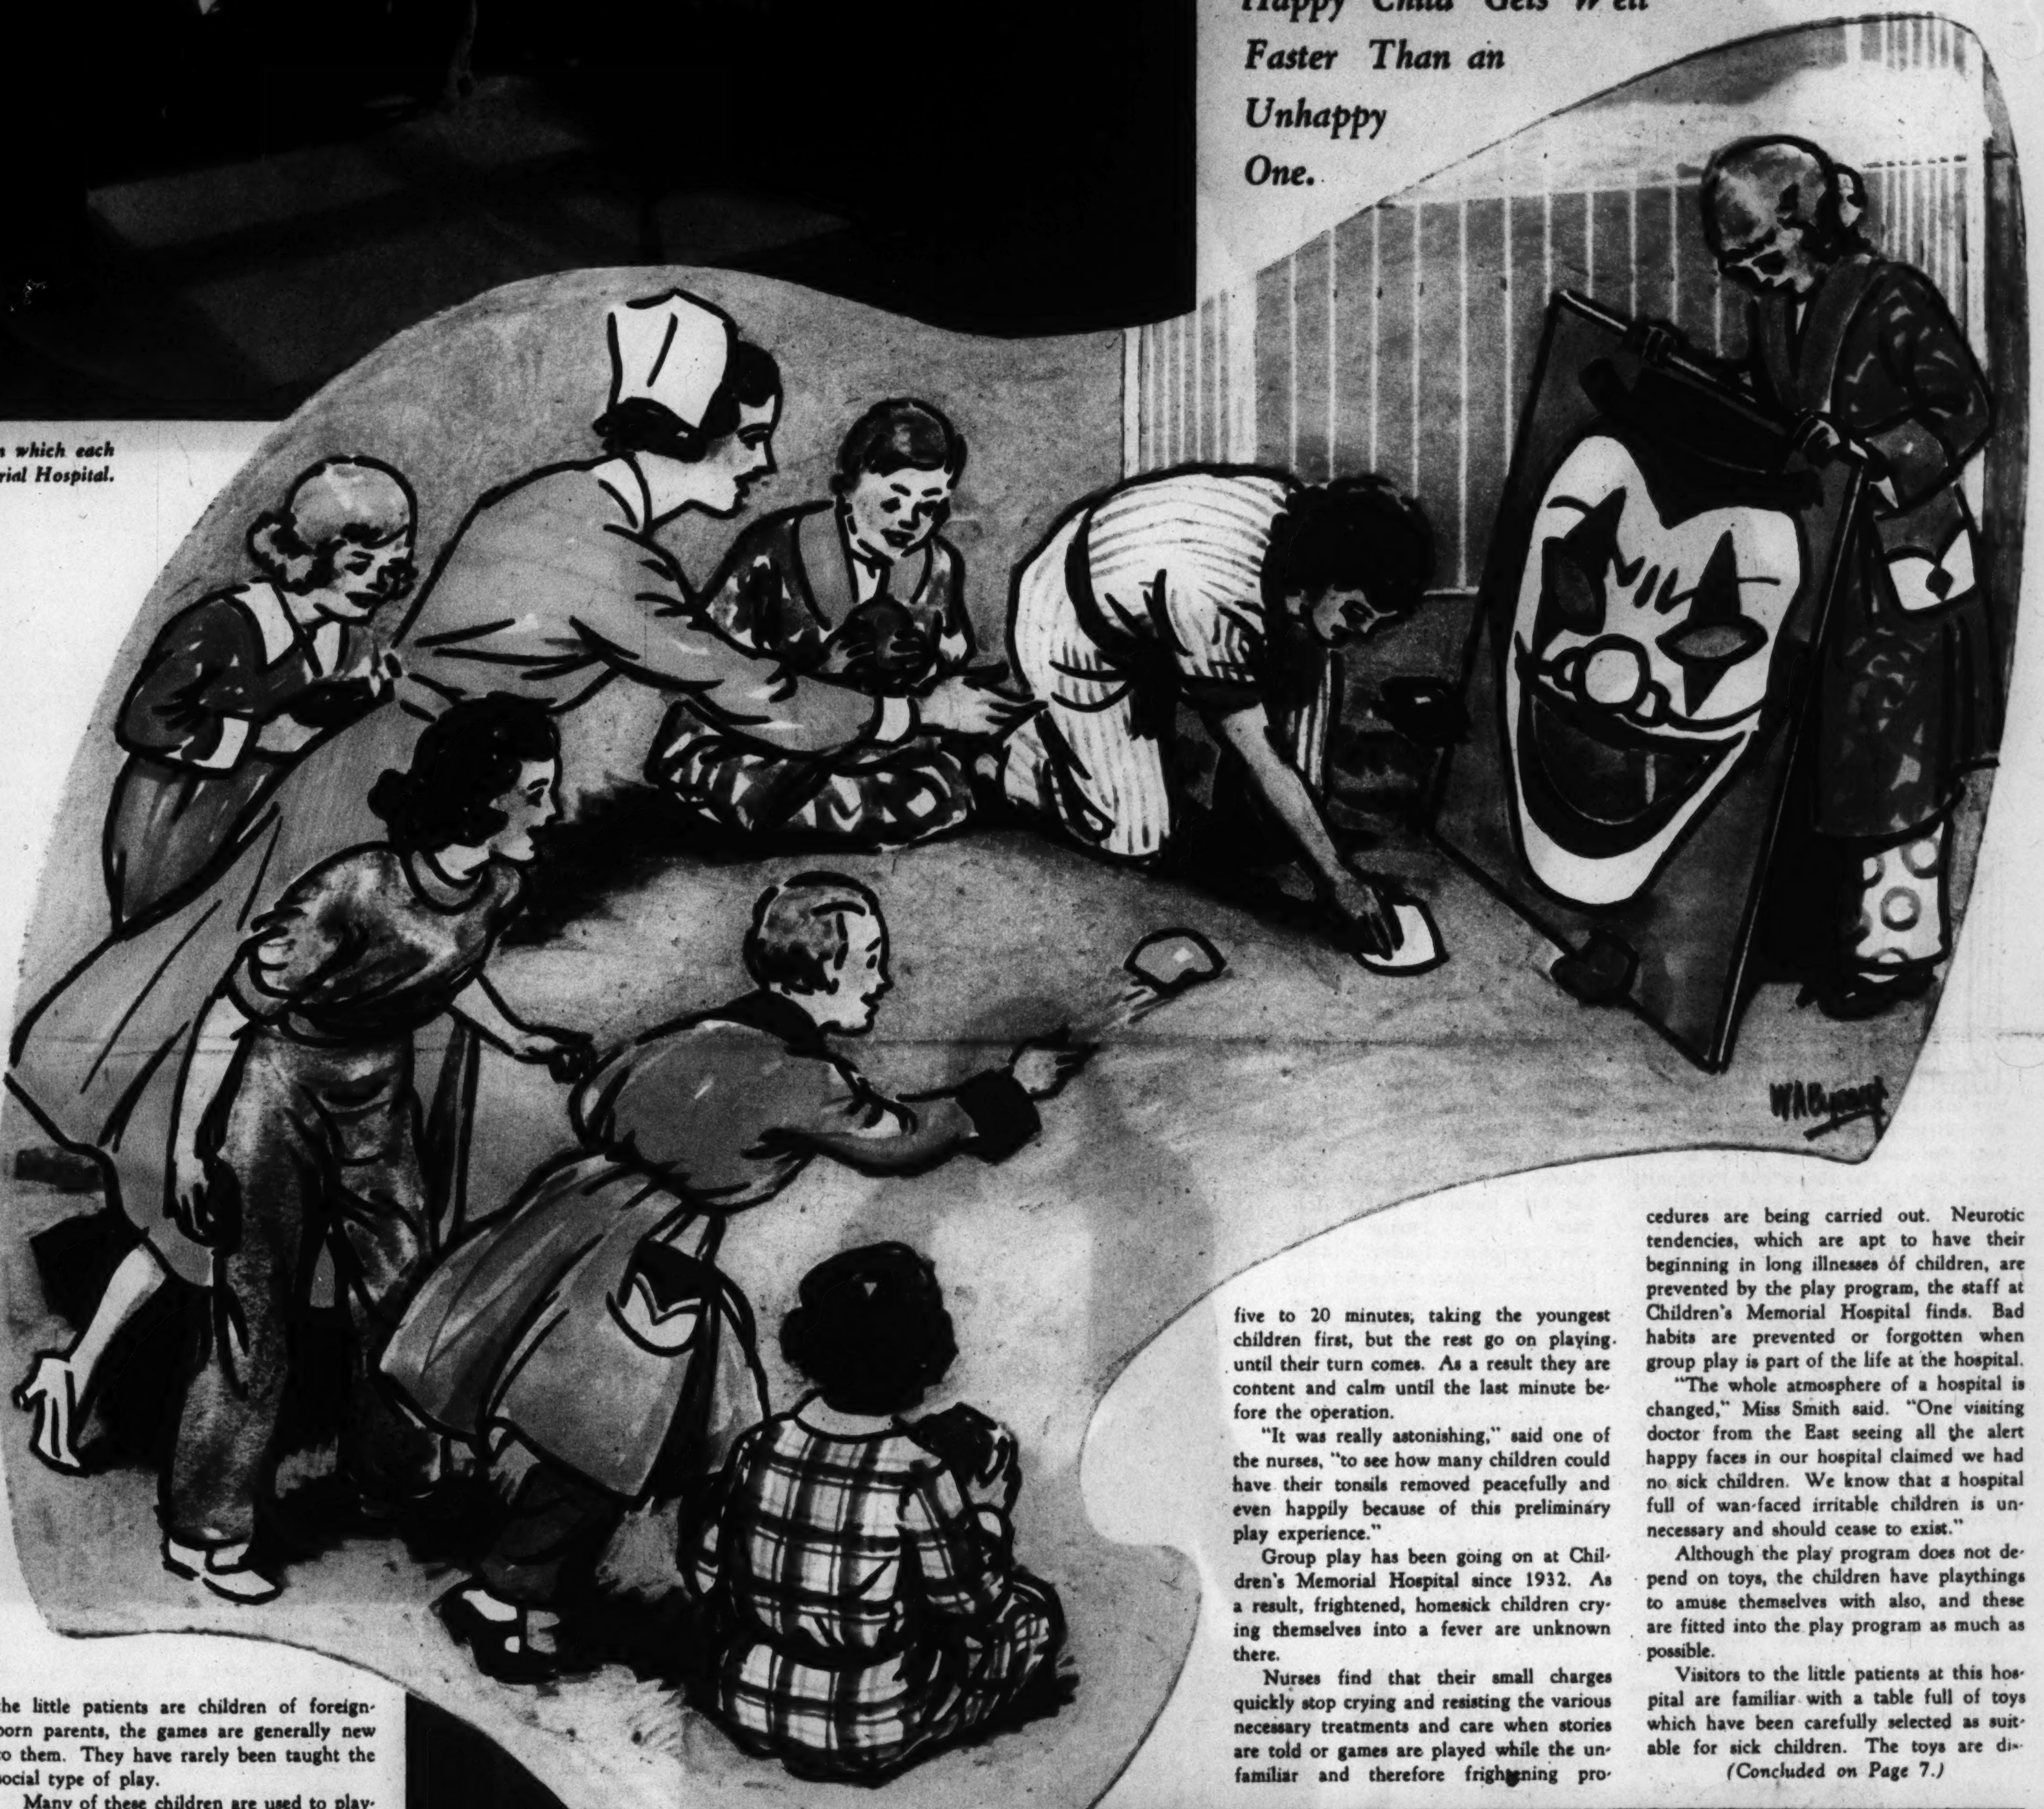
Most of the young women entering the hospital's School for Pediatric Nursing have never had any contact with children. The student nurse may have been an only child in a family herself, and her unfamiliarity with children and feeling of strangeness may make it difficult for her to handle the little patients. Play, she soon finds, makes it all much easier, but first she must learn how and what to play.

A course of play is consequently required of every student nurse at this hospital. The student has eight lessons in which she learns how to play without any equipment. She learns how to interest and soothe the child with stories and poetry, how to play finger and singing games with him, and how to start the whole group playing a game or acting a favorite story.

The games are all social games. None of them is competitive, as that would entail too much of a strain for sick children. They are the kind that children of all ages can play together, since the children are grouped in the wards, not according to age, but according to the kinds of illnesses they have.

Even little children with heart disease, whose physical activity is greatly limited, can join in such games as "Farmer in the Dell." The child's imagination fills in the action quite satisfactorily.

Folk games of all countries are drawn on for the play program. Although many of the little patients are children of foreign-born parents, the games are generally new to them. They have rarely been taught the social type of play.



Many of these children are used to playing gangster at home. At the hospital they learn new games with delight and when they return home they do not forget them, and the hospital is remembered as "the place where they play with you."

One object of the play is to make the child feel at ease.

"MANY children come to the hospital with strange fears of doctors, nurses and hospitals which are magnified by the odor of ether, the sight of the nurses from the operating room who look like ghosts in their all-white garb and masks, and of doctors wearing strange instruments around their necks and foreheads," Miss Smith observed. The Play Lady and her volunteer assistants who supplement the nurses wear cheery yellow smocks.

Too often a threat of doctor, nurse or hospital has been used by parents to frighten children into obedience, so that they are terrified when they actually find themselves in a hospital. But play is a familiar and important part of normal child life and the play which starts almost as soon as the young patients are put to bed in the hospital ward makes them feel at home and unafraid.

An interesting feature of the play is the way it is used for children who come to have their tonsils out or for other operations. All these patients are gathered in a sunroom at eight o'clock on the morning of the operation. The room is far from the operating room as possible, so that all sight, sound and smell of it are avoided.

In this sunroom the whole group plays together. Nurses come at intervals of from five to 20 minutes, taking the youngest children first, but the rest go on playing until their turn comes. As a result they are content and calm until the last minute before the operation.

"It was really astonishing," said one of the nurses, "to see how many children could have their tonsils removed peacefully and even happily because of this preliminary play experience."

Group play has been going on at Children's Memorial Hospital since 1932. As a result, frightened, homesick children crying themselves into a fever are unknown there.

Nurses find that their small charges quickly stop crying and resisting the various necessary treatments and care when stories are told or games are played while the unfamiliar and therefore frightening procedures are being carried out. Neurotic tendencies, which are apt to have their beginning in long illnesses of children, are prevented by the play program, the staff at Children's Memorial Hospital finds. Bad habits are prevented or forgotten when group play is part of the life at the hospital.

"The whole atmosphere of a hospital is changed," Miss Smith said. "One visiting doctor from the East seeing all the alert happy faces in our hospital claimed we had no sick children. We know that a hospital full of wan-faced irritable children is unnecessary and should cease to exist."

Although the play program does not depend on toys, the children have playthings to amuse themselves with also, and these are fitted into the play program as much as possible.

Visitors to the little patients at this hospital are familiar with a table full of toys which have been carefully selected as suitable for sick children. The toys are di-

THE BITTER STRUGGLE OVER LILLIAN RUSSELL'S RING

An Admirer Gave It to the Famous Actress, Then Alexander P. Moore Got It "by Inheritance" and Gave It to Dorothy Caruso Holder, but Dorothy Russell Said It was Really Hers.

PHILADELPHIA.

LILLIAN RUSSELL'S only daughter brought to the mess of legalistic unpleasantnesses which were part of her inheritance from her celebrated mother a shrewd sense of values and an instinctive gift for picking the winning lawyer. It is just as well for her that she did; she needed every bit of it, and more also. For the world habitually turns its most flinty and implacable face against children who were conceived in a spirit of unworldly abandon rather than in one of practical sober premeditation and holy wedlock. Dorothy Russell has had, as even her courtroom detractors must admit, rather rough going of it. Her only break has been a compound fracture and a recent court decision of doubtful permanence.

But among the several good things fate and her radiant parent evidently intended to bestow upon her was an emerald ring of fabulous beauty and great intrinsic value. Lillian Russell always had a strong, improvident affection for Dorothy; the ring is proof of her strong partiality. It is as little commonplace as was its fascinating donor. Its center piece is a huge and flawless stone with nine effulgent diamonds to set it off. Ordinary observers would immediately class it as resplendent. Jewelers appraise it at a round $50,000. To Dorothy this may be supposed to have a significance secondary to the sentimental values which waft it (for her) into the class of the Ring of the Niebelungen—which destroyed a whole dynasty of gods. But Dorothy also knows the value of $50,000. The ring, alas, has a lien on it.

That ring, not Dorothy Russell (who is privately Mrs. Dorothy Russell Einstein-O'Reilly-Calvit) should be the heroine in this piece. It was the central figure in her latest long-winded litigation, which had its inception in 1931. But before the tale is told the principal characters should be introduced. An elaborate game of blind man's buff, a sketchy chronicle of the principals—their marriages, near marriages and unmarryings—is unavoidable. Two of them, Lillian Russell and Mrs. Enrico Caruso, need no special identification. A third, the late Spanish Ambassador Alexander Pollock Moore, is also not obscure, though this devious tale may reveal some things not generally known about him.

The great lady who was to be Lillian Russell made her appearance in New York at the beginning of the eighties—a shy and stammering nonentity who called herself Helen Louisa Leonard and hailed from a hamlet in Iowa. Dazzling in her virginial loveliness she did not long remain unknown. Soon after her rechristening (at the hands of a canny impresario called Tony Pastor) she became the most sought-after music hall celebrity in Manhattan. Even before that however, she met her first husband, Harry Braham, the Pastor Theater's orchestra leader. This fortunate minion of Apollo saw and desired her the first time she came into the range of the footlights, proposed almost under the proscenium and carried her off just as Lillian Russell was becoming a name to conjure with. If she broke his heart as soon as she came into a $500 weekly pay check, there were many in the audience who envied him even that mark of attention.

After the divorce La Russell became enamoured of another musician. Teddy Solomon, a conductor and composer whose light opera was currently all the rage, took her off to London with him. It was an indiscretion which had several immediate consequences. One was Lillian's introduction to the composer's unsympathetic and undivorced first wife, who quickly put a stop to the nonsense. Another was Dorothy Russell.

Of Dorothy's first step-father, John Chatterton, better known as Signor Perugini, nothing relevant to this story is known. Her second was the eminent Mr. Alexander P. Moore of Pittsburgh, a millionaire who had risen, like Lillian Russell, from obscure beginnings. Starting as an office boy, Moore became an editor, a publisher, a diplomat, then President Harding's Ambassador to Spain and the court favorite, it is said, of Queen Victoria Eugenia. He was considered witty and genial and could afford to support the Russells in a style to which they were by this time accustomed. Lillian Russell was a great realist. In itemizing her income one day, in response to a milliner's suit for an unpaid bill, she answered the plaintiff's attorney, when he wanted to know whether what she had already deposed was the complete extent of her income, with the arch remark: "I must admit that Mother Nature has been very generous with me." There is no question that her marriage to Moore was prompted in large measure by her desire to protect her daughter's security—and her own.

Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit.

Alexander P. Moore and Lillian Russell after their marriage.

At one of Dorothy Russell's suits, an old confidant of Alexander P. Moore came forward to shed some needed light on the relations between him and his wife and her daughter. This lady, Mrs. Elisabeth Henderson, quoted her friend as having said to her: "I have a confession to make to you. One that may shock you: Lillian never loved me. She idolized Dorothy. Dorothy was the only person she loved. I promised to take care of Dorothy." Others were prepared to swear that Moore not only never hinted at such a promise, but seemed to show by his attitude towards his step-daughter that he could not have been persuaded into such a promise by anything short of the rack and a pair of thumb screws; but Lillian Russell was a very great woman—while she lived—and very persuasive.

The Russell-Moore marriage took place in 1912. Six years later there occurred another wedding destined to have an effect on Lillian Russell's daughter, in a more devious fashion. This was Enrico Caruso's marriage to Dorothy Park Benjamin, a prominent and wealthy New Yorker of 25. Caruso's career—which is not germaine to this narrative—had been possibly more eventful in amorous episodes than Mme. Russell's. He had been fined by a police judge for accosting a strange young woman in Central Park, had been accused of maltreating Ada Giachtti, the contralto, of having broken the heart of a Milanese salesgirl, of having trifled with the affections of a forgotten American who valued them at $100,000 and of having done likewise with the sensibilities of Emma Trentini the musical comedy singer.

BUT Dorothy Park Benjamin married him, anyhow, flying in the face of her rich and petulant father, who called it "running off with an Italian 20 years her senior—and a public singer at that!" Those who still find such a comment objectionable when applied to the memory of the greatest tenor of the age will find some comfort in the recollection that Park Benjamin himself subsequently "adopted" his children's no less Italian governess, who is not known to have been a singer—public or otherwise. He later cut off his legitimate offspring with a dollar apiece—five dollars in all.

Now, while Dorothy Caruso was of a newer generation than Dorothy Russell's, the latter being in her middle thirties when the Caruso nuptials were celeberated, later she was not too young to draw the attention of Alexander P. Moore, who still retained considerable agility after his lovely wife's death in 1922. Caruso and Lillian Russell died the same year. Caruso forgot to include his widow and her daughter Gloria in the will he made a year after their marriage. This oversight was later partly rectified by the Italian courts and their rectifying was still later rectified by New Jersey's courts. Meanwhile Dorothy Caruso married a wealthy British engineer, Captain Ernest A. Ingram, and quickly divorced him because he liked English cooking better than Americans and all their ways.

Then came her friendship with Alexander P. Moore. The venerable ambassador made her a present of the famous ring in 1927 when they became, somewhat tentatively, engaged and set the nation's society editors clacking in unison. But that comes later in the narrative; the true heroine is yet to make an appearance.

The ring began life cradled in a bed of violet velvet at a Fifth avenue jeweler's. Dorothy recalls the day—though it was back in 1901—when it first stared up at her: The vacuous bewitching stare of the single emerald, the winkling glittering beams of the sharp little diamonds. She was out shopping with her mother and they sallied into the shop casually to be shown the ring.

MME. RUSSELL loved it instantly, had it fitted, charged it to one of her admirers and they went out. The gentleman who paid the bill wasn't mentioned in the ring's legal history of course, but one likes to imagine that it was Diamond Jim Brady—who at about the same time had made the lady an offer of his hand and a $1,000,000 settlement, both regretfully refused lest they interfere somehow with Dorothy's security in the future.

Lillian Russell kept the ring safe in her collection of trophies for 18 years. During that time Dorothy came of age and set forth on a career that threatened for a short time to be a creditable imitation of her mother's. Her debut with Amelia Bingham at the Knickerbocker Theatre was a success. She became a headliner in vaudeville—which still retained some of the glamour of which the movies have now so effectually despoiled it. She eloped with a wealthy young man named Abbott Einstein, son of a New York lawyer. And presently divorced him because she said he was cruel and squandered her money. Afterwards she married Edward O'Reilly, a Pittsburgh broker. But her public career was stopped short by a serious accident on the stage, which resulted in the amputation of one of her legs and left her wretched and incapable of the conquest to which she had optimistically aspired. It was on her thirty-fourth birthday that her adoring mother presented her with the fateful ring.

There seems to be no question that Lillian Russell intended her shrewd and worldly-wise husband to be her daughter's guardian and left Dorothy's affairs trustfully in his hands. And for a time it seemed that this arrangement would work out as its designer intended. Moore named his step-

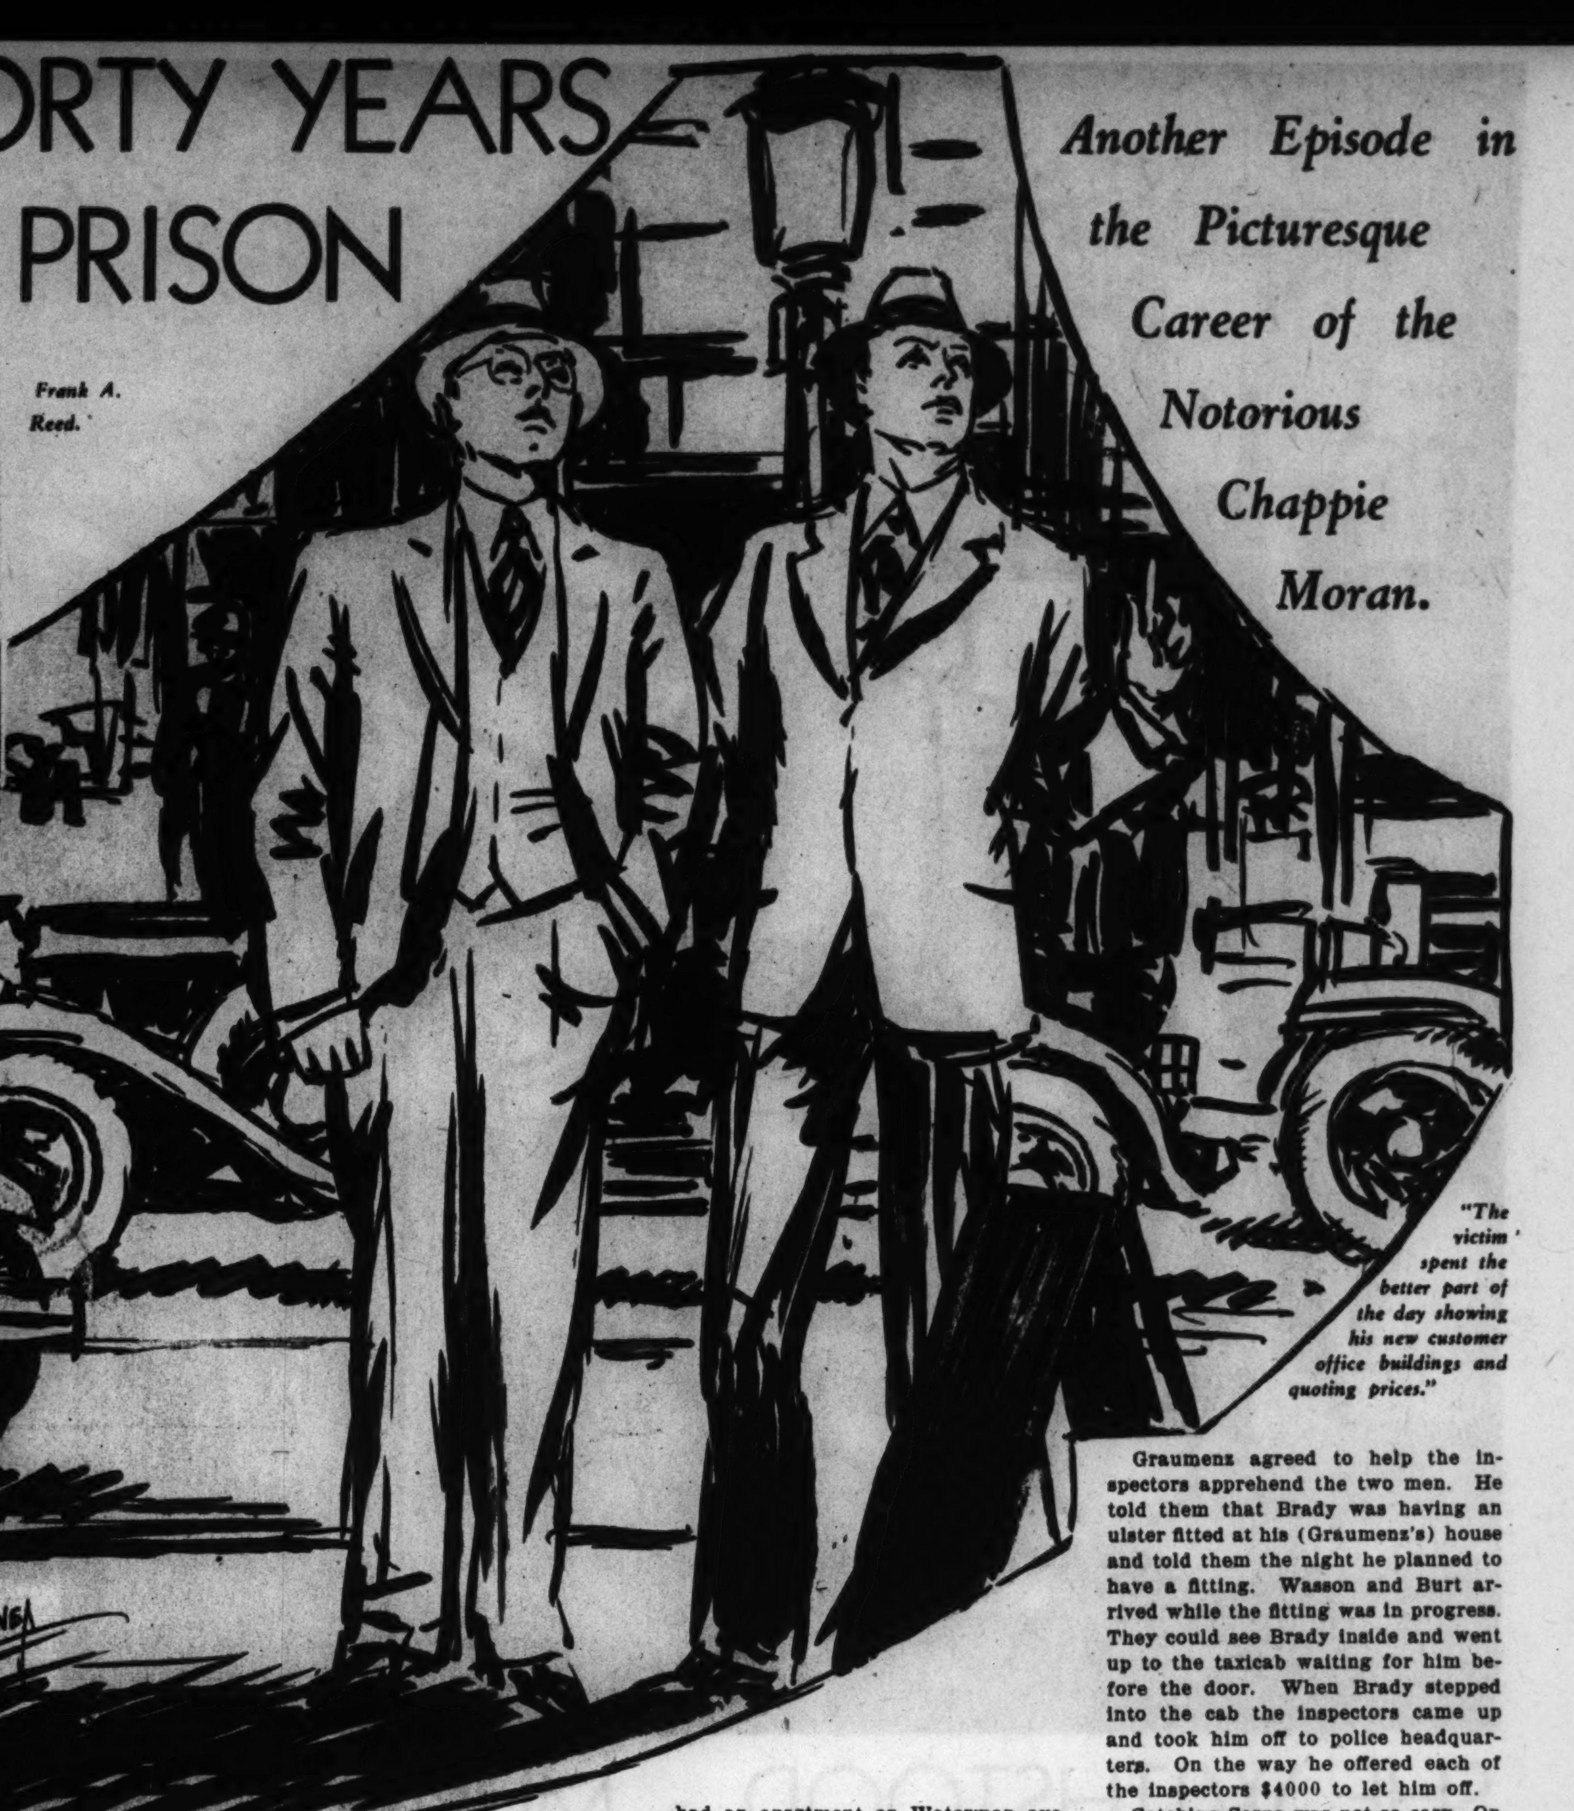
A CON MAN for FORTY YEARS and ONLY ONCE in PRISON

Another Episode in the Picturesque Career of the Notorious Chappie Moran.

Tony Serpo.

Doc Brady.

Frank A. Reed.



"The victim spent the better part of the day showing his new customer office buildings and quoting prices."

This is the third and final article of the series dealing with the life and activities of Chappie Moran, the notorious confidence man, who died recently in Peoria, Ill.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

WHEN Chappie Moran emerged from Atlanta Penitentiary in the summer of 1921, having made his peace with the United States Government and having attained a mellow middle age (verging on 60), it doesn't seem to have occurred to him that this was high time to go straight. As a matter of fact he had used his prison term as an opportunity to form new business engagements which he planned to use in getting a fresh start. The Muncie upheaval may have sobered him a little, made him yet more wary of crossing the track of the Federal operatives. But outwardly he was as dapper and cheerful as ever; inwardly apparently as crafty and unregenerate.

If Chappie's general outlook remained constant through his nominally reformatory eighteen months, there was one respect in which he had changed. He no longer wanted to travel. Whereas he had formerly been willing to wander from summer resort to winter resort, from ship to ship and from continent to continent, he wanted now to settle in the Middle West, where he could visit his wife and daughter occasionally. For Chappie was a family man. It isn't known just when this marriage occurred; doubtless it was in his prime, for he had married the daughter of a fellow craftsman who had asked him to assume guardianship while he, the father, made a little sojourn up the river. And when the child had grown up Chappie, it is said, had fallen in love with her and asked her to marry him.

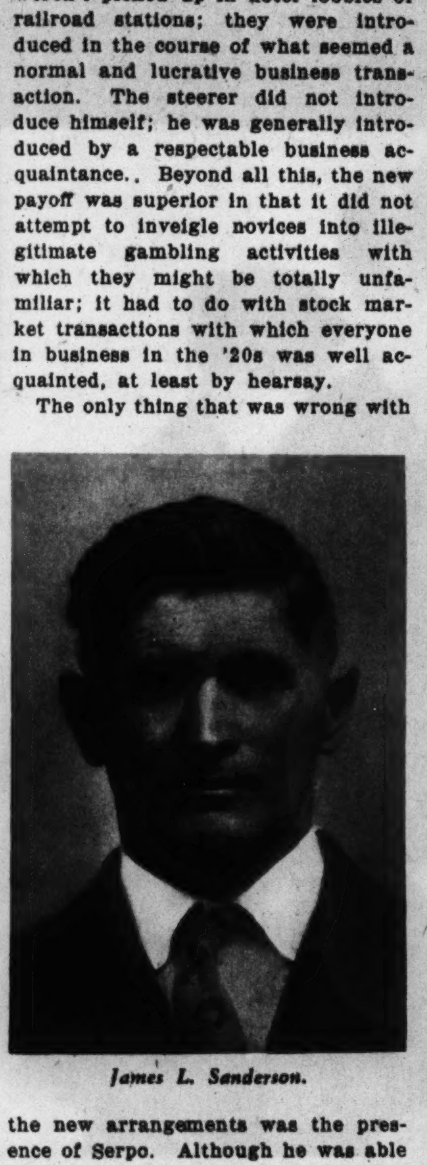
In general Chappie's life had been comparatively barren of feminine interest. He had maintained that women have no place in the confidence game; they are too emotional, too unstable to make good at a profession that calls for almost complete suppression of feelings and sentiments. Although this view seemed current among a majority of grafters, many of them traveled with their women and occasionally women were even allowed to participate in a racket, though this was excessively rare. But now he seems to have begun to feel the tug of paternal responsibilities. He set up his household in Peoria and operated almost exclusively in Missouri and Illinois.

Instead of the small army that engaged in the payoff game at Muncie and the other cities, Chappie's regular gang seems to have shrunk to a handful by this time. What brought this about no one seems to know. The group was by no means homogeneous or congenial. Its members were recruited from other crowds Chappie had known in the past. First there was Doc Brady. Comparatively a newcomer, Brady was first arrested in 1919, when Chappie was already an old-timer. Brady was a studious-looking, sallow man of 43. He was tall enough to be seen in a crowd and easy to identify by a prominent pinpoint dimple in the center of his slightly recessive chin. Then there was Frank Adam Reed, an old man hunched over by some malformation of the shouders and addicted to dope. Reed was a con man of wide and valuable experience, but his age and appearance were against him and he was rigidly restricted in his movements by the need of drugs. The third and fourth members of the ring were Walter and Luther Sanderson, cousins, who had begun life as Illinois farm boys, had graduated from that to being county fair athletes and small time swindlers. Walter, the son of a preacher, had been puffed as "The Boy Evangelist of Illinois." Chappie had known the Sandersons when they acted as prize fighters in the Muncie racket and seems to have found them promising novices, for they became regular members of the new crowd.

Finally there was Tony Serpo, a Chicago dope peddler who should never have been allowed to move with self-respecting con men. Serpo was a venomous little man who looked every bit as degenerate as he was. He had started life as a burglar in Chicago, had been a pickpocket and a drug peddler for years. Chappie had met him in the penitentiary at Atlanta.

Chappie worked out a new and refined version of the bunco game for this group of veterans, a simplified play which, while it gave as persuasive an impression as did the elaborate paraphernalia of wire-tapping, fake-fighting, foot-racing and the stock market, required only a simple stock of confidence literature and a couple of fixed hotels to operate. As a matter of fact the new game was far more realistic than the more involved forms of the past. Suckers weren't picked up in hotel lobbies or railroad stations; they were introduced in the course of what seemed a normal and lucrative business transaction. The steerer did not introduce himself; he was generally introduced by a respectable business acquaintance.. Beyond all this, the new payoff was superior in that it did not attempt to inveigle novices into illegitimate gambling activities with which they might be totally unfamiliar; it had to do with stock market transactions with which everyone in business in the '20s was well acquainted, at least by hearsay.

The only thing that was wrong with the new arrangements was the presence of Serpo. Although he was able to carry off his simple parts without difficulty, he was distinctly an alien elemetn. Besides being less intelligent than the others, he was also more ruthless and undisciplined. He thought nothing of chiseling his accomplices in every possible way, and such a transgression as holding-out might be a serious thing in a group that depended on mutual understanding. The gypping went on and spread to the others, until all of them were playing their professional tricks on one another, cheating right and left until each was suspicious and suspected of all the rest.

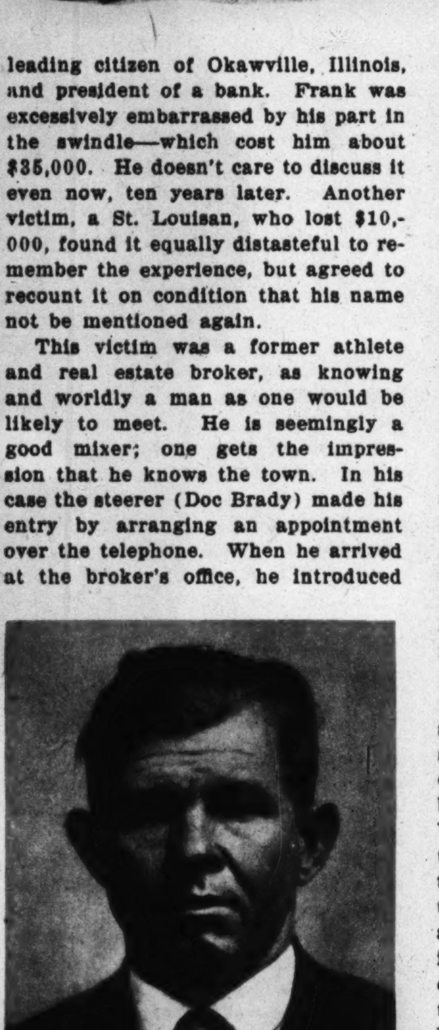


James L. Sanderson.

FOR the most part they seem to have restricted their activities to the Middle West, but there are indications that Chappie occasionally spent a season in the flourishing big time resorts—Montreal, Havana and Florida. One suspects that he was the "English Chappie" Lewis who was mentioned as the ring leader in a gigantic wire-tapping scheme that parted a number of Montreal's visitors from big money. At that time he was connected with several plays that took in as much as $60,000 a throw.

It was in Missouri and Illinois, however, that he was most notorious. And here he was most evidently skillful, in that he was swindling sound business men—not when they were in a holiday frame of mind, open to every suggestion, but when they were working at their ordinary jobs and most skeptical of fly-by-night schemes. Among the victims of the new payoff was William G. Frank, Mayor and leading citizen of Okawville, Illinois, and president of a bank. Frank was excessively embarrassed by his part in the swindle—which cost him about $35,000. He doesn't care to discuss it even now, ten years later. Another victim, a St. Louisan, who lost $10,000, found it equally distasteful to remember the experience, but agreed to recount it on condition that his name not be mentioned again.

This victim was a former athlete and real estate broker, as knowing and worldly a man as one would be likely to meet. He is seemingly a good mixer; one gets the impression that he knows the town. In his case the steerer (Doc Brady) made his entry by arranging an appointment over the telephone. When he arrived at the broker's office, he introduced himself as T. J. Hoffman and said he was recommended to this firm by a former client in Ohio, whom he mentioned. He was, he continued, the agent for a wealthy business executive from out of town, who wanted to purchase a profitable office building as an investment for his nephew.



Walter Sanderson.

The victim spent the better part of the day showing his new customer office buildings and quoting prices.

They finally settled on a building at the corner of Grand boulevard and Gravois avenue. The dealer stood to make $5000 by the transaction—which was considerably more than the ordinary commission, but there was nothing out of bounds in the deal. The customer was simply a little more open in his dealing than is customary. The following day one of the Sandersons was introduced as a spieler. He was dressed faultlessly and was ceremoniously introduced as the absent millionaire's nephew. After another inspection of business property, the deal was verbally agreed upon and Brady suggested that they run over to Decatur, Illinois, where the fabulous millionaire (Frank Adam Reed) was stopping off on business. The pretext was, of course, the signing of an option on the property. But in the hotel at Decatur—well away from the sobering influence of the St. Louis Police Department—the real deal was uncovered. And thereupon the old payoff racket unrolled itself, with Chappie Moran as the stock broker (secretly buying up shares of an obscure company for the Guggenheim interests) and Tony Serpo as a simple Italian farmer who owned some of the shares and had no idea what was their true value. The con men kept the St. Louis real estate broker up half the night trying to negotiate with Serpo. (The latter's name was given as Flirpo). The Italian farmer occupied a shabby flat in a frame building in the slums and kept his securities in a suitcase. It was all a trifle improbable, but perfectly possible and convincing. When Serpo sold Brady and the victim three shares of the stock, the victim was given the $1000 profit and told to go back and get an option on a larger block Serpo possessed. (It is this phase that is known as the payoff.) He did so, got the certificate, then had to go all the way back to St. Louis to get the money to pay for his part in the final deal.

ON HIS return, Serpo indorsed the certificate and the victim was given it and sent to Edwardsville to buy a block of the same stock, which was said to be owned by Flirpo's sister. The latter proved to be non-existent and the victim drew up short with the realization that the entire game was phony and that he was holding a bogus certificate. By the time he realized this, the whole thing had come to seem implausible, but during the various stages—each only a little less credible than the one before, the victim had slowly been carried outside his normal judgment and hynotized by the simplicity with which he could make an enormous amount of money.

Precisely the same swindle was successful when applied to as sagacious a business man as Mayor Frank of Okawville, who paid with $35,000 in Liberty bonds for 5050 shares of worthless stock. The certificate had Serpo's signature "for value received," on the reverse side. In that case Serpo gave his name as George Joseph and had an apartment on Waterman avenue in St. Louis. Incidentally, it was while this play was in process of completion, that two of the con men were arrested while about to board an interurban trolley car at Eads Bridge—and released for want of specific charges. During a few months the game was successful in subtracting $125,000 from the bank balances of six solid business men in Illinois. How many others were taken in is not known.

But evidently the game wasn't absorbing enough to hold the attention of all the players. The Sandersons spent a little spare time with an old farmer at Jacksonville, for whom they had worked during a previous harvest season. In staging this by-play, they were careless enough to send reassuring letters to the farmer's family, by mail, thus needlessly involving themselves in an infraction of Federal laws. Serpo was going in for more sensational activities. He was fast becoming an accredited bank robber. When his wife became ill in Chicago, he took her to Rochester, Minnesota, for an operation. Afterwards, presumably to pay the doctor's bill, he held up a bank, got away with a fair sized payroll and left a guard squirming in the street in the agony of death—a bullet through his chest. That wasn't his only violent robbery. He also held up a hotel and he was suspected in a series of bank robberies that terrorized members of the Bankers' Association of Minnesota for several months. Brady, who was staying in Chicago, was reduced to swindling the bellboy in the hotel where he lived. He also put on a minor act in Gary, Indiana, spending a few nights in the hovel of a poor old German immigrant who afterwards remembered how the confidence man knelt down beside his bed at night. "That was the finest prayer that I ever heard," he later confided to Federal operatives who were backtracking the gang.

Inspectors H. H. Wasson and A. F. Burt of the Postoffice Department were eventually successful in bringing the gang to heel. It was a matter of months. Their first step was to get out a circular regarding the Liberty Bonds which had been taken from Mayor Frank. Shortly afterwards they received word that $14,000 worth of the bonds had been turned in at the Central Trust Company in Chicago by a man named Raymond Graumenz. They were able to locate Graumenz without much difficulty. He was the proprietor of a modest tailor shop and their first interview convinced the inspectors that he was not a confidant of the gang. Graumenz identified Brady and Walter Sanderson as the men who had given him the bonds to cash. He considered himself a personal friend of Brady.

Graumenz agreed to help the inspectors apprehend the two men. He told them that Brady was having an ulster fitted at his (Graumenz's) house and told them the night he planned to have a fitting. Wasson and Burt arrived while the fitting was in progress. They could see Brady inside and went up to the taxicab waiting for him before the door. When Brady stepped into the cab the inspectors came up and took him off to police headquarters. On the way he offered each of the inspectors $4000 to let him off.

Catching Serpo was not so easy. On two occasions the officers followed him in an automobile and were unable to come up with him. Later, when he was captured, he was able to avoid extradition.

When Burt interviewed Serpo in jail afterwards the criminal gave his version of one of the phases of the hunt. "I'm glad you didn't catch up with us that time, Inspector," he remarked. "We'd decided we were going to drill you if you did."

Meanwhile the Sandersons had been picked up in Springfield, Illinois, on information furnished by a stool pigeon. Before the testimony of the disillusioned and heart-broken old farmer they had robbed was completed, they pleaded guilty and were sentenced to imprisonment. Frank Adam Reed was arrested in Serpo's company and Chappie Moran was found without difficulty in Peoria.

CHAPPIE was held for a Federal trial in St. Louis and his case was twice held over until Serpo should be arrested. When that finally occurred, the Government decided it would be better to free him than to allow Serpo another chance to escape. The killer was brought to St. Louis while this decision was still pending, then extradited to Minnesota and sentenced to life imprisonment in Stillwater Penitentiary for first degree murder. Chappie was never prosecuted for the series of swindles which had taken place in the years since he had been freed from Atlanta and even the charge preferred by Mayor Frank was not pressed.

Brady was picked up after having jumped his bond in Chicago, while sitting in an automobile watching two of his associates in a simple coin match game. Such small pickings would have been beneath him a few years before, but he confessed to police that he had been reduced to this for a living.

He was subsequently allowed to plead guilty, served eighteen months in Leavenworth and is now living in the vicinity of St. Louis, apparently in poor circumstances. Reed has served his term. The Sandersons are said to be "working" in Kansas.

Chappie soon after the breaking up of his gang gave up the confidence game, admitting the strain was beginning to tell on him. Not long ago he took a job as night watchman in a Peoria distillery. A sinecure, he called it. He lived quietly until his death, which occurred in the latter part of last month in the flat where he had been living with his wife and daughteer. As they watched him, he passed away muttering to himself that he was, after all, a champion. And so he was.

"Then, grim-faced, she sat down to await developments."

SHE WITHSTOOD a MURDEROUS SIEGE for FOUR DAYS in a LONELY CABIN

The North Woods Drama That Was Enacted on the Bleak Shores of Lake Athabaska in Saskatchewan.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

PRINCE ALBERT, Saskatchewan.

THE elderly, weather-beaten trapper, John Harms, was in an ugly mood when he and his young partner, Johnny Anthony, stopped at Ira Allen's lonely log cabin on the bleak shore of Lake Athabaska. He had been drinking home-brew and the potent stuff had made him surly and quarrelsome. Mrs. Anne Lindgren, Allen's housekeeper, tried to be pleasant, nevertheless. After all, the men were her neighbors, spending the winter in a cabin on Spring Point, only two miles away. And Anthony, who was just her age—25—seemed to be a nice fellow.

But neighborliness meant little to Harms then, and presently his alcoholically-inflamed temper prodded him into violent hostility. Mrs. Lindgren was at the water hole in the ice, getting a pail of water, when the trapper seized her and threatened to kill her. She broke away and ran to Anthony for protection. Anthony took the older man by the arm firmly but not unkindly and told him to "act like a gentleman." Harms was 58 years old, and his young partner's manner toward him was something like that of a son toward an erring father. In a short time they departed for their cabin. Mrs. Lindgren sighed with relief, and went about her household duties, talking with her five-year-old son. Allen was away on a five-day tour of his trap lines.

About two hours later Harms appeared again at the Allen cabin. He was alone. He told Mrs. Lindgren, "Little John is very sick." She was needed, it seemed, to help minister to the young trapper.

Such a call has a special imperativeness in the wilderness country of the Far North. Mrs. Lindgren put on her fur parka, bundled up the child and settled the two of them comfortably on Harms' dog sledge.

It was dark when they reached the trappers' cabin on Spring Point. Harms went in first to light the lamp. Just outside the door he slipped and almost fell. Mrs. Lindgren close behind him, made out in the dimness a dark pool on the floor; Harms had stepped in that. Then she saw where it came from—the body of Johnny Anthony.

For a moment Mrs. Lindgren stood still, in the grip of a numbing horror. Then terror came and roused her. Snatching up her little boy, she ran from the house, fled back along the trail by which they had come.

Harms shouted for her to stop, but she didn't pause. A shot was fired, and she heard the zip of the bullet. She ran on. She heard the trapper start his dog team with yells and curses and the whine of the sledge on the snowy path as he came in pursuit. Hidden by the darkness, she jumped off the trail, ran a little distance away from it, and hid in a thick clump of young spruce. The pursuit swept past.

With the child held closely in her arms, the woman crouched in her place of concealment, straining her eyes through the darkness, expecting momentarily to hear Harms returning, beating the brush in search of her. She stayed there until the child began to whimper from the cold and her own body, despite its warm clothing, became chilled. With freezing a certainty if she remained in hiding, she decided to risk the uncertainty that lay ahead.

Still carrying the boy, she stole back along the trail toward home, watching warily. She saw nothing of Harms until she approached close to the cabin. Then she saw him—asleep on his sledge, a short distance from the door.

With infinite caution Mrs. Lindgren slipped up the path to the cabin, past the sleeping man who, she had no doubt, had murdered his young partner, and into the house. The dogs of Harms' team recognized her and made no disturbance when she approached and passed them.

Inside the cabin, Mrs. Lindgren barred the door and barricaded the windows with frantic haste. She took a .22-caliber rifle from a corner, saw that it was loaded, and placed it on the table. She made her young son comfortable in his bed. After a brief survey of her situation, she got out two butcher knives and placed them also on the table, close to hand. Then, grim-faced, she sat down to await developments.

So began a strange, nerve-wearing siege. It lasted nearly four days.

Before daylight the next morning, Harms awoke. The savage humor had not left him, and he tried to force his way into the cabin. Mrs. Lindgren stood with the rifle in her hands as he beat and kicked at the door.

John Harms, the convicted trapper, as he arrived at Edmonton in the custody of a constable.

GIVING up the attack for the moment, Harms built a fire and warmed himself. Presently he roused his dogs, turned the sledge and started back home—to get more "booze," he proclaimed.

As soon as she was sure that he was well on his way, Mrs. Lindgren went outdoors and replenished her supply of wood and water, returned and barricaded the door. She prepared breakfast for her son and herself, keeping watch for the return of the enemy.

Harms came back, glowering and roaring, well refueled with home-brew. Again he tried to storm the cabin, cursing and threatening death to the woman within, and again she stood prepared to fight the maddened man with every resource and every desperate ounce of her strength. The cabin withstood his attack and he drew off to replenish his fire, mutter and growl.

The siege continued in that fashion. Harms repeatedly left his camp before the cabin to go home and absorb more liquor. The defender of the fortress took advantage of these absences to sally out and carry in wood and refill her water buckets. She prepared food, looked after the child and caught snatches of sleep as opportunity was afforded. The gun was never far from her hand, and often she sprang up from a troubled nap or dropped some household utensil to seize the weapon as the drink-crazed trapper renewed his assault on the house. There was no doubt in her mind that he would make every effort to kill her and the boy if he got inside. The fear of that was with her constantly.

On the afternoon of the fourth day, the siege was lifted. Harms may have remembered that Ira Allen was expected to return from his tour of trap-lines that day. Perhaps his drunken fury had spent itself. As the elderly trapper started away with his dog team he called out to the woman in the cabin: "Report to the Mounted Police that the kid is dead. I'll be waiting for them at my other cabin on Singed Dog Island." By "the kid" he meant Johnny Anthony.

A "Mountie" patrol takes the trail in Saskatchewan.

A few hours after Harms' departure Ira Allen returned home. He bundled his housekeeper and her son on his dog sledge and took them to a Hudson's Bay Company trading post 25 miles away. He expected to leave them there and go on to Goldfields, the new gold mining center on the north shore of Lake Athabaska, to send word by radio to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Fort Chipewyan, at the western end of the lake. But when they arrived at the post they found a trader about to leave for Goldfields, so Allen turned over to him the job of getting word of the tragedy at Spring Point to the police.

When the police at Fort Chipewyan received the report, relayed from Goldfields by a radio operator for Canadian Airways, Sergeant F. V. Vernon, a veteran Mountie, and his interpreter, Irwin Villobrough, were detailed to arrest Harms. They set out by a dog sled for Singed Dog Island, 125 miles to the east. It was a hard journey. No trail had been broken along the north shore of Lake Athabaska, and piled-up drift ice made a rough, broken field far out from the shore line. A sudden blizzard added to the difficulties of travel.

TWO days after the patrol set out, Lewis Leigh, a Canadian Airways pilot, flew over Singed Dog Island and reported that he saw Harms come out of his cabin and wave something white—possibly intended to signify that he would not resist arrest. The next morning the pilot again flew over the cabin and saw Harms, and then located Sergeant Vernon and his companion, in camp about 10 miles from the cabin. He landed, took the Sergeant aboard, and returned to the island. Despite the indication that Harms would make no resistance, the sergeant was prepared for treachery, and he and the flyer advanced on the cabin with rifles ready. But when they drew near, Harms stepped outdoors, unarmed, and surrendered.

By dog team the police party and the prisoner then went to the cabin at Spring Point and found the frozen body of young Johnny Anthony. His spinal cord had been severed by a .38-

SKETCHES FROM LIFE

High Lights on Unusual Personalities

DR. ANNIE JUMP CANNON
JOSEPH BENTONELLI

America's 'Foremost Woman Astronomer'

CAMBRIDGE, Massachusetts.

BACK in 1870, little Annie Jump Cannon spent her evenings looking at the heavens through the window of her small attic bedroom in Dover, Delaware, and her afternoons plying her ship-builder father and her patient mother with a host of of persistent questions about the stars and the planets.

Today Dr. Annie Jump Cannon, who celebrated her seventy-second birthday last December, continues to spend all her waking hours studying the wonders of the heavens, but, instead of having to seek knowledge from others about the constellations and the variables and all the other sky phenomena, she is the one who tells experienced astronomers as well as students what she has discovered during her half-century of ceaseless research.

But, although Dr. Cannon is acknowledged to be America's foremost woman astronomer and one of the few outstanding "sky experts" in the whole world, and although she has received scientific honors both in the United States and abroad which no member of her sex had ever attained before her, she is today as active, as vivacious, and as hard-working as she ever was.

In her astronomical work, Dr. Cannon claims to have found the secret of her youth. To her, "Every new spectrum is the gateway to a wonderful new world," and the assignment of "covering the sky" which she undertook some years ago appealed to her imagination. As professor of astronomy at the Harvard Observatory, Dr. Cannon discovered five stars and 250 variables, a tremendous accomplishment, since the discovery of only one star is sufficient for international fame.

Besides discovering unknown bodies in the heavens, Dr. Cannon has charted more than 300,000 stars and catalogued them in a monumental work which runs to nine volumes and has become indispensable to astronomers. For her achievements, all sorts of honors have been awarded her.

To list all her degrees and honorary memberships and awards would be impossible, but there are some which are so unusual that they must be mentioned. When, in 1901, the University of Groningen of Holland made Annie Jump Cannon a Doctor of Astronomy, they bestowed upon her the highest honor ever granted until that time to an American woman by a foreign university. When, in 1925, the University of Oxford gave Dr. Cannon an honorary degree in science, it broke a six-century precedent. Never before had it given an honorary degree to a member of the fair sex. And when Dr. Cannon received the Henry Draper gold medal from the National Academy of Sciences in this country, she was the first woman ever to have received the honor—in 45 years, only 20 men had been thought outstanding enough in their scientific endeavors to have it.

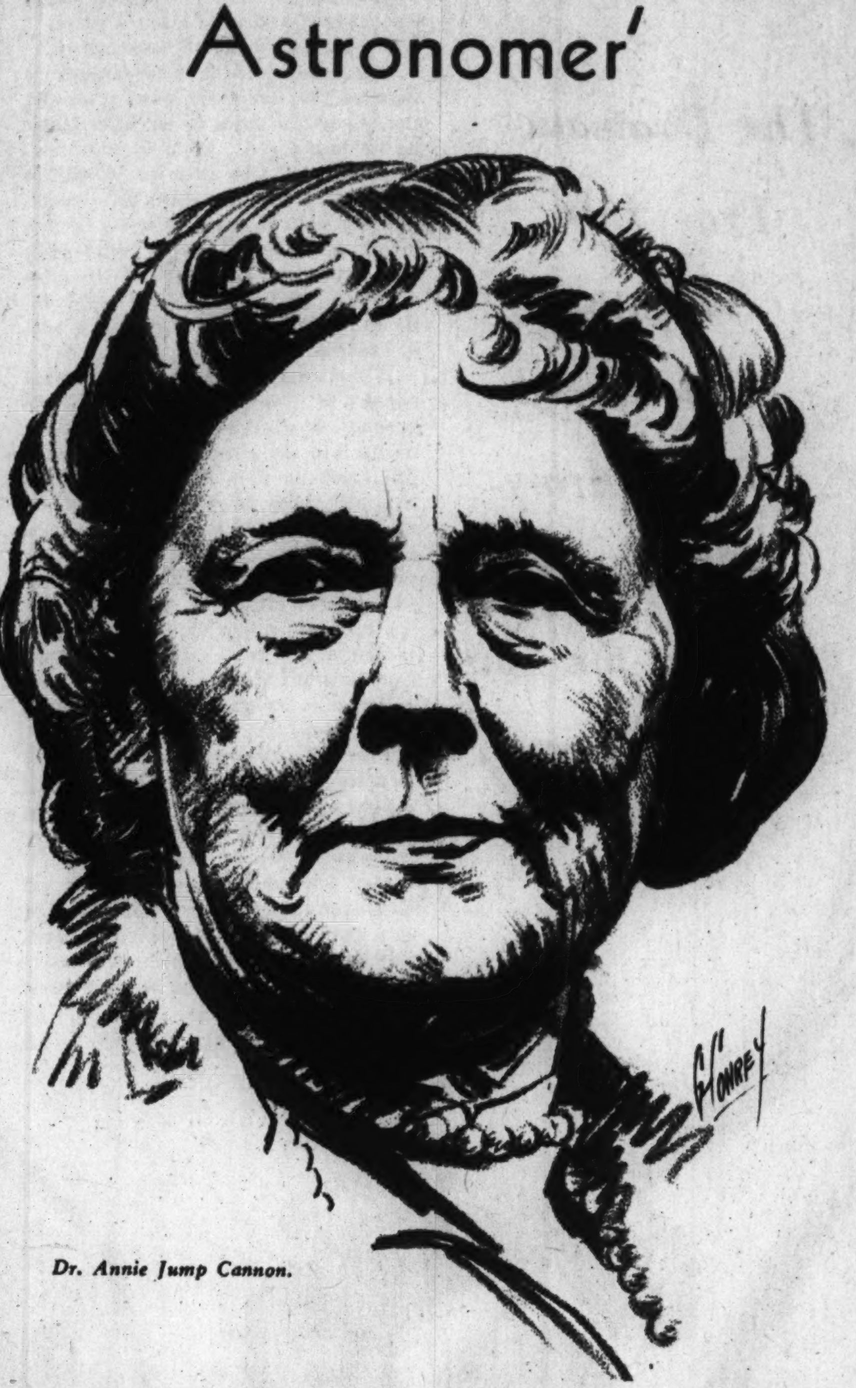
Dr. Annie Jump Cannon was born in Dover, Delaware, on December 11, 1863. Her father, Wilson Lee Cannon, knew the constellations and enjoyed nothing better than telling his small daughter about them. Annie's mother, who was Mary Elizabeth Jump Cannon, a member of the well-known, old America Jump family of Philadelphia, was a sensitive and imaginative person; she often sat with her child while the embryo scientist used a smoking candle to light up her astronomical guide book as she gazed upon the wonders of the heavens.

Annie Cannon knew that she wanted to devote her life to study. After finishing high school in Dover, she matriculated at Wellesley College, where she showed great ability in higher mathematics, the basis for astronomy. After graduation from Wellesley in 1884, Annie Cannon went to Radcliffe for special work in astronomy.

IN THOSE days women in science were rare phenomena. Men did not consider that women had the proper mental equipment for mathematics or any scientific pursuits and there were scarcely any opportunities for them in any universities or in any institutions of research.

In 1882 occurred the death of Dr. Henry Draper of New York, the famous astronomer who had made stellar photography possible. His widow gave in his memory the money for the Henry Draper Memorial at Harvard University and Mrs. W. P. Fleming was placed at the head of this department. She was the first woman whose name appeared in the Harvard University catalogue.

In 1897 Annie Cannon became an assistant at the Harvard Observatory under Professor Edward C. Pickering.



Dr. Annie Jump Cannon.

By 1905 there were sixteen women working in the Henry Draper Memorial Department, poring over photos of stars and variables with infinite patience and persistence. Six years later Annie Jump Cannon took Mrs. Fleming's place as curator of astronomical photographs and she has held that post ever since.

As curator, Annie Jump Cannon continued her work on the Henry Draper Catalogue of stellar spectra in which she undertook and completed the charting of 225,300 stellar spectra and 100,000 additional stars, more than anyone else in the world had ever done. When these nine volumes of charts and catalogues were completed, Dr. Cannon began work on the Magellan Cloud, "a nebulous island outside our own universe," and in 1932 she charted and catalogued "our own Milky Way." She also completed a bibliography of 75,000 references to variable stars.

What an enormous task her charts are can be judged from the fact that when a layman looks at the sky, even on the clearest, starriest night, he is able to see at the most 5000 stars. Dr. Cannon makes her charts from stars that are never visible to the man in the street, and she does this by means of photographs which are in turn made through a telescope and a prism. The prism breaks up the rays of light and gives the spectrum of each star. Dr. Cannon examines the plates with a magnifying glass. The colors of the spectrum do not show, but across the horizontal streak of the spectrum run at intervals very small vertical lines of varying breadth and intensity. By these lines, Dr. Cannon finds out what is in the stars, for the lines mean things to her. Certain lines mean calcium, others mean hydrogen, still others mean iron, helium, all the other elements. She classifies the stars by these lines.

Dr. Cannon has often taken photographs of stars herself. She has journeyed to far places for this purpose, having worked at the Harvard Observatory branch in Arequipa, Peru, having gone to Denver in 1919 to take photographs of as much of the total eclipse of the sun as was then visible, and having been a member of many expeditions to various parts of this and other countries.

On these expeditions, women are still much in the minority, for there are still not many women in astronomy. One of the reasons is that the endowment for women in this work is very small. In 1916, the Maria Mitchell Association of Nantucket, named in honor of a famous early woman astronomer of Vassar College, set aside a fund which would give a $600 annual fellowship for a woman in astronomy. The fellowship was given to honor Professor Pickering's fortieth year as director at the Harvard Observatory.

Such fellowships are few and far between, and recently Dr. Cannon said: "We could but wish that the legitimate work of these young women toward increasing our insight into the true nature of the stars and the physical laws of the universe could drive out superstitions, such as the middle-age belief in horoscopes and astrology which still besets the minds of so many women in our own country.

"One is reminded of Tycho Brahe, the great Danish astronomer of the sixteenth century, who, after casting many horoscopes and indulging freely in the fancies of astrology in his younger days, said in later life that he did not care to mix in astrological matters, but for some years had endeavored to put astronomy into proper order, because only in this way by reliable instruments and mathematical methods and certainty, could the truth be ascertained.

"Women are now prepared to make greater contributions by mathematical methods than ever before, and in these days, when there is an increasing interest in astronomy and a multiplicity of research problems, may we not hope that new fellowships will be founded? Thus greater opportunity could be given to young women of promise to help in present-day problems whose solutions will put astronomy into more proper order."

DR. CANNON'S name has appeared very often on lists of famous women. Ida M. Tarbell named Annie Jump Cannon as one of the fifty foremost women in the United States and the National League of Women Voters several years ago called her one of the twelve greatest living women, and one of the most modest. When Dr. Cannon came to address the members of the Rittenhouse Astronomical Society in Frankling Institute in Philadelphia in April, 1933, she was the first woman ever to speak before this august body and she was the first woman whom the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain made an honorary member.

Youthful, vivacious, dressing in the latest style, with sparkling eyes and a dimpled smile, Dr. Cannon talks mainly of the stars and seldom gives anything but brief and impersonal interviews. She has kept in close contact with her native Delaware and received a degree of Doctor of Science from the University of Delaware in 1918. Her alma mater, Wellesley, coonferred a degree of Doctor of Letters upon her in 1925. She has received other awards and prizes as well.

Outside of talking and writing about the "faint stars" and the bright ones, Dr. Cannon has two avocations—playing the piano and taking long walks.

From an Oklahoma GLEE CLUB to the METROPOLITAN OPERA

JOSEPH BENTONELLI, lyric tenor, whose overnight achievement of a coveted principal's contract with the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York, made the first pages and the picture pages of the nation's newspapers in January, is still Joe Benton to the home folks of Sayre, Oklahoma, and old college friends at the University of Oklahoma.

It was Joe Benton in the college glee club, but Signor Joseph Benton during a long period of musical study in Italy. Patriotic Italians, who pronounced the surname something like "Bon-tone," mistook him for a Frenchman when he started to sing at provincial opera houses, so he was summoned before a Fascist Judge, who pointed to the error of this situation in forceful terms. Immediately he became Giuseppe Bentonelli. Returning to his homeland he restored the "Joseph," but retained the "elli" for professional reasons.

No doubt the "elli" is of no help in producing clear tones, but then, on the other hand, it cannot be argued that it is a hindrance, and many a good American singer has found a little Latinization helped establish prestige. Behind the scenes at the Metropolitan associates know the handsome, dark, athletic-looking young man of 33 as "Benti." They never saw the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity directory, which lists his middle name as Horace.

There was drama in the way he attained the stage of the Metropolitan, that Mecca and Mount Everest of singers. He went to New York to participate in a radio program for a motor car manufacturer with Lawrence Tibbett, Jan. 7, and decided to seek an audition at the opera house, hoping for a secondary role. The afternoon of Jan. 8 he had his chance. General Manager Edward Johnson and all but one of the staff of conductors sat in the darkened old house, while the youthful aspirant blinked at the footlights which hid their faces.

In response to the request of strange voices, calling from the orchestra circle, he sang one air, then another. Then he recognized the voice of Gennaro Papi, requesting "La Donna e Mobile" from "Rigoletto." After this was heard, another auditor, who proved to be Johnson, called for an aria from Massenet's "Manon." That was all.

The next day Bentonelli was summoned back hurriedly and shuttled about from office to office all morning, until finally Johnson came to the point, admitted that the famous tenor, Richard Crooks, was ill and could not sing in the performance of "Manon" advertised for the following night. No one else was available.

Would Bentonelli undertake the leading male role of Chevalier des Grieux?

Accustomed to singing in fluent Italian, Bentonelli had sung "Manon," which is in French, once, after cramming. He said he thought he could do it again. Johnson, beaming, summoned Conductor Louis Hasselmans. Together they tried out their new singer in the part.

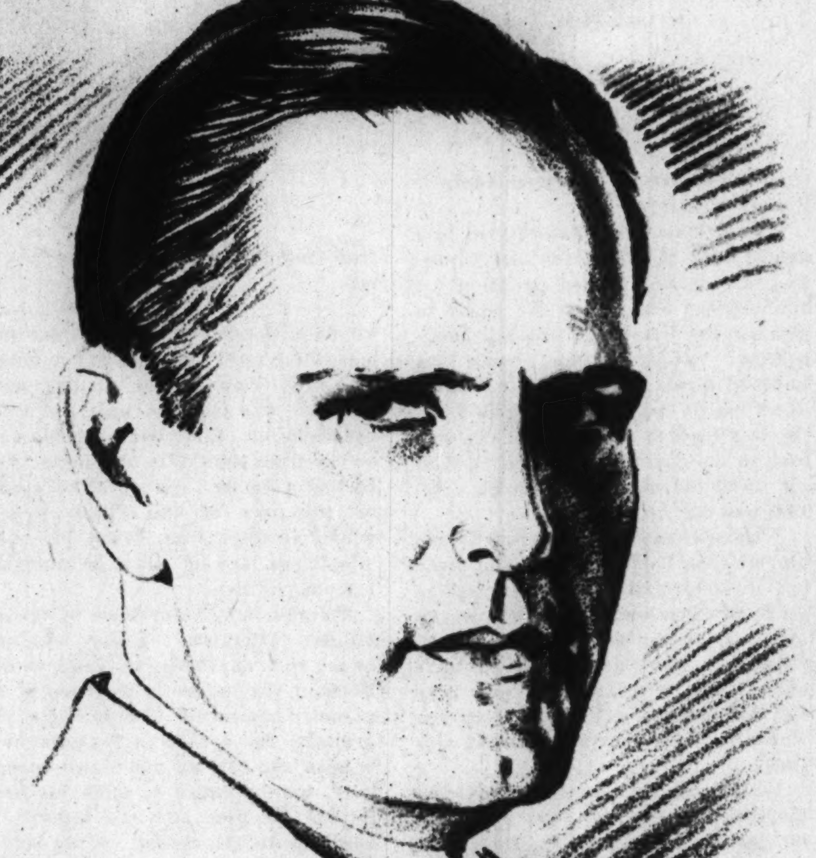
"MARVELOUS," said Conductor Hasselmans.

"Sing the part tomorrow night and you have a contract for the season," said the general manager.

"Whew!" whewed the startled and delighted applicant, or something to the same effect.

All the rest of the day Bentonelli went through the role with a coach. At a general rehearsal that night, the noted soprano, Lucrezia Bori, who was to sing Manon, exercised her prerogative by staying away. Later that night Bentonelli sang alone in his hotel room until halted by a complaint to the management from a woman in the next apartment. There was another rehearsal the next day, but still no leading lady. That night Bentonelli saw Bori on the stage for the first time in his life. But she was kind, and encouraged him with sly handclasps and whispered words.

Bentonelli could have "stopped the show" after his outstanding third-act aria, "Depart, Fair Vision," but sensibly declined to step out of character. At the end of the act Bori pushed him from the wings to receive tumultuous applause and many curtain calls. Conductor Hasselmans strode up from the orchestra pit to clasp the newcomer's hand in public approval. After the performance many persons from the variegated audience found their way back stage to congratulate the tenor. Somehow he found time to telegraph his parents back in Oklahoma that all had gone well.



Joseph Bentonelli.

Meanwhile, the New York newspapers already had told about his good fortune, his season's contract with option of renewal and his career from Sayre to the Met. The wire services carried the story across the nation. His picture, posing with Bori and Johnson, flashed over the Associated Press wirephoto system. The same night his success was re-enacted in the "March of Time" radio program, and Lowell Thomas, commentator, broadcast about it. The next day Bentonelli was interviewed on the air by John B. Kennedy. That Sunday night he was featured in Robert L. Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" program as the embryo physician who became a singer. Soon a national weekly told about the new hero in opera.

In spite of all this, Bentonelli's head was not turned; he was still Joe Benton at heart. He knew he had not mastered the last note in musical accomplishment. The morning after "Manon," Olin Downes, able critic of the New York Times, said he had made "a legitimate and gratifying success;" that his voice was not large, but had "lyrical beauty and a warm and refined color."

"As soon as Mr. Bentonelli appeared on the stage," Downes continued, "it was evident that he had qualities as an interpreter; that he knew style in song and also the stage traditions of his part. He knew how to walk and hold himself; his hands were not bunches of carrots; he had evident appreciation of the period of the opera and the character of the role. He had also good French. . . . It was with the third act that Mr. Bentonelli came into his own. He sang 'Ah! fuyez' with true dramatic feeling, with admirable stage business and a tone which fitted the romantic music and was sufficiently brilliant to attain the climaxes in a beautiful way. He moved the audience by the sincerity and emotion of his interpretation.

"Later performances will show the extent and perhaps also the limitations of a talented singer. But it is clear that Mr. Johnson has added to his personnel the kind of young talent that freshens a cast and adds materially to the interest of an opera season. Also it is evident that Mr. Bentonelli is a thoughtful and self-critical artist, not convinced that he has reached the top with every one blind to that fact save a few churlish critics, not unaware that there is much before him to be done before he completely 'arrives.' Therefore, he is an artist likely to develop."

There was even a story in the costuming of the debutant for "Manon." He had an elaborate operatic wardrobe, including the habiliments of Chevalier des Grieux—but at his home in Chicago. A telephone call to his cousin there hurried his trunk, with minutes to spare, to the Twentieth Century Limited, which ordinarily carries only passengers' baggage, but which took this consignment by special arrangement. The trunk reached New York with only a few hours' leeway. After the curtain rose the audience of 4000 beheld Bentonelli correctly attired in the three-cornered hat, powdered wig and brocades of the eighteenth century.

His next role at the Met was that of Rinuccio in Puccini's one-act operatic comedy, "Gianni Schicci," irreverently called backstage "Johnny Skeeki." Since then he has sung in "Madame Butterfly," "Rigoletto," "Lucia di Lammermoor" and other operas. He appeared with Lawrence Tibbett in "Schicci" and "Rigoletto" and journeyed to Brooklyn to sing in "Lucia" with Lily Pons. He rehearses often as much as ten hours daily. It is no trick for him to hold high "C."

The son of Oliver Benton, retired lumberman, Joe Benton attended the University of Oklahoma, where he was taken into Phi Beta Kappa, the scholastic society, and Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, besides becoming a Bachelor of Arts in 1920 and later a Bachelor of Music. While a rollicking member of the Glee Club he had his ambition set on being a physician and entered medical school. Then, at the age of 20, he was confronted with a difficult choice—whether to accept a Rhodes scholarship to Oxford University or a scholarship to Chicago Musical College. He picked the latter.

FROM musical school he went to Nice, France, and studied for two years with the famous Jean de Reszke. Running short of funds, he came home for a concert tour, which enabled him to spend the next nine years in Italy. There he rehearsed with Ottorino Resphigi, the composer, and there a musical group made him a present of the complete score of Resphigi's "La Fiamma," one of his prized possessions.

He made a debut at Rome in 1928 and, all told, enjoyed 411 operatic appearances in Italy and elsewhere in Europe. In that respect and in his sudden rise to the Metropolitan his career has been analagous to the fanciful stories of the movies, such as that in "One Night of Love."

Upon his return to storm America he sang at the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago in 1934 and that autumn took the first big step by appearing in "La Tosca" with the Chicago Civic Opera Company, opposite Maria Jeritza and with his friend and counselor, Ernestine Schumann-Heink, in the audience.

Last autumn Chicago critics praised Bentonelli's performances in a second opera season there. His greatest success was in the American premiere of "La Fiamma," in which he shared honors with Rosa Raisa, the soprano.

Last October 31 he took the role of the prince in the St. Louis performanace of "Turandot," singing opposite Jeritza. Next April 20 he will sing here in "Lucia."

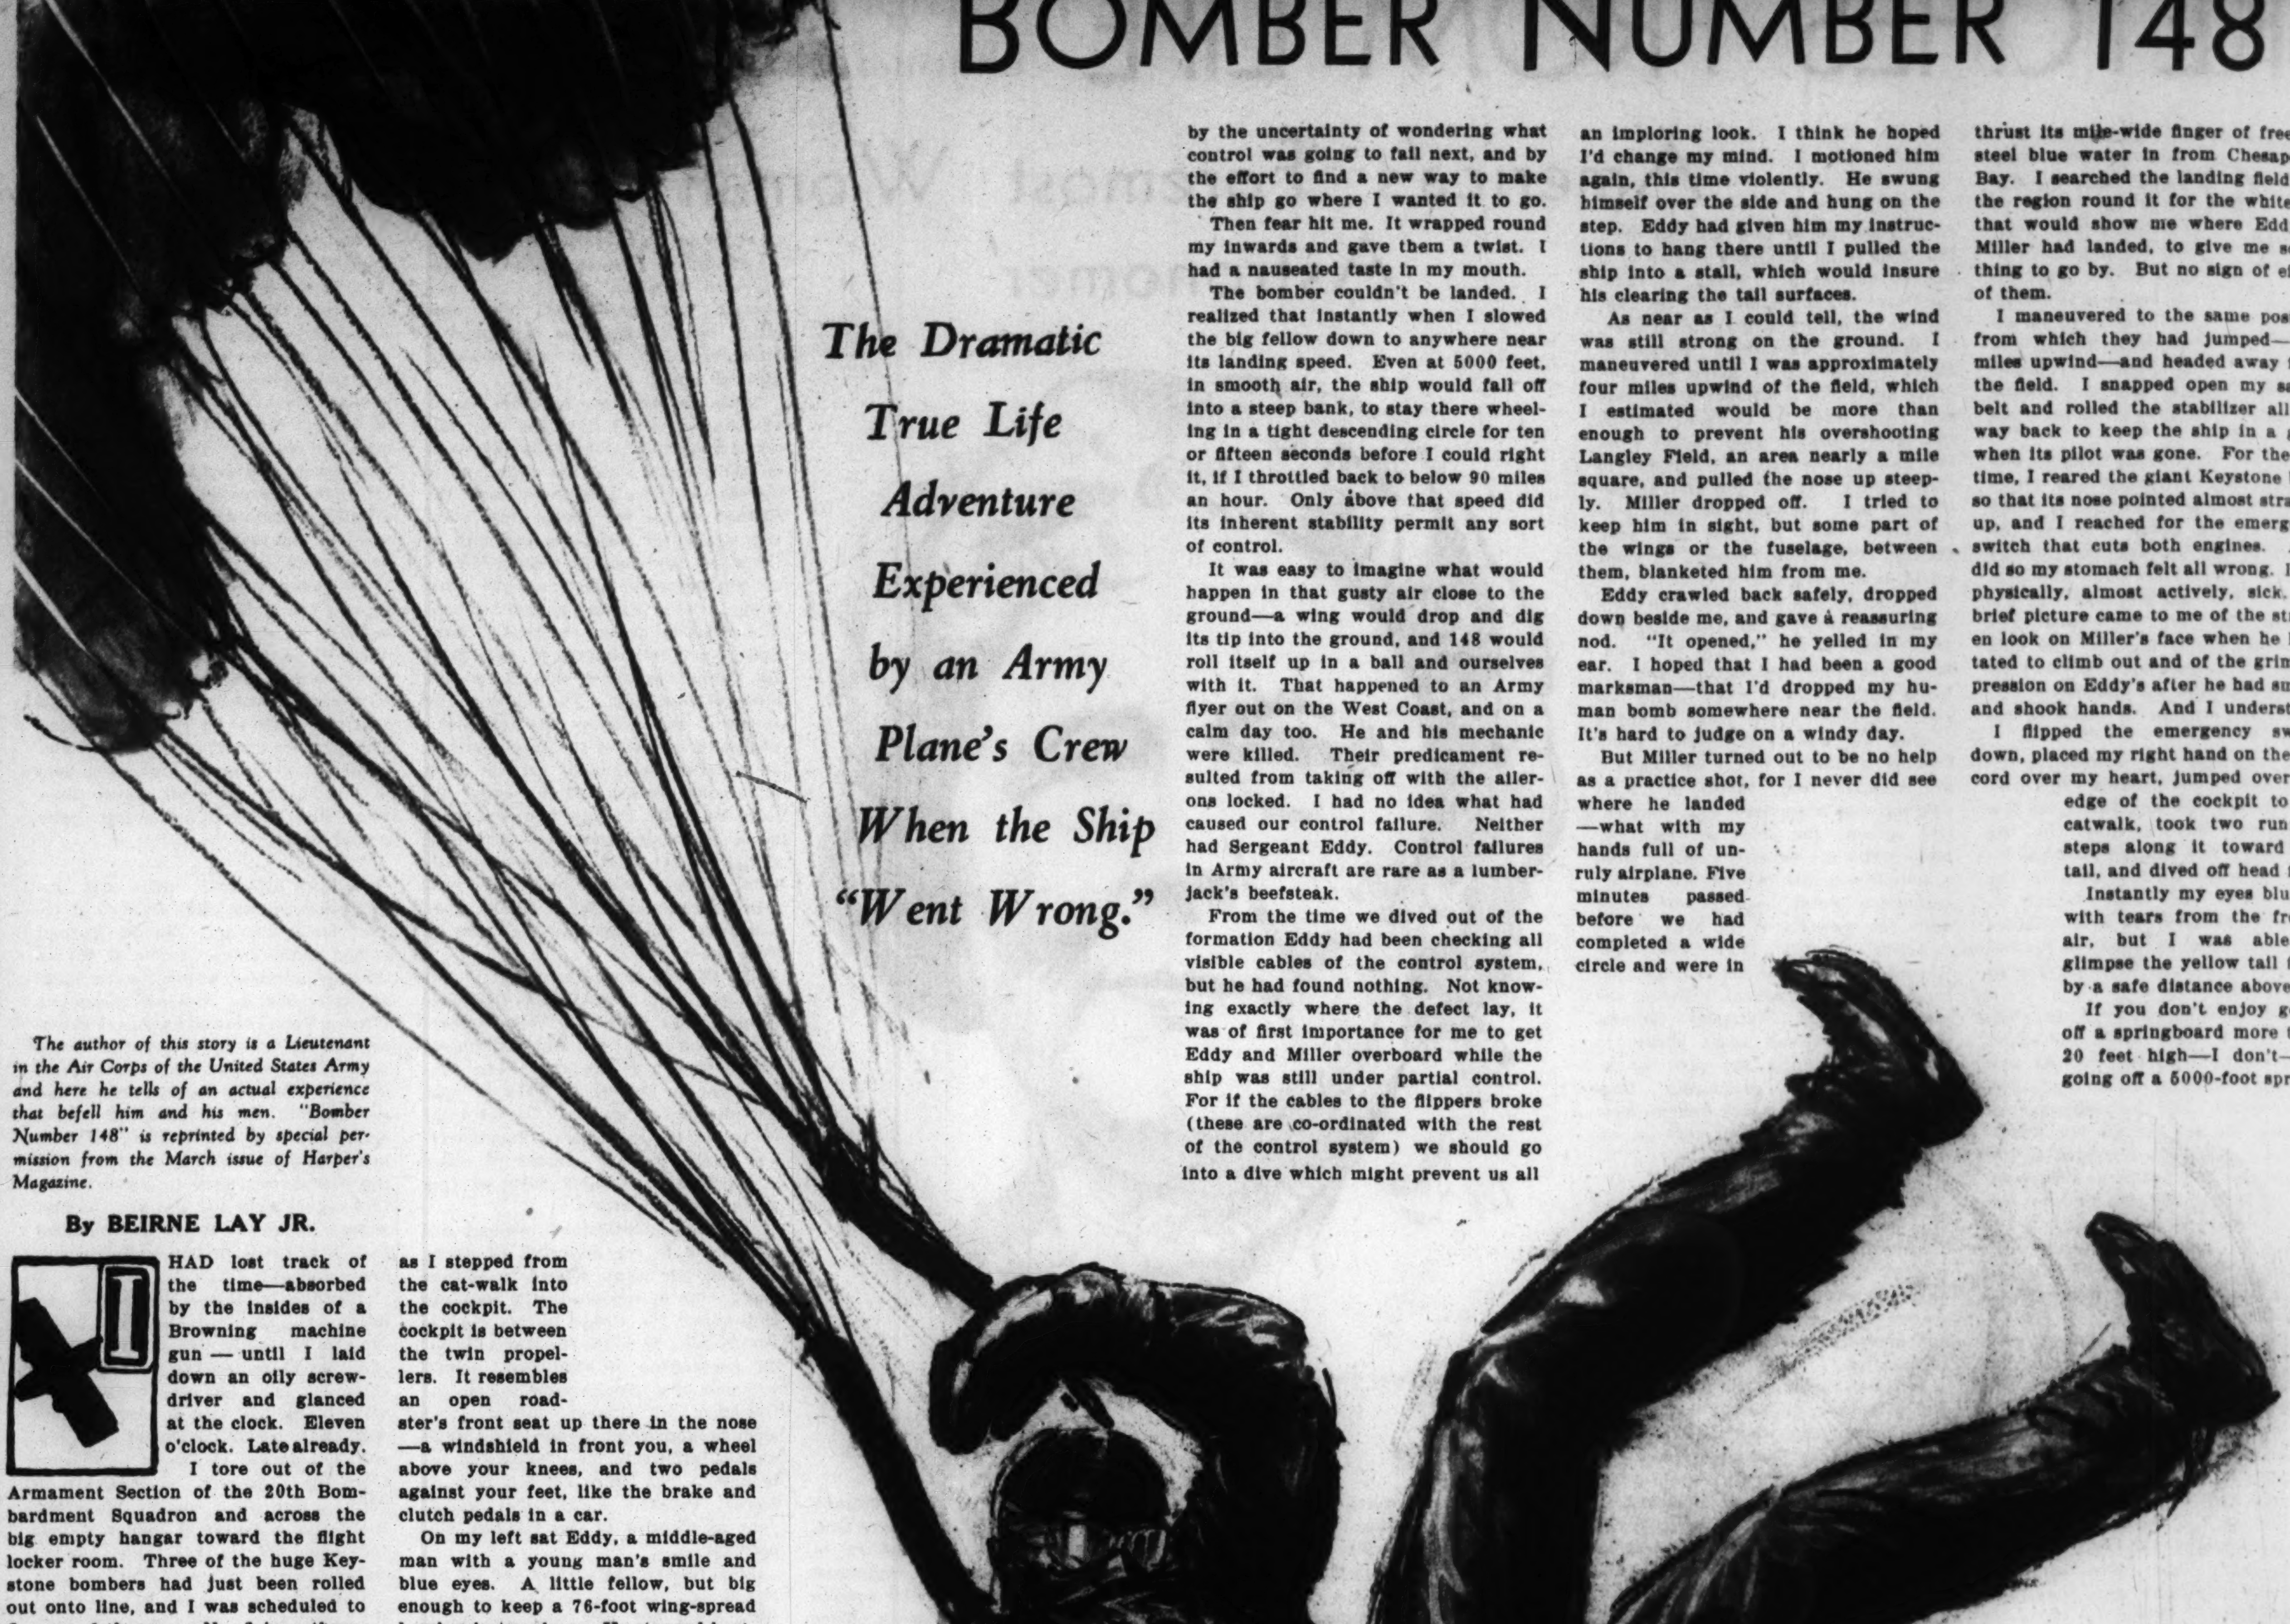
BOMBER NUMBER 148



The Dramatic True Life Adventure Experienced by an Army Plane's Crew When the Ship "Went Wrong."

The author of this story is a Lieutenant in the Air Corps of the United States Army and here he tells of an actual experience that befell him and his men. "Bomber Number 148" is reprinted by special permission from the March issue of Harper's Magazine.

By BEIRNE LAY JR.

I HAD lost track of the time—absorbed by the insides of a Browning machine gun — until I laid down an oily screwdriver and glanced at the clock. Eleven o'clock. Late already.

I tore out of the Armament Section of the 20th Bombardment Squadron and across the big empty hangar toward the flight locker room. Three of the huge Keystone bombers had just been rolled out onto line, and I was scheduled to fly one of them—as No. 3 in a three-plane formation. I could hear the thunder of six Cyclone engines warming up outside. A mechanic cut the racket off short as he hauled the hangar door shut against the frosty air of a January morning at Langley Field.

I skidded to a brief halt before the bulletin board in the locker room, to make sure of my ship's number; 148 it was. Crew chief: Sergeant Eddy. Passenger: Corporal Miller.

I jerked open my locker, pulled on helmet and goggles, light leather flying jacket, and winter flying moccasins. No time for the full heavy winter-flying equipment. Better to freeze up there than to miss the flight. It's a serious matter to be absent from an ordered mission in the Army without air-tight excuse. I seized parachute and fur gloves; ran out to 148.

Those numbers were painted white, and three feet high, on the olive-drab side of the bulky bomber; but I had no reason to give them any especial heed this morning. I didn't notice for instance that they added up to thirteen. Nor, for that matter, did I stop to recall that the date on today's operations order read 1-23-34, which adds to the same total. And I was ignorant of still another fact: That punctuality doesn't always pay—that punctuality on my part this morning would have provided a job for a dredge: The job of grappling along the muddy bottom of Chesapeake Bay for my body—within twenty minutes. You see, ordinarily I should have had time to climb into my heaviest winter-flying equipment; but that comes later.

ANOTHER pilot was already in the cockpit of 148, with Sergeant Eddy sitting beside him. I walked out under the nose and criss-crossed my arms at the pilot. It was Lieutenant Crain. As he unfastened his safety belt and climbed down out of the ship, I could almost hear him cussing above the explosive hum of the left engine, which the crew chief was gunning up. Crain stamped up to me, clumsy in his heavy winter suit; his breath came in steamy white puffs as he pitched into me for being late, forcing him to dress himself up and climb into that ship for nothing. Crain ought to have kissed me. He would have if he had known what I didn't know—yet.

I grasped the handgrip on the side of the fuselage and swung myself up to the black corrugated cat-walk that protects the fabric of the lower wing as you walk up to the cockpit in the nose, just fore of the broad wing's leading edge. The idling right propeller tossed a chill draft over me as I stepped from the cat-walk into the cockpit. The cockpit is between the twin propellers. It resembles an open roadster's front seat up there in the nose—a windshield in front you, a wheel above your knees, and two pedals against your feet, like the brake and clutch pedals in a car.

On my left sat Eddy, a middle-aged man with a young man's smile and blue eyes. A little fellow, but big enough to keep a 76-foot wing-spread bomber in top shape. He stopped beating his hands together and helped me to strap myself in.

The two other bombers of the formation were lined up on my right. Painted on their noses in red, yellow, white and black was the figure of a pirate hurling a lighted pot-shaped bomb, our squadron insignia. Lieutenant Simons, leader, caught my eye. I finished testing my brace of Cyclones and nodded, releasing the handbrake at the same time. Simons turned his head toward Lieutenant Dietz. Dietz nodded. Simons taxied out. Dietz and I fell in behind him, taxying in column until Simons came to a stop, headed into the wind, stretched his arm to the right. Dietz and I took up our positions in a right echelon, keeping our engines tuned up, so as not to be left behind when Simons commenced to roll forward.

Beirne Lay Jr.

A 30 to 35-mile-an-hour wind was blowing. After we had bumped along on the take-off, and lumbered into the air, it was a devil of a job to stay in position; bumpy as hell. I found myself pulling the wheel clean from one side to the other to keep the wing level. Ordinarily, no more movement of the wheel is required than to hold a car straight on a good road. This was going to be a tough morning for formation flying.

Up above 1000 feet, the air became smoother—and colder. My teeth went into a tap dance. They call a Keystone bomber the coldest airplane a-wing. It is. Simons led us on up to 2500 feet; for even with Dietz and myself close to his wingtips, his ship would still drop out of sight below and then shoot up 20 feet above us from the occasional violent currents of the lower altitudes.

Simons leveled out and started in a gentle right turn. In the No. 3 position, on his left, I tried to follow. I was heaving sharply on the wheel to pick up the left wing, which a particularly vicious bump had just knocked down. Suddenly the wheel came free in my hands. I spun it all the way over to the left—all the way over to the right. No tension on it at all. And the wing stayed down. No. 148 was out of control.

I shoved the wheel forward—the flippers took hold all right—and dived out of the formation to get clear of the other two bombers. The ship continued in its steep left bank. I cut the throttles. The bank increased, so I opened the throttles wide and used full top rudder, pulling back on the wheel to check the rapid loss of altitude.

I had seen by a quick glance over my shoulder that we were well clear of Simons and Dietz. Dietz was circling us. Gradually—very gradually—the big Keystone came out of the bank and leveled out. "Altitude!" was my first impuse. "Get altitude—room to bring things under control, check the trouble, find out what the ship will and won't do—room to bail out of this damned crate if we have to."

Altitude. I maintained full power and commenced to climb. The aileron control by which the pilot keeps the ship on an even keel (or banks the wings) by turning his wheel was out of commission. However, I found that I could keep the wings level by throttling back the engine on the high wing side and by use of the rudder, so so long as we didn't climb so steeply as to bring the airspeed below 90. Up we went—steadily. Up to 5000 feet. That altitude was like fresh air to the suffocating crew of a submarine.

Five thousand feet. Time to think. I'd been too busy to think until now, with every nerve and muscle keyed up by the uncertainty of wondering what control was going to fail next, and by the effort to find a new way to make the ship go where I wanted it to go.

Then fear hit me. It wrapped round my inwards and gave them a twist. I had a nauseated taste in my mouth.

The bomber couldn't be landed. I realized that instantly when I slowed the big fellow down to anywhere near its landing speed. Even at 5000 feet, in smooth air, the ship would fall off into a steep bank, to stay there wheeling in a tight descending circle for ten or fifteen seconds before I could right it, if I throttled back to below 90 miles an hour. Only above that speed did its inherent stability permit any sort of control.

It was easy to imagine what would happen in that gusty air close to the ground—a wing would drop and dig its tip into the ground, and 148 would roll itself up in a ball and ourselves with it. That happened to an Army flyer out on the West Coast, and on a calm day too. He and his mechanic were killed. Their predicament resulted from taking off with the ailerons locked. I had no idea what had caused our control failure. Neither had Sergeant Eddy. Control failures in Army aircraft are rare as a lumberjack's beefsteak.

From the time we dived out of the formation Eddy had been checking all visible cables of the control system, but he had found nothing. Not knowing exactly where the defect lay, it was of first importance for me to get Eddy and Miller overboard while the ship was still under partial control. For if the cables to the flippers broke (these are co-ordinated with the rest of the control system) we should go into a dive which might prevent us all from jumping without fouling in the tail.

I leaned over to Eddy. "We'll have to jump, Sergeant." Eddy's face was a red-blue from the cold, but it paled. I've read about people turning pale, but that was the first time I remember seeing it. Eddy had probably never faced the possibility of a jump. And he had a family. He scribbled a note on the back of the Flight Report which he drew from under his seat: "Can't you land by using the motors?" I shook my head.

We now had the problem of getting Miller's attention. Miller was unaware that anything had gone wrong. None of the bomber's movements apparently had struck him as out of the ordinary for a ship in formation. I bobbed the tail up and down repeatedly, but he failed to stick his head out of the rear gunner's tourelle in response to the signal. Eddy solved the puzzle—the hard way—the only way.

HE REMOVED his gloves, climbed on top of the fuselage, and wormed his way aft. He must have been 20 feet from the cockpit to the rear gunner's tourelle, the only opening through which he could reach Miller, and he was exposed all this time to the icy slipstream, maintaianing a precarious grip with bare hands. He was in imminent danger of being blown off. Had this happened he would have been carried back into the high tail or into the flippers, with serious, maybe fatal, results. But he made it—disappeared inside.

I was having my hands full holding 148 straight and level; but every few seconds I peered back. Presently Miller thrust his head up. I made a sweeping motion with my arm, pointing the thumb down. Miller climbed half way out. I repeated the motion. He emerged a bit farther and gave me an imploring look. I think he hoped I'd change my mind. I motioned him again, this time violently. He swung himself over the side and hung on the step. Eddy had given him my instructions to hang there until I pulled the ship into a stall, which would insure his clearing the tail surfaces.

As near as I could tell, the wind was still strong on the ground. I maneuvered until I was approximately four miles upwind of the field, which I estimated would be more than enough to prevent his overshooting Langley Field, an area nearly a mile square, and pulled the nose up steeply. Miller dropped off. I tried to keep him in sight, but some part of the wings or the fuselage, between them, blanketed him from me.

Eddy crawled back safely, dropped down beside me, and gave a reassuring nod. "It opened," he yelled in my ear. I hoped that I had been a good marksman—that I'd dropped my human bomb somewhere near the field. It's hard to judge on a windy day.

But Miller turned out to be no help as a practice shot, for I never did see where he landed—what with my hands full of unruly airplane. Five minutes passed before we had completed a wide circle and were in a position to drop Eddy.

"Your turn, Sergeant," I shouted. "Dive off the trailing edge of the lower wing on your side when I give the signal." Eddy nodded. Then he did two things that would never have occurred to me. First, he reached for the Flight Report and shoved it inside his flying suit. Then he held out his hand and smiled. We shook—a quick, hard shake. Perhaps that was theatrical. I didn't think so. It was real. There was a finality about it.

Eddy climbed out to his post where the wing joins the fuselage and hung there on the step. I could just see the top of his helmet. For the second time I pulled the nose up. The singing of the wind through the struts died as the bomber lost speed. The helmet disappeared. I was alone.

For several minutes more I experimented with the Keystone—trying to visualize some way to bring it down safely. I hated the idea of turning $60,000 worth of bomber loose to crash and go up in smoke. But it was no use. A landing that would save 148 was a hundred-to-one shot. Was it worth risking your neck, the only one you've got, on even a two-to-one shot, I asked myself. The answer was no.

And the waiting wasn't doing me any good either. When you have to bail out in a hurry you don't have time to think—to permit your imagination to break into a canter. But fifteen minutes had passed since I first realized that I was facing something outside of past experience—the Unknown—of which the end was not yet.

I looked over the side at the bleak brown earth 5000 feet below. Langley Field seemed a mighty small patch to shoot myself at. If I undershot I should land in a swarm of scraggly trees. If I overshot I should end up in the crowded building area or beyond it in the Back River, which thrust its mile-wide finger of freezing steel blue water in from Chesapeake Bay. I searched the landing field and the region round it for the white dot that would show me where Eddy or Miller had landed, to give me something to go by. But no sign of either of them.

I maneuvered to the same position from which they had jumped—four miles upwind—and headed away from the field. I snapped open my safety belt and rolled the stabilizer all the way back to keep the ship in a glide when its pilot was gone. For the last time, I reared the giant Keystone back so that its nose pointed almost straight up, and I reached for the emergency switch that cuts both engines. As I did so my stomach felt all wrong. I was physically, almost actively, sick. A brief picture came to me of the stricken look on Miller's face when he hesitated to climb out and of the grim expression on Eddy's after he had smiled and shook hands. And I understood.

I flipped the emergency switch down, placed my right hand on the ripcord over my heart, jumped over the edge of the cockpit to the catwalk, took two running steps along it toward the tail, and dived off head first.

Instantly my eyes blurred with tears from the frozen air, but I was able to glimpse the yellow tail flash by a safe distance above.

If you don't enjoy going off a springboard more than 20 feet high—I don't—try going off a 5000-foot springboard. In the first two seconds it seemed as though I was going to smack my face right into the ground. Then I appeared to be motionless—hanging by my heels head down in the upper reaches of the blank sky. Motionless, with a blinding draft blowing up into my face. Now my feet went on over, the way they do when you make a bad dive and land on your back in the water.

The ripcord! I jerked it across my chest, wire cable dangling, and without thinking what a trophy it would make, threw it away. Wham! I might as well have jumped from a second-story window, feet apart, and landed in the saddle of a horse, without breaking the fall with my hands. That's what it felt like when the parachute opened, throwing all my weight against the legstraps, which jerked up into my groin. It hurt—plenty. But it was the pleasantest pain I ever felt.

I LOOKED up at the big saucer of snow silk above me, bulged out taut. It seemed huge. The air whistled with a soft eery note through the vent in the top. The absence of the Cyclone eengines which had ben roaring in my ears accentuated that peanut vender's thin whistling in the sudden hush of the great silence of the sky.

In slow motion, the earth came up closer to me, and as it did so my first relief evaporated. I was drifting too fast. My angle of descent was pointing at the center of the building area beyond the landing field. I realized that the wind must have been much stronger than I had figured. It must have been round 50 miles an hour at 5000 feet. I knew that it was about 30 on the ground.

The thought of striking the side of a tall structure or a chimney going 30 miles an hour forward speed, plus the speed of vertical descent, touched off a new powder train of alarm. Fear had relaxed its grip only to tighten it again. An icicle formed in the pit of my stomach.

You can understand the sensation if you will take your car to an open field a mile or two wide and set the steering wheel and throttle so that it will roll along in a straight line at 30 miles an hour. Then climb out over the hood, sit on the radiator, and wait for the car to propel you into a cluster of buildings at will, on the far side of that field. Who said that your daughter in his will, bequeathed her as a matter of fact half his estate. Then he tore up the will in a passion, angered by some magazine articles she had written about him.

Lillian Russell, whose last years were made painful and sedentary by a fall she had suffered disembarking from a ship, died in 1922. Her will left all her property to Moore, with the exception of a trust fund assuring Dorothy $50 a week for life. Moore liquidated her possessions. He was a canny financier and seems to have taken no one into his confidence. The result was that Dorothy failed to get her small share of what she had inherited from her mother. Even her own property was sequestered and the ring, which had been in her safety deposit box—to which Moore apparently had the right of entry—was lumped with the "personal property" Lillian Russell had intended for her amiable husband. So Dorothy was forced to sue for an accounting to get even the $50 a week to which she was literally entitled, but the accounting showed that there was only $63,000 cash in the estate. This wasn't enough to guarantee even the $50 weekly, but Dorothy seems to have been satisfied with the verbal agreement she believed Moore had made with her mother. According to this Moore was to leave her half his estate—as he had done by the original will he destroyed.

After the suit for an accounting was settled out of court, Dorothy apparently settled down to a policy of watchful waiting. She was married now to her third husband, Henry Calvit, a western circus manager.

In 1927 Moore became engaged to Dorothy Caruso and tenderly presented her with the ring Lillian Russell had previously given her daughter as a birthday present. A year later, when the engagement had been amicably broken off, Dorothy Caruso offered to return the ring to Moore.

BUT Moore refused it, telling her in a jocular way that she should keep it as a wedding present unless he should marry first, in which case she might give it back to him as a wedding present. At the time he was 60. After he died she made her third marriage, this time to a former Philadelphia physician and banker, Dr. Charles Adams Holder, who was living in Paris and had two grown children.

When Moore died in 1930, leaving an estate estimated at $1,000,000, Dorothy Russell found that he had left her only $1000 in his will. This seemed a little unreasonable, considering that the will bequeathed $25,000 to Dorothy Caruso (who said it was a very pleasant surprise), $10,000 to his god son, Alexander Pollock Livermore the son of Jessie; and $100,000 to the Queen of Spain, who was instructed to use it for charity in any way she saw fit, the rest to be divided among Moore's relatives. Nevertheless Dorothy Russell's claims were decidedly modest. She felt that she was entitled at least to the things her mother had owned—her jewelry, silver and a portrait by Howard Chandler Christy. She put in a claim, which was disregarded.

So she engaged the services of Samuel Kornbluth, a New York attorney, and proceeded to try for what she could get the hard way. It was this litigation that brought together the two Dorothys. They had been strangers until the ring came between them.

Dorothy Russell has been signally unsuccessful in making good the claim she bases on verbal understandings between her mother and step-father. Attorney Kornbluth pointed out in Judge Thomas Trimble's court in New York—where an attempt to get Dorothy Russell half her step-father's estate dragged on for several weeks—that of the 756 pieces of Lillian Russell's personal property which had been listed for sale at auction, only 635 came up. Of the missing pieces, one, an $8500 pearl necklace, was bought in by Moore for $1000, and another, a $15,000 diamond ring, wasn't even sent to the auction. The good Judge was distinctly sympathetic, and exercised over what he frankly termed "evidence of fraud." "Any man who would do this," he exploded, "is not entitled to any mercy from this court, dead or alive." He ordered a reaccounting, which indicated that Moore had defrauded not only Dorothy, but also his late wife's estate, of which he was of course executor. The court took enough out of the Moore estate to assure Dorothy of her $50 a week. But as to granting her half of the estate, he was sorry, he said, the limitations of the written evidence made that impossible.

Lillian Russell.

"It is assumed," Judge Trimble said sympathetically, "that Lillian Russell's experience in life would direct her to require the contract in writing for any business matter. . . . She had been married four times and distrusted men, and the inference drawn is that the business part of her marriage . . . would have been reduced to writing. Since there is no conclusive proof, the case is dismissed."

The case of the emerald ring was settled (for the moment) in another litigation. It has been going on for five years now. In 1931, Dorothy Russell sued Dorothy Caruso for recovery of the ring, not denying that the latter had come by it properly, but insisting that since it had been illegally taken from her, it hadn't been Moore's to bestow. Dorothy Caruso walked out of that trial with the emerald on her finger. Dorothy Russell appealed and the case came up again in 1934; this time she asked either the ring or $50,000. She won the ring and it was duly handed over to her by Dorothy Caruso's attorney. Presumably Dorothy Caruso Holder cannot afford to be as magnanimous as Dorothy Caruso was in 1928, when she freely offered to return the ring to Moore. Although she is accounted rich, she now has a large brood to watch over: Caruso's two sons; her daughter, Gloria Caruso; her other dughter, Jacqueline Ingram, and Dr. Holder's son and daughter. At any rate, though the Queen of Spain was willing to settle for two-fifths of Moore's charitable bequest, Dorothy Caruso Holder insisted on getting the full $25,000 of hers.

AND meanwhile Dorothy Russell draws her $50 a week and holds the ring. But her hold is very tenuous indeed. Edgar LePard of the Tishman Realty Company wants the ring as payment for a judgment he won from her previously. Dorothy says he can't have it because a Mrs. Marguerite Feeley-Deeley has a prior claim, having advanced her $5000 on it before LePard got his judgment. So the only thing certain about the present status of the ring is that Dorothy Russell-Einstein-O'Reilly-Calvit is holding hard to it and that Dorothy Park Benjamin Caruso-Ingram-Holder can't have it back. The only figure in the tale who hasn't changed a tithe by all this tempestuous and unhappy bickering is the ring, which still glows and glitters as impervious as the day Lillian Russell first admired it.

troubles are over when your 'chute opens?

I sat there in that oscillating swing-chair, with the peanut vender's whistle overhead, and waited. And then I saw that I was wrong again—that the wind was going to carry me beyond the building area and into the midst of the whitecaps that frothed across the Back River. Thank God, I wasn't wearing that bulky winter-flying suit—it would drag a man to the bottom like an anchor. And I was a good swimmer. I knew that I had a chance.

Although I was still above two thousand feet, as near as I could judge, an overwhelming instinct seized me to strip for action. I drew off my fur gauntlets and tossed them away, then unbuckled the chin strap of my helmet and let the helmet and goggles drop. The speed with which the helmet resolved itself into a speck as it plummeted toward the red pump of a filling station situated beside a creamy strip of concrete highway far below showed me what an effective job the panel of silk was doing as a sky hook. I continued to undress, in my singularly public boudoir, unstrapping my sheep-lined moccasins and kicking them off.

YES. It was going to be a January salt-water bath all right unless I could slip the 'chute far enough over to my right to land on a thumb of marshy land that jutted out into the water. I pulled the shroud lines toward the side to tilt the 'chute up so that the air would spill out to the left and slip me to the right.

The 'chute slipped all right, but it wasn't slipping enough to aim me anywhere near that point of land. I gripped the shroud lines again, both hands this time, and gave a great heave. I got results. The air spilled completely out of the 'chute, which collapsed into a shapeless rag. I dropped as though a seat had been pulled out from under me. How far I fell free, I don't know, but it must have been several hundred feet. It was like the jump from the bomber all over again.

And then . . . the 'chute opened. The same jerk. The same yank of the legstraps. I looked up to see if the shroud lines were fouled. No. They radiated up from my shoulders to the edges of the white saucer as before. We were in line with the sun. It blurred yellow through the silk of my billowing umbrella. I decided to discontinue the slip experiments—there seemed too much chance of a fatal slip.

I was right over the field now, at 1000 feet. The showdown was near. I could see Simons shooting 142 in fast for a landing. Dietz, in 143, was already taxying to the line. I was low enough to read the numbers on the sides of their ships and to hear the siren note of the crash whistle blowing. I could see figures rushing toward the boathouse on the far side of the building area on the edge of Back River. And meanwhile my speed forward and down was accelerating with a will.

Several men have drowned fighting the harness of a parachute. I was going to make no mistake about clearing myself from this rig just before I struck the water. I undid the chest buckle. Then the right legstrap—with great difficulty. The realization came with a shock that my hands were already numb. So numb that the strength was nearly gone from the fingers. I tugged at the left legstrap buckle. I couldn't bend the metal tongue of the buckle in far enough to release the "D" ring at the end of the legstrap. All my weight was on that one strap now.

That was the trouble. The legstraps had been adjusted too loose, so that when the 'chute opened the second time, it yanked the seat half way up my back. I placed both hands behind my back and tried to shove the seat down to relieve the tension on that legstrap. I tried to haul myself up with one hand by the shroud lines and unfasten the buckle with the other, but it was no go. The grip left in those wooden fingers couldn't have hurt the fist of a little baby.

The water was underneath now—sliding past and coming up fast, spray whipping along the crests of the whitecaps, laying streaks of foam parallel to the sweep of the wind. The 'chute slowly revolved a half turn, so that I found myself riding backward, facing the boathouse, already a quarter of a mile behind me across the waves. I saw a small boat pushing out from the dock, and then. . . .

A great splash of ice water hit me in the back. A cloud of spray whisked past my head and sparkled in the sun. The sun dimmed. I was looking at it through two feet of green-yellow water. For a brief second the stinging chill of the river reached only my hands, neck, and ankles. Then, like an electric shock, it poured down my collar and flooded over every pore of my warm skin.

That legstrap had a death grip on my left thigh. It was hauling me along feet first, head and arms trailing. A twenty-eight-foot diameter 'chute makes a powerful sail before the wind. It was towing me at a fast clip, head still under water. We must have been making fifteen knots in that thirty-mile wind. I clawed at that damned buckle. I worked my hands forward on the shroud lines and jerked on them in a desperate effort to collapse that infernal sail. But the pressure of the water was too great. It forced me back. Again and again I fought like a wildcat to collapse that 'chute by the shroud lines, but always the water forced me back—trailed me out by that leg.

It is said that nature releases an emergency jet of energy in an insane man or in a man fighting for his life. I could feel that emergency shot all through my body. With violent contortions and thrashings of my arms I contrived to force my head above water and draw in a great gulp of air before I was pulled under again. I held it—held it until my throat was a choking stopper against the pressure in my lungs, then let it go—gulped in the salty sweet ice water—pints of it, before I was through. I couldn't help it.

Gradually the emergency energy was spending itself. I fought to maneuver my head above the surface again, made it, and swallowed, not air, but a throatful of the wave crest that broke over my face just as I exposed my mouth. Strength and will to struggle weakened fast now. I couldn't fight much longer. A great sob welled up inside me—an agony of self-pity—a sort of burning, tragic self-pity. And then. . . .

My silken tug stopped tugging. I slid my leg through the suddenly limp legstrap. I thrashed to the surface and heaved air down into my lungs, treading water feebly. The 'chute had slowly wetted itself at the bottom from dragging along the water, and had finally collapsed.

My right toe touched something. Bottom. I let the other foot down. I was standing on a muddy shallow, up to my neck. It was impossible to hold a footing though. The current of the tide forced me slowly along. But the water became shallower. The waves were down around my chest now. I could stand my ground. I waited.

Over there a couple of hundred yards away came the rescue boat—a two-passenger speedboat the size of an outboard racer. And there were two passengers in it. Where in hell did they expect to put me?

They could see me and were headed right for me, splashing out clouds of spray from the flat hull, but I didn't have much respect for their speed. Why I must have been gaining on them before my power plant fizzled out on me.

Soon they were alongside. They hauled me aboard and I spread-eagled on the tiny deck fore of the cockpit in the stern, hanging onto the sides of the bow. One of them offered me his place, but I was too weak to get up.

We started for the boathouse, against the wind, and once more the waves were breaking over me, abetted now by a cooling breeze that fanned my soaking clothes. A terrific shivering began to vibrate my body from toe to head. The physical work of such shivering produced real exhaustion. My breath came and went in groans. The water I had swallowed deluged out of my mouth—without the customary spasm of vomiting.

The regular crash boat, larger and slower pulled up to us. It was down to the gunwales with its load of flight surgeons, rescuers, and spectators, but somehow they found room to squeeze me inside the cabin. Blankets were thrown round me, but the shivering increased. Someone crammed a corner of a blanket into my mouth to keep me from biting my tongue off. Major Brooke grinned at me.

"I WOULD have bet a million against a dime," he said, "that you were a goner when you went under — and stayed."

They hustled me into the ambulance, into a warm bed in the hospital, and padded me with searing hot water bottles—two on each foot—eight of them altogether. Colonel Cooper, Senior Flight Surgeon, furnished quick evidence of his resource. He produced a pint of bonded whiskey and a water tumbler, into which he poured half of the liquor. I swallowed it like milk. Then he gave me two cups of boiling black coffee. I chased the coffee with the remaining half pint of bonded. And I felt better. Warm inside. But it was an hour and a half before my feet thawed out, despite the renewal of the two hot water bottles on each foot, at intervals.

"Where are Eddy and Miller?" I asked.

"They both landed without injury in the trees on the other side of the Back River," said the Colonel.

"And the bomber?" I asked Major Dargue, my Group Commander.

"The wind carried it clean back to the field, Lay. It crashed into the 59th Squadron Barracks, broke all the windows on the second floor. Nobody hurt. They found that the aileron-control cable had frayed through, inside the control column, where it couldn't be inspected. You're cleared on that. But you gave me a scare. I was sitting in my car in front of the 59th. It splashed mud on me when it hit."

Presently Sergeant Eddy came in. He was still in his flying cover-alls, and his face was scratched up a bit. Eddy waited until there was no one else in the room. Then he approached my bed and drew the Flight Report from inside his cover-alls.

"You forgot to initial the back of the Form No. 1, Lieutenant," he said. It was a technicality. The pilot was supposed to initial the Form No. 1 before take-off. We usually did it after the flight, when we were making out the rest of the report. But it was the kind of technicality that might have made trouble for me in the investigation of the crash. I signed it and Eddy stuck it back in its hiding place. I'll remember Eddy for that.

The exposure treatment Colonel Cooper administered must have been a good one, for I acquired not so much as a sore throat for a souvenir of the cold bath. However, I have one souvenir of the game besides the conventional gold Caterpillar pin from the Irvin Parachute Company. It's the inspection card of that trusty silk life preserver. The latter was picked up from the Back River and reconditioned for me to use again. On this card they keep a record of the inspections, drop-tests with dummies, and repackings of the parachute.

Somehow, I can't help feeling that there is lack of imagination in the Langley Field Parachute Department—an arrested sense of the dramatic; for, on examining the card of my 'chute some months later, I found this cryptic entry: "1-23-34;—DROP TEST."

caliber revolver bullet. With the killer and the body of his victim the party made its way to Goldfields. Anthony left a wife and a small child, living at Bellis, Alberta.

At Goldfields, before a Justice of the Peace, there was a preliminary hearing for Harms and his version of the killing was made known with the reading of a statement he had made to the police. He said he and his partner had quarreled over their fur catch, and that Anthony had advanced on him, saying, "I'll kill you with my hands." In self-defense, then, he contended, he fired.

Harms said that after the shooting he drank some beer and that he didn't remember what happened after that for some time—his mind was practically a blank concerning that period. He said he thought he had gone over to the Allen cabin, but wasn't sure of it.

The Justice of the Peace committed the trapper for trial, and he was taken to Prince Albert to jail.

The long journey from the Lake Athabaska country was made by dog team, train, airplane and on snowshoes.

Recently Harms was tried at the assizes in Battleford, Saskatchewan, convicted of the murder of Anthony, and sentenced to be hanged May 8 at Prince Albert.

PLAYING THEIR WAY TO HEALTH

played in the reception room on visiting days, as a guide to parents and other visitors in selecting just the right toy or game to amuse some sick little boy or girl.

Just any toy that takes a grownup's fancy—even a very handsome and expensive toy—may not be the correct one to give to a child who must play with it in bed. So anyone who is planning to take something entertaining to a sick child or to donate some toys to a children's hospital may find Miss Smith's suggestions helpful.

Psychologists agree that children's toys should be simple and need not be expensive. Many of the toys selected by Miss Smith can be purchased for ten cents.

The reason for this is partly to spare the pocketbook. Another important reason is that if the toy or book becomes contaminated—it may fall on the floor or the child using it may develop a contagious disease—a clean duplicate can be easily provided and the young owner need not suffer the pang of having to discard his favorite plaything.

Only new toys are acceptable at hospitals, where no chances can be taken on the young patient picking up even a cold "germ" to add to his physical suffering.

The beautiful woolly dog or the fetching stuffed doll are also on the "don't give" list. Stuffed toys cannot be cleaned, and toys for sick children, especially in a hospital, must be cleanable.

Patrons are asked not to give playthings that will drop out of the child's high hospital bed and break. Avoid also the toys that have sharp edges or other features that may injure the child when he plays with them. A grownup may be amused by pop-up books, but the sick child will not be, and he may even be frightened by them.

Modeling clay will bring much happiness to small patients. Another favorite and approved plaything at Children's Memorial Hospital is a bean bag game consisting of a cat's head on cardboard, with cut-out mouth forming a hole to throw the bean bags through.

Very small patients amuse themselves by just putting the bags through the mouth, without using any throwing motion. Larger ones throw the bags, and the exercise incidentally may be made part of the muscle treatment in certain cases. The bean bag should be small, fairly lightweight, and of course made of washable, durable material.

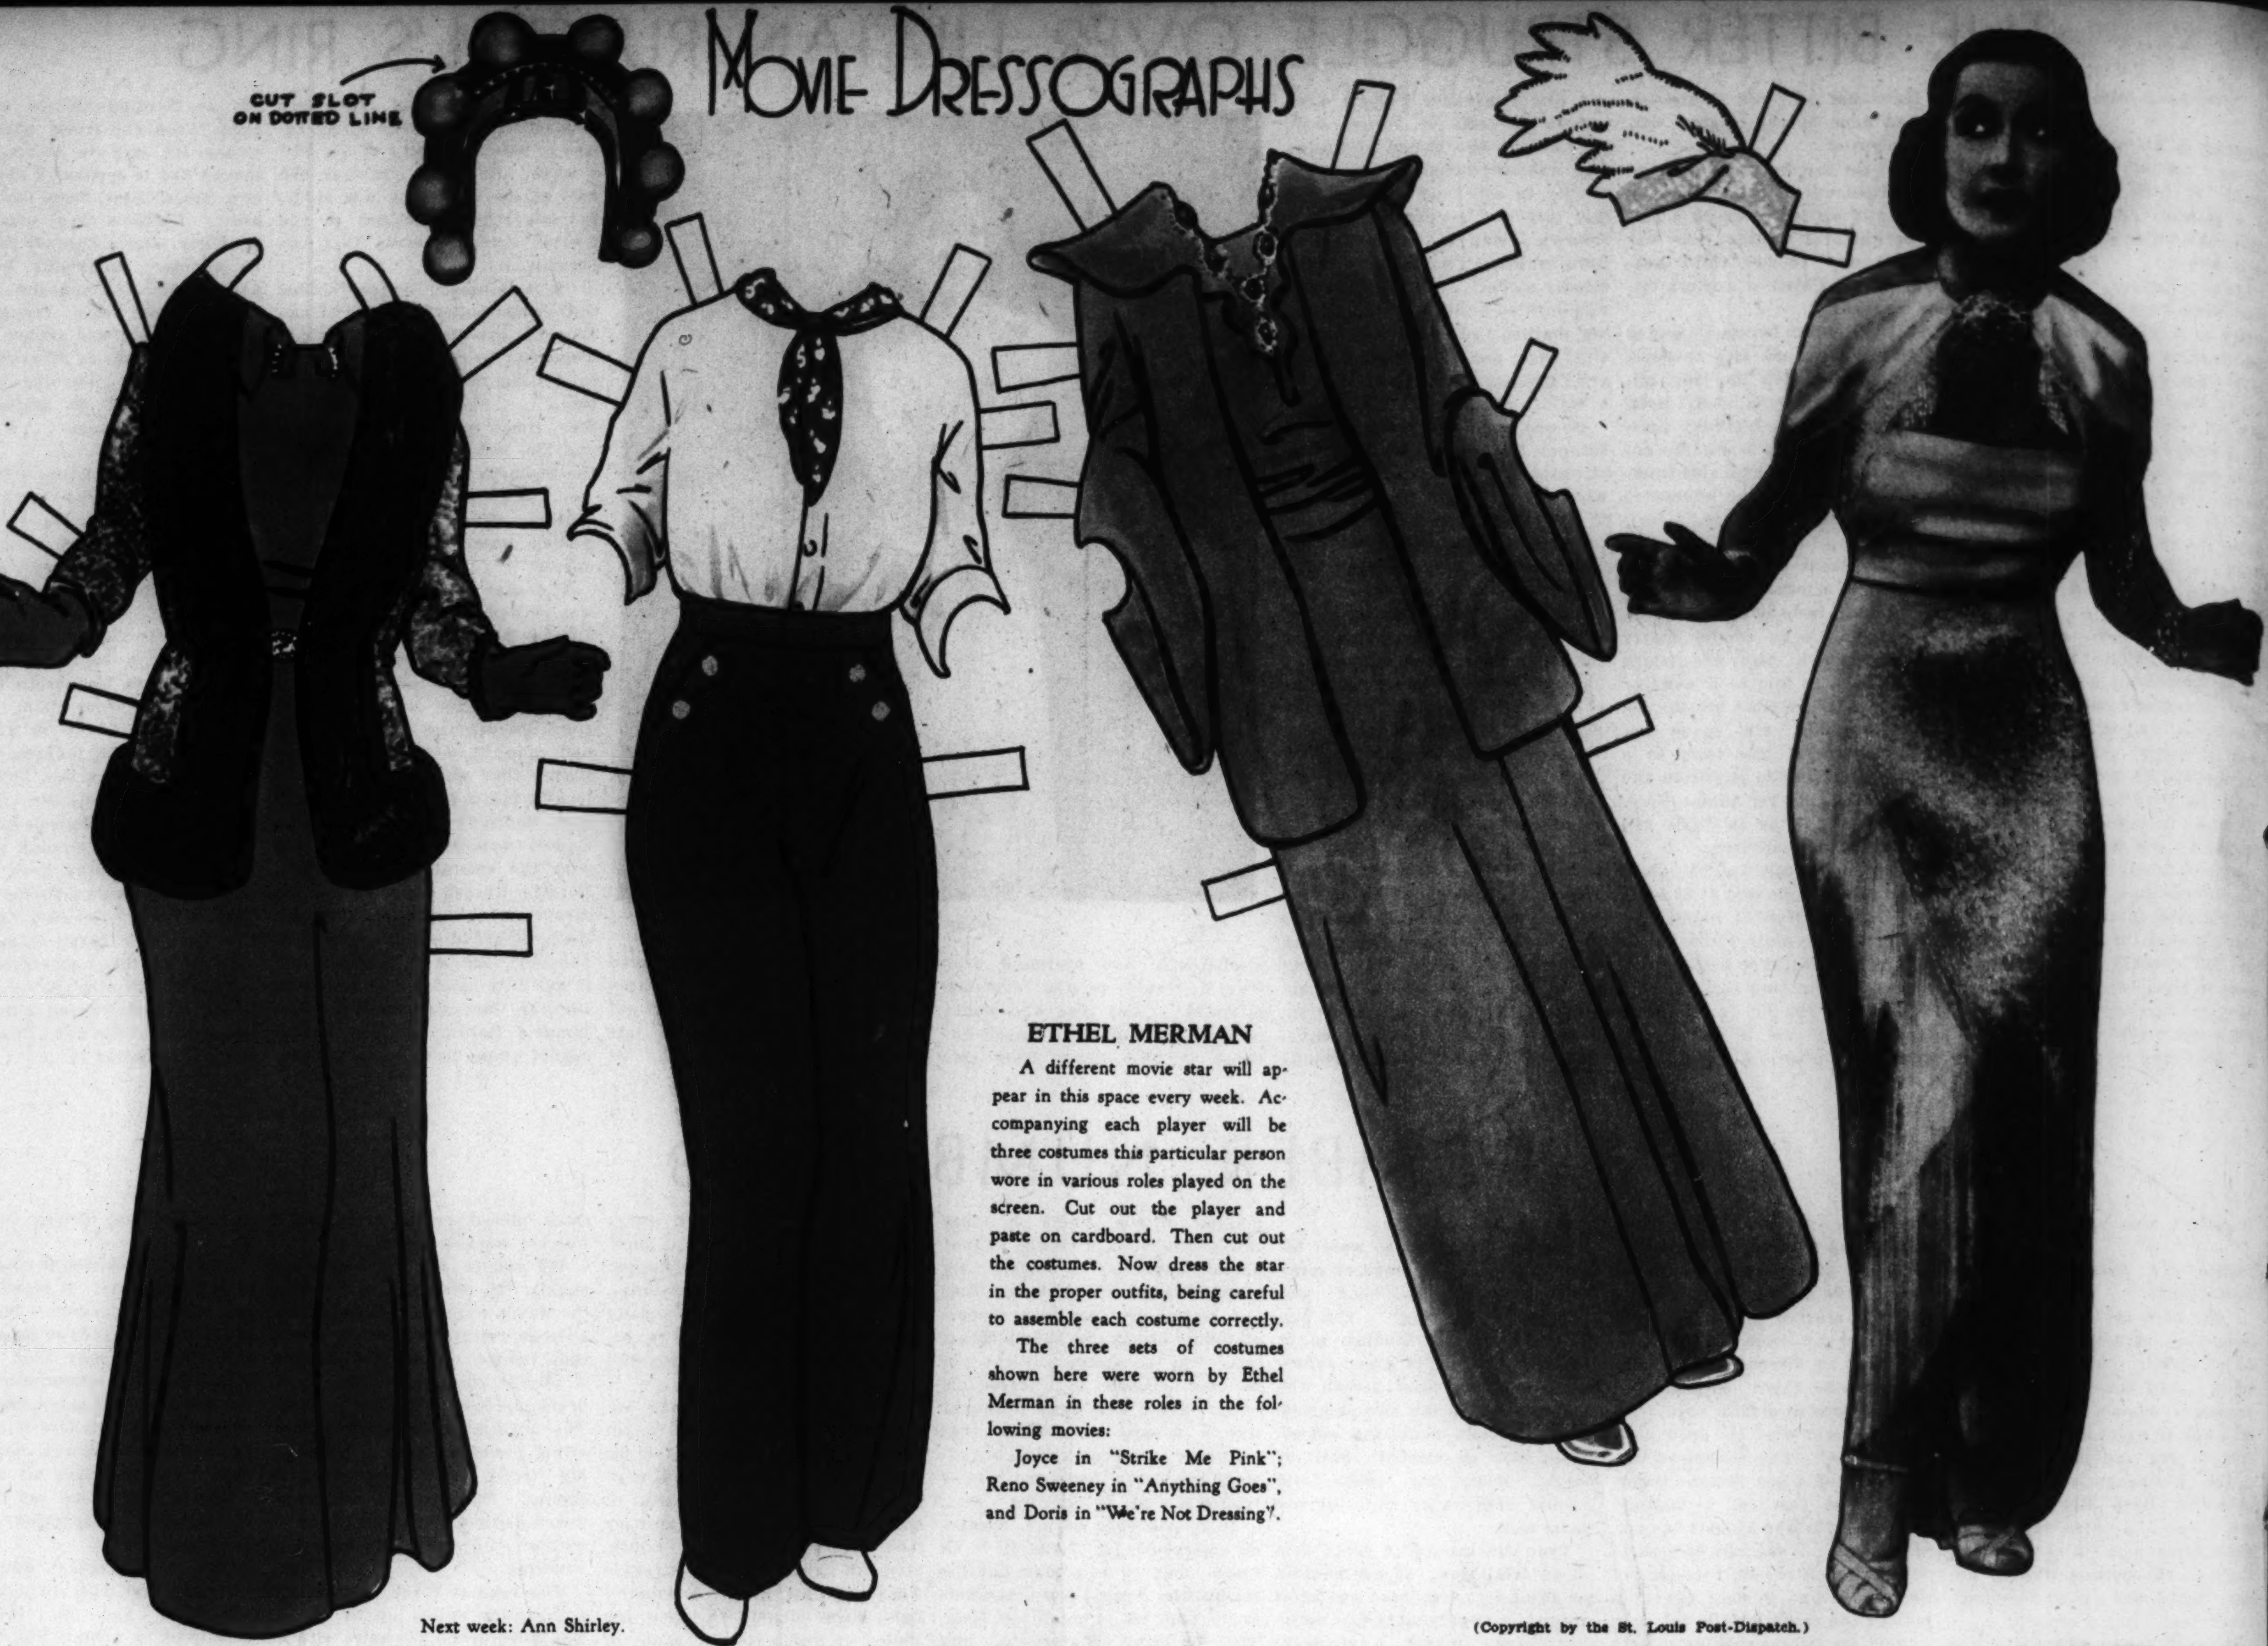
MOVIE DRESSOGRAPHS



CUT SLOT ON DOTTED LINE

ETHEL MERMAN

A different movie star will appear in this space every week. Accompanying each player will be three costumes this particular person wore in various roles played on the screen. Cut out the player and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress the star in the proper outfits, being careful to assemble each costume correctly.

The three sets of costumes shown here were worn by Ethel Merman in these roles in the following movies:

Joyce in "Strike Me Pink"; Reno Sweeney in "Anything Goes", and Doris in "We're Not Dressing".

BILL'S ACCOMPLICE IN CRIME

THE CHARACTERS

BILL BUNNY—An adventurous little rabbit.
O. HUM—An honest opossum.
BERT TILLON—Head of the Ferret Detective Agency.
DUNKER—Bert's mouse companion.

Bill Bunny is going to rob a house. Now, Bill isn't in the habit of going around robbing houses. In fact, a more honest little rabbit than Bill Bunny never lived. But, in a weak moment, Bill agreed to committ a burglary so Bert Tillon, the great detective, would have a crime to solve and thereby keep in practice. Of course, anything that Bill took would be returned to the owner later. But Bill is just a little bit afraid and has decided to ask O. Hum to go along with him. We see him talking to the opossum about it as

THE PLAY BEGINS

BILL BUNNY—But it won't really be stealing. Because anything we take will be given back to the folks we took it from.

O. HUM—Even so, I don't want to break into anyone's house. It isn't right.

BILL BUNNY—Would you rather have some real thief do it? That's just what might happen if Bert Tillon gets out of practice and loses his power to solve crimes. (O. Hum is very much disturbed. He doesn't know what to do. He'd like to help Bert Tillon. But he doesn't like the idea of breaking into a house to do it. Bill Bunny goes over to him and puts his hand on the opossum's shoulder.)

BILL BUNNY—Where is your civic pride? Don't you know that it is the duty of every citizen to help the police?

O. HUM—Well, I guess you're right. I'll go with you, although my better judgment tells me I shouldn't.

BILL BUNNY—Fine! I knew you would. Now let's dress in some tough-looking clothes, so that we look like burglars. I brought some with me—and some masks and burglar's tools, too. (O. Hum half-heartedly consents and they soon look like two desperate characters.)

O. HUM—Gosh, it scares me to look at you.

BILL BUNNY—You look great, too. Anyone would think that you were a real robber. Now let's go and find a house to rob. I take the flashlight and lead the way, while you bring the tools and stay close behind me. (And so two very amateurish burglars steal into the night. Let us leave them now and go to the headquarters of the great Bert Tillon. Dunker is playing a violin, while Bert stands near by listening.)

DUNKER—I hope this piece I'm playing suits your mood, Bert.

BERT TILLON—Hm-m-m. I dare say it does. Hm-m-m. It's a very strange thing, Dunker, but when I'm in the mood to enjoy happy music it usually means that some burglar is up to mischief. Hm-m-m, perhaps I'll get a case.

DUNKER—Oh, I certainly hope so. I wonder if that Bunny fellow we spoke to is keeping his promise.

BERT TILLON—Hmp. That fellow. I hadn't thought of him. Perhaps you had better play something sad.

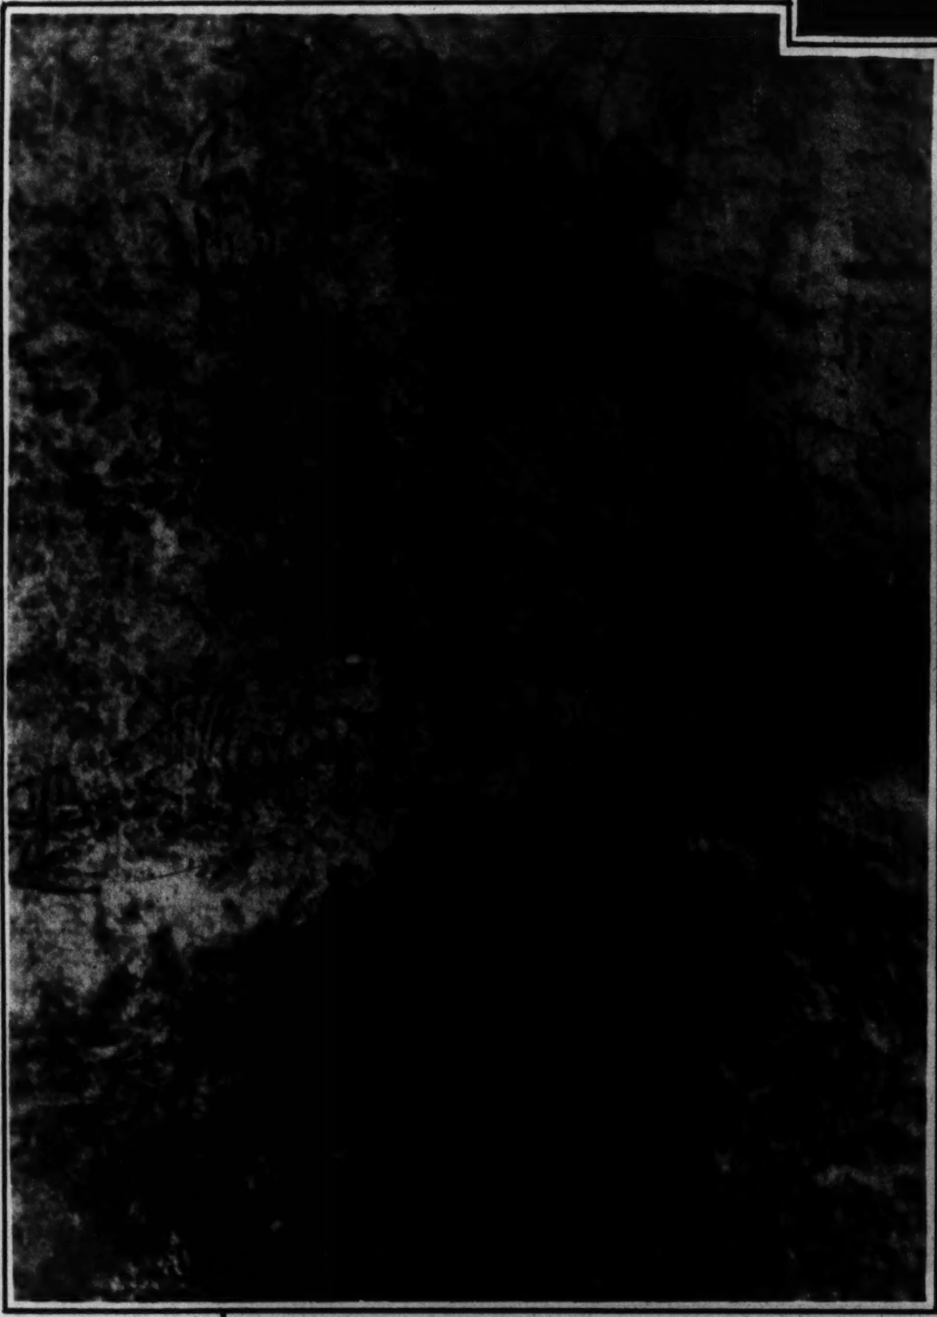
WILSON'S GRANDSON TO ENTER MINISTRY
Francis B. Sayre Jr., who plans to study for the ministry upon graduation from Williams College this year. His father is Assistant Secretary of State; his mother formerly was Jessie Wilson.

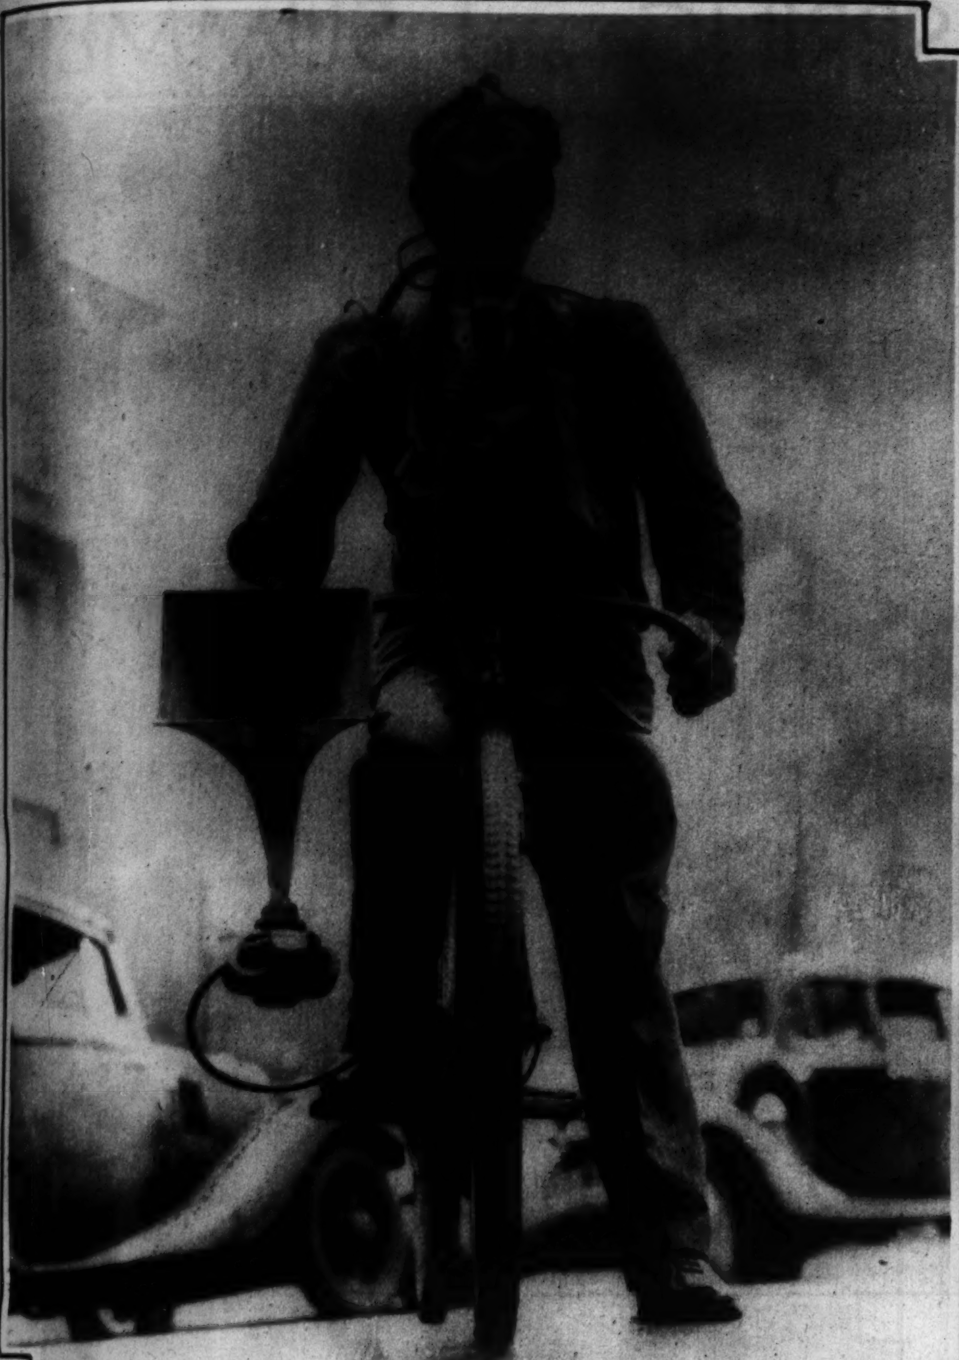
NEWEST FRENCH BOMBER—An 18-ton Farman carrying two and one-half tons of bombs for a cruising radius of 1250 miles, which (speculatively), would enable it to reach Berlin and return to a base on French soil.



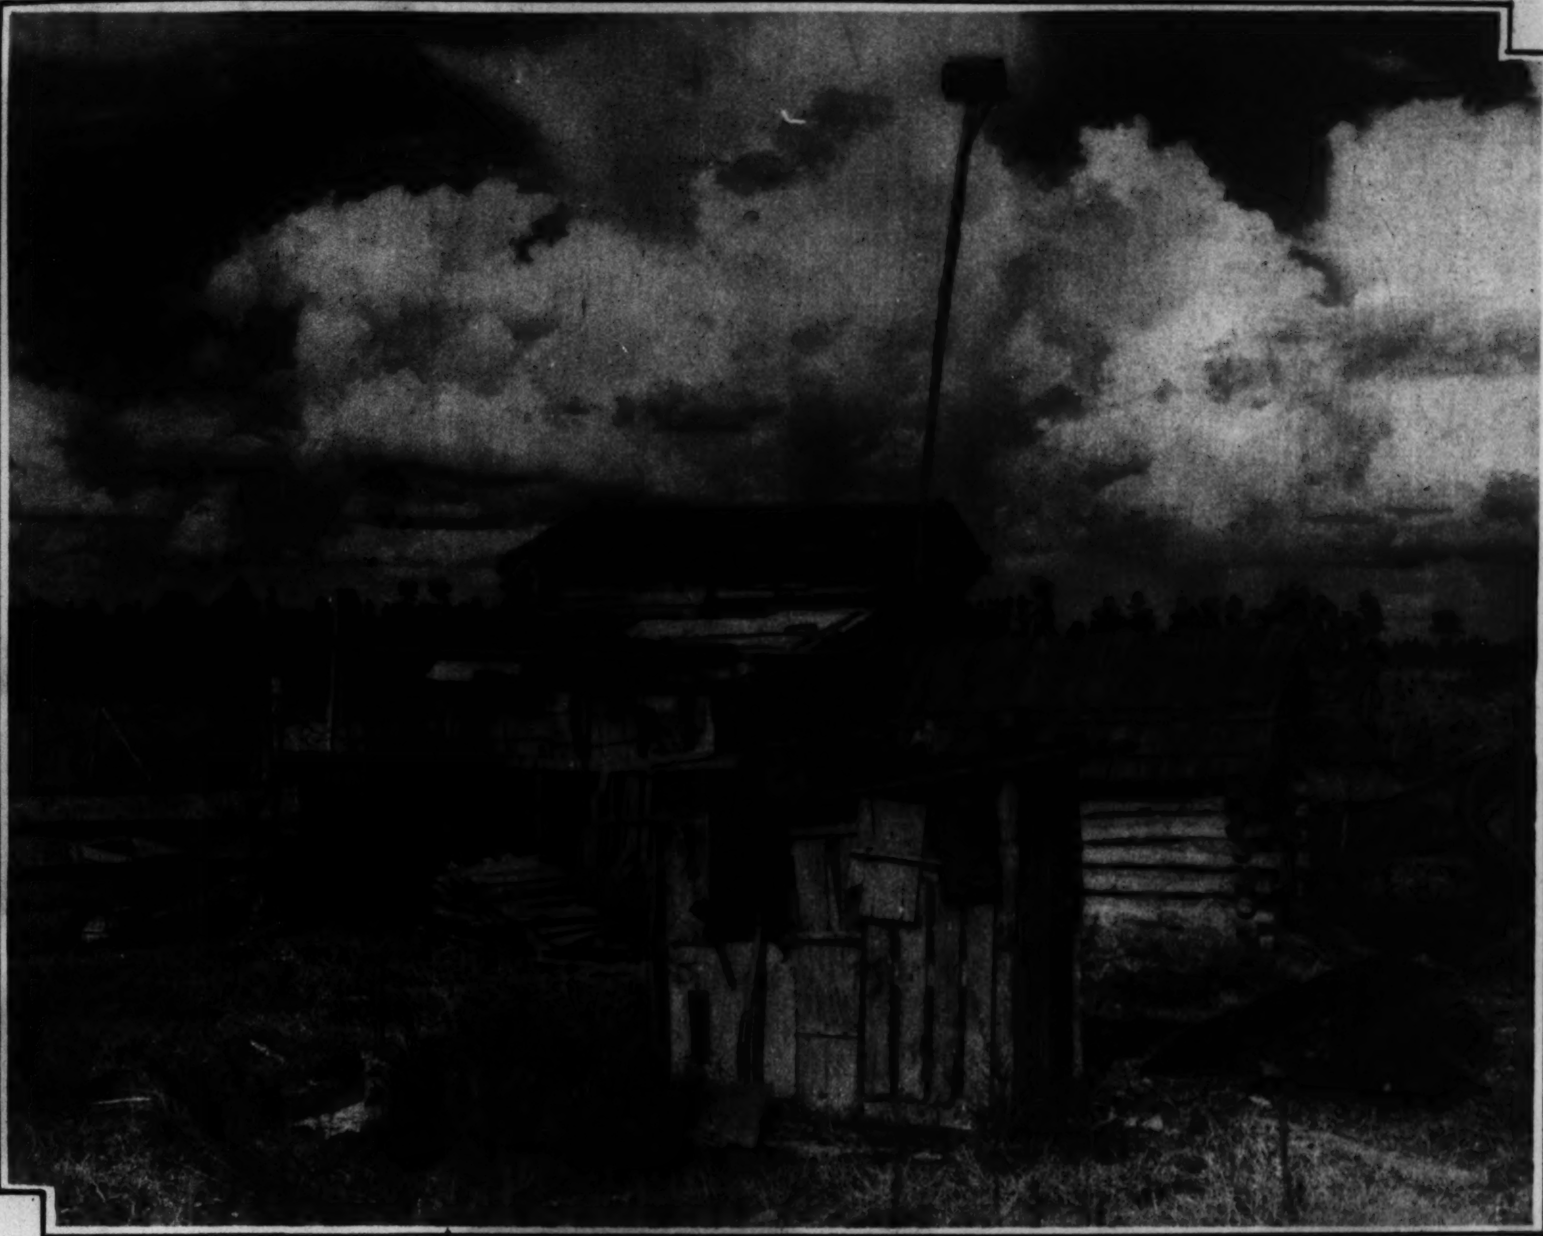
BLESSING FOR TANKS—Automobiles throughout Italy are blessed on the feast day of St. Francis. In Rome army tanks are shown receiving a blessing.

OTHER CULTURES, OTHER THREATS
The teeth of a now extinct rhinoceros, discovered as shown below by Dr. de Terra of a Peabody Museum (Yale) expedition to the Indus Valley probably meant less in prehistoric India than a new bomber in modern Europe. But the budding art shown in the rock carvings above had only strife to tell about.

VETERANS OF FUTURE WARS—Princeton upper class men who are organizing to burlesque the bonus bill, the Townsend plan and other current symptoms. National Commander Lewis J. Goria Jr. of Louisville, Ky., is in the front row, second from the right.



STREET SCENE, EUROPE, 1936—This unlovely parody of Paul Revere, participated in tests at Hendon, England, to determine the most efficient means of public warning in case of gas attack. Other tests were made afoot, on a motorcycle and in an automobile.



CONSERVATION, SOIL AND HUMAN

Under the Resettlement Administration, dilapidated "farm" buildings like those above are being torn down and Missouri farm families, like this below at right, removed to Missouri lands fit for farming. The scraggly cut-over land discernible in the background of the upper picture tells the story.

TRUCE IN WORD-WAR TO END WAR—"Private Peat" (Harold R.), Canadian World War hero, at right, and Major-General Smedley D. Butler pause in their debating tour to visit Gen. Butler's mother, Mrs. Thomas Butler, at Wichita, Kan.

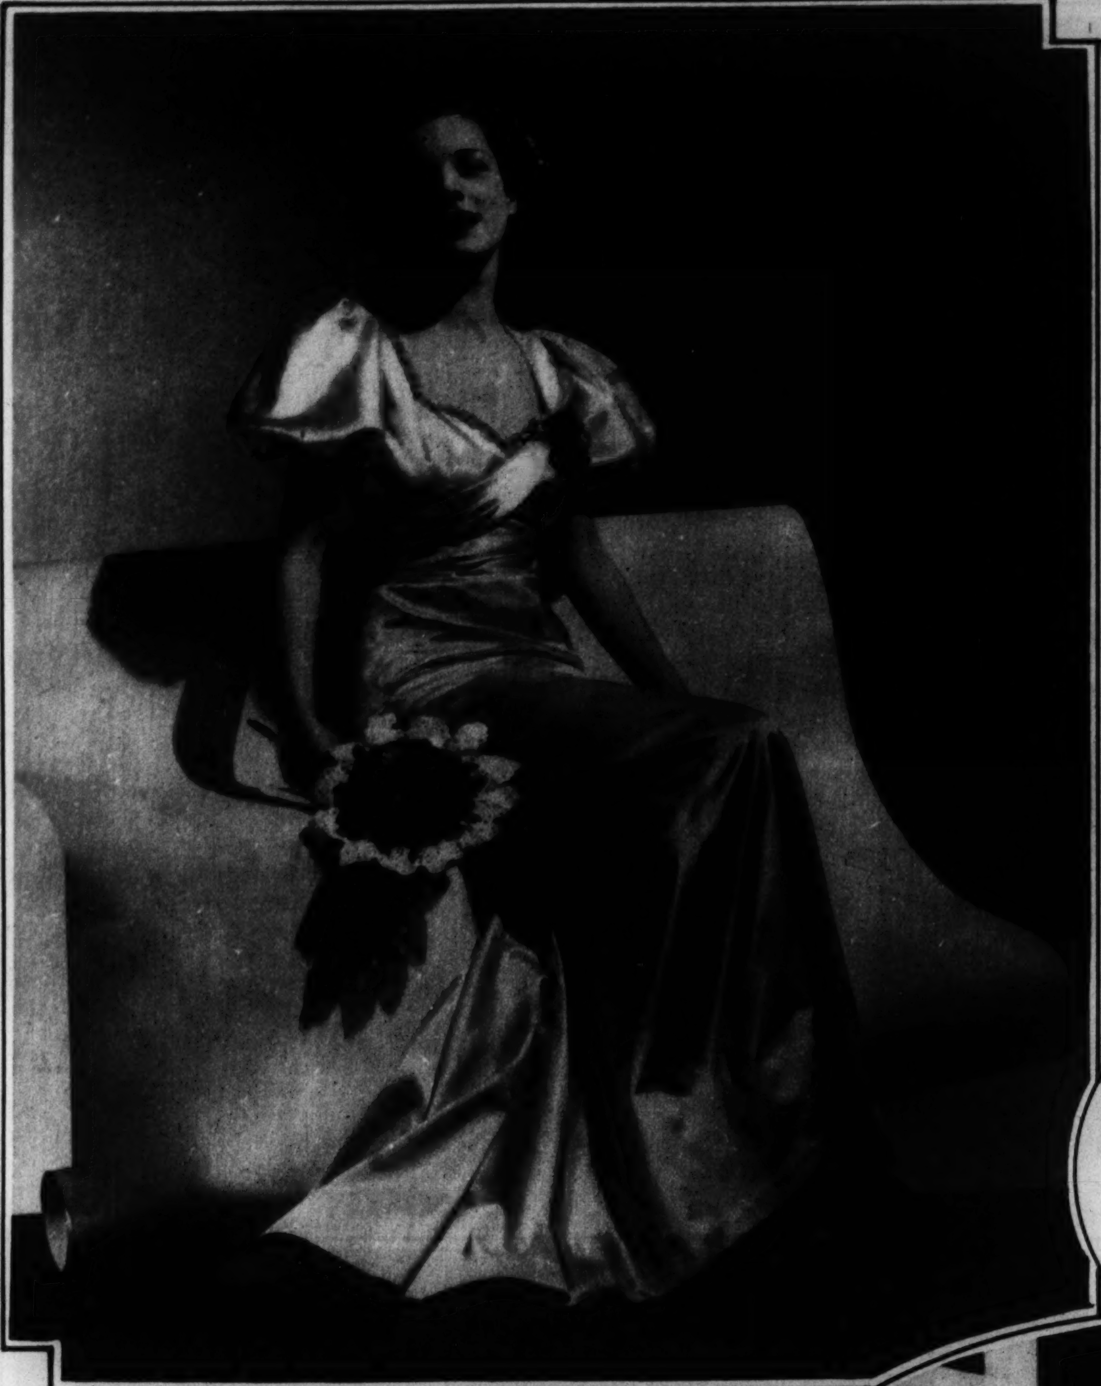
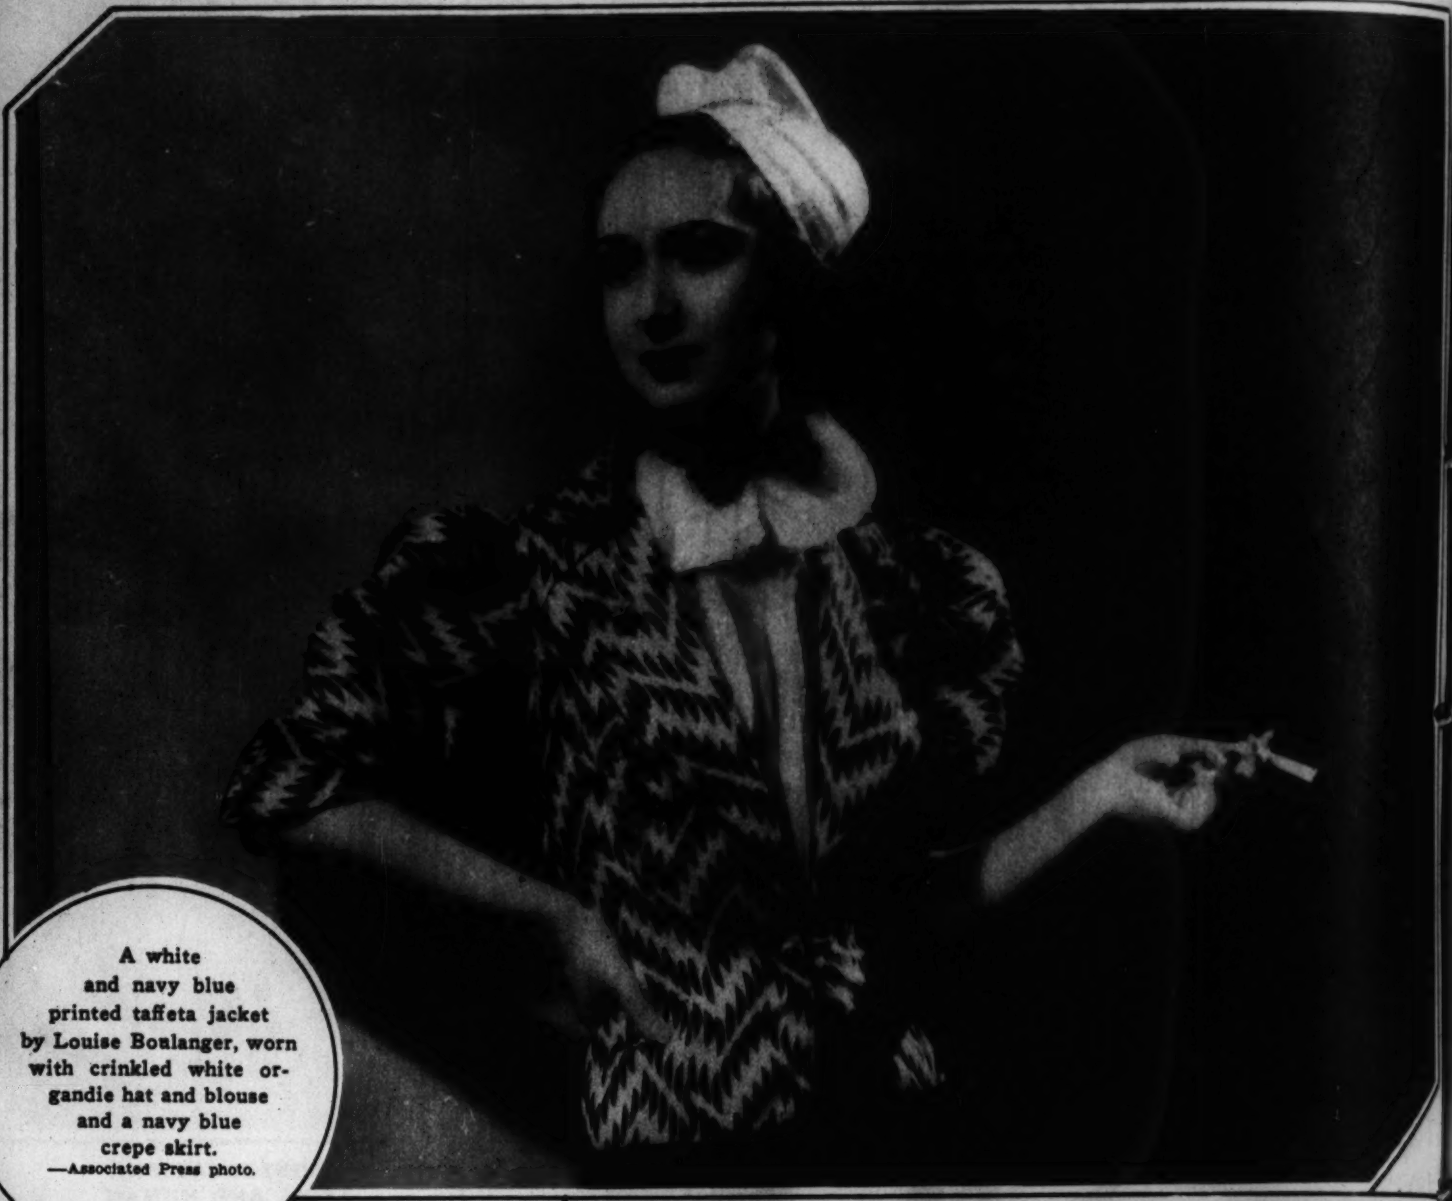
NEW YORK RESERVOIR OVERFLOWS—Water cascaded over the walls of Croton Reservoir, which provides most of the drinking water for New York City, in the recent floods.

CO-ED CHORUS—Members of the Washington University Quadrangle Club, to appear in the musical comedy, "Come and Get It," next Friday and Saturday—Jacqueline Wood, Patricia Smith, Ethel Jane Ellis, Martha Galloway, Betty Fleck, Adele Helmkampf, Betty Bohannon, Marion Hyman, Louise Kraus, June Pentland, Jean Simpson and Elberta Herget.

For LATE SPRING and SUMMER



A Schiaparelli evening dress of rose satin with "can-can" ruffles of frilled red net at the hemline.



A white and navy blue printed taffeta jacket by Louise Boulanger, worn with crinkled white organdie hat and blouse and a navy blue crepe skirt.

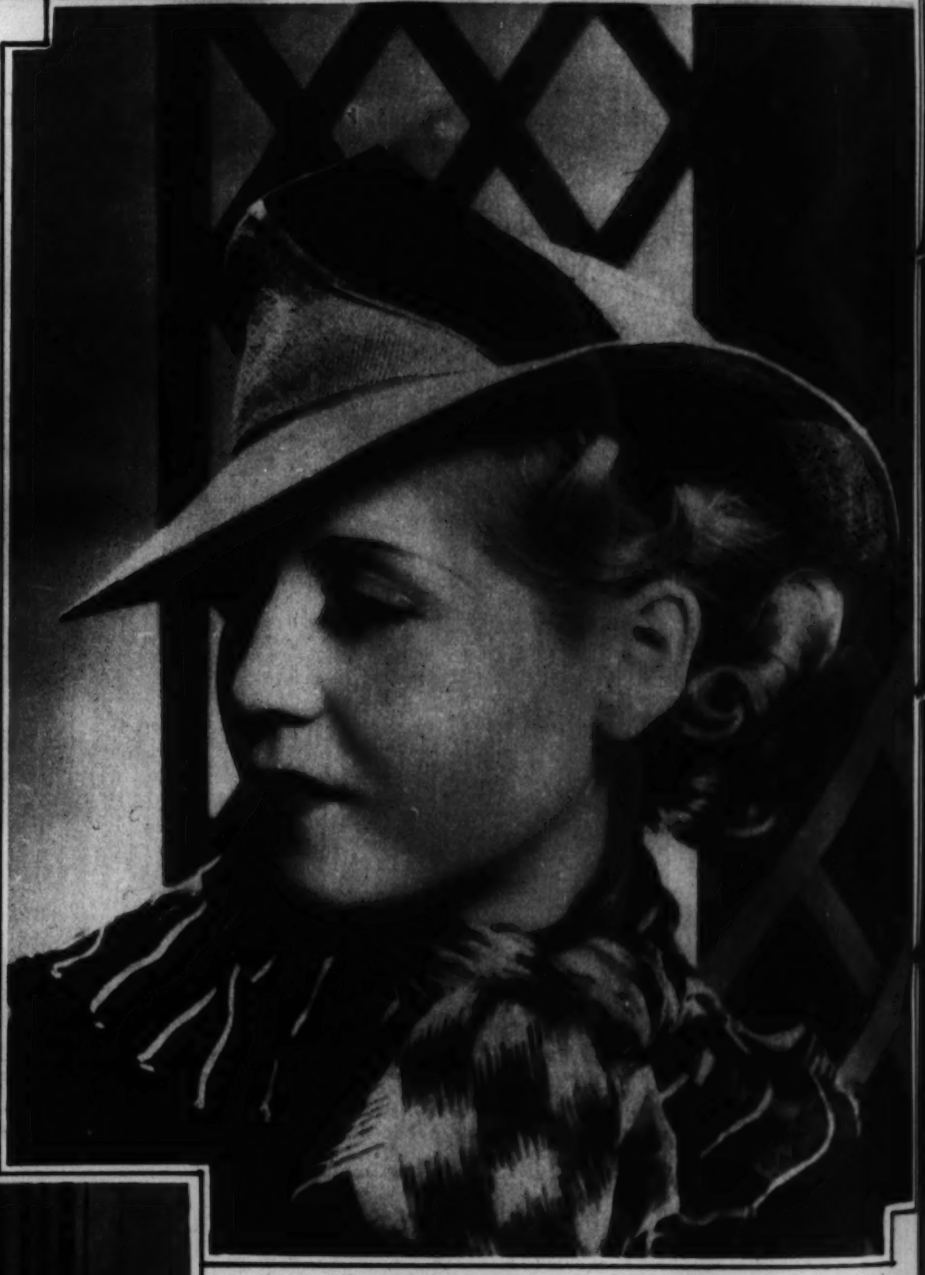
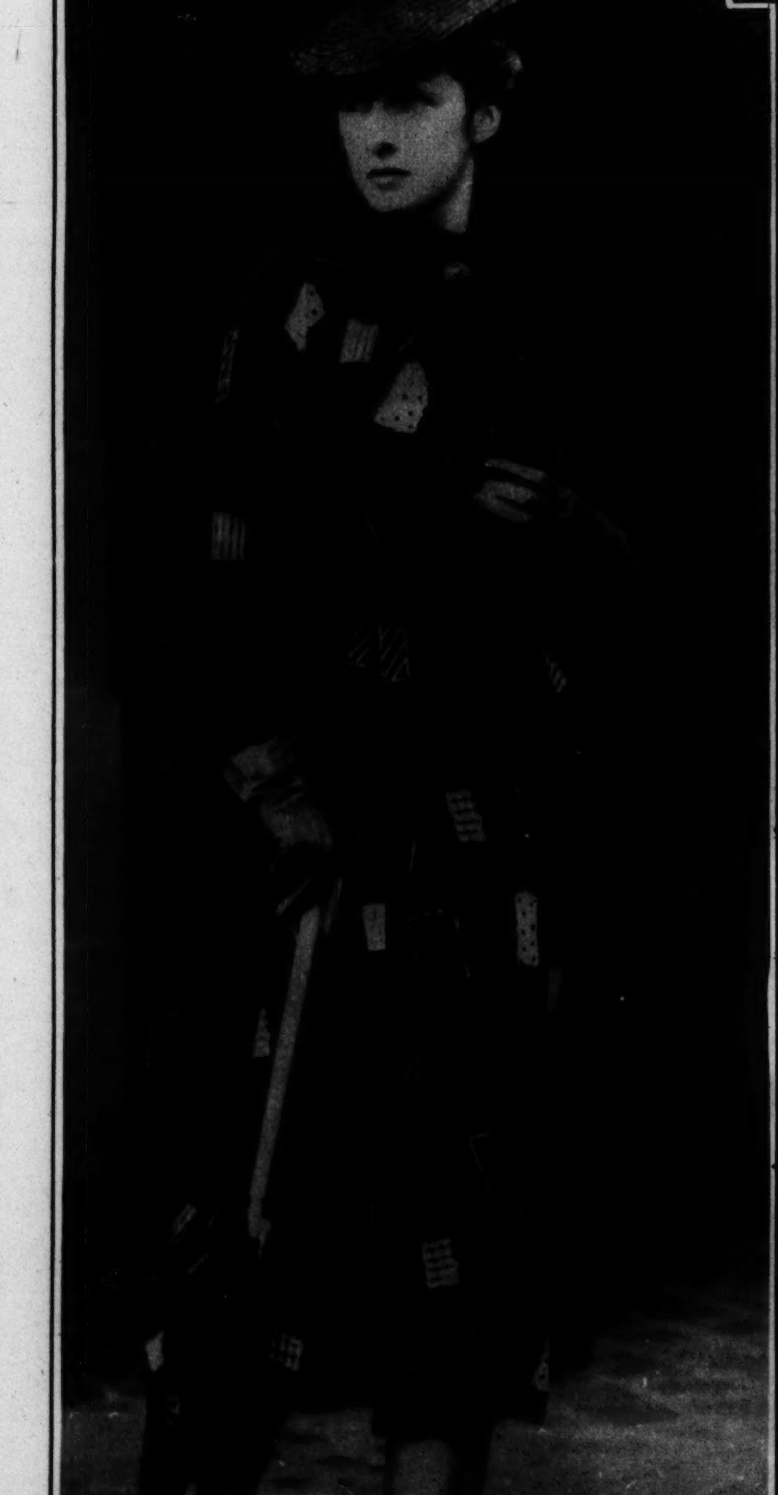
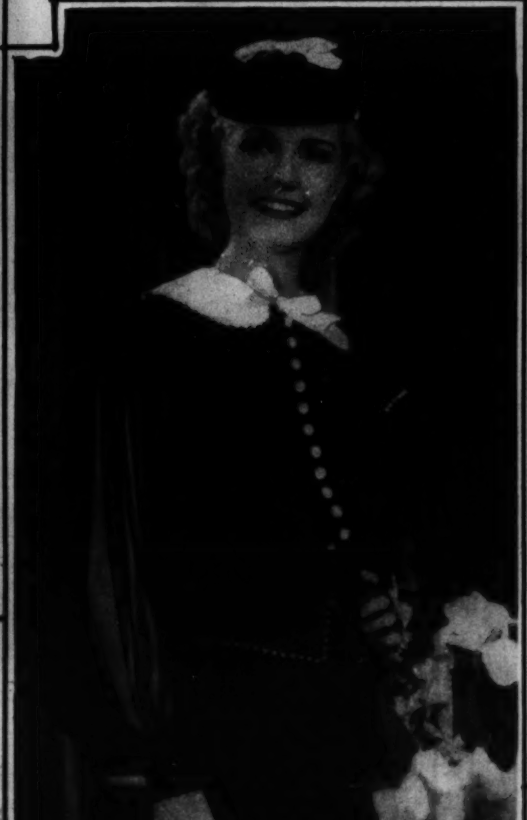
In Hollywood Anita Louise wears embroidered red organdie and a garden hat with a lacy chin veil.



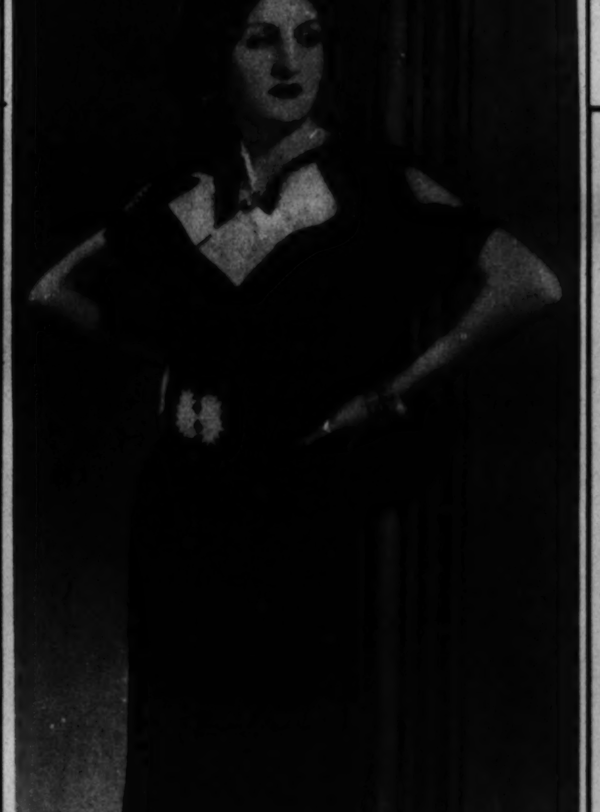
A Parisian paraphrase of a fireman's hat in biege straw, by Agnes, with grosgrain ribbons which pass through a slashed opening to the under brim.
—Associated Press photo.



The "Crise," a new printed silk from Schiaparelli with gay patches on dark blue. The parasol is of the same material; the beret, blue straw.



Navy blue and white for spring in Hollywood, in dress and sailor hat of heavy crepe, with pique collar and buttons.



Black openwork for summer in a lace design from Marital & Armand, Paris, with white pique at the neck and white daisy belt buckles.

WORKING HIS OWN GARDEN—American cooking and drinking, says Julian Street, connoisseur at the board and artist in the pantry, are "terrible." So he and Mrs. Street pool their talents over a cheese fondue to make a guormet's oasis of their own Hollywood apartment. —Associated Press photo.

"RUN FOR YOUR LIVES!"—False report of a weakening dam spread panic in Johnstown, Pa., where a dam failure cost 2300 lives in 1889.

FOR ART AND ARIZONA

Senator Henry F. Ashurst of Arizona was selected for the only adult role, a high school principal, in a movie produced by a Washington newspaper. HECK, I LOST MY PABST-ETT SANDWICH
I WAS DREAMIN' ABOUT STRATOSPHERE GLIDING—IT'S A TOUGH GAME, BUT SAY—PABST-ETT IS SWELL—WILL YOU GET SOME MOM?
I CERTAINLY WILL! PABST-ETT'S A GRAND FOOD—GOOD FOR YOU BECAUSE IT'S SO NOURISHING—SO DIGESTIBLE! NOW GO BACK TO SLEEP

Mothers Read this! Pabst-ett is a Delicious Cheese Food—Even More Digestible than Milk—Rich in health giving Nourishment

Don't confuse this unique cheese food with other cheese products you may have tried. Pabst-ett is entirely different from anything else on the market.

One of the best foods you can serve to youngsters for building muscle tissue, strong bones and hard teeth. An excellent food for keeping the system in perfect working order because it's even more digestible than milk and actually helps the digestion of other foods. It contains all the valuable nourishment of cheese to which extra important milk minerals have been added. The whole family will rave over the distinctive cheese flavor of golden Pabst-ett in tasty cooked dishes, luscious sandwiches or served with crackers. Try Pabst-ett today and you'll never be without it again.

Spreads like butter—melts quickly and smoothly without stringing. Slices neatly—creams easily

When you ask your mother to buy Pabst-ett — tear this out and show it to her.

1. Pabst-ett is a nourishing cheese food that digests even faster than milk.
2. Pabst-ett helps make hard teeth and strong bones because extra calcium (as in milk) has been added.
3. Pabst-ett builds strong muscles because it is a good protein food (like meat).
4. Pabst-ett has extra quantities of vitamin A (as in cod liver oil and spinach).

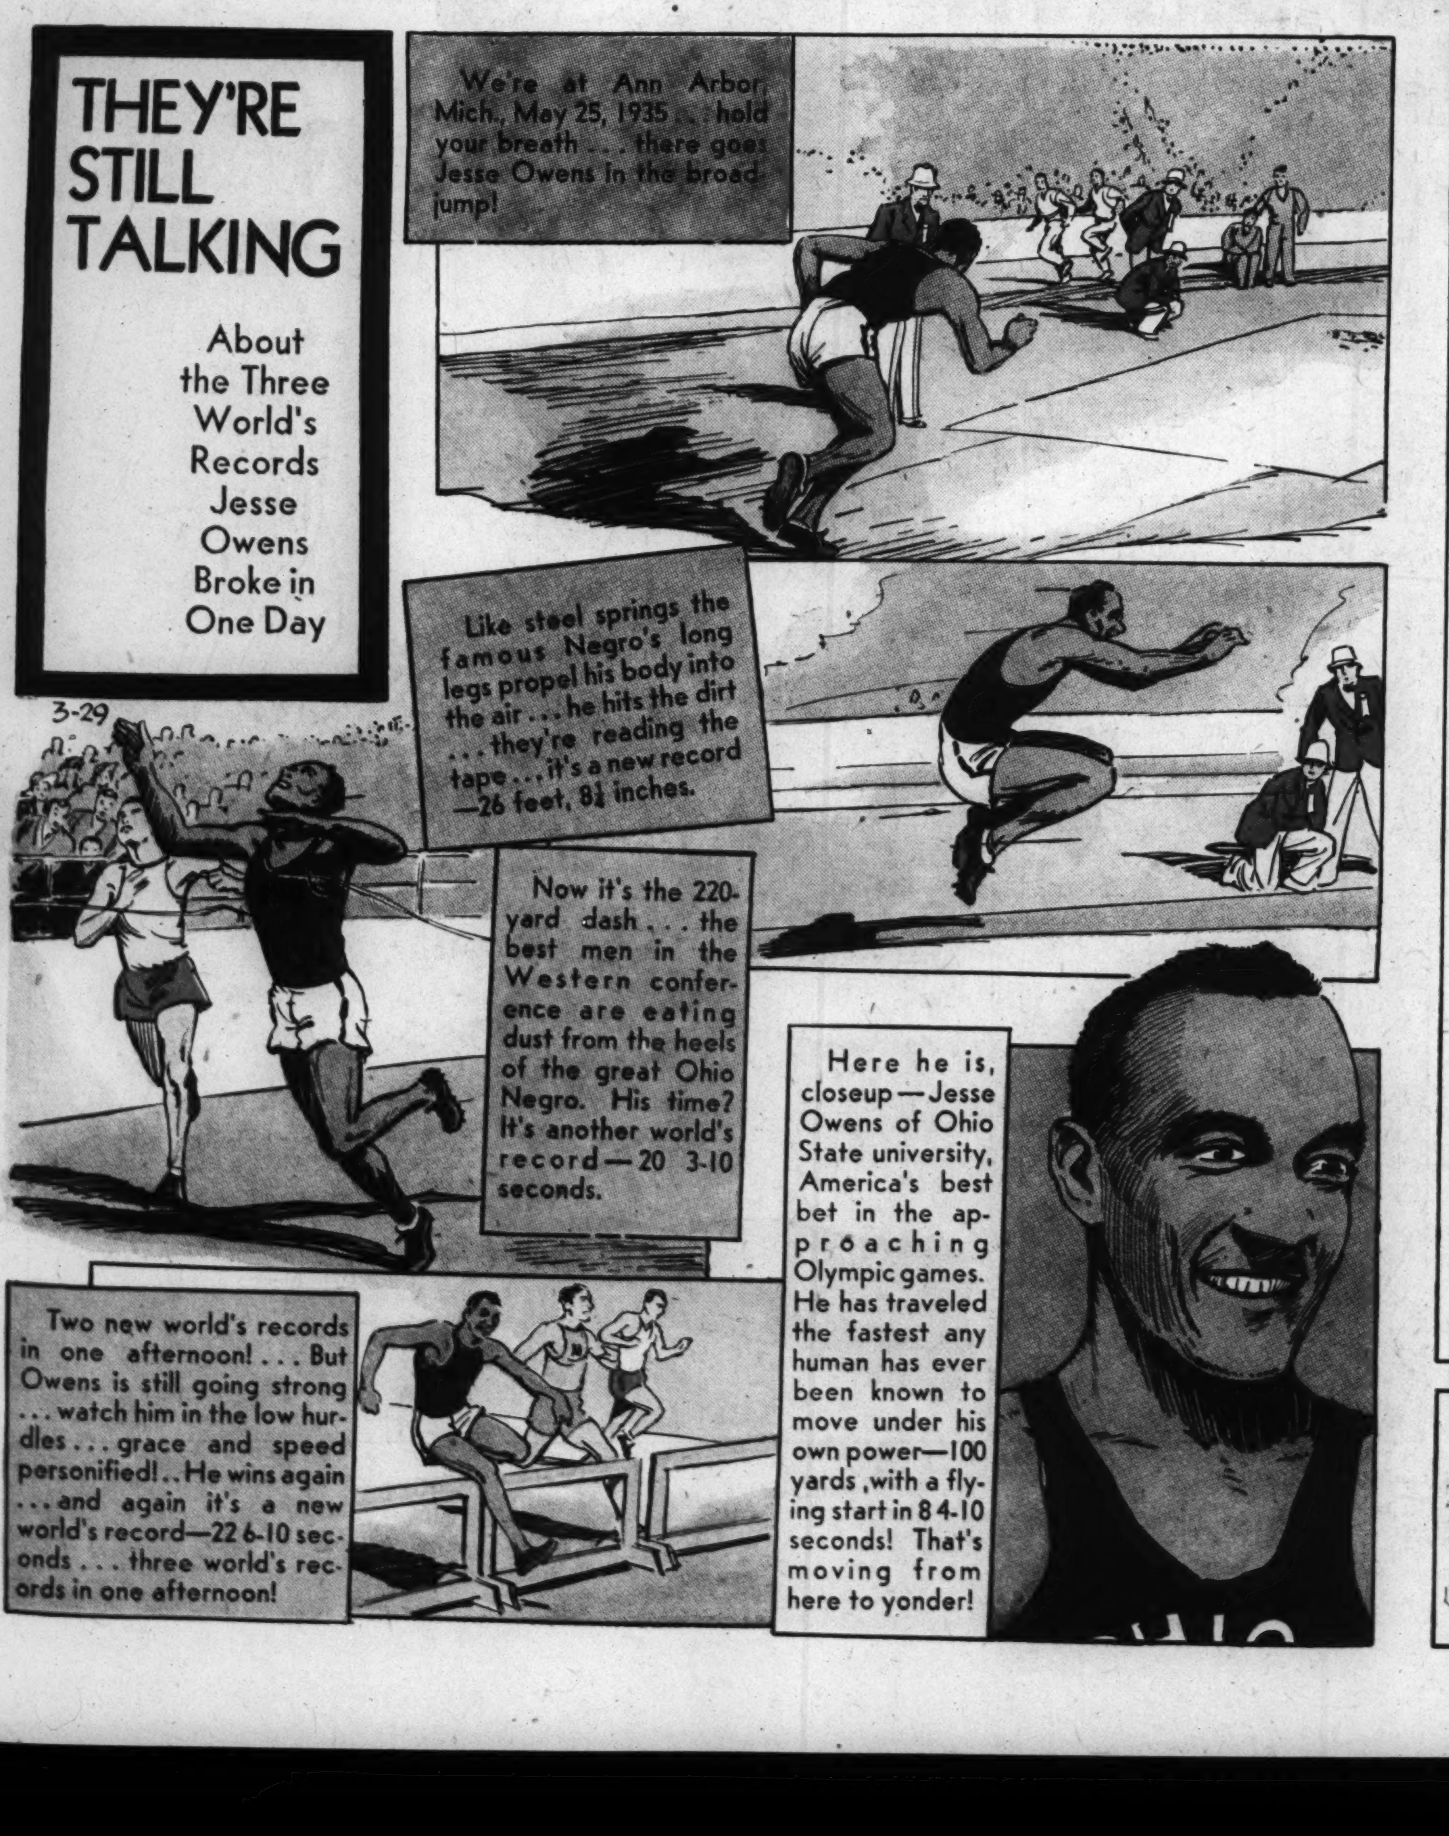
About the Three World's Records Jesse Owens Broke in One Day



We're at Ann Arbor, Mich., May 25, 1935 . . . hold your breath . . . there goes Jesse Owens in the broad jump!

Like steel springs the famous Negro's long legs propel his body into the air . . . he hits the dirt . . . they're reading the tape . . . it's a new record —26 feet, 8¼ inches.

Now it's the 220-yard dash . . . the best men in the Western conference are eating dust from the heels of the great Ohio Negro. His time? It's another world's record — 20 3-10 seconds.

Two new world's records in one afternoon! . . . But Owens is still going strong . . . watch him in the low hurdles . . . grace and speed personified! . . He wins again . . . and again it's a new world's record—22 6-10 seconds . . . three world's records in one afternoon!

Here he is, closeup — Jesse Owens of Ohio State university, America's best bet in the approaching Olympic games. He has traveled the fastest any human has ever been known to move under his own power—100 yards, with a flying start in 8 4-10 seconds! That's moving from here to yonder!

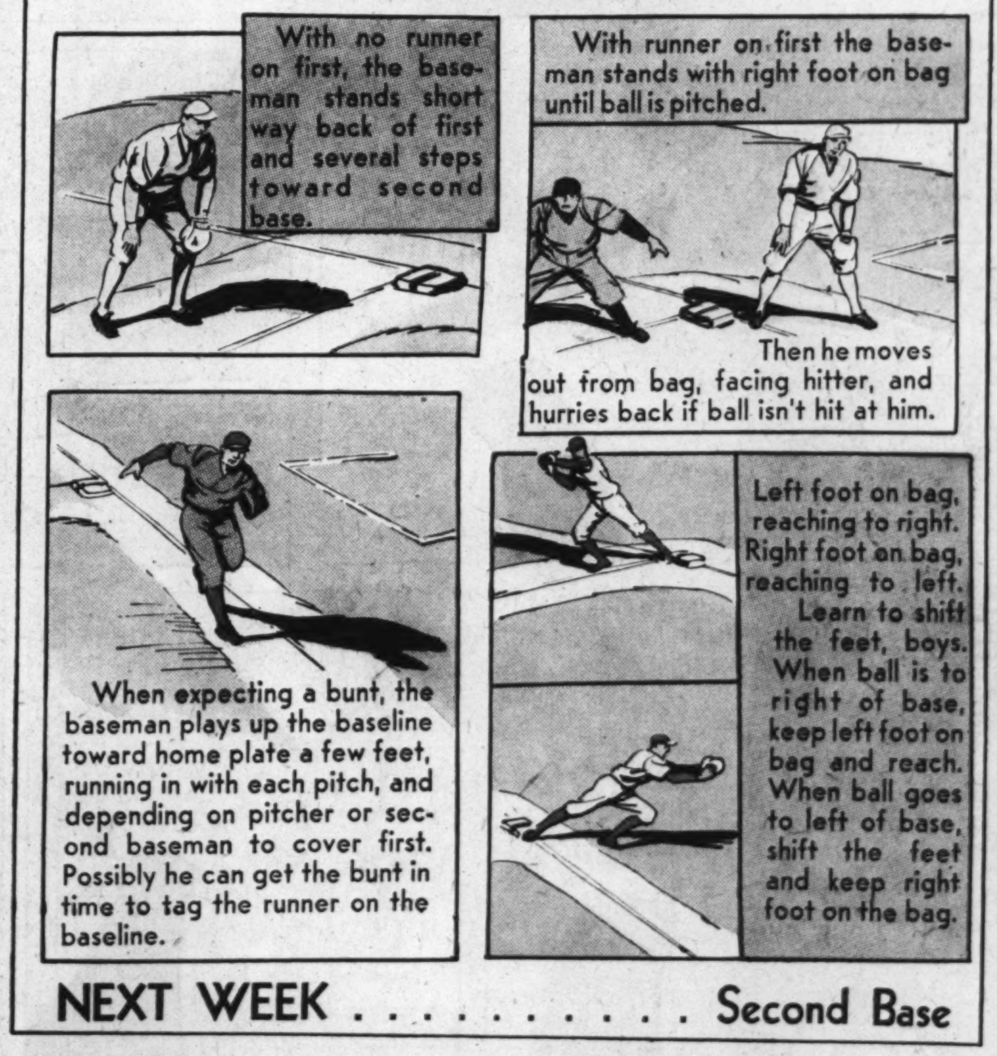
FIVE POSITIONS FOR FIRST BASEMAN



With no runner on first, the baseman stands short way back of first and several steps toward second base.

With runner on first the baseman stands with right foot on bag until ball is pitched.

Then he moves out from bag, facing hitter, and hurries back if ball isn't hit at him.

When expecting a bunt, the baseman plays up the baseline toward home plate a few feet, running in with each pitch, and depending on pitcher or second baseman to cover first. Possibly he can get the bunt in time to tag the runner on the baseline.

Left foot on bag, reaching to right. Right foot on bag, reaching to left. Learn to shift the feet, boys. When ball is to right of base, keep left foot on bag and reach. When ball goes to left of base, shift the feet and keep right foot on the bag.

NEXT WEEK . . . . Second Base

SURE JANE HAS FALLEN FOR FRANZ, JOHNNY DETERMINES TO RUSH MARTHA, HOPING THAT WILL TURN FRANZ TO JANE AGAIN-
WELL, THERE'S JOHNNY AND MARTHA — THEY SEEM TO BE HAVING A GOOD TIME
I'M SORRY- I MEAN- WELL, THIS WON'T BE MUCH FUN FOR YOU!
HOW HE COULD NEGLECT YOU FOR HER IS BEYOND ME—
NEGLECT HER FOR- OH, I SEE-
HE'D LIKE TO THROW ME WITH JOHNNY, SO HE COULD HAVE MARTHA TO HIMSELF—EXCUSE ME A MOMENT-
IF THAT'S WHAT HE WANTS, I'LL FIX IT FOR HIM-
THE MINUTE I GET JANE ALONE, SHE RUNS OFF— SHOWS HOW I STAND!
LEAP YEAR DANCE, MARTHA- I'M CUTTING IN!
BUT, JANE-
SAY, LISTEN-
OH, I'VE TURNED MY ANKLE, JOHNNY- YOU'LL HAVE TO HELP ME HOME!
THIS WILL GET JOHNNY AWAY-THEN FRANZ CAN HAVE HIS MARTHA!
I CAN'T LET THIS SPOIL MY PLANS-
WHY, OF COURSE!
HERE, FRANZ- YOU'LL HAVE TO TAKE JANE HOME-SHE TURNED HER ANKLE!
I GUESS THAT FIXES 'EM UP- BOY, AM I A FIXER?
I TRIED TO LET FRANZ GET AWAY- BUT EVEN JOHNNY HAS FAILED ME!

I WANT TO DISCUSS YOUR FUTURE— WHO WILL TAKE CARE OF YOU TWENTY YEARS FROM NOW?
SAY, IF YOU'RE ONE OF THESE MASHERS-
MY DEAR LADY- I'M SERIOUS- I KNOW I'M A STRANGER TO YOU, BUT-LAW, I DON'T KNOW YOU EITHER!
I CAN MAKE YOUR FUTURE SAFE- PROSPEROUS- HAPPY!
LAND SAKES!
I-I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO SAY—
HE IS HANDSOME- AND SO ROMANTIC-
WHAT YOU NEED IS PROTECTION-
THUMP!
THUMP!
OH-H!
AS I SAID BEFORE, YOU NEED PROTECTION- THAT'S WHY I'M HERE!
OH, MISTER- THIS IS SO SUDDEN!
YOU GOT ME WRONG- I WAS TALKING ABOUT INSURANCE!

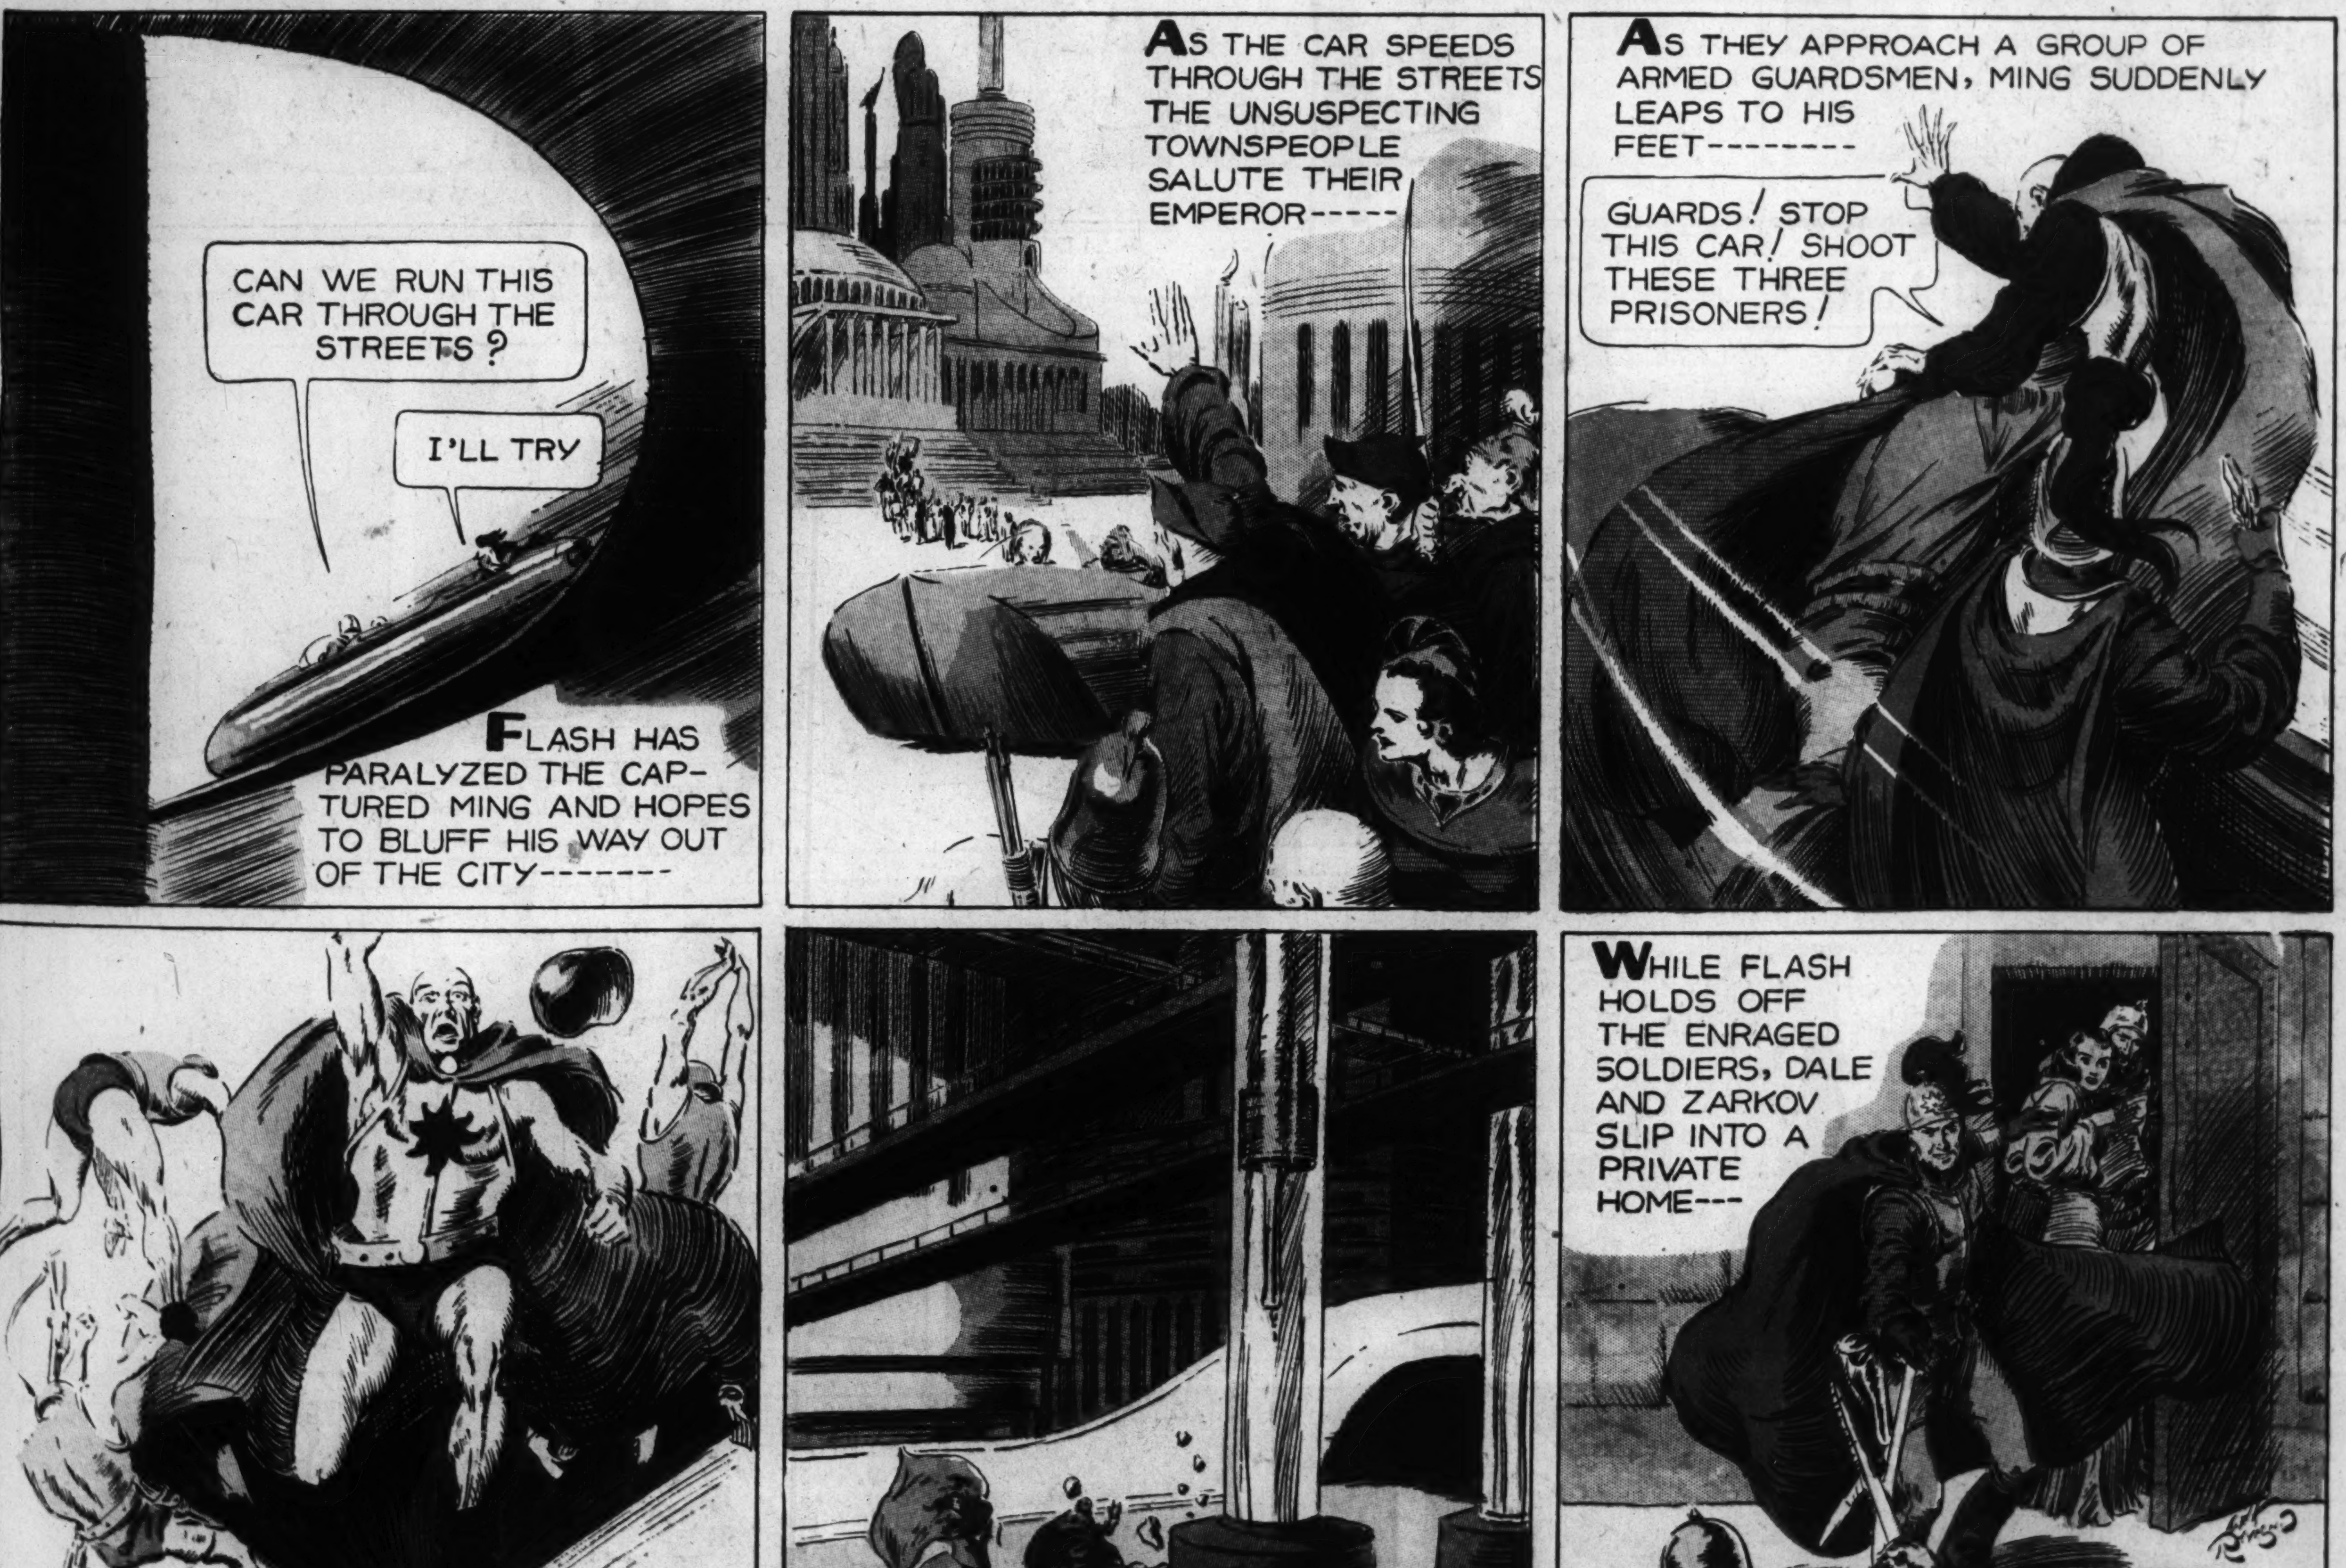
FLASH GORDON ✦ By ALEXANDER RAYMOND



CAN WE RUN THIS CAR THROUGH THE STREETS?
I'LL TRY
FLASH HAS PARALYZED THE CAPTURED MING AND HOPES TO BLUFF HIS WAY OUT OF THE CITY-------
AS THE CAR SPEEDS THROUGH THE STREETS THE UNSUSPECTING TOWNSPEOPLE SALUTE THEIR EMPEROR-----
AS THEY APPROACH A GROUP OF ARMED GUARDSMEN, MING SUDDENLY LEAPS TO HIS FEET-------- GUARDS! STOP THIS CAR! SHOOT THESE THREE PRISONERS!
FLASH GIVES THE CAR THE GUN--IT CAREENS WILDLY THROUGH THE PANIC-STRICKEN GUARDS-------
AND CRASHES AGAINST A PILLAR, CASTING ITS OCCUPANTS TO THE STREET------- WHILE FLASH HOLDS OFF THE ENRAGED SOLDIERS, DALE AND ZARKOV SLIP INTO A PRIVATE HOME---

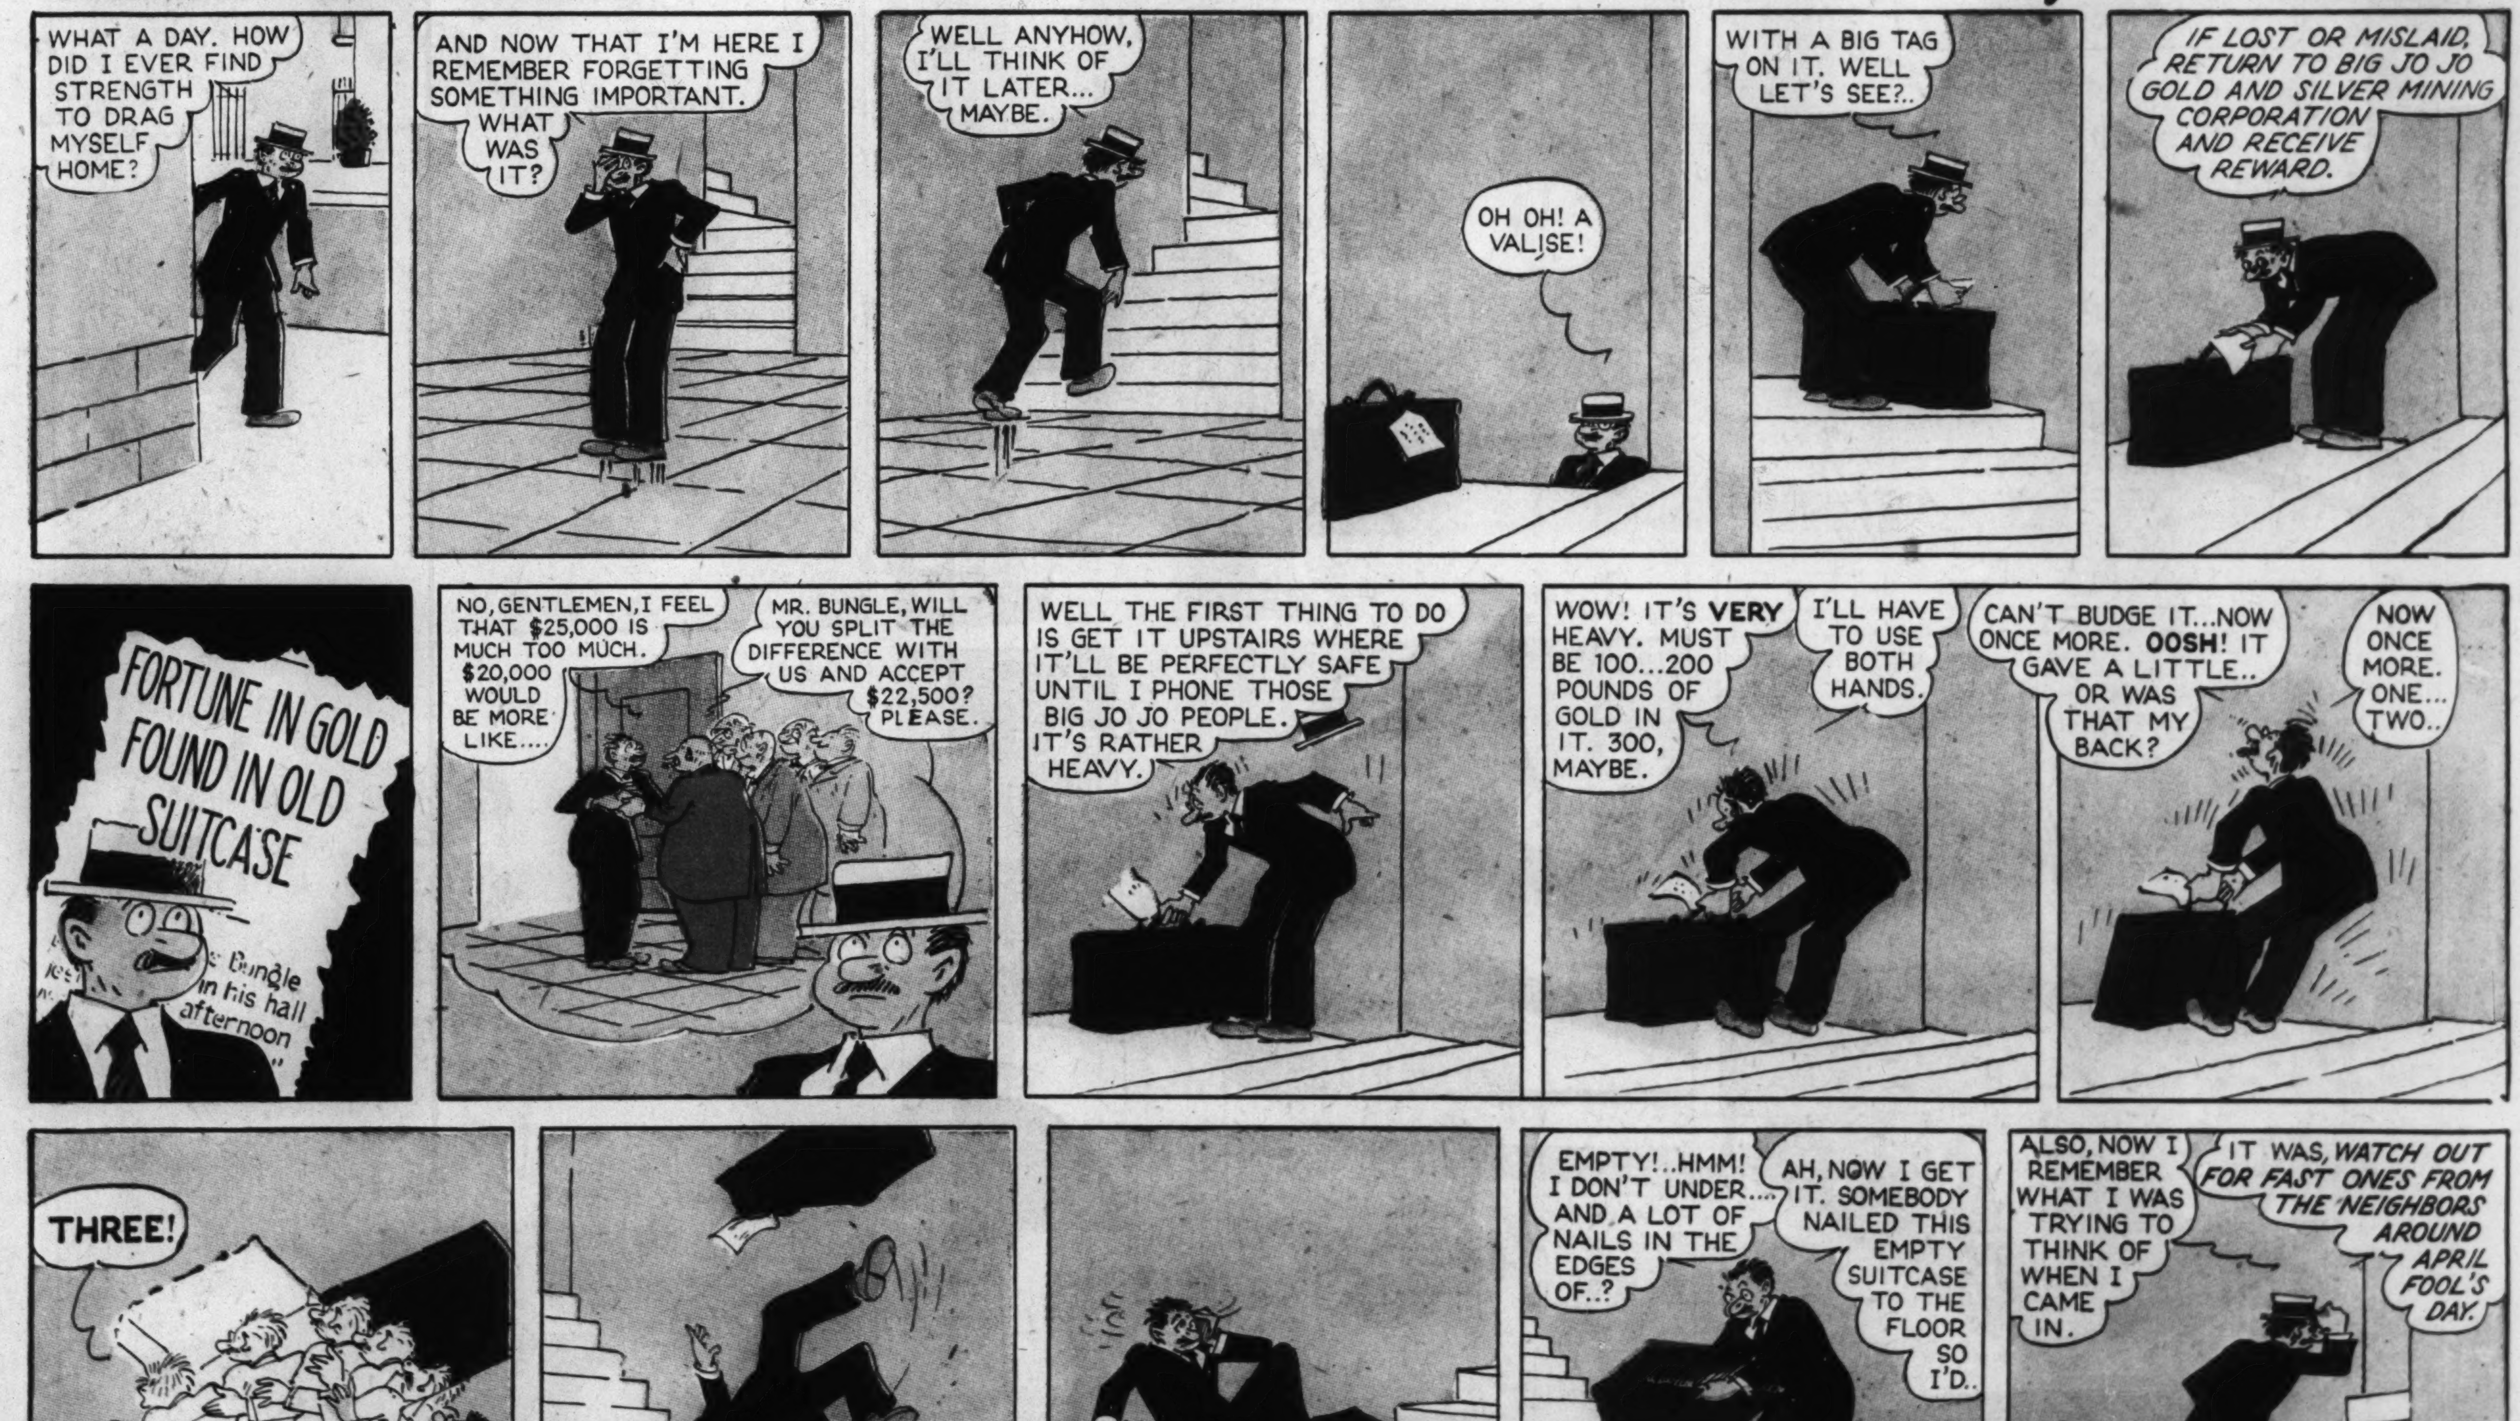
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

This comic appears every day in the Daily Post-Dispatch

By H. J. TUTHILL



WHAT A DAY. HOW DID I EVER FIND STRENGTH TO DRAG MYSELF HOME?
AND NOW THAT I'M HERE I REMEMBER FORGETTING SOMETHING IMPORTANT.
WHAT WAS IT?
WELL ANYHOW, I'LL THINK OF IT LATER... MAYBE.
OH OH! A VALISE!
WITH A BIG TAG ON IT. WELL LET'S SEE?..
IF LOST OR MISLAID, RETURN TO BIG JO JO GOLD AND SILVER MINING CORPORATION AND RECEIVE REWARD.
FORTUNE IN GOLD FOUND IN OLD SUITCASE
Bungle in his hall afternoon
NO, GENTLEMEN, I FEEL THAT $25,000 IS MUCH TOO MUCH. $20,000 WOULD BE MORE LIKE....
MR. BUNGLE, WILL YOU SPLIT THE DIFFERENCE WITH US AND ACCEPT $22,500? PLEASE.
WELL THE FIRST THING TO DO IS GET IT UPSTAIRS WHERE IT'LL BE PERFECTLY SAFE UNTIL I PHONE THOSE BIG JO JO PEOPLE. IT'S RATHER HEAVY.
WOW! IT'S VERY HEAVY. MUST BE 100...200 POUNDS OF GOLD IN IT. 300, MAYBE.
I'LL HAVE TO USE BOTH HANDS.
CAN'T BUDGE IT...NOW ONCE MORE. OOSH! IT GAVE A LITTLE.. OR WAS THAT MY BACK?
NOW ONCE MORE. ONE... TWO..
THREE!
EMPTY!..HMM! I DON'T UNDER.... AND A LOT OF NAILS IN THE EDGES OF..?
AH, NOW I GET IT. SOMEBODY NAILED THIS EMPTY SUITCASE TO THE FLOOR SO I'D..
ALSO, NOW I REMEMBER WHAT I WAS TRYING TO THINK OF WHEN I CAME IN.
IT WAS, WATCH OUT FOR FAST ONES FROM THE NEIGHBORS AROUND APRIL FOOL'S DAY.

BLACKIE IS STILL UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THAT "DREAM" PILL YOU GAVE HIM --- HE'S HAVING TERRIBLE NIGHTMARES!
HE EVIDENTLY THINKS HE'S GOING OVER NIAGARA FALLS ON A LOG! YOU'VE GOT TO GET HIM OUT OF IT!
I'LL GIVE HIM A PILL FROM ANOTHER BOTTLE AND HE'LL DREAM HE'S IN AFRICA! IT'LL REALLY WORK, DR. WHIPPLE!
SEE! IT WORKED--- HE'S PROBABLY DREAMING HE'S IN AFRICA RIGHT THIS MINUTE!
I THINK THE WHOLE THING IS CRAZY!
IF THERE'S ANYTHING TO THIS "DREAM PILL" I'LL FIND OUT! GIVE ME ONE FROM THE SAME BOTTLE!
HE'S ASLEEP TOO! THE LAST TIME I TOOK A PILL FROM THAT BOTTLE I DREAMED I WAS CHASED BY A TIGER! I GOT AWAY FROM IT BY CLIMBING A TREE!
IF I CAN ONLY GET OUT ON THAT OVERHANGING LIMB I'LL BE SAFE!
I MADE IT!
G-R-R-OWL!
BLACKIE --- BLACKIE! WAKE UP! WAKE UP!!
HE DOESN'T HEAR YOU!
BLACKIE, MOVE OVER AND MAKE ROOM FOR DR. WHIPPLE!

WELL, DON SURE HAS FALLEN HARD FOR LITTLE SISTER SUSIE!

DON'T LET ADOLESCENT PIMPLES PREVENT YOU FROM STEPPING OUT

YOUNG people in their teens and early twenties are very likely to be plagued by skin blemishes.

At this time, after the beginning of adolescence—from about 13 to 25 years of age, or even longer—important glands develop and final growth takes place. This causes changes throughout the system. The skin, especially, becomes highly sensitive. Waste poisons in the blood irritate this sensitive skin, causing unsightly pimples to break out.

Many doctors prescribe Fleischmann's fresh Yeast in treating adolescent pimples. It clears these skin irritants out of the blood. Then the pimples disappear.

Eat Fleischmann's Yeast regularly—three cakes a day, before meals. Eat it plain, or in a little water until your skin is clear. Start today!

This is the second Kraft Caramel Contest—another short-time one with a whole new set of 1414 prizes!

Get going on it right now and win. All you have to do is taste these swell new caramels and then write a last line to the limerick . . . and that's fun, too. Here are the easy rules:

READ THESE RULES

1. Think up a last line for the above limerick on Kraft Dairy-Fresh Caramels.
2. Write your last line on a sheet of paper and sign your name and address plainly.
3. To your entry, attach the printed wrapper from one five-cent package of Kraft Dairy-Fresh Caramels.
4. Submit as many last line suggestions as you like, each on a separate sheet of paper and accompanied by a Kraft Caramel wrapper
5. Mail your entries to Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation, Dept. 401-d, Chicago, Illinois.
6. Contest closes April 24! All entries must be postmarked before midnight of that date. Winners will be notified by mail as soon as possible. Kraft will correspond with no other contestants.
7. Winning entries will be those which, following limerick form, are in the judges' opinion most apt and interesting. The decisions of the judges must be accepted as final. In case of a tie duplicate prizes will be awarded. All entries become the property of Kraft-Phenix.
8. Men, women and children are eligible to enter this contest—everyone except employees of the Kraft-Phenix Cheese Corporation, their advertising agency and their families.
